For some unknown reason every country erects obstacles to travel; not only the United States, with its peculiar immigration policy maintained at Ellis Island; but other countries as well.

Recently a number of English visitors to Canada landed in New York harbor and were held up at Ellis Island. According to their story they were subjected to indignities. These indignities the officials of the Island denied, but the fact remains that they were annoyed.

Some time ago Signor Parodi, an Italian traveler of independent means brought his own motor car for a tour of England. When he arrived at Newhaven he was held up for six hours and finally sent back to Europe. Appealing to English friends he once again journeyed to Newhaven, where he was again detained, but was finally released.

If you take passage on an ocean steamer they ask your nativity, your age; and all sorts of things. What difference does it make where a man was born if he wants to travel, or what difference does it make how old he is!?

Political unity and the abatement of nationalism, or rather chauvinism; will come when travelers from one country are welcomed into another instead of impeded by all sorts of regulations.

The travelers into France, Italy and other countries in Europe from the United States do nothing but bring money and spend it. They are a benefit to the countries and not a hindrance and they should be encouraged and not embarrassed.

LLOYD GEORGE IS PESSIMISTIC

With Regard To Unsatisfactory Condition of Coal Strike.

PERHAPS WORSE.

LEWES, England, October 2. — (Canadian Press).—Former Premier Lloyd George, addressing an open air meeting on the coal strike situation to-day, said the country was just coming to the end of the most devastating industrial struggle in its experience. "I am afraid," he added, "symptoms are that the end will be a ragged and unsatisfactory one—so unsatisfactory that, so far from being an end, it will be the beginning of perhaps worse things."

CROSSING GATES BEING REPLACED

STOP ADVISED.

A new set of crossgates is being placed at the C. P. R. crossing on George Street. While the work is proceeding, a hand flag will be used for signaling to drivers of street vehicles. It is understood that the work of replacement will be finished in about two weeks time. During this period, it is considered advisable by the railway officials that all traffic should be recommended to come to a stop on approaching the intersection.

The work is being done by an outside permanent gang of electrical workers.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 4.—There was a large gathering from her at the Campbellford Fair Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ellis and family moved this week to Havelock, where they will reside for the winter.

Announcement was made last week that Woodlands Cheese Factory, of which Mr. George E. Wheatley is cheesemaker, won the first prize amounting to $100 given by The Farmers' Advocate to the factory that had made the most improvements since last year. There were 120 factories in the competition and all factories in Ontario were eligible to compete.

Miss Blakley, teacher of the public school was ill all last week and left Wednesday for her home but word has been received by the trustees that she will return for duty on Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Longmuir expect to take up residence on the farm recently owned by George Russel.

Heavy rain fell during Friday night accompanied by thunder; the temperature was higher Saturday than previous days.

CAVAN PERSONALS.

CAVAN, Oct. 4.—The fine weather of the past few days has enabled those who had harvest out, to get it drawn in. The late grain, which had been wet several times, is badly deteriorated. The straw is dark and some of the grain sprouted.

There has been a large acreage of fall wheat planted and farmers are busy at their fall ploughing.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church, Millbrook, served meals at the fair on Friday, and also on Thursday to those making entries. Cavan ladies assisted the ladies of Millbrook in providing for the meals and in serving them.

There was a dance under the auspices of the Cavan Community Hall commitee, in the hall, on Wednesday evening.

The Stewart-Moncrief Orchestra was in attendance. It was an invitation affair. A nice crowd was present and a pleasant time enjoyed.

SEVEN ARE BURNED TO DEATH WHEN TRANS-CHANNEL PLANE CRASHES NEAR PENSHURST, ENG.

Identity and Nationality of Passengers Is As Yet Uncertain.

FIRE IN MID-AIR.

Is Second Cross-Channel Accident in Last Two Months.

PENSHURST, Kent, England, Oct. 4 (Canadian Press) — Seven persons, five of them passengers, met death Saturday when a French Air Union plane enroute from Paris to Croydon, burst into flames only a few miles from its destination and crashed near here.

Every soul aboard the great four-engined liner was buyrned beyond recognition in the seething furnace.

The nationality of the five passengers was not definitely determined, but it was believed they were all English.

The pilot and mechanic were French. Physicians stated that the charred bodies of three men and two women were taken from the cabin of the plane but the French Air Union in Paris issued a statement saying that it was believed that there were two men and three women aboard.

The names of the passengers as given out by the line with the characterization "probably correct," were as follows: Gertrude Hall Margaret Stainton, Flora Parker, L. Hamilton and Joseph Noble. The pilot's name was Mallett and the mechanic's Bouyer.

It was only through the Paris office of the air line that English police learned the names of those supposed to be on board the plane. The addresses, however, were not available and the police are struggling with a list of names to establish identities last night.

At least one of the women passengers was alive when the plane struck the ground. She died while the overseer of a nearby farm struggled unsuccessfully to rescue her. The woman's terrified face could be seen through the roaring flames. She was clutching her purse desperately.

Edward Sands, the overseer, told a correspondent for The Associated Press that he saw the plane burst into flames near the tail when about 400 feet in the air. It dived to earth. The crash was followed by two explosions and flames thirty feet high shot into the air, enveloping the wreckage and making it impossible to rescue the passengers who were piled in a heap in the cabin.

The pilot was thrown several feet in front of the cockpit but also was burned to death.

The spectators at the Tondbridge football grounds witnessed the beginning of the tragedy. During the game, they were startled to see the huge plan, apparently in distress, manoeuvering to land. A tongue of flame roared from the rear of the plane and she turned sharply as though the pilot intended to attempt a landing at the old military airdrome at Penshurst. The machine, however, had burst into flames by the time it crashed.

The weather was perfect and the cause of the accident has not yet been determined.

The tragedy is the second cross-channel aeroplane accident that has occurred in the past two months, a plane enroute from Lebourget to Croydon crashing near Folkestone, causing the deaths of three persons and the injury of nine others.

PLAN TO UNITE ALL OF EUROPE

VIENNA, Oct. 4 (Canadian Press). — The Pan-European Congress, in which 26 States are represented, met yesterday with the idea of "proposing ways and means to bring all continental European States under on economic head." The main theme suggested is that the frontiers dividing European States shall, for economic purpose, become non-existent.

Paul Loebe, president of the German Reichstag, the principal speaker of the day, declared: "A wave of pessimism always accompanies the birth of great truths, M. Briand and M. Stresemann (the French and German foreign ministers, respectively) recently acomplished things the mere mention of which a few years ago would have been considered chimerical."

Dr. Loebe affirmed that the Pan-European movement was directed against no nation,—the United States, England or Russia, or the League of Nations, whose tasks a united Europe can only facilitate.

"Thirty European nations divided against themselves by economic or military rivalries," he said, "would perish. Pan-Europe shall live."

Dr. Ignaz Seipel, former Austrian Chancellor, declared: "It would be Utopian to dream of a united Europe, where the nations abandoned their culture originality. But we can reach a European entente economically.

"Let their mother tongue be German, English or French, when it comes to economic problems, let us talk European."

GUELPH POLICE ARE PUZZLED

GUELPH, Ont., October 4.—In the slaying of Albert Thomasson, a young Englishman employed at the International Malleable Iron Co. plant, on Beverley Street, the police are faced with one of the most puzzling murder mysteries ever known in Guelph.

Thomasson, who was in charge of the annealing ovens at the factory, was shot down by some unknown person while attending to his duties at an early hour Saturday morning, his dead body being found in front of one of the ovens in a pool of blood, when workmen arrived at the works shortly before 7 o'clock. The charge of the shot which caught him just below the heart, is believed to have been fired from a 10 or 12 bore shotgun, the wound in his side indicating that the weapon was discharged from close range.

Thomasson was alone in the annealing room at the time the murder was committed and although the night watchman, James Hawkins, was around the building throughout the night, he was evidently a considerable distance from the scene at the time the shot was fired as he claims that he never heard the report of the gun and was unaware that Thomasson had been killed.

Mrs. John Greenaway, who resides on Simcoe Street, about 75 yards from the spot where the man was shot down, heard the discharge of a gun about 4 o'clock in the morning.

Inspector John Miller, of the Provincial police, who was detailed to investigate the murder, arrived in the city Saturday and along with other Provincial officers and the police, is working on the case. Foot prints leading from the room where the shooting occurred to a plank leaning against a seven-foot fence enclosing the factory property leads to the belief that Thomasson's assailant left the premises by way of the C.P.R. tracks leading on to Stevenson Street, but a thorough search of the grounds surrounding the plant has failed to reveal any trace of the gun, which it is thought the murderer carried away with him.

Can Assign No Motive.

The authorities are at a loss to know what would be the motive of the crime except for the fact that the dead man's pay envelope containing a little over $27 and his watch are missing. So far as can be learned he had no altercation with any of his fellow-workers, nor is he known to have had a disagreement with anyone outside the plant. He is said to have been a good-natured, and a very popular employee, and not a man to make enemies.

Thomasson was about 35 years old and came to Guelph about three years ago from Leigh, Lancashire, England, where up to the time of the war, he was an employee of the Corporation. When the war broke out he joined the Imperial Army and went to France, where he was severely wounded. On his recovery he came to Guelph where shortly after his arrival he obtained a position with the Malleeable Iron Co., which he had since retained. He resided on York Road near Harris Street, and leaves a widow and one little son. An inquest, presided over by Coroner Dr. T. H. Orton, was opened Saturday afternoon, but was adjourned until Thursday night next.

LABOR CHARGES BALDWIN WITH BEING CALLOUS

Says Government's Treatment Has Been Brutal in Extreme.

PROTEST MEETING.

Many Speakers Condemn Injustice of Plan Offered.

LONDON, Oct. 4— (United News).—Charges that the British Government and Premier Baldwin in particular have been brutal and callous towards England's striking coal miners were heard at a mass meeting Friday called by Laborites following further evidence of the breaking of the long enduring labor conflict. While the miner's councils of both Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire recommended acceptance of the Government's proposals of district agreements with provision for miners to appeal to the district tribunal's figures showed that 8,400 miners returned to work Friday. Anger of laborites at both Government and owners of mines was expressed at a Laborite mass meeting which was held later.

"We vehemently protest the Government's and Baldwin's brutal and callous action," said Robert Williams, chairman of the meeting and Labor party executive. William Lunn, a Laborite in the House of Commons said that labor wanted peace, but not peace at any price. "Starvation might force capitulation," but the day is not far distant when we will rise up against the brutal owners. We are determined to have a national agreement. Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor Premier declared that the Baldwin Government had failed entirely. "It had offered a plan of injustice of which is abominably plain said." The fight will continue if the strike should end Saturday.

The mining areas are still generally orderly. One report of trouble came Friday when strikers attacked the house of a returned miner, A. Bedwas, near Cardiff. The miner fired two shots at the attackers but fired over their heads. There were no injuries.

NO FAIR AT KEENE.

Annual Exhibition Will Not Be Held This Fall.

Keene Fair, which had been announced to be held on October 5 and 6, will not be held this year.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, October 2.—Mr. T. W. Rhind, manager of the local Dominion Bank, is in Toronto rejoining his wife and son, who have just returned to this country after visiting relatives in Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Rhind are taking up residence in the house previously occupied by the late Patrick Marrin. In Mr. Rhind's absence, Mr. C. E. Pepler of Toronto is acting as manager.

A dance was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening under the auspices of Marmora Agricultural Society. Excellent music was furnished by the Merry Makers' Orchestra of Belleville. Mr. Charles Jones acted as floor manager. Lunch was served at the midnight hour.

Mr. Walter H. McNally, teacher on the Canadian Pacific school train, is a brother of Mr. H. A. McNally of Deloro.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Bell and daughter, Lorraine, are visiting friends in Napanee, Brighton and Toronto.

Mr. A. C. Price of Toronto is relieving Mr. D. E. Bell at Marmora Station whilst the latter is away on his holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ingham of Watertown, N.Y., are visiting relatives in town.

The double extinguishing of the electric lights on Thursday evening proved quite an inconvenience to shoppers and pleasure-bent folk.

The postponed Marmora Fair is now definitely fixed for October 14 and 15. Thus it will be the last of the season for this part of the Province.

PERMITS DROP FOR SEPTEMBER

AHEAD $1,956.

The building permits for the month of September showed a decrease over the same month a year ago. In September this year 9 permits were issued involving a sum of $14,360, and for 1925 the amount of the permits was $24,750. Although September showed a decrease the total for the year is so far ahead of 1925 by $1,956.

WELL BABIES' CLINIC.

The attendance at the Well Babies' Clinic for September was very satisfactory, considering the number of holidays and the pickling and preserving activities that go on in the home at this season. On the last Tuesday of the month, the total attendance was twenty-four. Doctors presiding over the Clinic during the month were Drs. O'Reilley, Clark and Birnie. Voluntary workers were Mrs. Wm. Lech, Mrs. G. Helson, Mrs. Natte, and Miss Marjorie Best. Visitors were Mrs. A. Mowat, Mrs. R. Harstone and Mrs. J. Mills.

LOCAL SPANIEL PRIZE WINNER

Trent Valley Cutie Takes Several Awards at Philadelphia.

Mr. Herbert S. Routley received a telegram yesterday from Philadelphia, advising him that "Trent Valley Cutie," the springer spaniel bitch that constituted Peterborough's sole entry in the Dog Show at the Sesqui Centennial Celebration in Philadelphia, had received the Winners' award and three specials at this show A total of twenty-five hundred dogs were entered in this exhibit.

'Trent Valey Cutie" has been scoring triumphs in every show in which she has been entered. In a total of fifteen points required for the American championship in her class, she has already secured fourteen. She was adjudged the Winners' dog at the recent New York dog show, which, with Philadelphia, is the best show on the continent, she was "best of breed" at the Detroit show, last year, and in this city, she was declared the best of all breeds at the show held in the Market Hall, last year, and the best sporting dog at the recent Fall Fair. She also won in field trials at Fisher's Island, New York, last year, demonstrationg her fitness for field work as well as on the bench.

FLIGHT TEACHES SEAPLANE VALUE SAYS COBHAM

Aviator Urges Development of Hydro Aeroplanes For Commerce.

GAVE HIM SUCCESS.

Says Air Liners Must Provide Food and Shelter For Passengers.

LONDON, Oct. 2. Canadian Press —"Possibly the outstanding lesson of this flight is the necessity for developing hydro aeroplanes immediately for commercial transports," says Alan J. Cobham, the English aviator, who returned home yesterday from a round trip flight from Rochester, England, to Australia.

This statement is made in an article contributed by Cobham to the Daily Mail. The man who made 28,000 miles in 320 hours, at an average speed of 87 1-2 miles an hour, asserts that he succeeded only because he used a seaplane. He believed it impossible to reach Australia in an aeroplane during the monsoon season.

Cobham says he is convinced thet the air liner of the future, whether aeroplane, seaplane, or flying boat, must be self-contained and amply able to provide food and shelter for the passengers so that if the aircraft were delayed at a lonely place the passengers would be in the same position as if on board ship.

WOMAN FOUND TOSSED IN LAKE

NO REASON KNOWN.

PORT DOVER, Ont. October 4.—Miss Jennie Blythe, about 33 years of age, of Brantford, on Thursday registered at the Norfolk House here and gave on the hotel register her place of residence as Hamilton. She telephoned her sister, Mrs. W. C. Hammond, who lives near Brantford, telling her that she was in Port Dover and would remain here for two weekes. She was last seen walking near the C.N.R. tracks nearest the harbor at 11 o'clock on Thursday night.

The hotel closed around midnight, and it was presumed she was in her room. When the proprietor, however, went to call her in the morning he received no response, and investigation disclosed the fact that she had not occupied her bed. Her brother-in-law was communicated with, and on his arrival it was ascertained that she had left her purse and money in her valise.

Three crews dragged the main harbor and the Shenango ferry slip, but with no success. Howard Stewart and William Davidson later commenced patrolling the beach to the westward of the harbor, and discovered the corpse of the young woman tossing in the breakers.

TWICE-A-DAY

Clearing Teeth of Film Essential, Present-Day Dental Advice

For Clearer, Whiter Teeth and Firm, Healthy Gums, This Way Strongly Suggested

THAT many serious tooth and gum disorders, and nearly all cases of so-called "off-color" teeth, are largely traceable to a film that forms on teeth, is a recent dental finding of utmost importance.

By running the tongue across the teeth, one can easily feel this film—a stubborn, slippery coating that ordinary brushing fails to combat successfully.

Film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. That is why, according to leading dental opinion, teeth look dingy and "off color."

Film clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It invites and breeds the germs of decay. And that is why it is judged so grave a danger to the teeth by authorities.

Film is the basis of tartar. And tartar, with germs, is the chief cause of pyorrhea. That is why regular film removal is urged as probably first in correct gum protection.

Most dental authorities urgently advise thorough film removal at least twice each day. That is, every morning and every night.

For that purpose, obtain Pepsodent, the special film-removing dentifrice which leading dental authorities favor. Different from any other tooth paste.

Pepsodent curdles the film, then removes it; then polishes the teeth in gentle safety to enamel. It combats the acids of decay and scientifically firms the gums. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. And meets, thus, in all ways, the exactments of modern dental science.

On dental advice, people are adopting this new way of tooth cleansing. Obtain Pepsodent, the quality dentifrice, at drug stores. Two months' supply at a moderate price—or send coupon for 10-day tube. Use twice every day. See your dentist twice each year. Make both a habit.

OBITUARY.

VIOLET WOOLDRIDGE.

LINDSAY, October 4. — Violet Wooldridge, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mrs. William Wooldridge, who was seriously injured by an automobile east of Oakwood village on Saturday, died at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. She never regained consciousness. Coroner Dr. Logan has ordered an inquest.

EDWIN MORTON.

THOMASBURG, October 4. — Edwin Morton, a life-long resident of Thomasburg, died at his home here after an illness of a month. News of his death was received with much regret by a wide circle of friends, by whom he was held in highest esteem. He followed farming all his life, and was well-known to be a keen agriculturist. He was a son of the late Alexandria Morton and was born at Thomasburg on the homestead where he died. He leaves his widow, two sons, Harold of Thomasburg and Ernest at home, besides his aged mother and two brothers, John of Thomasburg and William of Kisby, Sask. He was a member of the Orange Order, as well as of the Oddfellows and of the Tweed Masonic Lodge. He was a member of the Methodist and latterly of the United Church, and a Conservative in politics.

The funeral on Tuesday was one of the largest ever seen in this part of the country and was under the auspices of the L.O.L. and I.O.O.F. Rev. J. D. P. Knox conducted the service at the church, which was filled to overflowing, many being unable to gain admittance. The remains were interred in Thomasburg Cemetery.

DEATH OF WALTER E. McKIBBIN.

The death occurred at the Municipal Hospital, High River, on September 15th, of a well known citizen of the Blaikie district, Mr. Walter McKibbin, following an operation for appenticitis. The deceased was born in Peterboro, Ont., in 1875, and came out west in 1899, and settled with his brother Bert on land north of Blaikie He travelled considerably, making a trip to Asia shortly after coming west. In 1912 he was united in marriage to Miss Finney of Peterboro, and together they have lived on their farm north of Blackie from that time. Mr. McKibbin was very popular among his neighbors and deep regret is felt at his death. The survivors are the widow, Mrs. McKibbin, three brothers, Bert of Lyalta, Edwin of Calgary, and Herbert of Port Arthur.

The funeral took place on Saturday, September 18th, from the United church, High River, and was largely attended by the people of the whole district.

The pall bearers were Robert Laycraft, James Laycraft, John Miller, A. Fredell, John Wallace and Neil Clark. Rev. F. Letts and Rev. W. McNichol officiated. dw

HERMAN ENNIS

NORWOOD, Oct. 4.—Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. R. Ennis Thursday evening of the serious illness of their son, Mr. Herman Ennis of Toronto. About twenty minutes later a second message was received, informing them that he had passed away.

The remains arrived in the village on Friday evening and were removed to the home of his mother on Peterboro Street, from where the funeral was held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was made in the Norwood Cemetery. The deceased, who was 36 years of age, leaves to mourn his loss, two sons, Rayfield and Melville, also his mother and father; one sister, Mrs. F. A. Webb, and one brother, Mr. Harlie Ennis of the Royal Bank staff, Toronto.

CROPS ARE GOOD AROUND NORWOOD

Farmers Busy Preparing For Next Season's Crop

NORWOOD, Oct. 4.—Throughout the district surrounding Norwood the crops this year are on the whole good. A great number of the farmers in the immediate neighborhood have finished threshing and are busy either sowing fall grain or getting the ground ready for the spring's work. Some have taken in their potatoes and on the whole the crop appears good. Hay, oats and buckwheat are generally speaking an excellent crop. Some corn which earlier in the season gave great promise was hurt by a wind storm which passed over this section a few weeks ago. However the crop appears to be pretty good.

Copy of part of a letter written by Mrs. R. H. Humphries who, with her husband and family reside at Coral Gables, Miami, the scene of the terrible hurricane which visited that section a week ago. The letter was written to her sister, Mrs. F. Kempt:

"The storm raged all Friday night. The lights went out at midnight. All we could hear were trees crashing down at our windows, and glass breaking. When I would open our door and peak out in the long dark hall you would think a hundred angry beasts were howling. It was simply terrible. About 3.30 Bob took Gordon's flashlight (it certainly came in handy) and ventured out in the halls then a couple of other men got out, and they got all the men they could and tried to close the big doors to keep out what wind they could. It is time the people in the apartment facing north were wiping up the water to keep dry.

This storm kept up till 6.30 then it became real cadm. Men got ready to go to the store and all set out looking at the ruins, when about 7.30, without a moment's warning, it started ten time worse and from the south east of our corner. The rain poured in and we tried to wipe it up, but soon the windows all broke in, then the southern wall ours fell in so we just had to run, and they opened another apartment (a centre one) for us and we threw what things we could in there. This one raged till nearly night. All the lovely trees are down, and all those lovely homes that we used to pass when on the bus are all down. A great many poor wet ones came here looking for shelter. Saturday evening we were all hungry people, no water, no lights, and no way of cooking. But as soon as it seemed certain there was not another hurricane coming up the men got out and made for grocery stores. So many were blown down, but they went till they got bread, butter and coal oil, and some one had a coal oil stove. Some church folks from Coral Gables have just been here to see how we are. The building where we went to church not a stick is left. Am wondering if the wires got through to you all. Now I'll close.

The writer of this letter was formerly Miss Katie Baskin, well known in Peterboro county, where she formerly taught school.

After the prayer meeting in the Presbyterian Sunday school room on Thursday evening the congregation remained to say farewell to the pastor, Mr. G. Bennette, who has had charge of the church for the past year and a half and who leaves town the first of next week to continue his studies. During the evening an address of appreciation was read to Mr. Bennette by Mr. Perrin Rork, and a well filled purse presented to him on behalf of the congregation by Mr. John Robb. Mr. Bennete will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday and during the following Sunday candidates will preach for a call.

Mrs. W. H. Rutherford of Nelson, B.C., who was east with the British Columbia Horticultural exhibit at the Toronto Exhibition and who is visiting her cusin, Mrs. B. W. Squire, and other friends, gave an illustrated lecture in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Thursday evening, September 30, under the auspices of the Norwood Horticultural Society. Mr. John E. Roxburgh occupied the chair and after a few preliminary remarks called on Mr. J. Stan Weir for a solo, entitled "Out Where the West Begins." The speaker was then called on and as she is an old Norwood girl she needed no introduction. A large number was present and Mrs. Rutherford kept all interested in her address. A number of slides were shown of different places of interest in Vancouver and other parts of B.C. Several very fine views were shown of the speaker's own home and flower garden, which must be a bower of beauty. A number were present from Westwood and South Dummer, the latter being the speaker's childhood home.

A meeting of the executive of the W.M.S. of the United church was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. G. Lawlor to appoint a secretary to take the place of Mrs. James Buck who leaves shortly to reside in Western Canada. Mrs. A. G. McDermott was appointed to fill the position.

SYNOPSIS

His father's warning—"Take women's love scornfully—and forget"—has made Juan the world's greatest lover. His cynicism is checked by Madonna-like Adriana Varanese; loving her he reforms, but incurs the enmity of infamous Lucretia Borgia, who loves him, and Donati, her cousin, who covets Adriana. Circumstances shake Juan's faith in Adriana, but he soon regains it. He kills Donati. Adriana's father is killed. Juan is imprisoned, refusing Lucretia's offer of freedom if he will love her. He escapes, finds Adriana being tortured, and by a ruse rescues her.

He would go first, so that, if she should slip, there would be no danger of her falling. She must not look down, lest she be dizzy, and she must have no fear.

They woul

They would make their way down the wall, not to the water, but to the nearest point where the prison walls touched land.

"Just a little way to go, my darling," he told her. "You must not fear."

"I shall never fear while you are with me, Juan," she answered, and it seemed to Juan that her words put new strength into his body.

He crawled through the window first, found the jutting stones which had given him a foothold a short time before, and then helped her throug.

Then, slowly, they began to make their way down the wall, clinging to its rough sides, reaching down with one foot, waiting for an instant, finding room for both feet together, then reaching down again.

And often, as Juan fumbled for a foothold, he feared that there would be none. He would stop and look down, sometimes to plot their course and fear whispered to him that if Adriana should fall he could not stop her, could not hold her, and that they would both be plunged to their deaths.

"Better that way than as the Borgia would have had it," he told himself.

It seemed an eternity, that agonizingly slow progress. There was time for many thoughts to pass through Juan's mind. By now his disappearance must have been discovered. If Lucretia hurried back to Adriana's cell she must learn of the girl's vanishing also, must discover Neri, who lay stunned in a corner. What then?

The moon went under a cloud. Juan felt that he was climbing down into a bottomless pit, wondered if there would ever be an end of this journey. He spoke to Adriana, trying to make his voice steady and fearless.

"You are brave, beloved, to follow my lead so fearlessly," he told her.

"Your valor in saving me was so great that I can only imitate you," she answered.

At last, suddenly—solid ground beneath Juan's feet. He could hardly believe it. Another instant, and he had lifted Adriana down and taken her in his arms.

The moon came out again, clear, bright as daylight.

There, in the window through which they had come, Neri leaned for a and stared down at them.

It seemed to Juan that his limbs lost all their strength, that his heart turned suddenly to a great hammer held in teeeeee It turned suddenly to a great hammer held in the hands of a giant, beating against his breast with strokes that made him tremble.

"You see them?" she demanded. "How far have they gone? Where are they? Fools—you, and this keeper here, and all the others—fools, to let one man and one girl outwit you and escape! You shall suffer for this, all of you!"

The thought that Juan and Adriana were free, and together, tortured her as cruelly as Adriana had been tortured in that very chamber a short time before.

Well, their freedom should not last! She turned and ran from the cell, to give the alarm, and have them pursued and brought back.

There were two men there, talking. One of them held a horse by its bridle. Something in his voice was familiar, even in the word or two that Juan overheard.

He hurried forward.

"Are I wait to hear if he has died, perchance to claim the body," the man was saying.

Pedrillo! To Juan the recognition of that voice was as amazing a thing as if the stars had stopped in their course to aid him.

"Master!" Pedrillo cried, turning. Before he could speak again Juan had mounted the horse and lifted Adriana o the saddle in fron of him.

"Your sword," he cried, snatching i from Pedrillo's hand. "And your prayers for our safety," he added, over his shoulder, as the horse whirled and bounded away.

A bare chance of escape, if he could make he wooded slopes ou side he ci y in ime.

There were shou s all abou he prison, and lights flashed. There was bu li le time now—soon the retainers of he Borgias would be aft er hem.

Bu Juan, holding Adriana close with one arm, guiding the horse with the other, laughed softly o himself.

CHAPTER XIII.

Lucretia Borgia raged through he corridors of he great prison known as San Angelo like an avenging fury. The keeper, trembling, followed her as she ran down he s one s eps ha had been hollowed by the feet of so many victims of here cruelty. He wondered whether she would have him killed ha night or wait until the next day; she had vowed that if Don Juan and Adriana were not overtaken and brought back to the prison by dawn, his hea should be the penalty.

Curtly she gave her orders to the men she had summoned. They were to follow Juan and the girl, wherever they had gone, and bring them back alive if possible. The girl did not matter so much, but every effort was to be made to bring Juan back alive.

"And make haste! Do not spare your men, I care not how many of them die," she told the soldier in command. "But bring the Spaniard back to me, or Rome shall know you no more save as a corpse."

Riding away as fast as he could urge his horse, the captain smiled; even in the barracks they had gossiped about the Borgia's fondness for the young Spaniard, and his indifference to her. But he did not smile for long. Well enough did he know that she would keep her word, so far as that last tthreat was concerned.

He would not even return to Rome, of course, if he failed to capture Juan. He would ride on, would try to escape into Sicily and somehow get word to his young wife in Rome and have her join him there. It would mean giving up everything, their home, the small, secure place they had made for themselves—but if he failed the Borgia he would be fortunate to escape with his life.

Juan expected the pursuit. Useless to hope to avoid it, when all along the way there would be those who would give the soldiers of Lucretia Borgia whatever information they had, eager to win favor. Ah,

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How To Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines extracted from the livers of the common codfish to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

So nowadays, medical men who keep up with times are ordering a tablet containing the vitamines that give to frail folks vigor, strength and weight—a tablet that is known as McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablet — and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after any severe illness.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Extract Tablet. McDermid & Jury, and Bond's Drug Store have a big demand for them and millions are sold monthly all over North and South America. They are sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. 60 Tablets—60 cents.

SOCIAL CONCERT.

HeldUnder Auspices of Lakefield Agricultural Society on Wednesday.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 4. — A high class entertainment was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, under the auspicies of the Lakefield Agricultural Society. The hall was filled with a most appreciative audience who enjoyed every number. The programme was given by the orchestra of George Street United Church, Peterboro, who delighted a large audience at the anniversary concert of the George Street United Church last autumn. Miss Murray, was the soloist for the Male Voice Choir Concert in April which was given in the Regent Street Church and won the appreciation of the music lovers of the village by her sympathetic rendition of her selections. Mr. Albert Darling, President of the Agricultural Society occupied the chair for the entertainment and announced the numbers.

Selection by the Orchestra— "Old Faithful."
Solo—Miss Daisy Murray.
Reading—Mr. Vaughan Walker.
Selection by the Orchestra— 'Enchantment Overture."
Solo—Miss Elma Coon.
Violin Solo—Mr. Roy Rome.
Reading—Miss Eva Outram.
Duet—Miss Murray and Mr. Lillow.
Selections by Orchestra—"Riches and Youth."
Instrumental Duet—Messrs Thompson and McGiffin.
Solo—Mr. Vaughn Walker.
Cornet Solo—Mr. Ford.
Stringed Selections.
Reading—Mrs. Walker.
Selection by the Orchestra— "In a Monastry Garden."
Mixed Quartette—
Duet—Mouth Organ and Piano — Mr. C. S. Thompson accompanied by Miss McFarlane.
Reading— Miss Eva Outram.
Selections by the Orchestra.

The rally services held on Sunday last in the Baptist Church were a great success. The regular programme was much enjoyed and Rev. William Spencer gave a special address which was both helpful and inspiring.

At the evening service, Rev. George T. Webb, D. D., gave a very convincing address bearing upon worship in the Sunday School.

Misses Galvin and Lewis of Peterboro contributed appropriate solos which were greatly appreciated.

On Sunday, October 3rd, Rev. Wiliam Spencer will be in charge of both services, giving in the morning the fourth of his series of sermons on the Lord's Supper—"The Duration of the Supper—Till He Come."

The subject at the evening service will be "The Puzzled Farmer."

FORMER MINISTER BEAT ABOUT HEAD

Ex-Finance Minister Zdziechowski Assaulted By Russian Soldiers.

WARSAW, October 4 (Canadian Press).—Former Minister of Finance Zdziechowski, who was beaten about the head by a dozen uniformed soldiers who invaded his apartment early Friday morning, is still in a serious, although not critical conditicn.

The former Minister, who is the leader of the National Democrats, in large measure was responsible for the overthrow of the Bartel Cabinet Thursday, because of his vigorous speeches against the budget and especially against an increase in the army budget. He rallied the opposition to the programme of Marshal Pilsudski and former Premier Bartel in so vigorous a fashion that the Cabinet resigned instead of forcing the dissolution of the diet.

While beating him insensible with the butts of their revolvers, the officers cried: "You will oppose our army budget, will you?"

PLAN FOWL SUPPER.

Bethany Ladies Will Hold Festival at Anniversary Time.

BETHANY, Oct. 4.—The Ladies' Aid of the United church met in the Sunday school room on Wednesday afternoon for the regular monthly meeting. Nine ladies were present when the meeting opened, with Mrs. (Rev.) Poulter presiding.

After the devotional period and the reading of the minutes the meeting was thrown open for discusion on whether it was advisable to hold a fowl dinner in connection with the annual anniversary observances or not. It was finally decided that a fowl dinner be given and committees were appointed to arrange a canvas for fowl, cooking, etc.

The church is undergoing repairs and decorating in the next month so that the anniversary services will be held on Sunday, October 31.

About forty young people were present on Wednesday evening in the Sunday school room of the United church, when the Young People's League was opened for their fall and winter work.

Mr. Bert Monk presided throughout the meeting. The programme was very interesting. Rev. Poulter gave a short talk on the Indians of Canada illustrating it by pictures thrown on the canvas. Others taking part in the programme were Miss Hazel Jackson, who sang a solo and Miss Helen Byers gave an instrumental, and a solo by Miss Lee entitled "My Task."

Refreshments were served of sandwich, cake and coffee and a social time was spent.

Next Wednesday the programme will be in charge of the first vice-president Miss V. B. Lee.

Mrs. Robert Porteous is visiting her niece, Mrs. Mahood, in Peterboro for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Fallis were vistiors to Peterboro on Wednesday.

Miss Olive and Edwina Irwin spent Wednesday afternoon in Peterboro.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATHS LESS BY HALF.

Only half as many die from tuberculosis now as 25 years ago. Proper foods and hygiene—better living habits— have cured many and prevented many other cases. Surely these sensible measures that can prevent tuberculosis can prevent most human diseases.

Food science blames most human sickness upon too much white flour denatured "Part" cereals, refined sugar and meat—not enough whole grain cereals and whole grain flour, milk, fruit, vegetables and other natural foods.

Dr. Jackson, dietetic editor "Archives of Therapeutics", New York, a physicians' journal, advisor to "Defensive-Diet League", a physicians' association, built himself a marvelous body at 67 eating natural foods, nuts, fruits, vegetables, Roman Meal, milk. LEADERS SENTENCED LIFE IMPRISONMENT

ATHENS, Oct. 4 — (Canadian Press) — Colonels Zervas and Dertilis, leaders of the mutiny of the Republican guard against the government of Premier Kondylis on Sept. 9, have benn sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Colonels Zervas and Dertilis were in command of guards which Former President Pangalos had formed to insure his dictatorship. These guards refused to disband when ordered to do so after Pangalos was overthrown, and on Sept. 9 they advanced into Athens with he intention of occupying the city. After a short, but spirited battle the mutineers surrendered.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CAT BIRD

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

Joie, Tommie and Kittie Kat scrambled up the front steps of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, and scratched on the door. That was their way of knocking.

"What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy who hurried into the hall to open the door.

"Where's Uncle Wiggily?" mewed Joie.

"We have terrible news for him!" cried Kittie.

"Our little Scritchie is lost!" howled Tommie.

"Who is Scritchie and where is she lost?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"She is my new little sister pussy," explained Tommie, "and mother let her come out to play with us."

"And mother told us to watch her," sighed Kittie. "But we got to playing hide and go seek and we forgot all about Scritchie and now we can't find her and we don't dare tell mother."

"So we thought maybe Uncle Wiggily could find Scritchie," said Joie, the little pussy child having that name because she was a bit scratchy at times, though not intending to be.

"What's all the trouble?" asked the rabbit gentleman as he hopped into the hall just then to see if his tall silk hat was on the rack. And, as it was, he went on: "Are you looking for me?"

Taking turns at it, Joie, Tommie and Kittie Kat told how Scritchie was lost. Then Uncle Wiggily put on his tall, silk hat and said:

"You are right. Do not worry your mother about your little sister being lost until I have a chance to look for her. I am sure I can find her. Meanwhile you stay here, where your mother will not see you to ask where Scritchie is. Poor lady! We must not let her worry!"

Uncle Wiggily hopped off by himself to look for the lost pussy child. Over the fields and through the woods he hopped, and, all of a sudden, he heard a sound of:

"Mew! Mew! Mew!"

"Ha! I have found the lost one," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, smiling happily. "I will take her back home before Mrs. Kat knows she has been missing."

But when the rabbit gentleman hopped toward the sound he did not see any little pussy. Instead, though the mewing kept up, he only saw a bird, with the feathers the color of a school slate perched on the branch of a tree, flipping its tail and cocking its head from side to side.

"Hello, Mr. Bird!" called the bunny, "but have you seen a lost pussy child?"

"No, I haven't," answered the bird. And then again came the sound of: "Mew! Mew! Mew!"

"There she is now, but I can't see her!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Look about, Mr. Bird, and find Scritchie for me."

"That wasn't a pussy mewing, I was doing it," sang the bird.

"I can, for I am a cat bird," was the answer. "But that isn't the only way I can sing. Listen!"

Then the cat bird, for such he was, sang like a robin, like a meadow lark, like a wren and like a song sparrow.

"You are mocking all the other birds!" said the rabbit.

"Yes, that is so," said the cat bird. "Sometimes I am called the Mocking Bird," and he sang like a cardinal this time. Then, all of a sudden a voice mewed:

"Oh, what nice singing! Do it some more!" And there, in the bushes, her dress torn on bramble briars and her paws and face red with the juice of berries, stood the lost Scritchie.

"Oh, there you are!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I have been looking all over for you. It is well that you heard the cat bird's song and came here where I am. Now I'll take you home." Which he did, so little Scritchie was lost no longer, and the cat bird sang a happy song.

And if the cloth brush doesn't bite the cake of soap when they're swimming in the bath tub, I'll tell you agin about Uncle Wiggily.

A TWO FAMILY BUNGALOW

(By Lawson & Little, Architects.)

This type for a cheaper residence has much to recommend it. Each house is about twenty-five feet by twenty feet, (exclusive of the sun porch, which is about eight by twenty), and contains six rooms and a bath room.

The exterior is French Colonial in character, a pleasing effect being gained by the broad gables and tilted eaves.

The basement walls are built of concrete, the exterior walls and party walls being of concrete blocks, and the fireplace of pressed brick. The exterior of the walls is finished in stucco rough cast, the roofs being covered with Asbestoslates.

The ground floor on plan shows a living room and a dining room, the former being twelve by sixteen feet with a large fireplace, and with doors leading to the dining room and kitchen. The stairs lead out of the entrance side of the living room, the stairs to the basement being under them. There is a handy coat cupboard off the stair landing. Each of the three bed rooms on the first floor is provided with a cupboard and the bathroom is centrally located, and being over the kitchen is within easy reach of hot water supply and main drainage system.

The interior woodwork and the stairs on the ground floor are of oak, the first floor of pine for paint finish.

A hot water heating system is installed, using a Standard type of boiler. The plumbing fixtures are the built-in-type. The cost of each of the houses with a lot of about 40 ft. frontage is $7,000.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

DECORATION—INTERIOR AND EXTERIOR

By Winifrid Stuart Gibbs Food Specialist.

Beautiful young ladies are keen about devoting their artistic talents to decorating the interiors of houses, why might they not be urged to systematic study along another line of decoration, namely, that of their own and their friends' exteriors—

Every one is familiar with the excellent advice handed out to those who aspire to beauty. "Take care of your health, eat the proper food, obey all the other rules and it will do you more good than all the beauty recipes in the world," etc., etc. But perhaps not every one realizes how necessary it is to go about the matter systematically.

As a matter of fact, one may draw the parallel between the profession of interior decoration and that of beauty culture even more closely. Before the exterior of the body, the skin, the coloring, the eyes, the hair, in short the general appearance, can be permanently improved or "decorated," the interior of that same body must have considerable attention. This is the grimly necessary, if uninteresting first step, like washing the pots and pans before dinner instead of after! Such fortitude leaves the after dinner time free for the dainty glasses and china. So, taking care of the interior of the body, the intestines, the liver, the blood, the kidneys—will pay rich dividends later. Not romantic, perhaps, but true, that the brightness of provocative eyes depends largely on clean intestines. The healthy glow of sun browned skin must have been preceded by a carefully planned duet and good digestion. In short that much to be desired, all round 'something called personality will gradually flicker and die without this same attention to the details of health culture.

Taking this larger view should make the connection existing between health and beauty more interesting. The merely superficial aspects of "beauty culture" would soon cease to intrigue an intelligent individual unless he is helped in connecting the advantages of keeping the health rules and the good times that will surely follow a consciousness of good appearance.

The pleasantest part of the whole matter lies in the fact that no tiresome "system" is required. There is a vast difference between being systematic and the blind following of a system! The sooner we get to practising the rules of health unselfishly, the better all round.

That food and nutrition play major parts in such a program of decoration goes without saying. One should first of all ascertain just what diet is best for his own requirements and then stick to it.

There are a few items that are labeled Must. As for example, vegetables twice a day, and at one meal two varieties beside potatoes. Fruit at least once a day, better still, twice. A pint of milk for adults, part of it in cooked dishes. Moderation in tea and coffee drinking. Ditto in sugar eating. A balanced diet at all times, with small portions when necessary rather than violent cutting out of special foods.

These are but the first principles, but faithfully followed it is surprising how little else will be required to decorate satisfactorily the loveliest face in the world! And as a corrollary, the personality that goes with the face will also share in the decorating process.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

The general impression seems to be that the habit of dyeing hair is not so general as it was a generation ago. Maybe this is a correct impression—and maybe not. The thing to remember is that hair is much more expertly dyed now than it used to be—and so it is not so easy to tell dyed hair as it used to be. Moreover short hair is not so hard to keep well colored as is long hair.

But why should anyone with gray or white hair want to change the color? There is something very distinctive about hair of this sort. It is certainly becoming, so much so that women in the eighteenth century used to powder their hair or wear white wigs.

The woman who works will tell you, however, that gray or white hair is something of a handicap in the work-a-day world. The woman with gray or white hair, even though actually quite young, is put down as an old woman by the casual observer. Once you are established and known—then your gray hairs may actually be helpful. But while you are still trying to break into your chosen profession, gray hair may be a handicap. Many men don't want a gray-haired stenographer, even though she may still be on the sunny side of thirty.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The Pearl, the jewel of youth and purity, is the talismanic gem for this day. Believed to endow its wearer with harm irresistible to the opposite sex, the pearl was also credited by the ancients with the power to endow its wearer with such poise and coolness that none would dare approach her.

Today's natal gem is the jade believed by the Chinese to endow its wearer with long life and the power to enjoy old age.

Deep green is the lucky hue for today. It is potent for those who refuse to welcome old age, since it is symbolic of Spring and new growth.

Cosmos will prove fortunate today if used as a decoration. Courtship will be successful if pursued under the influence of this flower.

HER OWN WAY
A GIRL of TODAY

THE INSULT

Stealthily I looked on the other side toward John Meredith. He certainly did not know that anything out of the ordinary was happening. He was perfectly happy and did not know that there was anyone else in the room beside myself. He contrived to touch my hand, to touch my shoulder, and once he even pretended that a bobbed curl of my hair was in my eyes and stroked it back.

Ordinarily I would have resented it very much if, in a crowded dining room, a man had taken such a liberty; but with the man beside me it was very different. I will never know whether the thrill of John's absolute ignoring of everyone else around us meant love or not to me. At that moment, however, I thought it did.

I said to myself, "I love his nearness, and I really have never wanted to have any man come so close to me before." I loved the feel of his fingers on my hair, although I knew that I should have remonstrated with him about it.

Even when I felt the iron harness of that shorter leg touch my ankle I had an odd kind of exhilaration—a queer thrill of rapture that I had never felt before.

Of course it was because unconsciously I knew that ugly appliance was a symbol of the scar that was upon his soul—a scar that had never healed—had never ceased to hurt until tonight, when I had been able to make him forget.

Tonight John Meredith knew for the first time in all his life that no pity entered into the response to his emotions.

My thoughts were rudely interrupted by a man coming to our table and saying something in a low voice to Joan. With a sinking of my heart I recognized him. He was the jackal who always carried out the ugly plans of the manager when it was necessary to do so at The Beaux Arts.

I saw Joan looking up and about the table in a troubled way and saying: "I don't understand you and I consider what you have just said to me an insult. Surely you know who I am. I am Miss Meredith and my guests should be above criticism."

The man grew bolder. Evidently he did not realize just who Joan was. "I am sure you think so," he said, "but perhaps you do not know that both these young ladies with you have been hat checkers in this establishment."

John heard this. For the first time he seemed to sense that something was going on that he should have a hand in. He looked at me inquiringly. He was completely mystified.

"What does that man want, Sis?" "Tell him the dinner and service are all right; the head waiter is doing everything for us possible. Dismiss him."

The man saw that he must explain. With an uneasy glance toward the door, from where the manager had sent him, he said: "I was just asking Miss Meredith if she really knew the guests she was entertaining," he inquired impudently.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR TUESDAY OCTOBER 5 1926

Astrologers read this as one of the rarely lucky days, which dawn only once or twice in a year. The Moon, Mercury, Venus, the Sun and Saturn are all in benefic aspect.

Women are especially well directed under this planetary rule, which is auspicious for all public enterprises.

It is a fortunate day for love affairs, since they who become engaged should be able to exercise uncommonly good judgment.

Weddings are subject to the best sort of planetary government, which presages prosperity, association with persons of prominence and large tenure of lands.

This should be a propitious time for women to seek employment of any sort. The stars promise for them ascent to important positions in the world of finance.

Under this sway well-established institutions should be able to extend the scope of business.

Spectacular as have been many American enterprises in the past, the future is to develop even more sensational and far-reaching possibilities, the seers prophesy.

One of the signs indicates a continued increase in the general demand for real estate. The back-to-the-land movement will be greatly accelerated and strengthened, according to astrologers.

India is to claim world notice because of England's efforts to develop resources and make radical changes in the condition of the people, it is prophesied.

Americans will be attracted to many parts of India where new commercial ventures will be started, the seers prophesy.

Ireland continues under aspects disturbing and likely to continue through the autumn and early winter.

Midwinter is to be marked by discovery of much secret diplomacy and many international misunderstandings, if the stars are wisely read.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather a trying year, because of intrigues financial and sentimental, but they should prosper in the end.

Children born on this day probably will have great charm of nature, which makes the path of life easy, but they may become very selfish.

OLGA

Olga is one of the most interesting of feminine names. Her Russian ancestry, as well as her famous bearers and the aura of sanctity which surrounds her, makes her worthy of more attention than she generally receives. The name comes originally from the Norse, and means "holy," but it first sprang to fame in Russia.

Olga was the name of the first Christian duchess in Russia. She was the godmother of Vladimir, the first grand duke to be baptized in the Christian Church in 988. Olga appears in the "Monument of Faith," a sort of devotional prayer book, as one of the saints of the Russian calendar.

When the royal widow Olga came from Muscovy to seek instruction and baptism, she was called Helena, in honor of the Empress Helena, mother of the founder of Constantinople. Olga is, therefore, sometimes believed to be a translation of Helena, but etymologists contend that this is a mistake, founded on the fact that the royal widow, and another royal saint were called by both names. Olga, according to an authoritative source, is the feminine of Oleg, the Russian form of Helgi, which the race of Rurik derived from their Norse ancestor.

Among the modern bearers of the name are included the Grand Duchess Olga of Russia, sister of the late Czar. His ill-fated daughter, the young Grand Duchess, was likewise called Olga.

Olga's talismanic stone is the diamond. It promises her victory in every endeavor, fearlessness and invulnerability. It is said to have the power to enhance the love of a husband for his wife. Saturday is Olga's lucky day and 6 her lucky number. The violet is her flower.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The modern art tendency to reduce everything to straight lines and angles is exemplified in this frock of crepe satin in three shades of green.

"I am interested in only one period and that is the present one—the one in which we are living." This, they say, is the motto of the celebrated French dressmaker, Lucien Lelong.

Madeleine Vionet is another one of the great French dressmakers who emphasizes the importance of a thoroughly modern interpretation of her art. She is quoted as saying: "The couturiere should be a geometrician, for the human body makes geometrical figures to which the materials should correspond." And so, says an admirer of her work, "underlying the mystery of her famous creations are the soundest mathematical principles, wherein triangles, squares, circles and every geometrical figure are considered in the scientific adaption of the gown to the human form."

Most of us can see the importance of belong's motto. Any effort to bring Lack any style of the past, save after the most decided adaptation to present tastes and demands, is bound to meet with failure. Not even the most influential of French dressmakers can do that; and the recent history of French fashions provide numerous examples of such attempted revivals brought to naught.

Vionet's theory of geometrical figures as applied to dress is not so easy to comprehend. That may be because we are not thoroughly modern. If we grasped the principles of the futurists in other arts we might be able to see quite clearly the importance of Vionet's dictum. At any rate, we must admit that it is a thoroughly modern and up-to-date way of looking at the matter and we must needs also admit that, working on her principle, Vionet has produced some very charming costumes. While certain other dressmakers have turned back the pages of history to find inspiration, never daring to venture a fashion device that has not historical authority, she evolves her own fashions through the direct application of geometrical design to the human form. And of course there are numerous other designers who work in as fearless and modern a spirit as she.

This season we can find any number of these geometrical frocks. The idea is carried out in the new tiered models, in panels, plastrons and godets.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

THE WRITER OF "HOME, SWEET HOME" AND THE WIDOW OF THE POET SHELLEY

John Howard Payne, the immortal author of "Home, Sweet Home," is our love stricken hero here and the woman who possessed his heart was Mary Wollstonecraft, the young widow of Shelley, who is remembered to-day for her weird story, "Frankenstein," the forerunner of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Payne, an American actor and dramatist, was engaged in hack-work in London. He was thirty-four then, and his powers as an actor had waned. He had written several successful plays but nothing to afford a regular income for his improvident nature, and he resorted to translations, libretos, and such like for a living. A piece in the last division that he cooked up was "Clari, the Maid of Milan," which Sir Henry Bishop set to music. In this long forgotten and inferior work, there is to be found the song that has played on the heart strings of the English speaking world for generations past, "Home Sweet Home." An interesting fact about this seemingly typical English tune was that Bishop adapted it from an old Italian melody.

Payne's romance with the celebrated Mary Wollstonecraft had a short life. He discovered that while he was a favored friend with the lady, her heart interest was directed towards Washington Irving. Payne, a gallant man, instead of lamenting his fate in anger, pleaded the cause of his rival. Irving, however, gave no thanks to his friend for his kindly efforts. He had suffered a disappointment in love at the hands of the beautiful Philadelphia girl, Rebeccah Gratz, whom Sir Walter Scott made the Jewish heroine of "Ivanhoe," and had not yet recovered.

". . . A flash, as it were, and at a time and place of which you can form no idea, gave me a thorough impression of all which I have since found confirmed, of the beauty of your heart and intellect. I then knew nothing of you but what I had heard about you as a child, excepting what had been misrepresented—so that I had the satisfaction of taking up my impression entirely unswayed. I afterwards read all you have written and read much in your praise. I met you afterward and left with a determination not to trust myself to the danger of your acquaintance—with a wish, if you can understand such a wish, to pay you the same homage as I would the memory of one whom I had loved, but whose form, were it to appear, would only perplex me . . . .

". . . I did not meet you again and presumed too much on my courage, forgetting that the rein once given to the sexes they are apt involuntarily to spurn the curb and gallop over the prescribed boundary. The error was perfectly gratuitous. I told you I knew my danger and could laugh at it. I am afraid now that the laugh is not on my side . . ."

There is particular poignancy attached to Payne and the song that made him famous. He was essentially a wanderer and travelled about all his life. When the end came, it found him in Tunis, Africa, thousands of miles away from home and friends. The line from his song, "There is no place like home" must have seared deeply into his heart at that last moment.

SOUTHWORTH'S HOMER WITH 2 ON WINS SECOND BATTLE OF SERIES FOR NATIONAL PENNANT HOLDERS

Grover Alexander, Veteran, Pitches Airtight For Yanks' Defeat.

63,600 PRESENT.

Thevenow Gets Freak Safty on Mislaid Fly To Ruth.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct.4.—(Canadian Press).—Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of baseball's old masters, uncurled the mighty power in his ancient right arm to pitch the Cardinals to victory over the Yankees yesterday in the second game of the world's series before the largest crowd that ever saw a ball game.

The mammoth Yankee stadium rocked with the roar of a record gathering of 63,600 fans as the thirty-nine year old veteran of the Cardinal staff checked the impetuous rush of the Yankees while his team mates clouted Urban Shocker, Yankee spitball ace, from the box and battered their way to triumph by the decisive margin of 6 to 2.

It was a rousing victory for the Cardianls, one that found them turning the table on their rivals in convincing fashion and leaving the series deadlocked as the teams entrained for a baseball-made St. Louis, where the battle will be resumed Tuesday.

For six innings the grey-thatched, raw-boned Alexander—the man who was "sold down the river" late in the season as a Cub discard—was given an even battle by his veteran rival Shocker, but in the seventh another Cardinal hero, Bill Southworth, stepped to the fore with a towering, home run into the right field bleachers, a blow that came with two men on base, ended a 2-2 deadlock and clinched the game.

The Cardinals applied a finishing touch to their victory in the ninth, when Tommy Thevenow got a freak home run on a high fly inside the park that Ruth "mislaid," but they didn't need it. One run would have been enough to settle the issue for Alexander was invincible after the third inning, holding the slugging Yankees hitless over the last six innings, permitting only four safe blows altogether and striking out 10 men with baffling speed, amazing control and a deceptive change of pace.

This was world's series drama of the most thrilling sort, a game of brilliant pitching, resounding hitting and tensely stirring moments that kept the great crowd keenly on edge or in uproarious excitement. In color and zest it was a marked contrast to the unemotional opening game in which Herb Pennock's masterful pitching was the dominant note. Yesterday, too, the skies were bright and sunshine colored the scene that had been drab and hazy Saturday.

It was a fitting climax to such a game to have it watched by a crowd of unprecedented porportions, a jam that filled every nook and cranny of the big stadium, while close to 30,000 more fans sought vain to gain admission.

The attendance of 63,600 not only eclipsed the former record gathering of 62,817, set in the 1923 series between Giants and Yankees, but the total receipts yesterday, $291,-828, also established a new record, exceeding the mark of $201,459 paid by the previous crowd.

It was a Cardinal, throng, too, regardless of any home town sympathy for the American League champions. These battling St. Louis players, bidding for the Missouri city's first world's series glory, have caught the fancy of New York's fickle fandom. Their leader Rogers Hornsby, was cheered yesterday even more vociferously than New York's own idol, Babe Ruth, and Southworth's winning home run provoked an outburst that has had few equals in championship history here.

Vital as was Southworth's blow, Alexander was the hero of the crowd and of the day. Now in his sixteenth major league season, this veteran, appearing in his first World's Series since 1915 when he twirled for the Phillies, staged an astonishingcome-back. To judge by his performance yesterday, the year's have taken little or nothing from the cunning and the strength in his right arm. The man who was known throughout the breadth of the land a dozen years ago as Alex. the Great, as he set the pitching pace season after season, was Alex. the Greater last night.

The veteran Nebraskan was a bit unsteady at the start, yielding three hits and two runs in the second inning while contributing to one of the tallies with a wild throw. After that, however, he permitted only one safe blow, a single by Combs in the third inning. From the fourth inning on, Alexander was complete master of the situation. Not a single Yankee got safely to first, and few of them even made a threatening gesture.

Inning after inning, six in a row, Alexander mowed down his foemen with machine-like regularity. In every frame but the seventh and ninth at least one was retired on strikes, while in the fourth Gehrig, Lazerri and Dugan struck out in a row, as they swung in vain at the veteran's puzzling offerings. Ruth, like the rest, was impotent. The Babe saw a third strike whistle by in the first inning and was retired on all his other attempts.

The Cardinals played like champions behind this flawless exhibition of twirling. There was a snap and dash to their work, missing in Saturday's game. Thevenow, young shortstop, cut down everything that came his way and started a pretty double play in the first inning, after Combs had walked. Bell at third base made a spectacular stop and throw-out on Dugan's smash in the seventh, while Hornsby robbed Ruth of a hit with a great stab of the Babe's drive in the ninth, throwing the Yankee star out at first.

The Yankees fashioned their brace of runs in the second inning on hits by Meusel, Lazerri and Dugan, mixed with Alexander's wild throw. Meusel tallied on Lazerri's hit, and Lazerri, trapped at first on an attempted double steal with Dugan, raced across the plate as Alexander threw wild in the run-down scramble. The Cardinals were no long in making up this deficit, however, singles by Douthit and Southworth and a sacrifice by Hornsby paving the way for "Sunny Jim" Bottomley to bring in a pair of tallies with a booming single to Ruth's territory.

This was in the third inning and after that Shocker matched his spitball with Alexander's best until the seventh. Retired in order for three straight frames, the Cardinals opened their attack in the seventh on a double by O'Farrell, followed by Thevenow's single to left. The threat of Meusel's great throwing arm held O'Farrel at third and when Alexander and Douhit popped out, the St. Louis attack seemed checked. Southworth, however, caught a curve and lofted it high into the right field bleacher crowd.

It was a fitting role for Southworth to provide this winning ounch, for it was his home run, about a fortnight ago, that beat the Giants at the Polo Grounds in a game which clinched the first National League pennant for St. Louis.

Shocker weathered this seventh inning storm to retire Hornsby for the third out, but he gave way to Bob Shawkey in the eighth, after Bottomley had opened the inning with a single. "Bob the Gob" checked the Cardinals in this frame, but Sam Jones, on the hill in the ninth, had trouble escaping with only one run being scored against him. The first man to face him, Thevenow, hit a towering fly to right which fell through Ruth's hands. The Babe then lost sight of the ball for a few moments and before he recovered it Thevenow had galloped round the bases. Passes to Douthit and Hornsby, sandwiching a single by Southworth, filled the bases, but Jones retired the side without further damage.

The Yankees rushed in reserves in the eighth, Paschal batting for Severeid and Ruether for Shawkey, but they found Alexander invincible here, as well as in the ninth.

Cardinals Jubilant

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (Canadian Press)—As the Yankees were jubilant in their clubhouse after Saturday's world series game, so were the Cardinals well pleased with themselves when they left the field yesterday afternoon. The St. Louis club, youngest in the majors, still has the enthusiasm of youth and they made no effort to conceal their elation at evening the series. The celebration was cut short by the hurried departure for the St. Louis battlefield, but Grover Alexander and Billy Southworth were guests of honor at an informal reception among the players before the hurried change from uniforms to street clothes was given right of way. "We are sure to win," the Cardinals chorused.

The Yankees were cheerful enough as they, too, hurried through preparations to leave for Missouri. "What's one game this early in the series" was the reaction of the players to the defeat.

"We hit today behind wonderful pitching," said Manager Hornsby. "You can't beat that combination."

"Today was vastly different from yesterday. We fielded well enough then and got good pitching but didn't hit. Today everything was right.

"It's not necessary for me to call attention to Alexander's pitching Every one of those 63,000 people must have known that they were looking at great pitching. It was smart pitching, too, for Alexander knew just where the ball was going. Of course, Southworth's home run didn't do us any harm.

'I am not sure who will work the opening game at home for us. It will be Reinhart or Haines, as I see it now."

"Alexander pitched a remarkable game," said the Yankee manager. "and of course he deserved to win. We couldn't get to him and when you don't hit you can't expect to make runs.

"I have no criticism of the play of our boys. They were bustling and we'll have lots of fight in St. Louis. There will be plenty of games for us to win and it still looks like a great series. The first two games have been decided by the pitchers. Pennock was the whole show yesterday and it was Alexander's time today.

"I am undecided tonight about my pitching selection for the opening game at St. Louis. I think now it's a choice between Ruether and Hoyt."

Babe Ruth was complaining after the game that he could not find the ball Thevenow drove into his territory for a home run in the ninth.

"After I chased to the foul line, and just missed making the catch," said the Babe, "I couldn't locate the ball. And no one would tell me where it was."

The great slugger was complaining also that he could have caught Southworth's drive in the seventh, the home run that put the game on the ice for the Cards, if the bleachers had not been in the way.

"I was right after that ball but the best I could do was get within about a foot of it," said Ruth, who is himself something of an authority on home runs.

CAMERA STUDY OF BABE RUTH AT BAT

Here's an excellent photographic study of a batter's various stances at the plate; also, how the hands grip the club at different moments.

In short, it shows the great Babe Ruth (George Herman in social circles), Bingtown's behemoth of the bludgeon, in the three important instances of a batter's trip to the swatting station — the start of the swing, the halfway point and the follow through.

At the left you see the Bamb's stance as he gets set to smash the oncoming spheroid over the centre-field fence; centre depicts him at the point of connecting; at the right, you see him as he brings his club around—known as "following through" in baseball parlance.

The insets reveal how Babe grips his bat during the same three periods—the start, halfway and the follow through.

The photos, some of the most unusual ever taken, were snapped by Louis Van Oeyen, photographer for NEA Service, Inc., during a recent visit of Ruth and the Yankees to Cleveland. They form a most interesting study of the greatest long-distance hitter in all baseball history.

BETHANY PERSONALS

BETHANY, Oct. 4.—The pupils from here who attend the Lindsay Collegiate received an unexpected holiday on Friday owing to a visit to Lindsay on Thursday of the Hon. Howard Ferguson, who granted the Lindsay schools a holiday on Friday.

A half holiday was given the pupils of the public school here on Friday, on account of the Millbrook fair, giving the pupils who desired a chance to attend this, the only local fair in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Staples and son Clarence, motored from Douro on Friday to visit Mr. Lou Staples They also attended Millbrook fair.

Mr. John Staples of Lindsay spent Friday the guest of his mother Mrs. Staples, on Main street.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. A. Poulter were visitors to Peterboro on Friday.

A fire which might have resulted in serious loss started in the driving shed of Mr. William Hanna's home on Friday morning about 10 o'clock. A man passing by on his way to Millbrook fair saw the smoke and gave the alarm, with the result that within a very short time about one hundred neighbors gathered and helped to extinguish the flames. The fire started, it is thought, from a spark from a threshing engine which had passed the building only a short time previous. Had the fire not been noticed at the time a serious loss to Mr. Hanna might have been the result as the wind was blowing directly to a large L-shaped barn filled with the season's crop.

"Yes, rather! Her husband is scared to death of her."—Tit-Bits, London.

SUPREMES WIN FROM C. G. E.

Game Called on Account of Darkness After Four Innings.

SCORE 16-1.

For the second time this summer the management of the C.G.E. Ladies Softball team on Saturday watched the large crowd which had filled the stands go home in disgust because their Toronto opponents hadn't shown up. Supremes, winners of the Toronto championship, who were to meet Peterborough in the semi-finals for the Ontario title, arrived at 5.30 for a game scheduled to start at 4.15, and most of the fans had just left the park. The visitors had allowed no time for trouble on the way, leaving Toronto in a big bus at 1.00 o'clock, and tire and engine trouble held them up.

A large number of the fans saw the bus arrive and returned and saw a four inning exhibition game in the gathering darkness, which the visitors won 16-1. An effort of the visitors to rush the fifth inning through by striking at anything, so that they might have a better chance to fight the local team's claim to a victory by default, was ended by the umpire, Buscombe of Toronto, calling the game before it had gone the legal limit.

QUEENS DEFEAT SENATORS FOR SECOND VICTORY

Joe Tubman's Fumbles Responsible For Tri-Color Boys' Safety Points.

REGULARS ABSENT.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 4 (Canadian Press).—Queens Seniors, Intercollegiate champions, scored their second win of the season, when on Saturday at the Richardson Stadium, they defeated Ottawa Senators by the score of 7 to 3. It was sweet revenge for the 11 to 1 beating the Senators handed Queen's in Ottawa last fall.

Despite the absence of Batstone, Leadley, Lewis, "Red" McKelvey, Norrie, Mundel, Muirhead, the tri-color disported a fighting, scrappy team, and they sailed into Ottawa with a vengeance in the last quarter. Joe Tubman, who was the star of the game in Ottawa last fall, was really responsible for Ottawa's defeat on Saturday, but it was his fumble which gave Ottawa possession just over their own line, and allowed Queen's to shove them back for a safety touch which put the students ahead. A few minutes later Tubman again was shoved back for two more points, and then the game was on ice.

Ottawa started off well, and were the first to score, but their margin was never more than two points, and once Queen's got down to work, they outplayed the Dominion champions. Voss and Chantler were the stars of the tri-color, their kicking and running being sensational.

The tri-color seemed to lack team play most of the game, and their line at time broke down under the onslaughts of the Senators' plungers, but in the second half their better condition told, and Voss' kicking was superior to that of Joe Miller and Tubman. The latter seemed uncertain; he misjudged several kicks, and allowed the ball to get in a bad position for Ottawa. Undoubtedly Ottawa were greatly weakened when Lynch, their quarter back, was injured.

During the game there were two fist fights, one when Mulroney took a crack at McKelvey, for an alleged poke which opened a gash in Mulroney's face, and later when the Ottawa trainer got some of the boys on the field peeved, and fully thirty of the spectators joined. It was the scrappiest game ever seen on the local grid iron.

Next Saturday Queen's play an exhibition game here with Camp Borden, and on October 16th, open their college series at Varsity.

The teams were:

Queen's—Flying wing, Britton; halves, Voss, Chantler, McKelvey; quarter, Baldwin; snap, Skelton; insides, Hamilton, Shaw; middles, Monahan, Howard; outsides, Walker. Wright; subs, B. Wright, Hanford, Agnew, Stringer, Berry, Graves, Lindsay, Baird, Durham, Clarke, Nagel.

Ottawa—Flying wing, Emmerson; halves, Tubman, Miller, Connell; quarter, Lynch; snap, Bruce; insides, Humphrey, Curry; middles, Ketchum, McMillan; outsides, Starr, Young; subs, Cote, Pritchard, Anderson, Herbert, Brisbois, Mulroney, Boshington, Amyot, Keeley.

TORONTO WINS THE FULL SERIES FROM COLONELS

SCORE 7 TO 0.

Superior Base-Running Accounts For Winning Tallies of Canadians

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4 (Canadian Press)—The Toronto Internationals, fresh from four victories over Louisville at Toronto, made a clean sweep of the junior world series, taking yesterday's game here, 7 to 0.

Stewart left-handed the American Association entry into submission, yielding five hits. Cullop southpaw ace of the Colonels, started, but gave way to Wilkinson in the sixth inning after the first two batsmen had hit safely.

Toronto scored several of its runs by superior base running. Gilhooley scored from second on a bunt in the third inning. Lawrie dumped one in front of the plate and Gilhooley advanced to third, scoring when Cullop threw Lawry's tap to first.

Toronto scored in the first inning, Schmehl was safe when Betzel took his hit and tagged Gilhooley, who had singled, took third on Betzel's fumble of Lawry's infield blow and scored on Walker's base hit.

Miller singled to open the second inning, stole second and scored on Heath's one-base knock. A base on balls, a sacrifice and Lawry's bunt scored Gilhooley in the third.

Successive singles by Schmehl, Lawry and Walker, Layne's sacrifice, and, after Miller struck out, Heath's triple neted three more in the sixth.

Lawry's single, Carlyle's sacrifice and Layne's double added the last run.

TENNIS PLAYERS EXPRESS REGRET AT VINC'S TURN

Feel That United States' Supremacy on Courts Is Ended.

SEEMS SHAME.

Richards To Tour Country With Other Famous Pro. Athletes.

NEW YORK, October 2 (United Press).—Astonishment and regret echoed yesterday the announcement of C. C. Pyle, employer of "Red" Grange and Suzanne Lenglen, that Vincent Richards, who ranks with William T. Tilden as one of the two great American tennis players, has turned professional. The announcement was made at a dinner ace of the Colonels, started, but given Mlle. Lenglen on Thursday night.

Tilden, who lost virtually his only rival with the defection of Richards to the professional ranks, regretted that Richards has not remained an amateur until American players had recovered their lost supremacy on the courts from France. Tilden was surprised when informed of Pyle's announcement at Great Neck, L.I.

Richards will go on tour with Suzanne Lenglen, the great French player; Mary K. Browne, Harvey Snodgrass and other stars spirited from the amateur ranks by Pyle. A week ago, Richards denied any intention to turn professional, but admitted he was "doing it for the money, for my wife and my baby," in confirming Pyle's announcement.

Pyle said he will announce the names of three more prominent stars Sunday, who have signed contracts to play tennis in exhibitions over the country.

"I'm going to finish school," she declared. Miss Wills is a student at the University of California.

"I believe that every player has a right to make his decision on the matter of professionalism," he said, "but I regret that Mr. Richards decided to turn professional until the American players had made a united effort to restore American supremacy in the amateur game. I wish him all success in his new venture and trust that it will prove profitable."

Teach Speakers How To Snub Hecklers

OXFORD, October 2 (Associated Press). — David Lloyd George, himself the centre of many a verbal battle with hecklers, was an interested spectator recently of the methods used by the school for Liberal speakers to fortify students against the terrors of heckling.

Several speakers were chosen by lot and a group of expert hecklers were chosen to annoy them. The hecklers permitted the speakers almost to reach their points before hurling disconcerting questions at them.

"What do you mean by incubus?" demanded one heckler. "Is it some kind of an incinerator?"

"If the gentleman will come forward," replied the student speaker, nonchalantly, "I will show the audience what an incubus is like."

ROUNTREE'S THREE BASE HIT IN 8TH INNING GIVES MERRITTON TWO RUN LEAD OVER THE ROYALS

Merritton Makes Sensational Comeback in Play For Ontario Championship.

MIDGET FINALS.

MERRITON, October 4. (Special.)—Smashing out a three base hit into deep centre and sending two men home to put his team in the lead, Rountree, winning pitcher of Saturday's thrilling contest here, was the principal in Merriton's eight inning rally which proved the climax to a sensational come-back staged by the locals over Peterboro Royals in the return game of the finals for the Ontario Midget O.B.A.A. championship played at Merriton Saturday. The game was won by Merriton on a score of 8-6.

Coming here with confidence that they would be able to repeat their easy 13-2 victory of last Monday, the Royals met with formidable opposition from the first innings.

While Peterboro opened strong in the first, when Hatton singled scoring Hope and Jones, Merriton pulled much the same stunt and tied the score, after Beaver and McCann had crossed the plate following Riddell's triple.

Peterboro forged ahead again in the first half of the second and was one up on the local aggregation until Merriton came to bat and sent two men home. The next three innings were scoreless. The sixth yielded one each for the two teams, another for Peterboro was checked up in the seventh, tieing them once again with Merriton, and the first of the eigth saw the Royals go into the lead again with one run after Kelly had committed two errors in two consecutive plays.

Putting it briefly that is the story of Saturday's exciting fixture. It was a see-saw affair, such as the score indicates, all the way through, and thrills were dished up a-plenty for the large crowd which witnessed the encounter. Rountree, Merriton's pitching ace, was evidently in better shape here than away from home, and he received better support. He had ten strike outs and only allowed ten hits in comparison with sixteen at Peterboro.

Holmes, the visiting pitcher, stood up well generally throughout the six innings in which he was in action and while he gave five passes he only allowed seven hits. He came into the game during the second innings, relieving Cripps, who had already three bases on balls and five hits scored against him.

Peterboro's fielding was decidely better than that of Merriton's. Seven errors were checked against Merriton while the Petes only registered one. The first, second and eighth innings were the outstanding ones of the game. Each had plenty of action with both teams co-operating to produce it.

Hope, hit by a pitcher in the first, stole second and then to third. Jones was walked and Hatton singled scoring Hope and Jones. After Beaver had hit and reached first on an error by Cripps, McCann singled. With Beaver stealing first and Forester walking, filling the bases, Ridell tripled and sent all three men home. But Merriton lost one of the runs when Forester was ruled out for not touching the second base. Peterboro's second saw Stuart's single and two consecutive steals, the runner trailing home when Hope hit. A double by Heaton scored Kelly who had been walked, and had later stolen second. Holmes relieved Cripps in the box. Heaton scored on Bush's hit. With the bases full and two men down Holmes struck out Forester.

In the eighth Holmes singled. Cripps gained first on an error by Kelly. Another error by Kelly through an overthrow to first advanced Cripps to second and Holmes to third. Hope singled to left field, scoring Holmes. Cripps was thrown out at the plate. Merriton's eighth at bat was short but profitable. Bush walked, Beaver singled, Rountree tripled, scoring Bush and Beaver. McCann sacrified to score Rountree, Forester struck out and Riddell was out at first.

Long distance hitting undoubtedly was one big factor in Merriton's win. Five runs were scored for the locals as the result of Riddell's three base hit in the first innings and Rountree's in the eighth.

DELORO SCORES IN LAST INNING TO KNOT ROUND

Smelters Win Pitchers' Duel To Tie Bridegburg Series.

SCORE IS 2-1.

Quinn's Single Over Third With Two Out Sends Brown Home.

MARMORA, Ont., Oct. 4—Past ball games at Deloro paled before the battle staged there on Saturday afternoon when in the eventful ninth Deloro forged ahead for the second time to win against Bridgeburg Mentholatums by 2 to 1. The game, viewed by 800 odd spectators, was a pitchers' duel with Deloro's veteran, Leal, being in tiptop form for his eight innings and Williamson, the visiting southpaw, going the nine frames as a sound pitcher. Each had only four strikeouts. The first baseman of each team also furnished a play of unique style.

With remarkable fielding by both teams, scoring was an impossibility until the seventh when Ralph registered, being given a home run from third through interference at second. The ovation tendered Ralph was the greatest within recollection, yet was to be equalled later as catcher Quinn made the winning hit. Before Ralph's success the best hit had been Jack's triple in the third.

Bridgeburg tied the score in their eighth venture. Russel flied to right field. Williamson walked, Graham got marching orders at first. Howe singled advancing Williamson to third. Kavanagh singled and Williamson crossed the plate on an overthrow amid rousing cheers from the Bridgeburg benchers.

Shea relieved Leal in the ninth and speedily disposed of the opposing batsmen. In the same innings Brown reached first on Upper's error and made second on a passed ball. A. Quinn fanned. Ralph was out at first, Brown reaching third. J. Quinn placed the pill over third base, scoring Brown and ending a most memorable game.

The third game will in all probability be played in Oshawa or Toronto on Wednesday next. The closeness of the first two games warrants a great exodus of fans from both places for the great deciding final of the Ontario championship.

C.G.E. EXECUTIVE CONSIDERS ACTION

Extends Regrets To Fans For Failure of Supremes To Play.

Dear Sir: The president and executive of the C. G. E. Ladies' Soft ball club desire to extend their regrets to the Peterboro soft ball fans at the manner in whicr they were badly disappointed on Saturday last. It was a sad disappointment to us, it being the third time this season that Toronto teams have failed to live up to their contracts. We acted on advice sent us by telegram from Miss Mabel Ray, secretary of the Ontario Association, to arrange a game at 4.15, and to reserve a portion of the stand for Toronto fans, all of which we lived up to. It seems to us that the Supremes did not use their best endeavors to keep their contract. They could not travel more than 15 miles an hour until we met them, and after a reprimanding they came the rest of the distance at over 30 miles an hour. They defaulted the game.

A meeting of the executive will take place to-night to discuss the bad treatment that has been accorded our executive and Peterboro fans by the Toronto teams and to decide whether we withdraw from the association or not.—W. J. Nelson, President.

FINALS ARRANGED.

Deloro-Bridgeburg Game at Oshawa—Royals Vs. Merritton at Toronto.

Deloro and Bridgeburg have been ordered by the O.B.A.A. to play the deciding game of the Intermediate finals at Oshawa on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30.

ALFRED HOWELL MAY VISIT CITY

Noted Sculptor Expected at Kiwanis Fair—Two Pupils Here.

It is probable that Alfred Howell, A.R.C.A. (London), O.S.A., the noted sculptor, will himself demonstrate at the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition. Mr. Howell, who executed the war memorials at St. John, N.B., Sault Ste. Marie and Oshawa, and is about to commence the memorial at Guelph, is director of Art at the Central Technical School, Toronto. This is the second largest technical school in the British Empire, and Mr. Howell's position enables him to choose pupils of real promise.

He has selected, to demonstrate at Peterborough, Miss Lucy McWilliams and Miss Beryl Forward, who have exhibited work at the Royal Canadian Academy and the Toronto Art Gallery, although still quite young. They have won a number of prizes, and recently interested thousands of visitors at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The young ladies will demonstrate modelling the head from life, and two or three citizens of mature age will be asked to sit for them.

The modelling will be done in the main part of the Armories where every visitor may have an opportunity to see it.

GRADED UNION SESSION PLANNED

Teachers of Small Children Will Meet at George Street Church.

If it be true that "The most important education is that which fits the student for spiritual service," the convention of the Ontario Religious Education Council will be of great interest to all the teachers of our church schools.

Those who teach children from the age of three to twelve, are ex-officio members of our Graded Union, and are looking for new inspiration, and the best modern methods of presenting the old truths to the new child of today.

The programme for the children's divisions promises all that the different grades could desire.

This division meets in George Street Church Wednesday, Oct. 27, at nine a.m.

Some of the subjects are "The Challenge of the Child," by Mrs. Burgess of Ottawa, who will be remembered by our members for her fine address on Junior work given at our Union some years ago.

There there is to be "The Challenge of the Bookshelf" by Miss M. V. Royce.

"Learning from Others," which is a tour through the exhibit which will provide suggestions for special days, cradle roll work and missionary lessons. At 2.15 p.m., Mrs. Hincks, happily remembered by our teachers, will give an address on "Five Goals in Religious Education," and at 3.30 that most interesting subject "Vacation Bible Schools" will be taken by Miss Eadie in an illustrated talk. This is good news for our Union, that is already planning for a school to be held here next summer, and is holding a rummage sale next Thursday for that purpose.

There is to be a "Song and Story Hour" from 4.30 to 5.30 Wednesday. Teachers of all classes of children from the age of 6 to 12 are expected to plan for the attendance of their classes at this session. There will be singing and demonstration of methods of teaching new songs.

The session closes with a banquet.

At the evening session Mrs. Hincks will address cradle roll workers on "Materials and Methods" and there will be demonstrations of "The Sunday Programme" for the other grades.

Parents are most cordially welcome to all these sessions. It is expected that there will be a full attendance at our meeting of the Union Tuesday, Oct. 12, in St. Andrew's school room, as there is much work to be planned for the convention,—committees to be appointed and supper souvenirs to be made.—W. Lewis.

O.R.F.U. TEAM BEATS DE LAVAL

SCORE 6-1.

The fans who went early to see the softball game on Saturday did not come away altogether disappointed, for they were able to see the first Rugby game of the season, when the O.R.F.U. Juniors of this city defeated the De Laval team of the City League. The Juniors were the winners, taking the game, 6 points to 1.

Ward for the De Laval secured the only point for his team when he was forced to kick in the first quarter, but the Juniors came right back with a touch-down by Yelland which they failed to convert. In the second quarter the play was very close, neither team securing any points. In the third McLeish secured a point by a kick, and in the last quarter there was no scoring. The stars on the winning team were Woods, Gore and Yelland, and on the De Laval, Ward and Thornton.

The line-up:

De Laval—Flying wing, Dundas; halves, Ward, Evans and Thornton; snap, Morley; quarter, Smith; insides, Mackness and B. Ashmore; middles, J. Ashmore and Miller; outsides, Fowler and Williams; subs., Ham, Pulley and Sage; coach J. Deannard.

Junior O.R.F.U. — Flying wings, Henry and Gore; halves, Woods and McLeish; snap, Goheen; quarter, Fraser; insides Cowan and Dobbin; middles, Yelland and Miller; outsides, Hall and LeBarr; coach, M. Sloan.

CENTENARIAN DIES.

Mrs. Catherine Coventry, 104, Came of Long-Lived Family.

OAKVILLE, October 4 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Catherine Coventry is dead here at the age of 104 years, after three weeks' illness.

The late Mrs. Coventry was probably the oldest resident of this district, and came of a family noted for its longevity. Since the death of her husband, she had resided here with her sister, Mrs. Jane Bond, who has attained the age of 100 years. Their father, the late John Cole, lived to see his hundred and tenth birthday, while a brother reached the age of 102. She was born in County Limerick, Ireland.

Mr. and Mrs. DuVall were about 60 years of age. Mr. DuVall was a veteran employee of the Westinghouse Company.

An inquest will be held, but final arrangements have not yet been completed.

Fatally Injured.

James Davies, 179 Sandford Avenue North, died at the General Hospital last night. Davies, who is 71 years old, was struck down by a truck at King and Sydney Streets, at 7 o'clock Saturday night and Geo. Swick, 288 Ottawa Street North, who was driving the machine for the Steel Company of Canada, is held on a charge of criminal negligence. The aged man was employed as watchman for the N. Slater Company, Sydney Street, and was walking across the street Saturday night for a paper when the truck caught him. He was thrown forcibly to the pavement and was unconscious when picked up. It is alleged that the brakes of the machine were faulty, and that the truck was speeding. Applications for bail were made for Swick, but were refused for the present.

William Mattice, 178 Emerald Street South, was in a head-on collision at Cumberland and Norway Avenues yesterday afternoon, and he suffered a fracture of the left knee. He is at the General Hospital.

Two Seriously Injured.

John Ratz, 49 Simcoe Street East, and Albert Zamysionaga, 364 Hughson Street North, were seriously injured yesterday afternoon when knocked down on Strongman's Road, Mountain, by the auto of R. P. Wilson, R.R. No. 4, Hamilton. Wilson stated that seven boys were walking on the road and his machine caught two of them. The driver took Ratz to his home, and the other lad was taken to the General Hospital in the police ambulance. He was taken from a street car, his injuries crippling him a short time after the accident. His mother demanded that he come home when informed that he was at the institution, and, despite the fact that the authorities informed her that his condition was very serious, she took the boy home.

Mrs. Forster, 187 Emerald Street North, was injured yesterday on the Wentworth Street incline when the auto of Wm. Comisky, 207 Rosslyn Avenue South, pinned her against the gate while the incline was in motion.

Miss Florence Hardy, 197 Kenilworth Street, Toronto, and Mrs. Hendershott, 638 Concession Street, Mount Hamilton, suffered bruises, lacerations and a shaking up Saturday when the auto of J. L. Hendershott, Concession Street, in which they were riding, upset after figuring in a crash at John and Young Streets with the machine of Frank Harvey, R.R. 1, Galt. The patients were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, but were not seriously hurt. Mrs. Hendershott's baby escaped.

Other Accidents.

John Phillips, 109 Wentworth Street South, was internally injured Saturday at Main Street and West Avenue when the auto of John Black, 173 Main Street East, knocked him down. The right wheel passed over his stomach. The lad jumped up, but Mr. Black took him home in his car. It is feared the boy's injuries are of a serious nature.

Suffering from a fracture of the skull, scalp and face lacerations and a severe shaking up, Roy Bartlett, 264 Roxborough Avenue, was admitted to the General Hospital on Sunday. He was struck by the auto of Harold Barlow, 26 Frederick Avenue. His condition is serious, but General Hospital officials stated that he was doing as well as could be expected.

THEATRE

AT THE REGENT

PARADE OF GEMS IN "MISMATES"

A dazzling jewel parade, a beautiful love story, heart interest, the battle of a mother for her child against tremendous odds—these are some of the features of First National's latest photo play, "Mis-mates," which Earl Hudson produced with Doris Kenyon and Warner Baxter in the featured roles. "Mismates" will come to the Regent Theatre to-day.

Dancing girls ride through the dining hall on chariots drawn by Nubian slaves. All were garbed in Grecian robes. It is a spectacle of the rarest.

Then there is the jewel parade in which a score of the finest artist models of New York display jewelry whose value is not even to be estimated. It is a unique idea and a beautiful episode in this picture of beauty and thrills. There is a daring prison escape in which Doris Kenyon gets out of jail and makes her way unaided to the bedside of her little son who she hears is dying.

There is the story of a villainous and worthless husband who not only deserts his wife but goes on the witness stand and by his lies sends her to prison for a long term. There is the beautiful love story in which Warner Baxter and Miss Kenyon figure as the principals.

"Mismates" was directed by Chas. Brabin and produced by Earl Hudson—the man who made "The Lost World," "Flaming Youth," "Sporting" and two score other First National hits. In the cast are Miss Kenyon, Warner Baxter, Philo McCollugh, Mae Allison, Charles Murray, Nancy Kelley, John Kolb, M. Turner Gordon, Charles Beyer and Cyril Ring.

We Told You So!

Thursday and Friday in the treasure hunt were easy, but Saturday's guide left a few loopholes. But everything will be alright tomorrow and the points of the compass will straighten themselves out.

And get the paper as soon as you can every evening so you can be first at the hiding place. You must have a copy of The Examiner with you when you come to claim the treasure.

If you missed the early puzzles, come up town and copy them off the special treasure hunt bulletin board. There is still plenty of time to enter—no entry fee or red tape. Just work out the puzzle every day, find the key and bring it to The Examiner office and collect the fifty dollars. The key is specially marked.

PROVINCE TAKES LINDSAY ROAD

Much Travelled Highway Becomes Link in Provincial System.

LONG ADVOCATED.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., informed The Examiner today that the Provincial Government had definitely decided to take over the Peterborough-Lindsay road as a Provincial Highway.
The people of the two towns and the counties of Peterborough and Victoria have been advocating this step for some time.

ONE MAN HURT IN COLLISIONS

OCCUPANTS ESCAPE.

Two cars, one travelling north on Monaghan Road and the other proceeding west on Charlotte Street, met on the boundary yesterday. None of the occupants of either car was hurt. The fenders and running boards of the cars suffered some damage.
Two cars met on the highway yesterday between Fraserville and Centreville, with the result that a Peterborough man, the occupant of one of the cars, had his head badly cut.
Coming out of the Grand Hotel yard on to George Street yesterday, a car collided with a car travelling south. Both cars escaped with damaged fenders.

STOLEN BICYCLES.

The majority of the wheels are still unidentified, so that any person who has lost his bicycle is advised to call at the Police Station.

BANK HELD UP.

Two Armed Bandits Rob Toronto Branch This Morning.

TORONTO, October 4. Canadian Press. — Two armed men, one colored and the other white, walked into the McCaul and Elm street Branch of the Standard Bank of Canada this morning, ordered the teller and the manager to hold up their hands, scooped between five and six thousand dollars into a pillow case and escaped in an automobile.
The manager, Ralph W. Gordon, fired several shots at the car, but did not stop the robbers, who returned the fire with revolvers.

LONDON, Oct. 4. Canadian Press. —"I wish to assure the people of Great Britain that the representatives of the Union of South Africa at the Imperial conference have no wish to be anything else than helpful in advancing the interests of the British community of Nations," Premier J. B. M. Hertzog of South Africa, said in an interview here today just after his arrival from South Africa, as a delegate to the Imperial conference.

CAPITAL PAYS ITS RESPECTS TO NEW GOVERNOR

Viscount and Lady Willingdon Receive Address From City.

TAKE UP RESIDENCE

Premier and Cabinet Are Guests at the First Official Luncheon.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.— (Canadian Press.)— Once again the guns on Parliament Hill roared a welcome to a Governor-General. His Excellency, Viscount Willingdon, installed at Quebec City on Saturday as Canada's thirteenth Governor-General, reached Ottawa to-day to take up residence at Government House.
Ottawa's welcome took the form of a reception on Parliament Hill, where Mayor J. P. Balharrie and members of the city council presented an address.
In reply, Lord Willingdon expressed for himself and Lady Willingdon, "the hope that during the time we shall be living amongst you, we may be permitted to enjoy an intimate association with your fortunes and a close community of interest in the welfare of Ottawa and this great and prosperous Dominion."
After the ceremony their Excellencies were taken to Rideau Hall, the official residence. There they began at once their official lives in Canada, by entertaining at luncheon Premier King and his cabinet. Tomorrow the new Governor and his wife will attend their first official function as the guests of Chief Justice F. A. Anglin at a local club.
To-day's ceremony was attended by most of the cabinet, by judges, soldiers and diplomatic representatives. Col. John G. Foster, United States' Consul-General, was in the official party.

COL. J. W. MILLER KEEPS BIRTHDAY

Veteran of U. S. Civil War Is Still Strong and Active.

IS 79 YEARS OLD.

Seventy-nine years of age and still hale and hearty. Such is the record of the dean of Peterborough's veteran soldiers, Colonel J. W. Miller, a former Commander of the 57th Regiment, whose natal day this is.
Colonel Miller who was born at Bowmanville in 1845, was one of the young men of Canada, who joined the Federal forces when the Northern States sprang to arms in defence of the integrity of the Union. At the tender age of fifteen years, he found himself in the serried ranks of the soldiers of the North, who withstood the onslaught of their rebellious Southern fellow countrymen.
The story of Colonel Miller's Civil War service is practically the story of the entire struggle, for he took part in all the principal engagements until a few months before the cessation of hostilities.
Twice he found himself listed among the casualties of the great struggle. He was wounded at Malvern Hill, and was both wounded and captured at Gettysburg. After the latter battle, along with other Northern captives, he was led 85 miles, on a painful, arduous journey, over the mountain slopes, across the Virginia Valley to Harper's Ferry, and from there to Richmond. The prisoners were incarcerated at the Libby prison, the building which was afterwards removed to the World's Fair and stands in Chicago to this day.
The account of Colonel Miller's experiences in this prison reads like a page from the romances of Stevenson or Dumas. The prison was an old tobacco warehouse on the banks of a canal which had been closed on account of the war. The green, slimy, and evil-smelling water of this canal was the only drinking water available. Food was scarce, some of the guards were open to bribery, and many ingenious were the schemes adopted by the prisoners to supplement their meagre rations. When a party of prisoners, including the young Canadian were released in exchange for an equal number of Southern captives, the majority of them were so weak from starvation that they could not stand, unsupported and they had to be forcibly restrained from throwing themselves at any food in sight and gorging themselves to death.
During his term of service, Colonel Miller saw all the great figures of the Northern side—Grant, McClellan, Hooker, Burnside, and towering above them all, the never-to-be-forgotten figure of Lincoln himself. One of his memories of the war, is that of the President being ordered off the ramparts by an officer who considered that the life on which so much depended was being unduly exposed by Lincoln's habitual disregard of danger.
After his discharge from the Union forces, Colonel Miller returned to Canada. During the Fenian raids he again took up arms on behalf of his native land.
He has passed through all the gradations of rank in the Militia from First Lieutenant to Colonel, and is still intensely interested in the military development of the Dominion.

WEDDING BELLS.

BELL—BENNETT.
On Wednesday, September 29, a quiet wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bennett, Coldsprings, Otonabee, of their daughter, Laura Mae, to J. Wesley Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bell, Fairview, Smith. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. D. Richardson, M.A., pastor of St. James' United Church, Peterboro, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom.
Mr. and Mrs. Bell will spend some time in Toronto and Detroit, and on their return will reside in Smith.

VICTIM IDENTIFIED.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 4 (Canadian Press). — Relatives have positively identified today the body of the aged man killed in Saturday's level crossing tragedy here as Archie Reavie, aged 75, unmarried, with relatives at Roslin, a village 20 miles north of here, and relatives also at 92 Bernice Street, Toronto. Identification of the body of the young man who was the second victim of the tragedy has not yet been made.

Wheat Market Advances On Account of Wet Weather

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (Canadian Press) — Owing largely to wet weather in the northwest on both sides of the Canadian line, wheat prices averaged higher today during the early dealings. Starting unchanged to 3-8c up, the wheat market scored a moderate general advance, which however, failed to hold well. Corn and oats were firmer, corn opening 1-4c to 5-8c higher and subsequently gaining little more but then receding to about Saturday's finish. Provisions tended down grade.

LADY FAILS TO SELL ADVERTISING; ALDERMEN ORDER THAT BILLBOARD AND TWO TREES BE TAKEN DOWN

Value of Publicity in Two Magazines Not Apparent to City Fathers.

OCTOBER MEETING

Billboard Erected Without Permit, Must Go, With Trees Blocking Sidewalk.

Advertising in "Canadian Opportunities", published in Toronto and having a circulation of 25,000 a month, mostly in the United States, and in "Canada", published in London and having a circulation of 10,000 a week in Great Britain, was not looked on with favor by the Aldermen at the October meeting of the City Council, held last night, although the idea was presented by Miss Frazer, whom Mayor Holloway described as a charming and talented young lady. The idea presented was that there would be given an amount of space for reading matter equal to that contracted for by the city and by manufacturers, but the aldermen felt that the chances of the magazines bringing any requests for information about business opportunities were not in keeping with the advertising rate asked.

A bill board erected on Crescent street, near the end of Lake street, was ordered removed within two months. No permit for its erection had been issued although it was said that the owner had visited the City Engineer's office twice. A protest was received from one who signed himself a "Crescent street resident", and it was stated by aldermen familiar with the location that the value of the houses facing the lake at that location would be lowered by the poster panels. Doubt was expressed by Alderman Fife as to whether the boards were erected on private property or on Crescent street. None of the aldermen were in favor of leaving them there indefinitely but debate centred on the notices to be given, due to the fact that posters have been placed on them under contracts having several months to run.

A request for permission to remove two billboards now located on Aylmer street to different locations on the same street was referred to the City Engineer. While the moving of one to the south of King street was discussed, it was said by Alderman Denne that work preparatory to the removal of the Ferguson grain warehouse had been commenced, and City Engineer R. H. Parsons stated that he had received no application for a permit. The mayor suggested that the fire by-laws under which this removal had been thoroughly discussed before, were too drastic and covered too large an area, in fact he said that the area was big enough for New York City. This drew the rejoinder from Alderman Ackerman that the fire fighting equipment was not good enough for Lindsay.

By-law 2662, consolidating the traffic regulations, was not left long unchanged. Passed at a special meeting on September 21, it was amended last night by By-law 2663, at the request of the Department of Highways, which wished the "No parking" area at street corners limited to 20 feet, in order that the ruling all over the province might be the same.

A request from L. Humber for permission to erect a boathouse on the end of Langton street was received and no action taken. Several favored the granting of the request as the street is a dead end, but it was feared that the precedent might be dangerous and trouble result.

REVOLT BREWING AGAIN IN SPAIN

All Troops Are Confined To Their Barracks Since Saturday.

RIVERIA ASSAILED.

LONDON, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press)—The Biarritz correspondent of the Daily Mail says he learns from the Spanish border that further trouble is brewing between Gen. Primo de Rivera, the Spanish premier, and army officers, and that since Saturday all troops have been confined to barracks.

The correspondent has heard a report that the engineer officers will join the artillery officers in demanding the retirement of Primo de Rivera, and that a state of war will again be proclaimed, but restricted to Madrid and Barcelona.

Reports reached the French frontier town of St. Jean de Luz on Saturday of a revolt by Spanish cavalry regiments and engineers at Valladolid and the conning of the troops to barracks as a consequence. Passengers from Spain reaching Cerbere, at another point on the Franco Spanish frontier, reported all was calm when they left.

It is only a month ago that a mutinous movement developed among Spanish artillerymen. This was completely suppressed by the government after all Spain had been declared under the stringent regulations of a state of war.

RUMORS DENIED.

PARIS, Oct. 4. — Reports were circulated here yesterday, as well as in Great Britain and Germany, that trouble had broken out in Spain and that King Alfonso had been assassinated, but there were prompt denials by both the Spanish embassy and the semi-official Spanish news disseminator, the Fabra Agency.

King Alfonso at present is in San Sebastian and telephone reports from there are that "all is calm."

FLAMING GASOLINE BURNS SMALL BOY

Hose Catches Fire While Car Tank is Being Filled.

TRENTON, Oct. 5. — Quentin O'Hara, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Hara, Gardenville, and nephew of Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald, Gordon street, met with a painful accident when he was severely burned with gasoline about the hips and legs. The little fellow was with his father and party of four who were returning from Trenton to their home and stopped at a garage for gasoline. In some way the hose through which the gasoline was pouring caught fire. Mr. O'Hara threw it on the ground. The garageman in tthe excitement grabbed the hose as Quentin was getting out of the car and the child's clothes caught fire. He was rushed to a surgery and then taken home and is suffering severe burns from the hips down. Mr. O'Hara also received painful burns about the hands.

Stray Bucket Cause Of Strange Street Noise

A strange sound apparently proceeding from the centre of the street puzzled pedestrians at the interesection of George and Charlotte at 3.15 yesterday until the withdrawal of a line of cars obscuring the view afforded an explanation of the phenomenon, when it was discovered that the cause of the noise was an empty metal bucket which had fallen from the the running board of one of the cars, and was knocked here and there by passing vehicles, until the owner dived in among the traffic, retrieved his property and silenced the unmusical concerto.

FURTHER ACTION AGAINST P.A.T.A. IS CONSIDERED

Labor Department Awaits Return of Hon. Heenan From Kenora.

LEAVE TO DOMINION.

Probabilities Are That Provincial Governments May Be Consulted.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—It was indicated at the Labor Department yesterday that as soon as the new minister, Hon. Peter Heenan, returns from Kenora, the matter of further action against the Proprietary Articles Trade Association will be taken up. Such is the concern which, according to what was elicited on investigation, is a druggists' price-fixing combination calculated to enhance the cost of proprietary articles to consumers.

To the Provinces

The probabilities are that the report will be sent to the attorney-general of all the provinces in interest as the enforcement of a federal statute rests primarily with them. As the association, however, is Dominion-wide in its operation, the provinces very likely may leave the matter of prosecution to the Dominion government. This was the course followed in the case of the British Columbia fruit combine, and the outcome of it was the imposition of fines of $200,000. The province, in a way co-operated and incidentally is the custodian of the fine, although the Dominion seeks it, minus any expense to which the province was put. From what can be learned here, the proceedings contemplated by the Combines act are certain to be initiated and without any delay. In regard both to fines and imprisonment the penalties of the Combines act are exceptionally heavy.

FARMER REPORTS FOUR SHOTS AT HIM ON MEYERSBURG ROAD

Russell Taylor, of Morganston Telephones To Campbellford Police.

CAR BESIDE ROAD.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 5. — Russell Taylor, a farmer living near Morganston, reported to the local police last night that he had been shot at four times about a mile north of Meyersburg. Returning home about 7 p.m., driving a big waggon with a rack on it, he noticed an automobile with three front lights standing at the side of the road. He did not pay any particular attention to the car until he was about thirty-five or forty feet from it when he heard the first shot. Whipping his horses he rumbled past the car, and three more shots rang out above the noise of his waggon.

As soon as Mr. Taylor reached Meyersburg he at once telephoned back to Chief Brown briefly detailing his experience up the road. Chief Brown and Constable Light motored to Meyersburg, but were unable to find any trace of the aleged gunmen. From one other source they learned that an automobile with three lights had been seen on that road in the evening. The message received from Mr. Taylor was by telephone, and while credited by the police it left them puzzled for an explanation of the reported shooting which seemed incongruous as downright attempted banditry.

Woman Faints. Drowns In a Pail Of Water

BOSTON, Oct. 5 (United Press).—Fate played strange pranks in two Massachusetts homes Sunday.

William Hudson, a boy living at 466 Elm Street, had three fingers of his right hand injured yesterday in a small printing press in the Dawe-Pearson plant where he was employed. The tip of the centre finger was crushed slightly, the other two fingers being bruised.

Dr. D. W. Clark dressed the injuries.

Produced In Canada Exhibition

The young ladies in the Bond Selling Contest for the Produced in Canada Exhibition, were entertained last evening at Hooper's Tea Room, at a small dinner. Mr. W. H. Dickin called the meeting to order and then asked Mr. John I. Allen to give one of his salesmanship talks, which was very interesting and inspiring. Mr. Allen discussed the different methods of approaching the people, selling the bonds and clinching the sale, even if the credit were given to another young lady. He also explained that the girls were not only working for the prizes which they could win,but also for the uplift of humanity, through the work the Kiwanis Club are doing for the Under-privileged Child. The young ladies asked several questions which were ably answered by the executive of the Bond Selling Campaign, who were present. Dr. Craig, also thanked the young ladies for their efforts and expressed the hope that they would not become discouraged too easily, but use every effort possible to make this "Produced in Canada Exhibition" a most wonderful success. A vote of thanks was then moved by the girls, for the enjoyable dinner and the privilege of becoming acquainted with one another. This was responded to by Mr. Dickin.

The prizes for tomorrow will be awarded to the girls turning in the most bonds by 10 A.M. to Mr. John I. Allen, Superintendent Prudential Insurance Company, Royal Bank Bldg., and they are as follows:

(1) Permanent Wave—donated by Madame Merriam who is Peterboro's leading hairdresser and this is a prize worth winning.

(2) Ladies' Silk Scarf—donated by Mr. Al. Sharpe, manager of the Paramount Tailors, Capitol Theatre Bldg., and this is a beautiful scarf.

Today's winner was Miss Eva Outram, who won the Ladies' Hat Box donated by the Robert Neill Company. Miss Outram had 80,000 votes.

On Thursday a Parker Dufold Fountain Pen will be given as a prize to the Country Girl turning in the most bonds by 10 a.m. and we would appreciate a report from these girls, as the Bond Selling Committee are anxious to know what results they are meeting with. This prize is being donated by Mr. Percy Bond.

The leading girls are as follows:

(1)	Miss M. McCannon	112,000
(2)	Miss B. Conroy	95,000
(3)	Miss E. Outram	90,000
(4)	Miss A. Johnson	68,000
(5)	Miss L. Sedgwick	65,000
(6)	Miss M. Laing	38,000
(7)	Miss E. Thompson	31,000
(8)	Miss H. Jackson	26,000
(9)	Miss A. Logan	22,000

A full list of all girls selling Bonds will be published on Thursday.

Ruins His Neighbor's Farm By Sowing It With Mustard

BRUSSELS, October 5 (Associated Press).—Sowing mustard seed in a neighbor's field is a crime, the Belgian courts have ruled. A farmer named Stayaert had a quarrel with another whose fields adjoined his. One dark night, after the neighbor had finished his ploughing, Stayaert climbed over the fence and filled every furrow with mustard seed.

"Intentional damage" was the verdict of the Court at Lovendegen, experts having sworn that the fields were useless for farming until the mustard could be eliminated, a process requiring from two to three years, and that the fields could not even be used as pasture for cattle, as the animals would be poisoned.

The offending farmer was sentenced to fifteen days in jail, 500 francs fine, and 1,000 francs damages.

FEUD IS RAGING AMONG MINERS

Is Outcome of Collections Made in States For Strikers.

NEVER RECEIVED.

LONDON, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—According to The Daily Express, there is a feud within the Miners' Federation, growing out of money collected in the United States for the striking miners in the British Isles. The newspaper asserts that general surprise was occasioned by the smallness of the response to the official delegates sent to the United States to collect funds and that the reason for he small contributions has now been disclosed in the report of the delegates.

All the money the United States unions could spare, says The Daily Express, was collected by an unofficial delegation which visited the United States just before the official representatives went there. These unofficial delegates, it is asserted among whom were some Communists, carried letters stating that they were authorized to collect funds, but the money they brought home never reached the Federation's central fund.

Two Hurled 1,500 Feet Over Cliff, Still Alive

LUSCAR, Alberta, October 5 (Associated Press). — Thrown 1,500 feet down a mountain side and over a cliff when caught in a snow slide, M. Kearns, Seattle merchant, and Tex Byers, local guide, still are alive to tell the tale. Kearns suffered a broken arm, cuts and minor injuries. Byers was not injured.

With E. Hahn, of Seattle, and another guide, Kearns was on a wild sheep hunting expedition. Kearns and Byers had become separated from their friends when the snowslide swept them down.

Kearns was transported for miles over rough mountain trails by Byers before he could receive proper medical attention.

RESCUERS BRING SIX BODIES FROM DAMAGED MINE

27 NOT FOUND.

Several Injured Men Have Been Brought Out of Pit.

ROCKWOOD, Tenn., October 5 (Canadian Press).—Six bodies had been brought to the surface last night from the Rodgers entry of the Roane Iron Company mine, in which an explosion occurred yesterday. Twenty-seven miners remained unaccounted for at 8 p.m.

The blast in the Rodgers' entry, about three miles under ground, occurred in almost the identical spot where a gas explosion killed ten men in July, 1925. It was at this point that 25 of the miners were working yesterday, and veterans said that concussion probably snuffed out their lives before after-damp gas had time to do its work.

The recovered bodies were found near the Teague entry, a branch leading off from the Rodgers entry, about three-quarters of a mile from the scene of the explosion. Three of the injured were located in the same entry by rescuers and brought to the surface after having been almost overcome despite hastily erected brattices against the gas.

Company records showed about 33 men were working in the entry, but a definite check had not been made.

That the explosion was severe was indicated by the finding of the unconscious form of a miner lying behind a dead mine mule a mile and a half from the scene.

Eddie Davis, who was picked up far from the scene of the explosion, was brought to the surface, but because of shock and injuries, was unable to give an account of the explosion.

William and Arthur Teague, who had bratticed themselves to shut out the deadly 'after damp,' were found by rescuers in a dazed condition, about 1,000 feet from the scene of the explosion.

Three Expert Rescue Crews.

At least three expert rescue crews of the United States Bureau of Mines, one travelling in a special rescue car, were sent here from adjacent points, bringing equipment to permit exploration in the vicinity of the blast. Workers described the mine as very gaseous, but the extent of the damage had not been ascertained.

The explosion, the cause of which had not been ascertained, wrecked the mine about ten o'clock in the morning. A miner, working about two miles from the Rodgers entry, said he felt the blast and smelled gas. Relatives and friends of miners known to have been working in the pit, quickly gathered at the mouth of the shaft, and waited anxiously for word from rescue workers.

The mine, which is in the heart of Rockwood, was the scene of an explosion in 1925, in which ten miners were killed. Some of these believed entombed assisted in the rescue of 1925

The mines have been in operation almost continuously since the sixties. It produces coal to operate its extensive blast furnaces and coke ovens with capacity of 800 to 1,000 tons a day.

The coal mine was discovered as early as 1840 by William Green. In 1867, General John Twindler, and Captain Chamberlain, of Pennsylvania, Federal officers in the war between the states, acquired the property and began to develop it.

The 1925 disaster here furnished the first serious mine disaster in Tennessee from 1913 up to that time. Mine fire, following the explosion, made it impossible for rescue workers to penetrate the underground workings then.

Premier Taschereau Announces Understanding Reached at Conference.

NO EXPORT.

Clause in Agreement Forbids Sending Power To States

QUEBEC, October 5.—At the close of a lengthy conference with Premier Ferguson of Ontario and Messrs. Magrath and Gaby, respectively chairman and chief engineer of the Ontario Hydro Commission, Premier Taschereau announced last evening that Ontario and Quebec had come to a complete agreement regarding the terms under which the Carillon Falls would be exploited.

The Premier added that for some time past the two Governments had had under study means of reaching an understanding which would protect the rights of both Provinces and at the same time would allow the exploitation without further delay of the power available at Carillon.

Two Provinces Are in Accord.

From the Prime Minister it was also learned that the two Provinces were in perfect accord on the contract which is to be signed with the National Hydro-Electric. There will be no interference with Federal rights on the Ottawa River.

Asked if the arrangements were similar to those reached when the Des Chats Falls were leased some time ago to the International Paper, the Prime Minister said that they might be similar in some respects, except for the fact that in that case Ottawa had no rights.

From what can be learned, however, from a most reliable source the development of Carillon will be started without any delay. It appears that Ottawa will only ask that some limitation be made to the development to prevent interfering with its rights, but that will be the limit of Ottawa's intervention. The stage reached now seems to be the final one before the commencement of the vast project.

National Hydro Rights Involved.

As to the clauses relating to the leasing of the waterfalls, at present the National Hydro, which is headed by Hon. Henry Miles, possesses rights. The whole falls will likely be leased at about $25,000 per year for 75 years or so.

As Des Chats Falls, where an auction took place, the rent per year was only $14,000. In addition, the company looking after the development will have to pay 50 cents per horsepower on half of the power available, which will mean an average of $75,000 per year.

FOUR DROWNED.

CHICAGO, October 5 (Canadian Press).—Goaded to new rampages by phenomenal autumn rainfall, the rivers and streams of four states have continued into October the havoc they wrought throughout last month.

Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma were counting flood losses last night with hundreds of families homeless and many channels threatening to unload new tides of raging waters.

Beardstown, Ills., residents, who spent many days of September bolstering an Illinois River levee in the face of rising water, saw their efforts made vain when a thirty-foot break in the dyke admitted to the city flood waters which swept the main streets and filled the southern section of the city to the level of the river.

Five hundred families were homeless last night, and many of them were accepting aid from the Salvation Army, which sent relief from Galesburg. Downtown stores saw their first floors hidden beneath the ascending tide, which made a torrent of one downtown thoroughfare for ten blocks.

Danville, Ills., experienced the worst flood in thirteen years, when the Vermillion River drove lowland residents to the housetops, whence they were rescued by police in boats.

NEW YORK ENTERS WATER STEAL SUIT

Supreme Court Permits State To Join Michigan in Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Assistant Attorney-General C. S. Ferris, of New York State, yesterday requested the Supreme Court to permit New York to join Michigan in the case against the State of Illinois and sanitary district of Chicago as complainant.

Mr. Ferris pointed out that New York has approximately 558 miles of continuous shore line on Lakes Erie and Ontario, the Niagara River and that part of the St. Lawrence River forming the international boundary line between said State and the Province of Ontario. Mr. Ferris added that New York State "as a down-stream riparian owner is entitled to the full and natural flow of the water therein."

The Ferris request will be granted.

VICTIM MARKED AS 'SQUEALLER,

"Forget-Me-Not" Scar Left on Jaw of Slain Man.

SIGN OF SOCIETY.

ROCHESTER, October 5 (Canadian Press).—A "forget me not" scar cut on the left side of the jaw of Paul Sanlino, whose body was found floating in Lake Ontario, two miles off the port of Rochester last night, prompted police and sheriff's deputies to begin an investigation of the probable murder.

The "forget me not" scar, the police said, is a mark of a society of Italian origin, which means the marked man is a "squealer," and has been punished as such.

PUMP BALL FROM LUNG

PRAGUE, Oct. 5.—A boy, blowing lead balls from a pipe, inhaled too strongly and drew one into his lung. Efforts to extract it were unsuccessful and his life was despaired of. Then a rubber hose was introduced until the end touched the obstruction. An air pump was used and the ball was drawn out almost immediately.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

NEW WAR LORD ENTERS BATTLE

Cantoneese Forces Now Encounter Troops of Kiag-Si Province.

WU PREPARING.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5 (United Press). — More than 1,000 Chinese had been received in hospitals at Kou Kang and the battle between Marshals Sun Chuan-Fang and Chiang Kai Shek for the control of the lower Yangtsee area was continuing to-day, according to despatches from the fighting zone.

Marshal Sun is the ruler of the Province of Kiang-Si, south-east of the Province of Hupeh, where the Cantonese army, led by Marshal Chiang, established itself following its defeat of Marshal Wu Pei-Fu. Kiu Kiang, which is the city nearest the battle, lies just within the Kiang-Si border and about 130 miles below Hankow, where Marshal Chiang defeated Wu.

It was reported that Chiang proposed peace on a basis that would have permitted the Cantonese Nationalists to control the Hankow district while leaving Sun Chuan Fang undisturbed in control of the lower river. Sun was reported to have refused this offer.

The army of General Yang Sen, who recently got into trouble with the British when he seized two British mercantile marine vessels at Wanshien, on the Yangtsee, was reported to be marching to the assistance of Marshal Wu Pei Fu, who was recently defeated by the Cantonese at Hankow, and was concentrating his forces beyond that city to prevent further Cantonese advances.

U.S. FEARS RABBIS USE TOO MUCH WINE

Investigating Size of Congregations For Which Applications Made.

NEW YORK, October 5 (United Press).—An investigation involving 600 rabbis is under way by the Federal Grand Jury as a result of dry enforcement officials' skepticism concerning the large size of Jewish congregations.

Three rabbis and a wine salesman have already been indicted for filing false applications for withdrawal permits. The scope of the move to prevent wine from being diverted to non-religious channels was revealed in an affidavit filed by Chester P. Mills, prohibition administrator. Rabbi Jacob Waters sought a temporary injunction to restrain the Government from interfering with the possession of wine in storage.

Mills countered with an affidavit, charging that many rabbis have been padding their application lists. Those already under indictment, it is stated, claimed as high as 1,900 members, whereas there were really about 300.

Mills declared withdrawals have taken a decided slump since he began the checking up of congregeations.

Tests made recently with the inhabitants of New Zealand indicate that goitre is very common among them. Physicians who made the tests declare the experiments show that the body gets most of its iodine from the soil and not from sea water, as popularly supposed.

PERLEY MAY BE HOUSE LEADER

To Act Until Conservatives Hold Convention Next Spring.

MANY RUMORS.

OTTAWA, October 5 (Canadian Press).—In a news story to-day, the Journal says that Ottawa Conservatives "are pretty much in the dark as to what course will be followed at the meeting of Tory Commoners, Senators and defeated candidates to be held here next Monday to consider the resignation of the leadership of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

"Rumors indicate," says the paper, "that Sir George Perley will be selected as the temporary leader and that a national convention will be held in Ottawa next spring to select a permanent leader."

LOS ANGELES TEAM WON'T PLAY LEAFS

Proposal For Series on the Coast Not Accepted By Champions.

LOS ANGELES, October 5 (Canadian Press).—A proposal by the Toronto Club of the International League for a 'Little World's Series' with the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League will not be accepted, it was indicated to-day with the partial disbanding of the coast champions.

Although the Los Angeles team is scheduled to play fourteen more games, it is assured of the championship, and three star pitchers have been released for the season.

CARTOON FOLLIES OF 1926 — By RUBE GOLDBERG

CAMPBELLFORD FENCE VIEWERS RESIGN WHEN THEIR DECISION IS 'UNCEREMONIOUSLY QUASHED, Indignation Aroused Because Judge Gives Them No Chance to Explain.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

C. S. Gillespie Will Put Up Railings Beside Sidewalks.

(Examiner Correspondence.

Campbellford, October 5. — Because their award had been "unceremoniously quashed" by Judge Huycke here on Saturday, Campbellfords three fence viewers, John Arnold, Joshua Archer and George Oliver, resigned in a body at last night's meeting of the town council.

His Honor, it seems, had remarked when the case came before him as an appeal against the fence-viewers' decision, that he didn't know anything about fences, and that the two lawyers representing the two parties divide by the fence "could get their heads together and settle the thing in five minutes.'

It's a long story, as the recounting of most fence disputes are. The indignation of the fence-viewers appears to have been aroused by the fact that they were not called, that they were not given an opportunity to explain how they reached their decision.

"We spent our time faithfully, and we are not ashamed of our award," Mr. Arnold told the council. They were actuated by a desire to see justice done and to promote harmony and good will.

Alfred McKeel, one of the disputants, had assured them, they informed the council, that he had confidence in their "good jugment," and would abide by their decision. Mrs. Barker, living on the other side of the fence on Inkerman street, had built it of boards six feet high after Mr. McKeel had neglected to build it because of business preoccupations.

First the fence viewers persuaded Mrs. Barker to consent to the removal of the fence, and the erection of a new one on a "fifty-fifty" cost basis. Mr. McKeel was to be allowed laborer's wages for the work, Mr. Arnold said, and Mrs. Barker was to pay half the expenses. As to legal costs, they were to be apportioned on a "twenty-eighty basis," Mr. McKeel paying the major portion because it was held that he was the more responsible through delays and other considerations.

However to provide a fence as soon as possible against hens and other intruders the fence viewers bought the wire material at a cost of $8.50 and in the end their deliberations and solicitude for peace,likewise their initiative and expenditure, were nullified by Judge Huycke's referring the question to the two lawyers, Mr. McColl and Mr. Payne.

This disposal of the case obviously pained the fence viewers and injury was added to indignity or personal slight, when the bill of $8.50 was faced.

It was suggested that as the fence viewers were public servants appointed by the council the fence wire account should be paid out of the town treasury.

Councillor J. N. Stone said that the fence viewers had overstepped their duty in making the purchase. They were required simply to announce their award.

D. J. Lynch, town solicitor, expressed a similar opinion, and said he could not see that the fence viewers were liable.

Councillor O'Sullivan said that at any rate the Council was not liable for the $8.50.

It was suggested that the dealer might take back the fence wire, or that it would eventually be used for the purpose intended.

"Perhaps the lawyers will take it," remarked Mayor Kingston, with a touch of humor that rippled around the Council board.

"Perhaps we erred," said Mr. Arnold, "but we were sincere so as to have a fence satisfactory to both parties."

And there the $8.50 item rested, and the resignation of three elderly gentlemen who sought to promote goodwill in the Inkerman Street neighborhood was accepted on mo-Palliser.

Railway Tenders

The contract for erecting black iron pipe railings on sidewalks on Alma and Sebastopol Streets was awarded to C. S. Gillespie, on Reeve Davidson's motion, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan. The railings will be 38 inches high and also two rails high. James Jacobs submitted the lowest tender at $381; Mr. Gillespie's price was $390; J. O. Hagerman quoted $465, and George Hawthorne $414.75.

"Put up the railings if we have to borrow the money," Mr. Stone advised.

"One accident would cost more than the railings," said Councillor Abernethy.

Mayor Kingston: "We don't want to leave any dangerous places."

Deputy-Reeve Palliser: "I think the law would require a railing on such walks.

Weigh Scales Faulty

Inspection of the town's three weigh scales showed that they were all faulty. They were inspected on September 28. The market square scales weighed 10 pounds heavy. The stock yard scales were 18 pounds light on one corner, 8 pounds light on another corner, 2½ pounds heavy on the third, and the other was correct.

The railway station scales were found to be 10 pounds light on two corners, 20 pounds light on another. They were last repaired in 1920.

Mr. Stone: "I don't know why they couldn't be closed."

Mr. Palliser: "It might be inconvenient for farmers with hay to go away over to the station."

Reeve Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. McDonald, that the finance committee be authorized to have the scales at the station repaired and to close the scales at the market square.

On Every Car the same skilled Craftsmanship

In all its resources, in all its facilities, in all its capabilities of experience and organization, General Motors of Canada, possesses no asset surpassing that of its veteran Canadian craftsmen.

They are skilled as only those can be who have grown up with their trade. They have mastered each his task as only one can who loves it. They are perpetuating that traditional artisanship which is the just pride of Canadian labor.

Built by these master craftsmen, Canadian-built Fisher bodies present an order of workmanship, acknowledged the world over as superior.

Exported in huge volume to every corner of the Empire, General Motors cars are everywhere building Canadian prestige for other qualities as well.

Canadians may well take pride in this, and particularly since their General Motors cars are the result, not only of Canadian craftsmanship, but of Canadian materials.

Canadian-built Cadillac, McLaughlin-Buick, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Chevrolet... each exhibits the superiorities of Canadian materials and Canadian workmanship.

That is why Canadians may select any car produced by this pioneer Canadian institution with full assurance of satisfaction. Built by Canadians especially for Canadian conditions of travel and use, each gives Canadians the utmost value-per-dollar in quality, distinction and dependable performance.

THE NEW HIGHWAY.

The decision of the Ontario Government to take over the Peterboro-Lindsay road as a Provincial highway will be received locally with much satisfaction.

This road, a very important transportation link, serving not only the people of Lindsay and Peterboro and of the countryside in between, but also a large amount of tourist traffic, has been long regarded with disfavour by motorists, and the news that it is to be made a Provincial highway will bring joy to the automobile fraternity.

With a Provincial road assured, the problem of the Chemong road may to a considerable extent be also solved, if the route chosen by the Government corresponds with the present Lindsay route which takes in over half the road to Chemong.

In any event the extension of the Provincial road system through to Lindsay is a matter of much importance to the whole district as it will greatly improve transportation facilities.

THE ONLY SAFE COURSE.

Nothing that a newspaper could say in the way of warning to motorists to be ever on their guard at grade crossings could possibly approach in tragic impressiveness the story of Saturday's catastrophe near Belleville when an oil truck was struck by an express train.

Two lives were lost, a number of people were injured, the gasoline ignited and set fire to the train, and an indescribable scene followed.

The facts will be brought out at an inquest, of course, but it seems reasonable to assume that this terrible accident could have been avoided with ordinary care.

The crossing may be described as a dangerous one—there are many such in the Province—yet the fact remains that the motorist who is careful can avoid danger at grade crossings.

It is the motorist who is careless or who takes a chance that furnishes the material for newspaper stories of fatal accidents.

The only safe course is for every driver to approach every crossing with the thought in his mind that a train may come along at any moment.

BASEBALL MAD.

On Saturday and Sunday crowds of well over 60,000 people saw the New York Americans and the St. Louis Nationals battle in the World Series—and millions more awaited the returns.

The radio brought the game to an army of fans in all parts of the Continent, and probably more people are interested in the present series than in any other baseball series in the game's history.

This interest is the more remarkable because of the fact that the majority of those who drink in every detail of the games and discuss the records and the batting averages of the players have never seen a World's Series, a very large proportion have never witnessed a major league game, and many are not any too sound in their knowledge of baseball rules.

Yet they follow the struggle with an amazing keenness and develop an intensely partizan affection for one team or the other, totally unaffected by the thought that they have never seen their favourites play and probably never will.

This interest in sport is an asset to the people of the Continent nevertheless; it supplies a zest to life, and takes people out of the hum-drum of ordinary existence, even if they have to get their impressions over the radio or from the newspaper bulletin boards and never watch the contests about which they are so deeply concerned.

THE RADIO CLUB.

In connection with local radio reception conditions referred to in a recent article in these columns, Frank Sherwood, who is employed by the Department of Marine and Fisheries as part-time radio inspector for Peterboro, writes as follows:

"Every complaint of interference reported to me is investigated and a report made to Ottawa. Where it is economically possible, the trouble is always cleared. As I am only employed 'part time' you, of course, understand that it is not always possible for me to go immediately on trouble when called, as I have to attend to my duties at the Canadian National first, but the interference is always looked into. It is impossible to employ a full-time man here until the number of licensed sets warrants the expense.

"If a radio club was formed they could do considerable to overcome the oscillating receiver nuisance over which the department has not control. A club could also help considerably in locating any interference by each member reporting the strength of the interference and thereby centralizing it before reporting it to me, which would make it much easier to locate. Anything I can do in helping to get a club going will be gladly done."

The Examiner is glad to publish Mr. Sherwood's explanation as there was no intention to reflect upon him in any of the articles published.

As he points out, the proposed radio association, the organization meeting of which is to be held tomorrow night, can do much to assist the authorities in locating interference and in improving conditions generally.

RUM-RUNNING.

Attorney-General Nickle of Ontario has returned from a trip to Washington undertaken apparently to discuss border troubles connected with boot-legging and rum-running. It was a good thing to go, and a better thing to come back with a good understanding with United States authorities against the rum-runners. To The Journal's mind there can not be too much co-operation between Canada and the United States—or between Canada and any country—to fight the illicit liquor business.

Whatever one's views about how the liquor question should be dealt with—whatever one favors, whether it be prohibition, or Government control, or even the old order of free trade in liquor—there should be enmity to law-breaking. The English-speaking peoples of the world have agreed on the principle that majorities shall rule. Within the limit of that principle we are free peoples, and if we do not like any particular law we are free to work to change the law. But if we respect ourselves, we are not free to break law because we do not like it, and we should all wish to prevent anybody breaking it.

Also in the liquor matter all of us who are decent citizens should be anxious not only to maintain law in our own country, but to prevent our territory or our equipment to be used to break law in any other country. The Journal's conviction is that neither the Ontario Government nor the Dominion Government can go too far in this regard.—Ottawa Journal.

EMPHASIZING CANADA.

With a strong majority at his back, Mr. King is tackling various questions promptly, in marked contrast with the natural hesitancy that characterized his moves during the period from the 1925 election to the day when he resigned office following the Governor-General's refusal to grant dissolution of Parliament. The Premier's position was never safe for a moment then. Today it is well assured.

If there is one thing that distinguishes Mr. King from many of his contemporaries it is his constant emphasis upon Canada the Nation and Canada's future as a nation. Even many persons who do not agree with Mr. King in many things—some, even, who are not fond of him on personal grounds—concede that he is at least an outstanding spokesman for Canada and Canada's interests. The constitutional question raised in the recent nation-wide contest formed a case in point. In the minds of many persons it was not an issue at all, but, as they called it, simply a "smoke screen" designed to throw the public off the customs scandal scent. Perhaps the issue was unduly emphasized for this purpose. Nevertheless, the fact remains that Mr. King argued long—and successfully—that a Governor-General had no right to exercise power denied the King of England; that Canada was entitled to exactly the same amount of self-government as the Government of the Old Country possesses. The plea, in short, was for full self-governing powers for Canada, for a national status absolutely on a par with the status of Great Britain herself. And that ground, it is safe to say, is the ground taken by most Canadians. It is sound ground, reasonable ground, even if Mr. King did use it for political purposes—as all other campaign arguments, by both sides, were used!

There are some persons, however, who are unable to grasp the changes that have taken place in the last ten or fifteen years. These changes are not necessarily matters of official record, but they are here nevertheless. Indeed the Imperial Conference to be held in London a few weeks hence will, it is said, devote no little of its time to just such matters. In Great Britain, of course, it is generally recognized that Empire links have assumed new form. Men in high places have stressed this point in public statements. It is the British Commonwealth of Nations, rather than the British Empire, that is now often referred to. And this name, of course, is recognition of the new status of Canada, Australia and other countries once called colonies. One does not presume to speak for the others, of course, but he must be a very blind Canadian indeed who still thinks of Canada as a colony or as a possession of Great Britain. Canada is a partner with Great Britain in the great British family of nations. This is our status now.

With this status—some points of which remain to be ironed out and presumably will be at the Imperial Conference—there is one matter that the King Government should attend to at once. It has been mentioned on many occasions; nothing has been done. It is the matter of Canadian nationality. It is really necessary for us to create it by act of Parliament. It does not exist now. John Jones may have been born in this country, and his father and his grandfather born here, but because John's great-grandfather came from, say, England, John goes into the official record as of English ancestry. And in two or three generations, of course, he may represent a mixture of several races. If a native of Canada goes abroad his passport shows him as an Englishman, an Irishman, a Frenchman or the representative of some other race. He is a Canadian, of course, but his own country doesn't acknowledge the fact. Could anything be more absurd than this?

If Canada needs anything it is the development of a strong national spirit. Our children, from coast to coast, irrespective of racial sources, must be taught to glory in the fact. Just the other day the writer of these lines talked to an eager-eyed, olive-skinned lad, obviously the son of South European parents. "And what country do you belong to?" the boy was asked. His reply was prompt. "I'm a Canadian!" he said, and the words were uttered with pride. That is the spirit. Let's have more of it. And at the same time it would be well for Canadians of Anglo-Saxon strain to be more considerate in their use of the word "foreigner." Except for the Indians, we are all foreigners more or less. Canada has grown to her present position because so-called foreigners were willing to come in. Many millions more of them will be required here before we reach the national success for which every true Canadian should strive. And in Canada, let us make sure, every man who is willing to work, should be given fair opportunity and equality of treatment.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

If Peterboro could maintain during the next year September's almost fireless record, there would be no need of Fire Prevention Weeks in this city.

The Children's Aid Society's needs this year are greater than ever. If the people of the city would double their usual contribution on Saturday the problem would be solved.

Level crossing accidents continue to occupy a prominent place in the head-lines. There is grim truth in the remark that while some people buy automobile parts others live near grade crossings.

Toronto is talking about appointing a city manager. It was always thought that the editor of The Toronto Telegram has been acting in that capacity.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.84 3-8.
Sterling cables $4.85.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for all lines of grain on the Montreal market yesterday was again of a very limited character and as the few firm bids received were away below working basis, no new business was done. The trade in cash grain was also slow, the demand being only for odd cars to meet immediate wants. The offerings were not large and the undertone was steady.

In sympathy with the further weakness in the Canadian cash wheat situation, an easier tone developed in the local spring wheat flour market and prices were reduced 20 cents per barrel. The export business was quiet but the local and country trade was fair.

The tone of the market for winter wheat grades of flour was firm and a moderate amount of business was done.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand. A good trade was done in rolled oats and values were firm at the recent advances noted.

The trade in potatoes was quiet and as supplies were fairly liberal the undertone to the market was easy, but prices showed no actual change. Car lots of New Brunswick Cobblers were sold at $1.30 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.00 per bag of 90 pounds, ex-track.

Owing to the decreased offerings of beans and the improved demand of late a stronger feeling developed in the market, and prices were advanced 15 cents per bushel. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $2.40 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $2.50 to $2.60 per bushel.

The demand for butter was confined to small lots but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 304 packages.

The export and local trade in cheese continued quiet but the undertone to the market was steady. The receipts were 6,255 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices underwent a sharp break yesterday toward the last, houses with eastern connections selling out on account of a forecast of better weather northwest. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1 3-8 to 1 5-8c net lower, with corn 3-4 to 1 1-8c down; oats varying from 1-4c declinen to 1-2c advance, and provisions varying from 52c off to 5c gain.

At first, the wheat market showed an upward trend owing to reports of wet weather both sides of the Canadian line. Rains, however, appeared to be confined to the Winnipeg district and with an outlook for more settled conditions ahead, early buyers unloaded. Liquidating sales from other holders increased, and on the ensuing drop in prices a good many standing orders to stop losses at various fixed levels were forced into action.

Despite further rains in the corn belt, the corn market gave way with wheat. Unofficial estimates were current that the corn crop would total around 50,000,000 bushels more than the Government September returns, with about 15 per cent. unmerchantable but in a condition to be fed on farms. Oats values were affected by reports indicating much oats unthreshed in Illinois and Iowa.

Provisions felt the influence of weakness in the cotton oil trade.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 36,000; best light and medium weight fat steers generally steady; top yearlings $12.50; bulls steady; bulk medium $5.50 to $5.85; vealers steady at $15.50 upward.

Hogs, 21,000; mostly 10 to 15c higher; packing sows largely 15 to 25c up; finished medium weight butches scarce; top $14; numerous loads 200 to 240 pound average at that price; bulk 160 to 200 pound weight $13.25 to $13.90; 210 to 250 pound weight, $13.50 to $14; 260 to 325 pound weight, $13.35 to $13.85; most packing sows $11.75 to $12.50; strong weight slaughter pigs $12.25 to $12.75; few $13 to $13.15.

Sheep 24,000; fat lambs bid 25c higher, considering sorts; some sales look 50c higher; bulk westerns $13.35 to $13.65; top rangers $13.75.

NORWOOD MAN TAKES PRIZES

Captures Farmers' Advocate Award for Improvements to Cheese Factory.

WOODLAND FACTORY

NORWOOD, Oct. 5. — In 1925 The Farmers' Advocate held a competition for the improvement of cheese factories in Eastern Ontario. At the end of the period marked improvement was shown when the work of the ninety-eight contestants was judged. So marked was the improvement and the results were so gratifying to the publishers of The Advocate that it was decided to enlarge the scope of the competition for 1926, and to take in all the organized counties in both eastern and western Ontario. In addition to doubling the prize money for the factories making the most improvements between the close of the season of 1925 and September 1st, 1926 an additional special prize of $100.00 was offered to the cheesemaker who would make such improvements and maintain his factory in such a condition as to entitle him to the claim of having "The best cheese factory in Ontario."

In 1925 ninety-eight factories were entered in the contest and Mr. George Wheatley, cheesemaker at Woodland Factory in Northumberland County won fifth place. This year, with 120 factories in the competition, Mr. Wheatly carried off the first prize of $100.00 with a score of 87¾ points.

In addition to the above prize he won the Ontario Horticultural Association special prize of $25.00. Mr. Wheatley, who is a resident of Norwood, exhibited cheese at ten of the Fall fairs this year and won nine first prizes and one second prize. This is a record that will be very difficult to beat. Congratulations are extended by Norwood friends.

The pageant, "United for Service" presented in the United Church last Sunday by members of the Sunday School, was presented by them in the Baptist Church on Sunday morning.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving Service was held in Christ Church (Anglican) on Sunday morning when as usual the church was profusely decorated with flowers, fruit and vegetables.

The W.M.S. of the United Church will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Weir.

BISHOP LEAVES OLD AGE MOTTO

Never Smoke, Drink or Tell Dirty Stories, He Says.

IOWA CITY, October 5. Canadian Press. — "Never smoke, drink or tell dirty stories," was the formula for an active old age which the Right Hon. and Right Rev. Foley Winnington-Ingram, D. D., Bishop of London, left with a group of University of Iowa students yesterday before leaving for Chicago.

The Bishop said his belief in Christianity had kept him 'round. The self-centred interests of the average student, the tendency to forsake standards of personal purity and the operation of great universities on a quantity rather than quality basis were some of the evils that the Bishop pointed out.

KILLED ON CROSSING.

Man Reading Newspaper Fails To Notice Train Approaching.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 5. (Canadian Press).—Oscar Enroth, 26 years of age of Minneapolis, Minn., was almost instantly killed yesterday when struck by a Michigan Central train while walking across the railway tracks. Eye-witnesses stated that Enroth was reading newspapers and apparently did not see the approach of the train. The wheels passed over his left leg, his head was badly mangled, and his body was dragged a considerable distance. He was still breathing when picked up but died a few minutes afterwards.

THE PARTS OF SPEECH IN RYHME

By C. N. LURIE

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

In former years it was believed by many educators that if you put a thing into rhyme the youthful mind could grasp it more easily. One such rhyhme aiming at instruction in the parts of speech ran as follows:

Three little words we often see
Are Articles, A, An and The.

A Noun's the name of anything,
As, School or Garden, Hoop or Swing.

Adjectives tell the kind of noun,
As Great Small, Pretty, White or Brown.

Instead of nouns the Pronouns stand—
Her head, His face, My arm, Your hand.

Verbs tell of something being done,
To Read, Write, Count, Sing, Jump or Run.

How things are done the Adverbs tell,
As, Slowly, Quickly, Ill or Well.

A preposition stands before
A noun, as In or Through the door.

Conjunctions join the nouns together
As men And children, wing Or weather.

The Interjection shows surprise
As, Oh, how pretty; Ah, how wise!

These, then are the nine parts of speech
Which reading, writing, speaking teach.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The $2 bill isn't as unlucky as some. It's bad to get a $40 bill because there are none.

The road to success leads in the opposite direction from the road to excess.

Health may be wealth, but never swap.

Mexico has one thing for which to be thankful. It is a little too warm there for dancing the Charleston.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Laziness travels so slowly that poverty soon overtakes him. — Benjamin Franklin.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

PICK YOUR HILL

Go pick your hill. The easy climb
A man can clamber any time.
And it's a rather pretty place,
With sassafras, and Queen Anne's lace.
It's there, just at the edge of town,
And one's soon up, and one's soon down.
A climb a man won't mind at all,
And one without a chance to fall.

So pick your hill. Around they rise.
Some close to earth, some close to skies,
And one where earth and heaven meet
And all the world lies at one's feet.
But that's a long and stony trail,
With many a hurt and many a gale,
And streams to wade, and rocks to climb,
And vales to cross, and that takes time.

So pick your hill, and not complain
If some choose wind and snow and rain
And some at last to some high place,
For so it is in life's hard race,
A man, with all our calling names,
Will climb about the height he aims,
Some men choose toil, for some men will,
And some choose ease. Now pick your hill.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

WHAT USE IS A BABY?

By Dr. Frank Crane.

One hundred thousand women, each wearing a blue armlet emblazoned with a silver dove and carrying banners inscribed, "Where Reason Rules There Is No War," marched down the streets of London not long ago in a gigantic peace demonstration.

They made speeches, passed resolutions, and then went home.

Had Mars been standing on the sidelines, he would have burst into loud guffaws.

What can women, speeches and resolutions do in the face of prevailing distrust and national animosity?

However, if Mars is a philosopher—which there is some reason to doubt—a certain occurrence in July, 1909, on a sandy stretch near the coast at Calais, might give him pause.

He was Louis Bleriot, the aviator who, a few days later flew his monoplane across the English Channel.

He had just made a successful trial flight and landed when a pompous individual approached and delivered himself thus:

"This machine may fly all right, but what use is it?"

"What use is a baby?" was the airman's reply.

Mars, himself, saw what this baby of 1909 had grown into by the summer of 1914.

Every great moral movement, from the Reformation to the abolition of slavery, began with a few people who fought aginst what they considered an evil until others joined them and the movement gained momentum and power.

Each began as a baby and grew to the power of full stature.

At one time about each a contemptuous, "What good does it do?" was asked.

The powerful movement of today was the feeble movement of yesterday which was grounded on the right.

In all likelihood little immediate effect will be seen from the London demonstration. But let not Mars be too sure that the gesture is wholly impotent.

"Marching women, even if their demonstration seems futile, indicate the presence in the world of a baby which is growing year by year.

AGED MAN DIES IN GALT STATION

INQUEST ORDERED.

GALT, Ont., Oct. 5. (Canadian Press).—James White, 73, of Winnipeg, dropped dead in the Canadian Pacific Railway Station here this morning. The aged man was on a visit to his wife's grave here. An inquest will be held.

Mr. White had left the home of his brother-in-law to catch the train for his return to Winnipeg. He arrived at the station too late and sat down on a bench. In a few minutes he collapsed and died. Mr. White was born in Napanee, Ontario, and carried on a carriage business there and also in Leamington, Perth and Galt. For the past 27 years, however he had resided in Winnipeg.

BUSINESS AS USUAL IN SPITE OF FINDING

Proprietary Articles Trade Association Invites Investigation.

MONTREAL, Oct. 5. (Canadian Press) — The proprietary articles trade association was doing business as usual today following the finding made public by the Hon. Peter Heenan, federal minister of Labor, that the price fixing agreements of the Association are in violation of the Combines Investigation Act. It was declared by the secretary of the Association, G. L. Pearson, that the organization welcomes investigation of its method and that it invited those compiling the report to come to the Montreal office and gather data. Attention was drawn to the fact that the matter will be referred by the Federal government to the attorney generals of the various provinces for action, as reported in newspaper dispatches, but it was stated that it was not known which province would take steps first.

"Hold the THOUGHT"

As a business man, fix in your mind one thought, and "hold it"—present-day business makes alertness, speed, a necessity—and Long Distance is the answer.

Hundreds of merchants who last year used it only occasionally are now depending upon Long Distance to increase sales. A few salesmen using Long Distance intelligently can outsell a much larger force who do not—and at much less expense.

Many customers now say that they prefer to have a salesman call by Long Distance than to call on them in person.

¶ Any concern anywhere will listen to your offer by Long Distance.

PUNISHMENT OF LEON TROTSKY DEMANDED AT RUSSIAN CAPITAL FOR HIS ATTACK AGAINST REGIME

SMOLDERING UNREST.

Demanded of Party Chiefs More Democracy Within Party Ranks

MOSCOW, Oct. 5 (United Press)—Demands that Leon Trotsky, one of the sponsors of the Communist government in Russia, be punished for "direct crime against the party," as a result of his startling attack upon the regime after months of sphinx-like silence, were made in Moscow yesterday.

Trotzky, outstanding figure in the current history of Russia, who created and, until a couple of years ago, administered the Soviet army, emerged Sunday from a long retirement which had caused rumors that he had been exiled. Trotsky assailed the policy of the Communist Central committee on the same platform with his former enemy. Gregory Zinovieff.

Their attack brought out in the open the hostility of leaders of the opposition to the government. The unrest had been smoldering since July.

The speeches are expected to bring about a crisis.

More Democracy

Zinoveiff criticized the economic policies of the dominant group, declaring more money ought to be taken from rich peasants for the reconstruction of industry.

Both praised each other, emphasizing their reconciliation.

The speeches, made at a meeting of Communists in a local factory, astounded leaders, and were generally regarded as the biggest political development in recent months.

A spokesman of the central committee declared the speeches, and similar speeches by M. Sapronov, C. B. Radekin and G. L. Pyatakov, constituted a "gross breach of party discipline," since the committee last January forbade public speeches against it.

The impending crisis likely will be fought out October 25, at a conference of party leaders.

36 MINERS ARE ENTRAPPED BY MINE EXPLOSION

NEAR ROCKWOOD.

Rescuers Start Efforts To Reach Blast Three Miles From Entry.

ROCKWOOD, Tenn., Oct. 5 (Canadian Press)—An explosion in the Roane Iron Company's mine here yesterday trapped approximately 33 men underground and more than eight hours later the fate of all but five remained undetermined. Rescue parties were organized as soon as possible after the explosion and started efforts to reach the scene of the blast, some three miles back from the entry.

With one man known to have been killed, four oither injured, perhaps fatally, grave fears were expressed for the safety of the remaining 29 miners thought to have been working in the shaft at the time. Earlier reports that 65 men were in the entry were said to have been exaggerated.

Company records showed about 33 men were working in the entry, but a definite check had not been made early last night.

That the explosion was severe was indicated by the finding of the unconscious form of a miner lying beside a dead mine mule a mile and a half from the scene.

Eddie Davis, who was picked up far from the scene of the explosion, was brought to the surface this afternoon but because of shock and injuries, was unable to give an account of the explosion.

William and Arthur Teague, who had bratticed themselves to shut out the deadly "after damp", were found by rescuers in a dazed condition, about 1,000 feet from the scene of the explosion.

At least three expert rescue crews of the United States bureau of mines, one travelling in a special rescue car, were sent here from adjacent points, bringing equipment to permit exploration in the vicinity of the blast. Workers described the mine as very gaseous, but the extent of the damage had not been ascertained.

The explosion, the cause of which had not been determined last night, rocked the mine about ten o'clock yesterday morning. A miner, working about two miles from the Rogers entry, said he felt the blast and smelled gas. Relatives and friends of miners known to have been working in the pit quickly gathered at the mouth of the shaft and waited anxiously for word from rescue workers.

The mine, which is in the heart of Rockwood, was the scene of an explosion in 1925 in which 10 miners were killed. Some of those believed entombed yesterday assisted in the rescue in 1925.

The mine has been in operation almost continuously since the sixties. It produces coal to operate its extensive blast furnaces and coke ovens, with capacitw of 800 to 1000 tons a day.

The coal mine was dsicovered as early as 1840 by William Green. In 1867 General John T. Wilder and Captain Chamberlain of Pennsylvania, federal officers in the war between the states, acquired the property and began to develop it.

The 1925 disaster here furnished the first serious mine disaster in Tennessee from 1913 up to that time. Mine fire, following the explosion made it impossible for rescue workers to penetrate the underground workings then.

SEEKS ANCIENT TOMBS.

JOHANNESBURG, October 5.—A search for the secret tomb of savage African chiefs is to be made shortly by Dr. C. M. Doke, of the university here. When the doctor was a missionary in Northern Rhodesia, he learned of the secret graves, which no white man and only a few privileged natives have ever seen. Practically nothing is known of the Lamba tribe, and he hopes to record their speech, songs and folk lore.

MUSIC PUPILS HONOR BISHOP

ANNUAL EVENT.

(Contributed)

On Friday evening St. Alphonsus' Lyceum presented a scene of rare loveliness, when the music pupils of St. Mary's Convent assembled for their annual entertainment in honor of their beloved Bishop, Right Reverend M. J. O'Brien, D.D.

The stage was artistically decorated in brown and gold—St. Joseph's colors — and the programme rendered by the pupils was of a character that commands admiration, and congratulation to the Sisters of St. Joseph.

The High School Orchestra deserves special commendation. However the clever rendition of all the musical numbers reveals careful training on the part of the Sisters and unusual responsiveness on the part of the pupils.

The following is the programme: Greeting Song (Pinsute) the Music Class; Piano duet, "Qui Vive" (Danz), Misses Mary Reynolds and Lucille Nolan; Violin solo, "Rendez Vous" (Aletter), Joseph Nolan; Piano Trio, "Les Trois Amis" (Bartholomew) Miss Marcelle Tobin, Anne Donoghue and Catherine Flaherty; Piano Solo, "Sparklets," (Miles), Miss Margaret Carroll; "Whispering Waves" (Bowman), first mandolin, George Reynolds and Eugene Snider, second mandolin, Misses Hilda Sullivan and Eleanor Grisdale, guitar, Miss Veronica Scollard; drill, "The Daisies," (Herbert), Junior Music Pupils; Piano solo, "Whispers from Erin," Miss Olive O'Connell; Piano quartette, "Marche" (Lavignac) Misses Veronica Scollard, Hilda Sullivan, Isabel Flint and Helen Archambault; Recitation, "The Story Teller," Miss Mary DeForge; One, Two Three, Four (Kamiki), guitar, Miss Veronica Scollard, ukulele, Miss Mary Reynolds; piano duet, "Pasquinade" (Gottschalk), Misses Margaret and Catherine Carroll; "Opera Airs," High School Orchestra; "Ave Maris Stella" the Music Class.

Accompanists: Lucile Nolan, Olive O'Connell, Mary Reynolds.

CAVAN PERSONALS

CAVAN, Oct. 5.—Mr. Archie Wilson and Miss Edna Wilson, of Lifford, visited their sister, Mrs. R. Matchett, on Friday and attended Millbrook Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Swain, Valentia, visited Cavan friends on Friday and attended Millbrook Fair.

Mr. O. Staples was a visitor in Cavan and Millbrook on Friday.

On Sunday, Oct. 10, the Rev. R. T. Richards, Mark street, Peterboro, will preach morning and evening in Cavan United Church. The regular thank-offering services are being held on that day. The choir are preparing special music.

The pupils who attend Lindsay Collegiate, going in daily by train, received word from the Principal, Dr. Kirkonnel, on Friday morning, that there was no school. Premier Ferguson was paying a visit to the town and had given the schools a holiday.

a share in the power harnessed at the Carillon Falls, no export tax will be charged when the power is taken to the sister Province.

A clause forbidding exportation of power to the United States, in accordance with the Taschereau policy, will be inserted in the contract, which is expected to be ratified by Order-in-Council this morning. This clause will go as far as to prevent the export of the power coming from this Province when it has reached Ontario so that it will reserve for the benefit of the two Provinces the complete supply available.

Ontario's Share About 100,000 H.P.

As to how the development and exploitation will be carried out by the private interests concerned the information on hand would show that the Shawinigan group are looking after the necessary arrangements and will also dispose of the power when it is harnessed. These interests will have as their first client the Ontario Hydro for over 100,000 horsepower. This will mean an immediate advantageous contract. The company will be able to handle the demand from the district of Montreal.

In some quarters here it is said that one of the effects of the development of Carillon will be that Ontario will give up for many years any intention of co-operating in the development of the St. Lawrence for any power available.

C. Alfred Maguire, Hydro Commissioner, declined to comment on the "agreement" between Ontario and Quebec with respect to the Carillon development other than to presume that Ontario's interests therein would be amply protected. "I would prefer to say nothing officially," said Mr. Maguire, "until the matter comes back to the Commission for consideration."

When asked for his personal view of the suggestion that one effect of the project would mean abandonment by Ontario of its co-operation in the St. Lawrence development, Mr. Maguire declared: "As far as I am concerned we'll proceed with the St. Lawrence development with all possible speed."

FOWL SUPPER GREAT SUCCESS

Warsaw Ladies Clear Substantial Sum From Effort.

WARSAW NEWS

WARSAW, Oct. 5.—The regular meeting of the United Church Ladies' Aid was held on Thursday afternoon. The president was in the chair. Mrs. MacIlvena read the scripture lesson, Mesdames Sneider and Digweed led in prayer. Mrs. Charles Foster sang, "Somebody." The financial statement of the fowl supper showed that the receipts were over one hundred and ninety dollars, and after all expenses were paid there is one hundred and fifty-one dolairs to the good.

There was some discussion as to which of the many needs the money should be applied. It was decided to have a committee find out just what each item would cost, and then they could act. The walls need cleaning, new carpet is needed in the choir gallery, and for the pulpit platform, new upholstering, new felt on the doors. The sheds need to be re-shingled and to be battened and the mud disposed of.

Mrs. Herrington personally thanked the members of the Aid and all others who had in any way assisted in bringing the fowl supper to the success it was, for she felt she had carried a great burden.

Mrs. Jacob Henry Payne was unable to be present to show articles suitable for bazaars and give a talk on them.

Miss Ethel Scroter is visiting Mrs. Sargent.

Miss Evelyn McMurray won first prize in the bread judging contest for young ladies at the Peterborough Exhibition Sept. 15th.

Mr. Alex Watts got some prizes for his flowers at Peterborough Fair. He had some extra beautiful ones, especially his asters and gladioli up behind the barn, where the soil is more suitable for floraculture than near the house. Mr. Watts grows flowers because he loves them, and it is his joy and pleasure to share their beauties with his friends or to give them to the church, or for the sick, or anywhere flowers will send a message of cheer.

WELCOME NEWS

WELCOME, Oct. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. James Walker were visitors in Millbrook this week.

Mr. William Lewis and son, George, attended Millbrook Fair on Friday. Mr. Lewis was among the exhibitors in road horses.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid. Armstrong have been taking a week's holiday.

Miss Gertrude Lewis, who is attending Peterboro Normal, visited at her home for the week-end.

A great many from the vicinity attended the Port Hope Fair on Wednesday.

Silo-filling and corn-cutting is the general work among the farmers.

Mrs. W. Beebee, of Morish, who is in Port Hope Hospital, the result of an accident on the highway last Friday, is recovering nicely.

THINK NATIONALLY ADVICE OF WOODS

President of Canadian Press Addresses Toronto Canadian Club.

TORONTO, Oct. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Canada needs to think nationally, to increase sympathy and unselfish thought as between east and west, and to see that there grows up an increased sympathy and knowledge between the two great races of whom the country is composed, said J. H. Woods, President of the Canadian Press, and managing director of the Calgary, (Alta.) Herald, in addressing the Canadian Club here. Mr. Woods spoke on the subject of "Canada" which, he said, had stood for more than 300 years as the "land of the open trail."

"If we go forth in mutual sympathy, in national unity and co-operation, joining with one another in loyalty and in service to our country and to our Empire we will cope successfully with all these problems and we will, with increasing unity of purpose and with the cultivation of the highest standard in our public and private life, satisy the duty which we owe to our country and be worthy successors to our forefathers," said Mr. Woods.

The great value of Radox for removing corns bodily is not only that Radox enables the corn to be lifted out root and all, but also that the treatment is absolutely painless; no cutting, no caustics, no bulging plasters, no risk whatever of blood poisoning—just a footbath in hot antiseptic oxygenated water and the corn may be lifted out. Read this letter:

"I had five corns (not callouses) on each foot, and after using Radox Bath Salts as directed for three nights in succession, I was able to walk in perfect comfort. I managed to get the last of my corns right out after the third bath in Radox. Have still got some of the first packet. Can honestly say I had spent dollars on different 'patents,' but nothing but Radox had the desired effect."

When you put your feet into a foot-bath containing Radox, the salts soften the hard outer layers of the corn and the dead skin (of the corn) combines with the Radox Bath Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This dissolves in the water and so loosens the corn that it can be lifted out bodily.

HATFIELD TAKES SEAT IN SENATE

PEOPLE AGREE.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5.—Paul Hatfield, M.P., Shelburne-Yarmouth, will be appointed to the Senate in a few days. This will open the constituency for Colonel Ralston, the new Minister of Defence. When Mr. Hatfield was first offered the Senatorship to make way for the election to the House of Commons of Colonel Ralston, his constituents refused to endorse his acceptance. They have now agreed to do so, and Mr. Hatfield goes to the Senate and Colonel Ralston to the House of Commons.

COMMON SENSE STAR'S ADVICE

First be Comfortable is Blanche Sweet's Style Dictum.

NOTED FOR DRESS

By BLANCHE SWEET
For NEA Service.

Kipling has said, "Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's lady are sisters under the skin." More is to be said of them today. The only difference is the knack of wearing clothes.

There are some fundamental rules of dress which apply to most every woman, otherwise I think each individual should be carefully studied. The fashion of today is a result of the increased activity of women, caused by modern civilization. Any busy person will eliminate unimportant and uninteresting detail in order not to use up energy valuable to greater things.

Blanche Sweet in a charming new gown of blue crepe de chine. The only ornament is a belt of rhinestones. Silver slippers add another note of brightness to the costume.

I have learned that I first must feel comfortable. Clothes must be loose enough so my body may move freely and gracefully inside of them. I tried a corset once. It hurt! I have never worn one since.

Extremes Usually Ugly.

Extremely tight skirts interfere with walking and make a normally healthy exercise difficult, and also awkward, so they too are taboo.

A bodice drawn tightly in the wrong place will spoil the lines of a perfect figure, while tight sleeves and shoulders are extremely ugly and prevent easy movement.

Effect is next to be considered, and many things go to make up that.

Clothes must be subservient to one's features, coloring and personality, allowing the individual to make the first impression.

Color should always permit the color of one's hair, eyes and complexion to show best. I have found blue is very flattering when it emphasizes blue eyes. Black is an extreme contrast to my blondness and therefore is effective.

Rose, running into the deeper shades is dangerous to blondes and brunettes alike. Pale greens, jade and cool dark greens are lovely blonde shades.

Purple is inclined to be depressing, but some dark purple, fuchsia and Burgundy shades, are very good. The pink mauves, like orchid, are always lovely, but beware of the blue shades. They are steely and trying.

Color and Line.

Though yellow is always advised for blondes, I believe it is only becoming to that rare creature, a pale golden blonde.

Brown is odd. That is one color we must select carefully and the becoming tone depends entirely upon the individual. Red, scarlet and some dark reds are divine, but stay away from brilliant rose reds and blue tones.

Line composition is just as important in designing and executing a costume as it is in painting. For insetance, a belt line that is a fraction of an inch out of place, a skirt length that is not exactly right, a neckline that is shaped incorrectly, a sleeve length that is unbecoming—any one of them is enough to completely ruin a dress.

I regulate the length of my short skirts by finding the most shapely part of the calf of my leg.

With sleeves I choose the roundest part of my arm and end my sleeve there. The neck line too must be pondered over seriously. Watch the lines of the abdomen so that it is not exaggerated.

I like almost every type of costume, therefore I use a great variety of materials. Chiffon is particularly lovely for dancing. French chiffon cloth and French voile is my favorite for lingerie.

I have an especial penchant for kasha flannel, homespuns and tweeds. I like taffeta best for saucy, perky frocks.

There are some gowns that require satin. There is nothing more desirable for sports wear than jersey. I use trimmings sparingly, for they are apt to make a gown too fussy.

To be well dressed does not mean you have to dress according to the vogue of the day. Some women express their personality better by wearing quaint clothes, with the air of the past generations clinging to them; others are exactly fitted to the Oriental and bizaare effect, while I prefer the conservative clothes of today. That, however, does not mean I wear things only because they are in style.

Here is Miss Sweet in a modish afternoon costume of rose and tan crepe. The dress and cape are plainly made. A tan felt hat and tan and brown blocked kid shoes complete the outfit.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emusified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the sytsem after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to direction. Ask your druggist. Cremolusion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ENGINEER EXPLAINS TARRING PRACTICE

Contractor Held Up By Bad Weather, Tarred Whole Strip at Once.

Peterborough Automobile Association, through its secretary, Frank G. Stinson, has done a good service to the motoring public, by drawing the attention of the authorities to the practice of tarring both sides of the road at once, between Fraserville and Bailieboro. Complaint was made to the Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Public Works and Highways, who, acknowledging that the practice was extremely inconvenient to drivers, referred the matter to the resident engineer, G. G. Gregg. Mr. Gregg explained that the contractor, having been delayed in the work by bad weather, had a consignment of tar under two weeks' demurrage, and was allowed to spread the tar over both sides of the road in one operation in order to expedite the work.

He added that it was the usual practice to tar one side of the road and then the other, after the first had dried, thus leaving an uninterrupted passage for cars.

FIRE PREVENTION SUGGESTIONS

Safety Rules for Stoves and Furnaces

1. Place stoves, furnaces and pipes far enough from walls and woodwork to avoid overheating.
2. Cover the nearest wooden surfaces with sheet asbestos, sheet iron or tin; if iron or tin is used, leave an air space behind it.
3. Where stovepipes or heating pipes pass through walls, enclose the pipes in galvanized iron, double-walled, ventilated thimbles at least twelve inches wider than the diameter of the pipes.
4. Protect the floor beneath the stove with sheet metal, and have it extend forward at least twelve inches directly beneath the door of the ashpit.
5. Surround the base of the furnace with brick, stone or concrete.
6. Make sure that all pipes are free from rust, and that all joints and connections are sound and tight.
7. Fix a guard about the pipe in the attic so that nothing may be stored against it.
8. Never pour coal oil into a coal or wood stove even when the fire is out.
9. Never put ashes into wooden boxes or barrels, have a strong metal can.
10. Study the drafts and dampers.
11. Do not let the stove or pipes become red hot.
12. Keep stoves, furnaces, flues and chimneys clean.
13. Inspect the chimneys and flues to be sure that they are sound.
14. Do not dry wood in an oven.
15. Do not hang wet clothing too near to a stove.
16. Keep curtains away from stoves and pipes.

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 .—(United Press).—Women can dress on very little money today. But they can't be well dresed on a small amount unless they have unusually good taste. Since most American cities have shops which specialize on $15 dresses and $5 hats we find that the poorer woman has become better dressed, whereas the woman with means lacks the chic she once had.

The popularity of the $15 is the solution of the situation. Unless one buys a high-price frock one might just as well buy a $15 model since the in-between priced garments have no more style and little better material than the $15 ones. There is little difference between a $25 dress and a $15 dress but there is a great difference between a $5 model and a cheap one.

Women today want many changes, at least two frocks for each different occasion. I would suggest that the woman who can afford better clothing confine her $15 attempts at dressing to clothes of sports variety since these simple little tailored frocks worn with correct hats, shoes, gloves and handbag can pass muster whenever the occasion demands sports togs. It is out of the question to believe that we can look well dressed in afternoon or evening frocks of the $15 variety. The $15 sports frocks must have exceedingly well-balanced accessories if they are to look smart, accessories often costing far more than the frock.

Too many women attempt to match hat and frock these days. In certain dull shades this idea is alright but in conspicuous seasonal colors the exact matching of hat and frock looks cheap rather than chic. Take the wine-red shades for instance. One wouldn't care to pay a large sum for a dress of this already over-popular shade. A $15 dress of wine-red matched by a $5 hat of that shade becomes overpoweringly cheap. The same dress worn with a smart high-crowned, narrow-brimmed tan felt hat, tan envelope bag, tan hosiery and shoes and brown fox scarf offers a color contrast which is far more attractive. Valencia-blue is another color which should never be used overpoweringly. A little of this blue goes a long way.

SOCIAL SERVICE POLICY PLANNED

United Church Board Will Oppose Increased Facilities.

PUBLIC MORALS.

TORONTO, October 5 (Canadian Press).—The Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada closed a three days' meeting last night after indicating the lines of general policy.

The programme of the organization will deal with public morals, while moving pictures and commercialed gambling came into review, as well as the industrial situation.

During the meeting, the Board devoted a lot of attention to the question of temperance. It was resolved to offer the sternest resistance to every programme for increased facilities for drinking alcoholic beverages.

It was pointed out that in British Columbia the method of Government control had led to a situation where the annual expenditure on liquors runs to $200 per family. The Board will ask the co-operation of all who, while unable to support the policy of complete prohibition, are ready to assist an effort to promote such education as will deliver any life from alcoholic habits.

Farmers Can't Sell Peaches At 25 Cents

BUFFALO, Oct. 5, Canadian Press).—Peaches were offered for sale on the farmers' markets here today at as low as 25 cents a bushel with little or no demand even at that price, which is the lowest on record.

The crop is late this year and most housewives have done their canning with earlier fruit at much higher prices.

Most of the 25 cent fruit is from Niagara County. The quality is fair and in other years would bring from $2 to $3 a bushel.

ACCESSORIES!

There Are So Many of Them and They Count So Much; Simplicity Is Keynote.

Shoes are important among the accessories of dress. Blocked kid afternoon shoes worn by Miss Sweet are shown at top; below is a chic pair of satin evening pumps.

BY BLANCHE SWEET
For NEA Service.

A perfect dress can be absolutely ruined by accessories.

Think well before you purchase a thing and never buy anything on the spur of the moment. Almost anything new has an appeal, but if you pretend the article under decision is yours and figure where and with what you will wear it, your final decision is usually a wise one.

I am afraid I have been spoiled and have grown narrow-minded about hats. The felt chapeau is so practical and becoming and can be worn as well in summer as in the winter time, that it is my favorite variety.

Sometimes I match a hat to a dress. Usually, however, a hat of the same material as the dress looks as if the wearer were straining for a costume effect.

Shoes and stockings too are a most important phase in costuming. I cannot wear an extremely low heeled or heel-less shoe. In fact it is not a good idea for anyone to adopt such a shoe, for it changes the muscles and balance of the body too abruptly when a French heeled slipper is worn at other times.

Favors Round Toes.

There are two simple rules which I think should be followed. Never wear light shoes with a dark dress or dark shoes with a light dress. The nearest to an exception is a flesh, or nude slipper for evening, with a pastel gown. Also remember that even a perfect foot can look clumsy unless the slipper fits perfectly.

I do not favor the present attempt to bring the pointed toe shoe back into fashion, for the round toed shoe gives plenty of room and does not cramp the foot.

A colored slipper may add just the proper balance to a costume. A vivid contrast is always effective, such as wearing a white frock, a plain scarlet shawl and scarlet stain pumps. A monotone is always good, with the slippers and dress all in one color.

I am shy of fancy slippers, as I am of all elaborate things. They draw attention and sometimes make the feet look large.

I dislike gold or silver kid slippers, unless there is a note to repeat on a dress to match.

Something new and effective is a nude-colored kid sandal, which may be worn both afternoons and evenings.

Choosing Hosiery.

As for stockings, I prefer a thin medium priced stocking for ordinary wear, with a finer one for evening. I always select either plain ones, or those with a fine simple clock.

Frequently I match hosiery with a glove or hat. Maple hose looks well with white, for a white stocking is no longer worn by the well dressed woman.

Stockings must fit well. Some makes come with smaller ankles than others, so if you have a slender ankle and leg, try to get that kind.

I wear half inch, or a little wider, plain silk elastic garters. No garter should be worn tight enough to stop the circulation, but firm enough nevertheless, to prevent a wrinkled stocking.

Gloves should never be tight, as some people mistakenly wear them, deforming the hand with bulging flesh and knuckles.

Again my cry for simplicity. Gloved hands should never be conspicuous, as fancy gloves or even those with contrasting stitching on the back will make them. My favorite type for every day use is a nude colored, fine suede slip-on model, perfectly plain, both in style and stitching. I have this particular glove in many other shades and materials.

Regarding Purses.

Purses are seldom used as an integral part of a costume by even well dressed women. Instead they usually are thought of as pretty containers for money, vanities, or cigarets. They should be given their share of consideration and should either match or contrast a costume. They are an expensive item, especially the really beautiful ones, so instead of buying all the ones I need at once, I add a few each season to those I have and in that way have quite a collection.

Quite a little effect may be achieved by a handkerchief. Of course I like the simple ones. I often use a large size handkerchief of fine linen with a tiny rolled hem and my monogram in contrasting colors. I also have them in smaller sizes. Frequently I use them to complete a color note in a sports costume, peaking out of a pocket, for instance.

There is another phase to the handkerchief subject, the very large ones of silk to be worn around the neck. They can be had in lovely colors and patterns.

I do not care for jewelry, so I have not had the desire to buy many imitation pieces. There are, however, many lovely things that are genuine and yet inexpensive. I brought some slender, fine glass bracelets from abroad and though they have been the fad over there and are considered passe now, I continue wearing them.

I must confess to a weakness for the jangle of bangles on my arms. Semi-precious stones are just as beautiful as the expensively precious ones. Both jade and coral have excellent color value for a costume. I am the proud possessor of a string of real pearls which my husband, Mr. Neilan, gave me, and though small they are perfectly matched and exquisitely colored.

My jeweled bracelets are beautiful and give a luxuriously lovely note to the proper gowns and occasion, but I could be perfectly happy without them. I do not admire rings and find them most uncomfortable, so I do not wear them. Contrary to the general belief that rings accentuate the beauty of a hand, I believe a lovely hand shows to better advantage without them.

McPherson Case Resumed, With Ryan as Witness.

ROUTINE TESTIMONY.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5. — Heavy artillery of the prosecution went into action yesterday morning when the Aimee Semple McPherson preliminary hearing was resumed.

Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan, one of the three major witnesses for the state, was put on the stand as soon as the court opened. Mr. Ryan who had active charge of the District Attorney's investigation of the kidnapping story told by Mrs. McPherson, and unearthed the sensational Carmel cottage angle of the case, was relied upon by the district attorney to give serious testimony against the evangelist in the effort of the state to prove her guilty of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Mr. Ryan's early testimony was largely routine. He repeated the story told him by Mrs. McPherson when she reappeared at Douglas, Ariz., after her mysterious absence, related how she claimed to have been kidnapped and held a prisoner in Mexico, and detailed all the circumstances of the reappearance at Douglas.

After strenuous objections by defence attorney Gilbert the prosecution was permitted to introduce as evidence the clothes and shoes worn by the evangelist when she reappeared.

Mr. Ryan told how he had accompanied Douglas officers 40 miles into Mexico in an effort to trace Mrs. McPherson's path, and to find the shack in which she said she was held.

The prosecution laid emphasis on Mr. Ryan's testimony that he found foot prints corresponding to the shoes worn by Mrs. McPherson meeting an automobile track a few miles below the border.

Taken by Auto, Walked Back.

It is well known that the district attorney will attempt to prove that Mrs. McPherson did not walk twenty miles to the border from the kidnap shack as she claims, but that she was taken a few miles into Mexico by automobile and walked back.

While Mr. Ryan was testifying the District Attorney's investigators were examining carefully documents which tend to show that Kenneth G. Ormiston, the evangelist's radio operator, was in the Clark Hotel, Los Angeles, May 18, the day Mrs. McPherson disappeared.

The prosecution declared this evidence to be the most sensational disclosure yet made.

The district attorney's operatives made public seven documents signed "George McIntire," which they assert duplicates the "George McIntire" signatures at Carmel, said by witnesses in the case to have been written by Ormiston.

These seven documents are the register of the Clark Hotel, checks for meals served in a room, and a grill check.

Piecing their evidence together the district attorney's men say they have established positively that Ormiston occupied the Clark Hotel room for three days, checking out approximately two hours before Mrs. McPherson was reported missing at Ocean Park.

Thomas Melville, door man of the Clark Hotel, and Walter Lambert, a haberdasher, last week testified that they had seen Mrs. McPherson entering the Clark hotel the morning of her disapeparance. Lambert was sure he had seen a man resembling Ormiston, speak to her in front of the hotel and after a few moments followed her into the building.

Prime importance is placed on this evidence by the prosecution forces, because, they assert, it directly contradicts Ormiston's affidavit that he was in the north on this date and that he brought his mysterious "Miss X" to the Carmel cottage from San Francisco.

Garage records at the Clarke Hotel show that the license number of a coupe left there while "McIntire" was at the hotel bore the same license number as that driven into Carmel by the occupant of the Carmel cottage, who also used the "George McIntire" name and who, Ormiston in his affidavit has sworn, was himself.

Grocery Slips Destroyed.

A sudden hot tip to the District Attorney's office that Ormiston had arrived in Los Angees in the morning, resulted in two carloads of investigators scurrying off to a secret location in the hope of arresting the long-hunted former radio operator of Angelus Temple. They had not returned at a late hour.

"The Carmel grocery slips were destroyed in the Grand Jury room by a grand juror who was a McPherson sympathiser."

The statement followed objections by the defence to introduction of photostatic copies of the slips while Mr. Ryan was on the witness stand.

Mr. Ryan is the man who found the slips at the Carmel cottage. While he was showing them to the Grand Jury several weeks ago they mysteriously disappeared. The Grand Jury subsequenty was discharged for asserted misconduct.

The defence objected to Mr. Dennison's offering a telegram received by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, Mrs. McPherson's mother, on May 21, three days after the evangelist disappeared. This telegram read: "Mother McPherson, Angelus Temple, Echo Park Los Angelus, Cal. Daughter o.k. Do not worry. Communication proven. Am signing for J. A. H. who I believe, o.k. Detail in mail. (Signed) Dr. Murten."

"We will prove that the handwriting of the telegram is that of Kenneth G. Ormiston," he shouted.

The judge permitted the telegram to be introduced. At the afternoon session Mr. Ryan referred to the occupant of the Carmel cottage as "the woman I knew to be Mrs. McPherson."

Attorney Gilbert asserted that Mr. Ryan "went up to Carmel with the sole purpose of persecuting Mrs. McPherson."

"I went to Carmel to find out what had taken place there," Mr. Ryan shot back at him from the stand, "and when I got there I found out that Mrs. McPherson and Ormiston were the couple at the cottage."

100 PASSENGERS FOR NEW PLANE

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press)—A huge overseas aeroplane, designed to carry 100 pasesngers, is now being constructed at the Junker works.

The plane will be 128 metres (about 420 feet) in length and will be fitted with four motors for overseas flights. It will be equipped with cabins aft for the crew and rooms for mail storage and cargo. Cabins for 100 passengers will be forward with skylights and electric lights resembling those in pullman cars.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

The special services were concluded on Sunday, and the music under the direction of Mr. William C. Thomson, was excellent. "O Give Thanks Unto the Lord," by Roland Smart, was the anthem in the morning in which the soprano solo was well taken by Miss Hope.

In the evening, the anthem: "Break Forth into Joy,' by Simper, was repeated, with solos sung by Mrs. Davies and Mr. C. A. Hope.

The choir and organist are grateful to Messrs. Gray of St. John's choir, and Wood of Mark street united, for their able and effective assistance.

Kingston Fireman Serves 48 Years In Brigade

KINGSTON, Ont., October 5 (Special).—John Hall, a member of the local fire department, is probably the oldest active fireman in Canada with continuous service. He has just completed 41 years on the paid department and previous to this served for seven and a half years on the volunteer brigade. He has served under six chiefs, Devlin, Horsey, Bateson, Youlden, Elmer, and the present chief, James Armstrong.

FLOODS TRAVEL TOWARDS GULF

Areas Hit By Cloudbursts Relieved at Expense of of Lower Towns

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—The retreat of the havoc-working waters from the midwestern areas first hit by cloudbursts that arrived with October, today carried the flood menace down the courses of he larger tributaries piling on toward the Mississippi.

Along the Kansas-Oklahoma State line, floods were receding but the lowlands in Central Oklahoma, Eeastern Missouri, and Central and Western Illinois were threatened with further losses in life and property as the crests moved toward the Gulf.

More home were hastily abandoned as the water threat increased at Beardstown in West Central Illinois, where the Illinois River levees gave way yesterday and let the stream down into the town. Virtually all of the wall in front of Beardstown had disappeared.

URGES CAUTION ON BIRTH CONTROL

LONDON, October 5 (Canadian Press).—The Archbishop of Canterbury counsels people to be cautious with regard to the subject of birth control. In a letter published today while stigmatizing Marie Stopes, president of the Society for Constructive Birth Control and Racial Progress, and her group of followers as "a dangerous and harmful element in our social life," the Archbishop declares that the statement attributed to himself as having approved birth control is grossly misleading.

"It is true that I have declined to denounce as necessarily sinful all methods of birth control," says the Archbishop. "The subject is one that needs scrupulous care in its treatment if we are at once to be loyal to sound principles and recognize legitimacy, even the need of exceptional evidence under exceptional conditions."

SICK MAN OFFERS $50 FOR STOMACH MEDICINE

"I was a sufferer from indigestion until a druggist advised me to try Adlerika. The results have been wonderful. I eat anything, and can do a big day's work without feeling tired. I wouldn't be without Adlerika if it cost $50 a bottle."—R. C. Culver.

Unlike most medicines Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been causing all your trouble. In slight disorders, like occasional constipation, GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache, ONE spoonful always brings relief.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, casara, and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. It is excellent for Intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Doctors Praise Adlerika

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. C. Curl: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose."

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists.

HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, Oct. 4.— Mr. McCamus, Indian agent for Rice Lake and Curve Lake reserves, was in the village on Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Last Friday afternoon some of the former scholars attended the school to listen to the interesting programme of the Junior Red Cross Auxiliary. Miss Marguerite Cowie is president. The vice-presidents are Misses Roe Dummie and Lillian Loukes. The secretary-treasurer is Miss Mina Cowie.

The visitors enjoyed themselves and some took part in a spelling match. Parents and friends of the children are always welcome to come to the meetings, which are held on Friday afternoons from 3 to 4 o'clock.

Mr. Whitfield Northey and sons, Maxwell and Frederick were business visitors in Keene Saturday.

The gorgeous colouring of fall is now appearing on the groves of trees. The maples seem to vie with the sumacs to have richer, deeper tints, and as you motor along you see colouring that brings spring to your mind. It is the fall wheat which many industrious farmers have planted in September, and now it is appearing and makes a marked contract with the autumn shades.

Mr. Henry Cowie was busy towards the latter part of last week, harvesting his potatoes

Mr. Lorne Morrison of Lakefield, district representative of the W. T. Rawleigh Co., makers of perfumes, soaps, patent medicines, spices, gum, etc., was in the village on Wednesday and Thursday. He stopped at Cedar Hedges, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Northey.

Mr. and Mrs. Ehinger and party are holidaying at the Lakeshore house. They are from Ebenezer, N.Y.

As services were withdrawn on Sunday at Keene United church, many people went to Bethel and heard Aev. J. E. Todd, B.A., of George street United church, Peterborough, in the morning, and Rev. J. D. Richardson, M.A., of St. James' United church, in the evening. Rev. John Archibald, M.A., spoke in their respective churches.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — Canadian Press. — The British steam trawler Hohenlinden, whose home port is Montreal, was seized last Saturday night by coast guards as she was unloading her cargo at Bayway, N. J.

The officials allege that the Trawler had 2000 cases of liquor aboard. The crew fled when the coast guards arrived.

FALLIS LINE CHURCH KEEPS ANNIVERSARY

Rev. H. W. Foley is Preacher at Special Services on Sunday.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 5.—The anniversary services of the Fallis' Line church were held on Sunday, afternoon and evening, Rev. H. W Foley, B.A., B.D., of Frazerville, being the preacher for the occasion.

The music was furnished by members of the choir from the Millbrook United church, the organist, Miss Estelle Hetherington, playing at both services. The special numbers in the afternoon included a solo, "I Know He Watches Me", by Mr. Weston Fallis, and a quartette, "Lord Is It I?" by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Miss May Byam, and Mr. M. McDowell.

A congregation that practically filled the church was present for the afternoon worship, and in the evening the capacity of the building was taxed, the service in the Millbrook church having been withdrawn on account of the anniversary occasion.

Rev Mr. Foley chose his text from Acts 11:26: "And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch," announcing as his subject, "Antioch, the Model Church", and applying some of the principles which earned it this title to the church of today, "though there have been many wonderful changes in the church since the days when Barnabas came from Jerusalem, and indeed all humanity has changed fifty times in the passing centuries.

"Truly the church must change and adapt itself to the differing climes, languages, and conditions. There has been almost a revolution in this country since three great churches came together in union."

The church of Antioch was not started by any missionary sent out for that purpose, but began and grew as a result of the persecution that arose upon the death of Stephen, and out of the need of fellowship, felt by God's children and their desire for some expression of their Christian life.

It was a union church for the city of Antioch was situated on the boundary between East and West, and Jew and Gentile, for the first time, found a place in the membership of a Christian church and out of this grew a wonderful brotherhood which is an example of the church of today.

The laymen did the work in this Antiochan church for they had no settled minister, and so everyone took part in the services—whether it was fasting, prayer contributing to the offerings, testifying—every member bore a full share to the limit of his or her ability. And the Lord honored the services of these believers, for "the word of God grew and multiplied."

"In three hundred years Christianity conquered the Roman Empire because in those centuries every Christian was eager and ready to testify for Christ."

The Spirit of the Lord had a complete oversight and control over the work of the church at Antioch, and when a visitor came in he could see the evidence of this. Barnabas upon his arrival could "see the grace of God and was glad", and the church knew when the Lord said "Separate Me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them."

It was also a giving church and contributed generously to the relief of the brethren in Judea in their time of need, "every man according to his ability," so each one had a part in this act of fellowship and worship.

It was a connexional church and felt itself a part of the great body in Christ in which all stand together; so Peter came and was welcomed, Barnabas came and was welcomed, and Paul came and for him too there was a brotherly reception.

Lastly it was a misionary church and responded even when God asked its two great leaders for special service elsewhere, so that Antioch became the "mother of churches", and the Lord's work grew greatly.

"Why did these pagan people, the listeners and observers on the street, call these believers Christians? A Christian is surely a partisan of Christ, aynd after close observation the decision grew that in their life and conduct the members of the church at Antioch were truly followers of the Saviour whom they loved, and moulded their conduct, daily, after the principles which He taught, and of which they testified to others.

"And the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number believed and turned to the Lord."

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 4.— The anniversary services of Wesley United church will be held on Sunday, Oct. 10th.

Mrs. George Charlton, the president of St. Paul's branch of the Catholic Women's League, has been elected 3rd vice-president of the Diocesan League.

The crop of haws is very heavy this year and the trees are a pretty sight with their loads of scarlet fruit. Beech nuts are a bumper crop, also.

Much needed work is being put on the Lakefield-Peterborough road with good results and the road is better at present than for several months.

Mr. Fred Calder was buried at Warsaw on Wednesday. The funeral was attended by a number of Lakefield friends.

The funeral of the late Frank Skelcher took place on Thursday afternoon to Hillside cemetery. It was attended by a number of Lakefield friends.

Ah well—at least he had Adriana now. And he held her closer and called encouragingly to the great white horse that carried them on so swiftly.

If only he could reach the woods it would not be so difficult to do battle with those who followed. Juan's horse was beginning to slow down. The double burden and the speed to which Juan had urged him were proving too much. Juan urged him on again, called to him softly, beguilingly, as in the past he had spoken to beautiful women—never had their favor meant to him what new efforts on the horse's part meant now.

It was a warm, sweet night, with rain in the wind that was coming before the dawn. In the east the sky was paling, with faint streaks of rose color reaching through the gray to finger the landscape.

A night for love making, not for desperate adventure. A night meant for sitting in a rose garden, with music mingling with the murmuring of fountains, not for fleeing death.

"I think that I hear the sound of horses' hoofs," Adriana exclaimed, fearfully. Juan pressed her head closer against his shoulder.

"'Tis the sound of a branch falling. Woodcutters must be at work somewhere near," he told her loath to let her know their danger until the last.

They were well into the woods. It might be that he could find some path leading from the road, or some place where the underbrush was not too thick, so that he and she could make their way through on foot. Or, if it came to the worst—well, he had his sword, and if the odds against him were too great at least he could thrust the keen blade of his sword into Adrianas heart and then let himself be killed. Of one thing he was resolved—she should not fall again into the hands of Lucretia Borgia.

He had looked back down a long hill just as they entered the forest and in the gray dawn had seen the soldiers following them. It could be only a matter of moments now until they were overtaken. Wildly he searched the trees and underbrush at the side of the narrowing road, searching for a way of turning out of it. But everywhere the underbrush grew thick. There was no hope.

Giving up that plan, he drew his horse down to a walk and studied the trees that grew beside the road. Finally he stopped.

"Beloved," he said, and his voice held a note that no woman had ever heard before, "we shall soon be overtaken, and we must plan so that we are prepared for whatever may come. There is a tree here that has a hollow trunk, and you must hide there, while I go back and—"

"Oh, not alone!" she cried. "Let me go with you. I could help somehow."

"If you were there my eyes would be for you and your safety, not for the fight that I must wage," he told her gently. "Come," and he dismounted. "Let me lift you down." Then as she slipped down into his arms he held her close in one last embrace, kissing her passionately. She clung to him as if some premonition told her that she would never see him again. Only when the sound of the drum-like beating of the approaching horses grew disturbingly loud did he put her from him.

Hastily he lifted her into the hollowed trunk of the tree and then waited for another brief kiss before running back to his own horse.

"I shall return, and soon!" he told her, and rode back along the way he had taken.

Adriana, half swooning, leaned back against the tree, trembling. If anything should happen to him life would end for her, she told herself. She could not go on living without him.

It was hideous the way the assurance of his death kept coming back to her. She tried to fight against it, but realized that she could not drive it away. Finally, kneeling in her narrow shelter, she prayed to the Virgin to save him and so found some little peace.

Juan, making his way back, stopped where the road grew so narrow that the Borgia retainers could not pass him and attack him from behind as well as from the front.

Then, his sword across his knees, he sat grimly waiting until the first of them came in sight.

It was a strange battle fought there among the great, quiet trees, in whose upper branches twittering birds sleepily welcomed the dawn. Juan fought bareheaded, with no protecting helmet. He was a gallant figure on his great black horse, fighting with a cold fury that had in it something of a madman's inspired skill.

There was no need for the captain of Lucretia's men to plan an escape to Syria, or a return to her with Juan as captive. An instant after he crossed swords with Juan he slid groaning from his horse, to die with his face pressed against the tiny spring flowers that grew beside the road.

Among his followers were expert swordsmen, chosen for their skill, but Juan fought as if he feared them not at all, rather as if he had planned the encounter merely to while away an idle hour. Even when he was hard pressed he did not give ground. Always he remembered that Adriana was hidden not far from where he fought. He must not let himself be forced back toward her and so endanger her safety.

He was wounded on one arm. The fine white fabric of his shirt was stained with blood. Laughing, he wounded his adversary in a corresponding spot. The man lunged at him, rising in his stirrups. Juan ran him through, crying:

"Go—join your master and Donati, the cousin of the woman who sent you to meet your death at my hands."

The man toppled from the saddle. He was the third to fall. Another had withdrawn to the rear, nursing his right arm, which had been pierced by Juan's blade.

The others hesitated. It seemed certain death to cross swords with this dark haired, laughing man, who fought like a demon.

"We have done our best—the Borgia cannot ask more. We can tell her he killed these three and then got away through the brush."

And so suddenly they turned and urged their weary horses off down the road, the way they had come so confidently.

Juan waited a moment till they were out of sight. Then slowly he turned his horse's head and went back to the tree where he had hidden Adriana.

She saw him coming, stepped down to the ground and came to meet him with the dawn touching her hair and turning her gown to palest gold.

He bent down, lifted her into the saddle.

"They have gone," he told her, "but we must go as well. Italy can never again be safe for us. Will you give up your home for me?"

Her dark eyes were alight with love as she lifted them to his face.

'My home is in your heart," she answered. "I want no other."

He bent over her, held her so close that she seemed no separate being, but part of himself.

"We must go to Spain," he warned her. "A long journey, and until we reach the country where my father was known, and where some still remember me, we shall be vagabonds. You are delicate, unused to such traveling—shall I not leave you in some peasant's hut, where you would be safe until I could send for you?"

"Oh, Juan, never let me be separated from you again," she begged. "You are my life—no matter how you live, so must I live too."

And as dawn vanquished the last of the night he turned his horse's head toward the first stretch of the long journey that would take them back to the grim castle where as a little child he had seen love and trust betrayed and received his first lesson in the cruel lesson his father had taught him.

But now, with Adriana in his arms, he knew that never could such betrayal be his lot. And he told himself that the power of her love would lay the ghosts that still haunted that tower room where his father had so fiendishly killed his mother's love.

Don Juan, the greatest lover in all Europe, had become a man humble of spirit, contrite of heart, asking nothing but that he might be worthy of the love of the girl in his arms.

CONVENTION HELD AT BETHEL CHURCH

TWEED, Oct. 5.—The annual township Sunday school convention was held at Bethel church on Friday last. In the absence of Mr. A. Jones, Mr. Robert Sullivan acted as president.

The reports of different departments were read and were very encouraging. A reading by Mr. W. H. Sayers on Religious Training in Public schools evoked a lengthy discussion.

An address by Rev. E. O. Seymour department representative, was of a very interesting nature.

Vote of thanks were tendered the trustees of Bethel church and also the ladies for providing such an excellent supper at the close of the afternoon session.

The evening session opened with a song service by Bethel choir and devotional service led by Rev. W. P. Rodgers.

The nominating committee presented their officers of their district as follows:

President—R. W. Sullivan.
Vice President—H. S. Tucker.
Secretary—Mrs. Charles Porritt.
Children's Division—Mrs. S. Elliott.
[illegible]' Division—Mr. A. W. McGuire.
Girls' Division—Mrs. H. S. Tucker.
Adult Bible Class—Mrs. Chester Adams.
Home Department—Mrs. W. H. Richardson.
Missionary Department—Mrs. A. E. Logan.
Temperance Department—W. H. Sayers.
Teacher Training—Rev. W. P. Rogers.
Resolution Commitee —W. H. Sayers, W. A. Donnelly.

Special music by Mr. Joseph Williams, an address by Rev. W. P. Rogers, a solo by Miss Myrtle Fawcett, a short address by the new president Mr. R. W. Sullivan, and an interesting talk by Rev. E. O. Seymour were the main features of the evening session.

The next convention will be held at Sulphide.

MARMORA PERSONALS

MARMORA, Oct. 5.—Mr. Dan Campion and son, Ralph, arrived home from the West on Friday, looking well after their extended visit.

Mr. Alex. Moon attended Tweed Fair on Friday.

Mr. A. T. Neal attended Campbellford Fair on Friday.

Messrs. T. A. Robinson and J. S. Grant, of Cleveland, Ohio, spent the past week at the St. James' Hotel. Fishing trips on local waters brought them 32 bass and 10 lunge, with which they returned home on Friday.

Mrs. W. A. Sanderson is on the sick list.

STORMS SWEEP

The Mississippi River reached the highest fall stage ever recorded at Alton, Illinois, and floods in the Missouri and Illinois Rivers above St. Louis, near their confluence with the larger stream, made many homeless and covered thousands of acres of corn and orchard lands.

Over most of Kansas and Oklahoma, flood conditions were less severe than on Sunday night, with the water receding, but many streams had not yet returned to their banks. Four lives were taken by the flood in Oklahoma Sunday.

Tracks were washed away and highways submerged in many localities, particularly in Illinois.

September rainfall records for the middle west, compiled yesterday by the weather bureau, show a great excess of precipitation from Western Ohio to Central Nevada, most notably at Springfield, Illinois, where 15.16 inches of rain fell during the month—almost 12 inches more than the normal amount. The record in Illinois for September is 20 inches, at Monmouth, Ills., established in 1903.

OBITUARY.

FREDERICK CALDER.

WARSAW, Oct. 5.—The funeral of the late Frederick Calder was held on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. H. B. Herrington conducted the services at the house and at the cemetery. His only child, a daughter, Mrs. Harry Chamberlain (Maud) survives him. His wife, Annie Scott, died about fourteen years ago. Four brothers survive him, David and Alec of Peterboroufih, Charles of South Dummer, and James of St. Thomas. The last named was not able to be home for the funeral. Friends and relatives sent many beautiful flowers.

The interment took place in Warsaw cemetery. The pallbearers were neighbors — Messrs. John Moore, John Delaney, Clarence Watts, Henry Clements, Fred Morgan and Bruce Douglas.

ported that up to Sept. 30 his department had collected $407,892.55, or 64.27 p.c. of the 1926 taxes as compared with 63.57 p.c. collected last year at the same date. There is still outstanding $276,605.15, most of which is due in the third instalment on Nov. 5.

Requests from Mrs. Conroy, Water street, and Charles Cheu, George street, for eating house licenses were granted. R. P. Armstrong, who is moving his garage from the corner of Water and Brock streets to a location near the middle of the block, was authorized to re-erect his gasoline tank and pump in front of his new place of business.

The council decided that the trees at the corner of Rubidge and Simcoe streets and Rubidge and Scott streets be removed where they interfere with constructing the sidewalk as recommended by the City Engineer. The removal of one tree from each of these corners is objected to by the trustees of Trinity United church, who suggest that the walk pass behind the trees.

Alderman Cotton brought up the subject of radio interfernce asking that the council support the request of the radio enthusiasts of the city that the Government testing cars might be sent here to find out what is causing interference in various parts of the city.

Appreciaion of the action of the Provincial Government in taking over the Peterborough-Lindsay road as part of the Provincial Highway system was expressed by the council, coupled with a request that work be started on its improvement next spring.

TIGER COULD BE VERY HAPPY IF COUNTRY WELL

STAYS AT WORK

Refuses to Leave His Book and Grumbles at Messages.

By A. L. BRADFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

SAINT VINCENT SUR JARD, VENDEE, France, October 5. (United Press).—With the winds from the sea whipping back the warmth of summer, the old Tiger of France awoke eighty-five years old on Tuesday.

Telegrams and letters bearing famous and obscure signatures poured in from all quarters of the globe upon the man who for France made the war and made the peace—Georges Clemenceau.

This birthday undoubtedly meant more to Clemenceau than others, for at eighty-five . . . But if it did he did not show it. The old man who reshuffled the destinies of Europe and Asia went about enjoying the evening of life as usual, at arm's length even from this little hamlet, dozing along like the oxen that pull their primitive carts.

Father Victory saw nothing to get excited about, his principal interest as usual was in the stupendous philosophical work which he is finishing, the 'Evening of Thought,' and on which he starts to work before dawn, directing household affairs with his picturesque Brittany cook Clothilde and his faithful valet Albert; roaming over the sand dunes by the sea; puttering about his flower garden.

And he scowled at his large mail and unusual number of telegrams that arrived for him, later grumbling kindly at the peasant folk who came up from the village to wish their "vieux Tigre" many more birthdays as their most distinguished townsman.

The visitor for the first time trudging up the road to Monsieur Clemenceau's retreat would be surprised to see the little one-story peasant house squatting by the sea which is the residence of France's most famous living statesman. A canvas carp flying from a fifty-foot mast almost on the sea's edge indicates the Tiger's presence. It is said this carp was presented to the Tiger by the Mikado of Japan as indicative of strength and determination; it was well given.

The correspondent, come to interview "Pere la Victoire," asked first for Albert, for Albert is now everything to Clemenceau, his valet, his nurse, his secretary, and his confidant. When old Clothilde went for Albert, I heard the Tiger call out, "No, tell him Albert is busy, tell him to write." The Tiger does not like to be disturbed.

But when I persuaded Clothilde to take my card to him, the Tiger came out, "Oh, yes, I will see him." The Tiger is always most courteous to American visitors. Perhaps he thinks of his years as a young man in America, where he taught French in a girls' school and one of his pupils became his wife, a romance which ended in a divorce, however.

"Ah, yes, I am old, but these years have been the beautiful ones of my life." And showing his constantly gloved hands, "My hands are all dried up. J'ai fait toute la guerre, I made the entire war as a sick man. At the end, I can tell you, I was tired, very tired."

The old man, whose name is scattered throughout the pages of the history of the Third Republic, walks with the firmness of step of many men at sixty. But frequent gasps for breath tell his age. There seems to be something of the Mongol about Clemenceau, with his drooping, white moustache, which is accentuated out here in the lonely seclusion of his lair.

"And after I left power I went to India to bag some tigers" continued France's tiger. "The doctors told me I should hurry home, but I wouldn't do it until my trip was over. And since then my five years at rest in contemplation of life as I have seen it and in comparison with what I have read, have been the most beautiful part of my life."

Clemenceau took me through his house, his parlor, his "veranda," with the ground as the floor, covered by a lean-to, thatch-like roof, his bedroom, from where in bed he can look out upon the sea, his two spare rooms for visitors who might be stranded in this out-of-the-way place.

"Come," said the War Premier, "if you are good, I will take you through my flower garden. I make the flowers grow with sea weeds. There are no walks in this garden, for in a garden with walks you see the same flowers every day. Here there is always a surprise."

Picking our way carefully, the Tiger pointed out flowers of almost every description, thrown together in a colorful confusion, roses, tulips, carnations, daisies, lilies, dahlias, iris, gladiolus, and many strange wild flowers.

"This is better than politics," said the Tiger, and wistfully, probably referring to the controversy over the debts, "If my country were well, I could be completely happy."

FORMAL CHOICE OF SIR R. BLADES AS LORD MAYOR

Little Attention Paid Election as Result Was Known

CRICKETER MAYOR.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—London "elected" a new Lord Mayor yesterday, although very few citizens knew about the actual election until they read it in the newspapers. Then they said: "Oh, yes, Blades, the M.P. cricketer. Prints something, doesn't he? That's the fellow the newspaper said was going to be elected a month or so ago."

And that's how the citizens of London regard the "election" of their chief magistrate; for, despite modern ideas of democratic elections, universal suffrage, popular vote, etc., the city of London remains probably the only place in the world where its citizens have nothing whatever to do with the election of the Lord Mayor.

London's Lord Mayor was "elected" yesterday in the same manner as his predecessor was elected 800 or so years ago. The great trade guilds, or "livery companies," select the chief magistrate — from among their own number. And the citizens of London find it perfectly satisfactory that they should do so. Anyway, they have no means of kicking against the system.

Sir George Rowland Blades (he does not use the "George" nowadays), baronet, member of Parliament for the Epsom division of Surrey, alderman and former sheriff of London, and "merchant prince" head of the great printing and stationery firm of Blades, is the new Lord Mayor, to succeed Sir William R. Pryke, whose term of office expires on November 9.

Blades will be one of the most popular Lord Mayors for many years, for he is a cricketer, and anybody who performs even moderately at the national game is accepted as "quite all right" in any capacity. The last three or four Lord Mayors were absolutely unknown outside their own immediate business circles, but everybody, certainly every cricketer (which is about 99 per cent. of Englishmen) has heard of Blades, although he never reached "All England class."

The liverymen met yesterday morning in the Grand Council Chamber of the Guildhall. The floor was strewn with thyme and sweet-scented herbs. Lord Mayor Sir William R. Pryke presided, and and the Court of Aldermen (26 in number, 13 of whom have been Lord Mayors), and the Court of Common Council (220 in number, of whom the majority probably hope to be able to afford the luxury—and longevity—of becoming Lord Mayor some time or other) having been duly declared "in session," the Lord Mayor announced that the business of the day was the election of his successor.

The Common Crier called upon all "strangers" or "unauthorized" persons to withdraw. The "strangers" were thereupon ceremoniously escorted to the door by massive members of the city police force—who were themselves excluded from the deliberations.

Presently the doors were thrown open again and the "public" were readmitted and informed that Sir Rowland Blades had been elected, which occasioned little surprise. Nevertheless, the "public" dutifully cheered. Sir Rowland returned thanks for the honor and tried to look as if it was really unexpected. The trumpeters blew on their silken flagged trumpets and Sir Rowland will be Lord Mayor of London on November 9. Also he will have the privilege of paying for the historic "Lord Mayor's show," which annually dislocates London's already congested traffic in the business hours of the day.

The ancient and possibly illogical system seems to suit Londoners. For one thing there are few folks who can afford the luxury of being Lord Mayor of London. In these days of high cost of living, etc., the £10,000 annual stipend (with official residence at the Mansion House, coaches, secretaries, purse-bearers, etc.) does not pay one-third, or even a quarter of the Lord Mayor's expenditure. It is a lucky Lord Mayor who does not have many royal visits to the city during his term of office, because he has to foot the bill for their entertainment.

The post is, of course, unique. It gives the holder the title of "Right Honorable" with the precedence of an earl, and the right to attend meetings of the Privy Council, Accession Councils, etc., to present petitions at the bar of the House of Commons, to present himself before the Sovereign at any time which seems necessary to him, and a few more things.

Supreme in the "Square Mile."

In the "square mile" forming the City of London, he is supreme. No drum may beat, no bayonets be shown, nor troops march without his permission. The Sovereign must ask his permission to enter the city boundaries and every sovereign is duly held up by mounted policemen and the city marshal until the Lord Mayor (waiting in his state coach) has been duly informed of the Sovereign's desire to enter.

So it has been since the days of William the Conqueror, and even before then, according to civic records. Nowadays Lord Mayors do not grumble when the sovereign wants to enter the city, but there were times when they manned their walls with their stoutest archers and men-at-arms to prevent such visits.

Rub It On At Bed-Time

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

Chinese Scent Tea To Please Foreigners

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Scented Chinese teas have recently become popular with foreigners, according to a report from Consul J. S. Huston, Hankow, made public by the Department of Commerce. The scent is added by heating certain kinds of flower petals with tea leaves.

In some instances the flower petals are left in the tea, while in the preparation of other varieties the process consists of sprinkling a layer of fresh white jasmine blossoms over a layer of tea leaves, repeating the process until the basket is filled. The receptacle is then placed aside until the perfume has thoroughly permeated the tea leaves, which are afterwards separated from the petals. This mingling of the tea leaves and the flower petals is repeated until the desired aroma is attained. The tea is then ready for packing.

The manufacture of scented tea centres in Foo Chow. The flowers most commonly used are the white jasmine and a species of magnolia. Scented teas are very popular in China and are always made of high-grade tea leaves. Black tea is scented for the American market.

ST. LOUIS WINS THIRD OF SERIES

SPORTSMAN'S FIELD, St. Louis. October 5. — A fresh downpour of rain stopped the third game of the world's series to-day with the Yankees at bat in the 4th inning. The crowd in the bleachers were thoroughly drenched.

It came down in torrents with little warning and the infield was a quagmire before the workmen could start to unroll the tarpaulins while thousands of spectators in the uncovered areas of the stands were soaked. It looked only like a brief shower with skies brightening up again, but the field was in doubtful condition for continuance of play, even if the lessening rain stopped altogether.

Just as workers got the infield covered, the sun broke through the clouds. Umpires came out for inspection and immediately ordered covering removed, after which play was resumed.

SPORTSMAN PARK, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—After a threat of rain proved only a passing shower the third game of the World's Series was started here this afternoon with a battle in prospect between a southpaw and a right hander. Manager Miller Huggins sent the veteran Dutch Ruether to the mound for the Yankees, while Rogers Hornsby, leader of the Cards, depended on Stalwart Jess Haines to repel the invaders. Long before game time every inch of space was ocupied by a crowd estimated at 38,000, a wildly cheering cross section of frenzied St. Louis fandom.

Hornsby's selection of a fast ball pitcher came as something of a surprise. Haines had a brief test against the Yankees, pitching against them in the eighth inning of the first game.

Every section of the stands, including extensions from the lower grand stand as far in as the outfield lines was jammed by game time, with thousands still clamoring outside the park.

The gates to the unreserved bleacher seats had been closed an hour before the call of play ball.

The line-ups:

St. Louis.—Douthit, cf; Southworth, rf; Hornsby, 2b; Bottomley, 1b; L. Bell, 3b; Hafey, lf; O'Farrell, 3; Thevenow, ss; Haines, p.

First Innings

New York—Haines was using a fast ball which he kept close to the batter. Hafey took Combs' fly, after misjudging it in the sun. Haines used the resin bag. Koenig struck out swinging for a third strike. Ruth up. He was greeted with mingled cheers and boos. The Babe laughed. Haines fed Ruth a slow one. Hornsby took Ruth's roller and threw him out. No runs, no hits ,no errors.

St. Louis—Douthit sent a high fly to Meusel in right field. Southworth singled sharply to centre, hitting the first ball pitched. Thtre was a big demonstration when Hornsby came to the plate. Hornsby lined out to Lazzeri and Southworth had to race to get back to the bag. Lazzeri threw out Bottomley at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Innings

New York — Meusel flied to Southworth. Gehrig flied to Hafey. Lazzeri struck out. No runs no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Bell whiffed, swinging for the third strike. Hafey crashed a long lift for two bases. Lazzeri took O'Farrell's weak roller and threw him out. Hafey went to third. Combs took Thevenow's liner. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Innings

New York—Dugan shot a single over Thevenow's head. Severeid tried to sacrifice. O'Farrell tried to pick Dugan off first. Severeid sacrificed, Haines to Bottomley. Ruether fouled out to O'Farrel. Combs got a base on balls. The fourth pitch was high. Bottomley took Koenig's grounder and beat him to the bag. No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis—Haines scratched a hit to first. Douthit up. Douthit got a base on balls. The crowd was in an uproar. Shawkey was now warming up for New York. Southworth sacrificed, Ruether to Gehrig, Haines going to third and Douthit to second. Hornsby sent up a foul to Severeid and the crowd groaned. Bottomley lined out to Combs. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Inning

New York.—Ruth lashed a single into centre, hitting a slow ball. Not a cheer went up from the stands. Haines threw out Meusel at first, Ruth going to second. It was now starting to rain. The umpires gathered in the infield and after looking over the situation, time was called. The ground keepers rushed upon the field, dragging tarpaulins after them. The batters' box was covered, after which the pitcher's box was put under cover.

Players hurried to the dugouts while the big crowd in the exposed portions of grand stands raised umbrellas and shielded themselves with newspapers. It was a heavy downpour and it looked as if the field would soon become impossible to continue playing.

Fourth Inning

New York.—Umpire Hildebrand called the players upon the field. The infield was very slippery, notwithstanding that it had been sprayed with dirt. Ruth went down to second as a base runner and Gehrig took his position at the plate. Before time was called, one ball had been pitched. Gehrig sent out a foul fly to O'Farrell, which he took near the first base line. Lazzeri went out, Hornsby to Bottomley. No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis.—Bell singled over 2nd. Hafey sacrificed. Ruether to Lazzeri. O'Farrell walked. The fourth pitch was high and inside. Bell scored when Thevenow forced O'Farrell, Lazzeri to Koenig, who made a wild throw to first. Haines hit a home run into the right field stand, scoring Thevenow ahead of him. The crowd was in an uproar, Douthit lined out to Koenig. Three runs, two hits, one error.

Fifth Inning

New York. — Dugan sent out a long fly to Hafey. Severeid sent out a sharp liner to Southworth. Hafey took Ruether's hot shot. The Yankees were hitting the first ball pitched. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis— Southworth singled past Dugan. Shawkey was now warming up again. Hornsby singled into centre, Southworth going to third. It was the hit and run only perfectly executed. Southworth scored when Lazzeri threw out Bottomley at first, Hornsby going to second. Reuther was taken from the box at this stage. Shawkey taking up the pitching burden warmed up for a moment. Koenig threw out Bell at first, Hornsby going to third. Dugan made a beautiful one hand stop of Hafey's seeming hit and threw him out. One run, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning

New York.—Combs shot a single over Thevnnow's head. Koenig hit into a double play. Hornsby to Thevenow to Bottomley, Haines tried to get Ruth to bite at a slow ball. Ruth walked, the fourth pitch being low. Bell took Meusel's smash and got him at first, Bottomley saving the Cardinal's third baseman : wild throw by a good catch. No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis—O'Farrell lofted to Combs. Combs came in fast and took Thevenow's shot drive. Haines went out, Koenig to Gehrig. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning.

New York—Gehrig shot a long hit into center for a single. Bell threw out Lazzeri at first, Gehrig going to second. It was not a sacrifice. Dugan flied out to Douthit. Gehrig held second. Bell threw out Severeid at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis—Douthit fanned, the third strike being called. Lazzeri took Southworth's roller and tossed him out. Hornsby popped to Lazzeri, going after a low curve. No runs, no hits, no errors.

LEGION NOTES

An enthusiastic meeting of the newly formed Canadian Legion was held at the Legion headquarters last night, when Comrade C. H. Ackerman, the first president of the Legion, presided at the opening of the meeting and was given a vociferous reception,to which he replied in a few well chosen words, thanking the members for the signal honor they had conferred upon him in electing him to be the first president of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League. Reminiscently he briefly touched upon the first gathering of returned men which took place early in 1916 and which afterwards became the G.W.V.A., remarking upon the vicissitudes that organization had encountered. He expressed an ardent desire that now unity had at last been consumated that all ex-service men would get behind the present movement in order to ensure its success, concluding his remarks by assuring the large number present that he would do everything in his power to make the Legion worth while. He stressed the point that if all worked to that end there would be no doubt as to the future of the Legion and all that it might accomplish in the interests of ex-service men and their dependents. At the close of these remarks Comrade Ackerman was heartily applauded after which he retired to the regular meeting of the City Council of which he is a member. The Vice-President J. Abraham, presided for the remainder of the meeting during which time much business was transacted.

The installation of a new low pressure steam heating plant was authorized and the contract awarded to Messrs. Wallace and Smith, Water Street, this being the lowest tender, and the contractors being two returned soldiers. It was unanimously resolved that all 1866 veterans be made honorary members of the Canadian Legion, Branch No. 52 Peterborough. Comrade G. R. Melton was unanimously elected as an auditor of the branch to work in conjunction with Comrade W. J. Swanger.

It was also unanimously resolved to ask the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. to form a Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion Branch No. 52. This in all probability will be done at the close of the annual provincial convention of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A which will be held in Toronto next week. The annual fees for Branch No. 52 was also agreed upon. Some 122 new members of the new Legion were admitted into membership last night. Applications are steadily coming in and it is trusted that by the time of the Armistice Celebration, particulars of which will be given later, that Branch No. 52 will be well on the way to the 100 per cent mark. Another meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 18th, when it is expected that a prominent official well known in military circles in Toronto will be present to give an address to the members and all ex-service men. The president and board of directors are desirous of having it known amongst all ex-service men that they are particularly welcome at these meetings and the ambition of the officers of the branch is to have every ex-service man on the membership roll of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion.

Trading Brisk To-day In Toronto Mine Market

TORONTO, October 5 (Canadian Press).—Trading was brisk on the Standard Mining Exchange here today, 402,551 shares being dealt in. Declines were general, almost all issues being quoted at lower prices. Argonaut Con., with over 39,000 shares dealt in, was the active leader, opening at 37¾ and closing ½ lower. Barry Holly down ¼, Cons. W. D. Lake ½ lower, and Dome Mines down five, were among the issues sharing the decline. Tough Oakes, however, firmed and closed 1¼ higher at 43. The balance of the list was unchanged.

Price Fluctuations Equal Trading Quiet In Toronto

TORONTO, October 5 (Canadian Press).—Trading was very quiet on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, with very few sales being recorded. Price fluctuations were about equal, gains and losses being about even, with few transactions of an outstanding nature. Abitibi Pulp and Paper closed at 94½, down 3-4. Brazilian and Brompton both declined, the former closing at 11?¼, down 7-8, and the latter at 36½, down ½ in light trading. British Columbia Fishing was ½ lower at 72½. Industrial Alcohol dropped 1-8 at 24 1-8. There were no changes in the balance of the list.

Active Selling Of Wheat Leads To Drop In Price

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—Active selling from important sources, together with general fair weather in Canada, led to sharp early price downturns for wheat today during the early dealings. Houses with eastern connections were largely on the selling side of the market.

Opening 3-8c to 7-8c off, wheat soon underwent a further setback. Corn,oats and provisions were also weak, corn starting at 1-4c to 5-8c decline and then continuing to sag.

Besides improved conditions for the Canadian crop movement, lower quotations at Liverpool gave an advantage at times today to wheat bears here. In this connection British flour mills were represented as having provided for their immediate needs and as being unwilling to buy ahead except at concessions.

New York Opening Weak With Recovery Later

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—Extremely nervous trading characterized today's stock market, which broke sharply at the opening and then made an irregular recovery. Losses ran from 1 to 8 points with recoveries of as much as 5 points in such stocks as General Motors, Dupont, and Atlantic Coast Line in an outburst of buying which followed a reduction of the call money rate from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent. The raising of the annual dividend on American Smelting from $7 to $8 and the publication on financial tickers of a bullish interview with William C. Durant helped to revive waning bullish sentiment.

Van Sweringen Rails received excellent support on reports that negotiations for a revised "Nickel Plate" plan would be resumed here by the Cleveland financier later in the week.

Several specialties showed independent strength. Montgomery Ward was run up four points and United States Cast Iron Pipe also jumped nine points.

PREPARE FOR CONFERENCE

KING GOING FRIDAY.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5. —(Canadian Press.)— Preparations for the departure of Premier Mackenzie King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, for the Imperial Conference are under way and the Prime Minister's office is a busy spot at present. In addition to preparing for the conference, Premieer King is holding daily cabinet meetings with a view to cleaning up important business before he leaves on Friday.

The report of the Duncan commission which investigated the claims o fthe Maritmie Provinces is now before the government. It is understood that the press of other business has delayed consideration of the report by the ministers, but it will probably be made public within a few days.

FEAST OF BACCHUS IS KEPT AT MARINO

ROME, Oct. 5 (United Press).—Streams of red and white, the pure and joyous juice of the grape, ran from two fountains of the little village of Marino, near Rome, on Sunday, as the people of that place observed the annual grape festival.

All day long the streams of nectar, one of crimson and one made golden by the sunlight, furnished drink to the imbibing and unrestrained thousands. There were no intoxicated persons on the streets, however. Trolley lines and trains running from Rome took groups of followers of Bacchus anxious to celebrate this wine festival which coincides with the famous "October festivals" of the Ancient Romans. The fountain known as the "Fontana de Imori" bubbled and spurted with the season's new white wine while another known as the "Trinca" cast up a three foot jet of Marino's excellent red vintage. One fountain bore a poster reading "Bacchus welcomes his followers," while the other was adorned with figures of revellers and dancing girls half hidden in clusters of fresh grapes.

A politely worded notice by the organizers of the festival urged the public not to overdo observance of these Bacchanalian rites. "You are respectfully requested to make room for other followers of Bacchus, when you have paid your tribute of one glass," it said.

STEAMER ON FIRE REACHES NEW YORK

Vessel With 397 Passengers Races Into Harbor For Safety.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—The steamship Byron of the National Greek Line, which sailed from Piraeus on September 17, with 397 passengers on board, raced into quarantine station today with a fire raging in her hold. Apparently her passengers and crew were uninjured.

In response to frantic S.O.S. calls, received when she was off Ambrose Light, a city fire tug, two pilot boats, and a police launch steamed down the bay to her assistance.

Wireless calls to the Byron asking the nature of the fire and if she was in immediate danger were acknowledged, but no details were given.

Rheumatism

If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or Legs Rheuma Will Bring Quick Relief or Nothing to Pay

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints, and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills hundreds years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Rheuma acts with speed; if often brings in just a few days the relief you have prayed for. It helps antagonize and drive from the system the deadly poisons that cause Rheumatic agony, twisted swollen, unsightly joints and sore muscles. Rheuma is harmless—quick acting and one discovery that has forced Rheumatism to yield and disappear.

Don't continue to suffer Rheumatic torture—get a bottle of Rheuma from McDermid and Jury or any druggist today. It must rid you of all Rheumatic pain or money back.

SUN DIALS POPULAR.

LONDON, October 5.—Sun dials are coming into vogue again. The romance of antiquity surrounds them, and they have lived over into this age because of their beauty and associations. In the old days every dial carried its message, such as "The longest day must end," "Make hay while the sun shines," "Be true as the dial to the sun," and "Improve each shining hour."

The only woman ever nominated for Vice-President of the United States was Miss Marie C. Brehm, of California, who was the choice of the Prohibition party for that office in 1924.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

MARIE WALESKA AND NAPOLEON.

(By the McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

To change places from wife to mistress and to have her act approved by her husband was the unusual fate of Marie Waleska, a pretty Polish noblewoman.

It was at the time when Napoleon, conquering Prussia, had marched into Poland and had been hailed by the Poles as a possible saviour of their independence. Napoleon in time, disillusioned the Poles but as he rode magnificently through the towns and conjured up visions of a martial deliverer, in the minds of the people there were no words of adulation and flattery warm enough for the master of Europe.

As Napoleon passed through the streets of Bronia, a young woman of eighteen, fired by the enthusiasm of the poplace, sprang through the crowds to the emperor and delivered herself a few stirring words in praise of him. Napoleon, seeing that the young lady had a pretty face, inclined his head graciously and presented her with one of the numerous bouquets with which his carriage was strewn.

When Napoleon reached Warsaw he foundth at his pretty heroine was the Countess Marie Waleska. Combining therefore beauty and rank, both of which Napoleon adored, he made haste to send for her, making a ball the occasion for meeting her again.

The countess already had repented her rash escapade in Bronia and felt misgivings when she received Napoleon's invitation. Friends however persuaded her to go and when she left the ball and had arrived home to think things over, this note was delivered to her:

"I saw none but you I admired none but you! I desire only you. Answer at once and calm the impatient ardor of,

N.'

Events following this note made it very clear to all in Warsaw what Napoleon's intentions were. But instead of thinking it a misfortune, Marie's friends, and even her husband looked upon Napoleon's interest in her as a windfall for Poland. Women had swayed other conquerors; might it not be possible that Marie Waleska aws destined to be the woman to save Poland through her powerful lover. Then the situation arose where husbands and friends implored and importuned the girl to yield herself to Napoleon. When Marie felt sick at heart and bewildered by the unnatural position she found herself in, the highest nobles in Poland signed and sent her this remarkable petition:

"Did Esther, think you, give herself to Ahasuerus out of the fulness of her love for him? So great was the terror with which he inspired her that she fainted at the sight of him. We may therefore conclude that affection had but little to do with her resolve. Se sacrificed her own inclinations to the salvation of her country, and that salvation it was her glory to achieve. May we be enabled to say the same of you, to your glory and our own happiness!"

Napoleon during this time was not backwards in his own efforts. He was no laggard lover, and no a foolish or rash one. He employed himself with fair promises for her country, seductive phrases in her praise and protestations of his love for her. Among his other letters to her the following was delivered to Marie one evening by General Durec, Napoleon's aide:

"There are times when all the spelndours become oppressive as I feel but too deeply at this present moment. How can I satisfy the desire of a heart that yearns to cast itself at your feet, when its impulses are checked at the very point by considerations of the highest moment? Oh, if you would, you alone might overcome the obstacles that keep us part. My friend Durec will make it easy for you. Oh, come, come! Your every wish shall be gratified! Your country will be dear er to me when you take pity on my poor heartfl. N."

Marie went.

When Napoleon later edged out of his promise regarding Poland, the Countess was able to forget his promises. For, like Esther, she heroine held as an example by her countrymen, and Judith, who might also have been held up as a guide for her conduct she had fallen in love with the man she had hated.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

The idea of corrective gymnastics for children is not so new as some of us might suppose. For many, many years well-trained young English children were given certain exercises to counteract certain physical defects. It was—and still is in the old-fashioned family—one of the duties of the governess to see that these little exercises were taken regularly by the children who needed them. And of course there are Americans too who remember some such home drilling in their youth.

Carrying a book on the head is the time-honored exercise for developing a graceful and queenly carriage. In France and England boarding-school girls were made to do this before anyone had yet invented school gymnasiums. For the children at home a favorite English game is a book race. The children stand up in Indian file, each carrying a light book on the head. The object is not to see which one can walk the fastest, but which one can walk the longest without dropping the book. Of course, they are not allowed to touch hand to the book. They walk about in single file, through the rooms and halls and up and down stairs, playing a jolly game and meantime developing a graceful carriage.

Another English idea is to make children who are round shouldered practice jumping rope. The rope must be swung backwards first to make this effective. For weak ankles, one authority recommends walking on tip toes. She advises having the children do this to music. Let them march in the usual way to an ordinary playing of a march. When the music is played softly they must go on tip toe. Another exercise that is said to be excellent for weak legs is called "trotting on the spot." In old-fashioned girl's schools this exercise was given between classes with windows wipe open. To make this most effective the knees should be drawn up high with every step. Where a number of children do this at once they snould keep time—either to counting of the leader or to fast march music.

An aged woman who died recently in London was followed to the grave by her 13 children, 66 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren.

DRESS

An editorial writer recently complained that if the Venus de Milo came to life today she would find it quite impossible to get clothes to fit her. The important thing to remember—when you read such complaints—is that if the marble goddess had turned to warm flesh and blood on the day she was first exhibited, she would probably have had trouble in wearing the clothes worn by the women of the time. There were slim flappers in the days when Greece was in her prime, just as there are today. But Venus was not and never has been of the flapper type. The clothes we wear today wouldn't fit the figures conceived by modern sculptors. Imagine one of Rodin's heroic masculine figures trying to wear a ready-made tuxedo.

One thing, however, that ought to gratify the lovers of classic ideals is the rather classic aspect of many of the present-day fashions. Vionet's deep-cut sleeves are spoken of as quite Greek and the fashion for tiered skirts is certainly of classic aspect. Jeweled girdles and girdles of gold or silver cord with heavy tassels are suggestive of classic costumery.

However, there is something very un-Greek about even the most classic of modern adaptations. Greece knew no such materials as those we use today. The sketch shows a present-day rendering of the Greek costume—but it is made of white velvet—a material which was undreamed of in classic times. One might make an interesting study of so-called Greek revivals in dress. At least once every generation, it would seem, there is something of a Greek revival. In the middle of the last century when women wore voluminous petticoats and waspish waists Greek effects were spoken of. Earlier in the century in the days of the Directoire clarsic influence was strongly at work. This is because there is something universal in the appeal of Greek costume, and every age sees something in it that it wants to make its own.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By Mildred Marshall.)

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

LUCINDA

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

Lucinda is a Seventeenth Century product. It is the romantic version of Lucy, a name borne by many noble ladies of that period, whom poetry preferred to address as Lucinda, under the impression that the latter was more pleasing and popular than the simple Lucy.

Lucinda, of course, signifies light. Her origin is with the Latin word lux, meaning light, which gave rise to the favorite old Roman name Lucius, one born at daylight, or one of fair complexion, as some translations would have it.

The first feminine form which paved the way for the rise of Lucinda, was Lucia. This name belonged to a virgin martyr of Syracuse, whose name of light, being indicated by early painters by a lamp or by an eye, led to the legend that her beautiful eyes had been put out. Santa Lucia was the patroness of Neapolitan fishermen, and her name was soon adopted by the Normans.

The daughter of the Earl of Marcia was baptized Lucia in the time of Edward the Confessor. France received her as Lucie through the House of Blois. One Lucie, a sister of Stephen, was among those lost in the White Ship. In England, Lucy was the favorite form, until the affectation of the Seventeenth Century produced Lucinda.

Lucy Anne, another popular English version, had its counterpart in Italy in Luciana, and in France in Lucienne.

The amethyst is Lucy's talismanic gem. It will safeguard her from danger and contagion, and has a sobering effect upon a frivolous or highstrung temperament. Saturday is Lucinda's lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 6 1926

(Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Again the stars smile on the inhabitants of Earth, according to astrology, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and the Sun are all in benefic aspect.

The day should be especially favorable to promoters of every sort and politicians should benefit.

Newspapers will find the demand for advertising more general than ever before, it is forecast. This is supposed to be a lucky day for theatre publicity.

Dramatists are subject to especially fortunate influences today and for stage and screen important plays are presaged.

Women have the most promising influences, which should bring them success in business and professional work.

Women artists are to prosper in the coming winter when many will be well received in Europe.

This should be a lucky day for the opening of new plays and for concerts or other entertainments that bid for public approval.

While this configuration prevails there should be a sense of stimulation and optimism, which should make for success.

This is a lucky wedding day in which lasting love and quick prosperity appear to be foreshadowed.

Marriages will be numerous in the next few weeks, which also will be marked by increase of divorces.

The Sun and Mercury are in a place presaging great interest in science, religion and inventions.

As a sign of progress the seers foretell a trend toward self-control and mental equilibrium among men and women. Ill-temper may be one of the old fashions, which has passed.

Persons whose birthdate it is will find the year propitious. They will travel and make friends.

Children born on this date will be contented and easy going, but may not make a great financial success.

TROUBLE AVERTED

John Meredith got up out of his chair with a bound. To anyone who only saw him above the table, he had the lithe grace of a trained athlete. So quickly he turned around, however, that he knocked down a waiter who was just setting down before him a covered dish from off a crowded tray.

The man fell prone to the floor and the dishes and dessert went sliding toward the other tables where there was a general upheaval.

Of course it made a great clatter and attracted the attention of everyone in the dining room. Women screamed and drew up to even shorter length their dainty dresses and men swore under their breath and scrambled over to our table.

Jerry, hearing the noise, came in from the office with the other men and ran impulsively over to our table.

"What is the matter?"

"Is it a fight?"

"Call the police."

These were some of the excited words that one divided into phrases as they hung above the din and cry of everyone in the restaurant.

Jerry, taking the whole thing in quickly, and seeing that if something was not done there was liable to be a regular mob, clambered up on a table and holding up his hands called out: "Ladies and gentlemen, please be seated. There is no fight. No one is angry. Nothing has happened except that Mr. Meredith, in getting up suddenly from his chair, inadvereently knocked over a waiter with a loaded tray in his arms.

"No one is hurt, not even the waiter."

A man from the other end of the room spoke up: "Hello Jerry Hathaway. Who made you master of ceremonies? Where'd you get your hooch? Don't you know any better than to break up the dishes and maim the waiters in your own father's establishment?"

"You go way back and sit down, Jimmie. You know very well there is no booze ever served in this restaurant."

There was a general laugh at this as the company sat down.

"What really did happen, Judy?" asked Jerry, as he dropped into the chair beside me. "I heard a noise as though the whole house were coming down and ran in to see everybody very much excited."

I was so thoroughly angry that I forgot to be diplomatic and answered, "Nothing, escept that bouncer that your father keeps around here, came over to our table when you were out and insulted Joan. Her brother just got enough to enrage him and jumped up to go over and knock him down and tipped over a waiter. Don't you think we'd better go now? We've made trouble enough."

GRAPE CATSUP

Make grape catsup this way: to each five pints of grapes allow one pound of sugar, one-half pint of vinegar and one-half ounce each cinnamon, cloves and mace. Boil sugar and vinegar fifteen minutes together; meantime, heat the pulp and skins. Let cool and rub through a collander. Add this to the vinegar and sugar, cooking twenty minutes. Bottle and seal.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY HELPS LADY MOUSE

One day Uncle Wiggily hopped to the store to get a jug of molasses for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, who was going to make a molasses cake.

"And I can't make a molasses cake without molasses," squeaked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, that being her way of talking.

"Now look here!" cried the muskrat lady, "if you don't want to get me the molasses, just say so, and I'll go myself. But I thought you liked molasses cake!"

"I do—I was only teasing you," laughed Uncle Wiggily, so on he hopped to the store where he had the jug filled with nice, sweet, sticky brown molasses.

It was when he was hopping on his way home, back to the hollow stump bungalow, that Uncle Wiggily happened to think:

"Why, I have had no adventure today! Not a single adventure! Not even a tiny smitch of one!" and a smitch is very little indeed!

The bunny gentleman happened to look down the path and there, not far away, was the animal school, where the Lady Mouse Teacher taught the boys and girls.

"I wonder if I might find an adventure there?" thought Mr. Longears. "However, I think not, as school is out, for it is after 4 o'clock. But I'll try."

Hopping closer to the school, Uncle Wiggily suddenly heard the Lady Mouse squeaking:

"Help! Help! Oh, will some one please help me! This is so very strange it makes me afraid!"

"Ha! A chance to help Lady Mouse!" cried Uncle Wiggily bravely. "This will give me an adventure!"

Into the hollow stump school he hopped as fast as he could go, and he thought he would see some bad cat, or tricky little dog, teasing the Lady Mouse. But he only saw Miss Mouse herself, standing in front of the blackboard which was near an open window.

"What is the matter, Miss Mouse?" asked the bunny.

"Much is the matter," was her answer. "I stayed in today, after all the boy and girl animals had gone, to write on the blackboard some lessons for tomorrow. Very nicely I wrote in chalk, and then I turned to go out, but when I looked back, lo and behold! All my nice chalk writing was rubbed off the board."

"What is the matter, Miss Mouse?"

"Perhaps the wind did it," said Uncle Wiggily.

"That's what I thought," said the Lady Mouse. "So I wrote the lesson again, but as soon as my back was turned, out it was rubbed again, and I am sure no one was in the room here to do it. The third time I used the chalk, and again it was rubbed out as soon as my back was turned. Then I became frightened and called for help."

"I will help you," said Uncle Wiggily. "I think some one is playing a trick on you. Now write some more with chalk, and turn your back. But I will not turn my back. I will face the board and watch." And after the writing was done and the bunny was watching, lo and behold! He saw the Fuzzy Fox thrust his big brush of a tail in through the open window and dust off all the chalk marks!

"Ah ha!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily, who was hiding behind a desk. "The mystery is solved. Now to play a trick on the Fox. Come, Lady Mouse, write more on the board and turn your back." And when the teacher had turned her back, Uncle Wiggily smeared molasses from his jug around the chalk marks. And then he waited. And when the sly Fox once more thrust his tail in through the window to rub off the chalk, his tail was stuck in the molasses on the blackboard.

"Ow! What's this!" howled the bad chap, pulling hard to free his tail. "I'm caught!"

"That's right! You're caught!" cried Uncle Wiggily and he and Lady Mouse pelted the Fox with odds and ends of chalk until the bad chap was glad enough to pull his tail loose with a jerk and run away. Then Uncle Wiggily helped clean the blackboard and when the chalk lesson was written on again it stayed there.

So this teaches us molasses is good for something else than spreading on bread, and if the oil can doesn't slip and fall down stairs when it is trying to give the sewing machine a drink, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the three sticks.

E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company says;

Our foreign trade is excellent while the fact that the United States is Canada's second best customer, has strengthened the commercial relations between the two countries. In 1925 Canada bought from the United States over 500 million dollars worth of commodities and sold to the United States over 447 million dollars worth.

I have just returned from an inspection trip throughout the Dominion. I have made regular and frequent trips for the past ten years and I can safely say that at no time have I seen greater evidences of progress or more confidence in the future than on the trip which I and the Company directors have just concluded.

There are several reasons why we in Canada are optimistic over the future. Greater activity is evidenced in the industries and the railways. For the first seven months of the year newsprint increased 23%. Immigration—our greatest need—is 62% over the corresponding period of 1925, and finally, the employment situation is steadily improving, more or less equally distributed between all industries and throughout all provinces.

Every indication is that Canada is now entering an era of progress and prosperity such as the Dominion has never known.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

REAL PROBLEMS OF REAL MOTHERS

By Winifred Stuart Gibbs Food Specialist.

How our mothers and grandmothers would have scoffed at the very thought of such a phrase as "mother training!"

"Mother training indeed!" Can't you hear them! "Child training first, last and all the time, yes, but mother training is a contradiction in terms, since parents are by a sort of divine right, well informed about what is necessary for their childrens' welfare!"

Of course the dear ladies would not have expressed themselves in precisely these terms, but that would have been the gist of their thoughts.

Not so today. A number of parent-teacher associations discuss mother training and eagerly serious. Among the questions raised during the talks of one of these groups in Nebraska were some that apparently have no connection with food and nutrition, and yet these same questions, examined in the light of our present diet knowledge, will prove good pegs on which to hang some nutritional facts.

"To control my nerves so that I will not be irritable with the children;" such is one home project suggested by an eager mother. Dear soul! Probably she has no shadow of an idea that she may be irritable because she is undernourished! Let her look to her breakfast fruit, cut out her third or even second cup of coffee; add two green vegetables to her daily diet and then she has taken the first steps toward equable temper. At this juncture let her announce calmly to a surprised family that she is about to re-organize her household so that her own meals are assured of being served in relaxed quiet. By this time things will begin to happen. Various members of the family will stop, look and listen. Mother will be known as "the best tempered woman in the block" and all will be well!

Another topic; "To help my young son to overcome fear." Thus one anxious mother. The chances are that she has no thought of the fear being connected with diet and nutrition. Perhaps this youngster has a fondness for griddle cakes with "lots of butter and sugar, please mother." A luncheon of this type when the lad's system is craving the regulating properties of fruits and vegetables may be the direct cause of an attack of "scariness" that makes the boy's life a burden because of the jeers of his chums. The sense of impending danger is often a symptom of nerve tire in older folk and of indigestion in children.

These are but two illustrations, chosen at random from a number of questions handed in for discussion by real mothers. This is not the place for discussion of details. My purpose is solely that of arousing thought on the general topic, how does nutrition affect for good or ill, some of the every day problems of every day families?

The point is that until mothers are trained to "see" the connection, to "feel" instinctively that they must look, far beyond or rather behind, as attack of "nerves," of "fear" or "temperament" they may not realize that the roots run deep.

Not that food and diet are the only points to be considered. Another "trick" is to learn to assemble all the evidence and then to weigh it and plan a reform program "according."

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The opal is today's talismanic stone bringing its wearer good luck and brilliancy of mind. The superstition that it is an unlucky stone should not be held against it on this day.

The onyx, today's natal stone, protects its wearer from the ardors of unwelcome love, and endows him with coolness and poise.

Rose color is the hue prescribed for wear to-day. It is especially advocated for those seeking social preferment.

The white rose is today's lucky flower. It is the flower of youth and brings good fortune to all whose years number less than thirty.

Flower Wisdom

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

DETERMINING factors of form and habit are instinctively strong in both plant and animal. Yet by cross breeding, by training and other outside influences they may be varied or even so modified as to be entirely changed. So it may be with children. If Dick is stubborn, for instance instead of looking around for an ancestor who was also stubborn that you may blame him for your child's characteristics and so excuse it, set about modifying that stubbornness by thoughtful training that from just pigheadedness it may be turned to a source of strength and determination guided in right channels by intelligent control.

SHORT STORY

"Reynolds, do you believe in Fate."

"No!" came the emphatic answer, "Do you."

Powers looked at his friend very seriously for a moment before speaking. "Well," he said, "until yesterday afternoon I was the most sceptical of mortals concerning predestination and all that sort of thing but now the whole world has changed."

"Let's hear all about it. I know it is something unusual to make such an impression on you."

"Yesterday I had a busy day and when closing time came I started out from the office feeling greatly fatigued. I went, as is my custom, to buy an evening paper, and there at the stand stood a woman buying a paper. She paid for it and turned abruptly to go in the opposite direction to which I was going. As I said, I was mighty tired and perhaps that is the reason I acted as I did. Whatever it was the fact remains I collided with her and almost knocked her down. She staggered and would have fallen had she not put out her hand quickly to keep her balance. And I, stupid blunderer that I was, caught it and held it fast saying, 'How do you do?' She let it rest in mine for a moment then withdrew it quickly, saying haughtily, 'You have made a mistake, sir, I do not know you'."

"That was a mighty awkward situation," laughed Reynolds.

"Yes. Then I woke up and stared at her hard. Her eyes blazed dangerously. 'Pardon me, Madam,' I said, 'I see that I have.' She brushed by me like an outraged queen. I never felt so cheap in my life. But awkward as my position was it was not what impressed me. It was—"

"I swear by all that's—"

"That will do. I know your favorite oath. No, it was not my blunder and the indignation of the lady that made so profound an impression on me, it was the thrill I got when I clasped her hand. I never experienced anything like it. And then and there I vowed I would get acquainted with her, come what may."

"What did you do?"

"I seized the news-dealer by the lapel of his coat and asked, 'Does that lady stop at your stand often?'

"'Every night, sir.'

"'At the same hour?'

"'Yes, as a rule. Sometimes she's five or ten minutes later.'

"'Do you know who she is?'

"'No, sir, but I judge she is employed somewhere about here.'

"'Thanks!' said I, slipping him something for the information, 'If she gets here to-morrow night before me try and detain her, will you?'

"'Leave it to me, sir,' laughed the newsdealer.

"I went home, had dinner, went out, and, by jove, I couldn't get the thought of the lady out of my mind. The following night I hurried to the news-stand. 'Has she been here?' I asked excitedly.

"'Not yet,' said the dealer, 'but she'll be along any minute now.'

"whereupon I took up my stand a few feet away at the curb and waited. In a few moments she came along, walking slowly as though in deep meditation. She went to the stand, bought her paper and moved on. The dealer exchanged glances with me. I turned and followed."

"Did you find out who she was?"

"Yes. I followed her to her house and gave a little boy who came out of it just as she entered a dime to tell me who she was. Reynolds, then I did what you will consider a mad act, I sent her flowers, with a little note, telling her who I was and asking if I could call that evening."

"what answer did the lady give you?"

"It nearly bowled me over when I read it. It said, 'My mother and I shall be pleased to have you call.' I went, met the lady and her mother and was entertained by them in as charming a way as though they had known me all my life. when I left I had sacrificed my dearest possession—my freedom. Given it over in keeping to a woman, who, twenty-nine hours previously, I did not know was in existence. If that wasn't Fate, what was it?"

"That's the strangest part of it. She said her mother told her she would become engaged to the man she was to marry the day after she met him. For,' added this charming old lady, 'that is what I did, my dear, and I pray that your happiness may be as complete as mine.' And so, after hearing of our encounter at the news-stand, she said, 'Mark my words, you will see him again shortly'."

"So that chance meeting explains the cause of your happiness."

"Yes. Whereas previous to that I was a self-centered, rather selfish individual, with a greed for the acquisition of knowledge that would help me to rank high among my colleagues, after that happy meeting my whole perspective changed. Now, dear old pal, I want you to be my best man, for we are to be married in a few months."

"You bet I will. Do you think there is any chance of my meeting any one like your fair lady if I hang around a news-stand?"

"You may," laughed Powers, "if you believe in Fate."

TO KEEP LETTUCE FRESH

When lettuce first comes into the house, wash it thoroughly in several changes of cold water. When it is quite clean and very wet, put it into a bag made of two thicknesses of cheesecloth, or wrap it in several thicknesses of cheesecloth and put it directly on the ice. Another good way of crisping lettuce is to put it in a stout paper bag, fold the top shut firmly, and place on the ice. Leave it there for several hours, if possible, before using. It will be fairly crisp, however, after even half an hour.

St. Louis Gives Glorious Reception To Cardinals

ST. LOUIS FANS GIVE RECEPTION TO CARDINALS ON THEIR RETURN

Thousands Throng Station to Greet World Series Players.

CHOOSE PITCHERS

Hornsby, Alexander and Southworth Heroes on Gala Celebration.

ST. LOUIS, October 5 (Canadian Press).—All the baseball pride that has been swelling in the St. Louis heart for thirty-eight years burst forth in a glorious reception late yesterday afternoon when a crowd of upwards of 100,000 jammed the railway yards and the streets to welcome home Rogers Hornsby and his Cardinal players.

The demonstration probably was the greatest ever displayed in St. Louis with the exception of that of the armistice declaration. The Cardinals came home to a howling crowd of fans eager to catch the first glimpse of the players who had captured the National League pennant and evened up the world series.

The demonstration was music to the Cardinals, a jazz symphony of bombs, whistles, horns, bells and plain ordinary yelling. Men and women swept police lines away and the crowd that choked the streets was so dense that it required more than an hour for the twenty automobiles, conveying the players, to traverse the 15 blocks from the station.

As the procession slowly moved up the streets with traffic policemen and firemen attempting to clear a path for the automobiles, showers of paper floated down from office buildings to the accompaniment of the roar of cheers, tooting of horns and every other noise-making device.

When the parade reached the Jefferson Hotel the players were smuggled to their homes to escape their shouting supporters and get rested up for to-day, when they meet the Yankees in the third game of the series.

The crowds started gathering in the railroad yards more than two hours before the arrival of the train. All afternoon the fans trickled out to points of vantage. More than half, it seemed, were women gaily dressed with brilliant cardinal red flashing in the crowds. Vendors of cowbells, rattles, pennants and Cardinal banners and rolls of streamer tape did a land office business.

When the train pulled in, it passed the station and a roar of cheers arose as the Cardinals stepped to the elevated walk to tramp back to the station. Hornsby, Grover Cleveland Alexander and Bill Southworth, the home run hero, were spotted immediately and their names were screamed to the skies.

Other players moved unmolested to the waiting automobiles, but Alexander, Hornsby and Southworth were almost crushed by the mob of men and women eager to touch these heroes, slap their back, run fingers through their hair or even kiss them. The players may have been tired from their twenty-four hour journey after Sunday's victory, but they did not show it on this occasion.

When Hornsby and his players stepped from the train they were met by a citizens' reception committee, headed by Mayor Victor Miller and J. P. Grosse, city registrar. The Cardinal leader was presented with a $5,000 sedan, the gift of his St. Louis admirers. He immediately piled into it along with his wife and took his place in the parade just where he requested he be placed — bringing up the rear.

The parade was led by a detail of mounted police, then followed a detail of firemen carrying the United States flag. Next in line were nine men dressed as red birds, carrying a six foot red bird aloft. In addition to the players, the automobiles carried Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball; President John A. Heydler of the National League; Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinal Club; Branch Rickey, business manager of the Cardinal team, and other baseball dignitaries.

The parade was disorganized at times into as many units as there were automobiles, and each motor car bore volunteer passengers, who slung to fenders, bumpers and running boards, disregarding their own safety in order to get a close up of their idols and yell a word of cheer.

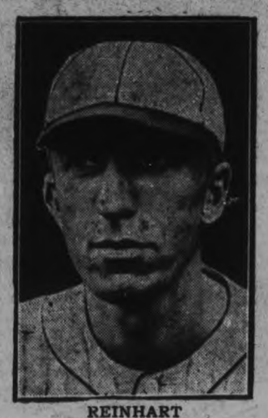
Two bands strung out by the crowd and jostled here and there, managed to keep up a lively tune all the way, although their efforts were almost drowned out by the continuous cheering. As the parade moved into the business district, traffic became jammed and automobile drivers began to backfire their engines to add to the din.

Hornsby's automobile, the last in the parade, was guarded by eight policemen who rode on its running boards and fenders and made an effort to keep the crowd from marring its fresh paint, and at some points along the route from dragging Hornsby out to be welcomed in person.

Teams Prepare.

After the tumult and the shouting had subsided last night, rival boards of strategy of the Yankees and Cardinals put the finishing touches to their plans of battle for the third game to-day, first of three contests scheduled here.

Unless there is a sudden shift in plans, to-day will bring about a pitching duel between "Dutch" Ruther, veteran southpaw of the Yankees, and Arthur Reinhart, slim young portsider of the Cardinals, in the second left-handed tussle of the series.



REINHART

The Yankees came off victoriously in the first southpaw fray, Herb Pennock besting Willie Sherdel on the opening day in New York, and Manager Miller Huggins is confident Ruether will repeat the dose. "Dutch" has been through the heat of many a fiery campaign. His experience and coolness will be as much of an asset as his hurling skill when the clamor for the Cardinals breaks loose at Sportsman's Field to-day.

Charles Flint Rhem, brilliant young right-hander of the Cardinals, had been picked by some for duty to-day, but Rogers Hornsby is understood to have listened to the advice of veteran counsellors to keep him in reserve. These advisers believe that Rhem's favorite weapon, speed, would be made to order for the Yankee sluggers, whereas Reinhart's more deceptive offerings would be less to the liking of the New Yorkers.

If Reinhart goes to the mound and wins, Hornsby probably will come back with Sherdel in the fourth game Wednesday. Sherdel twirled a good game Saturday, although beaten, and would be fit for duty again after three full days between assignments, besides which he would have the advantage of his experience against the Yankees in his first effort.

So far there has been little to choose between the contending clubs, dead-locked at one victory apiece, as they shift battle grounds. The Yankees won the first tilt with better pitching and timelier hitting and the same factors prevailed for the Cardinals in the second contest. Pennock for the Yankees and Alexander for the Cardinals both turned in mound masterpieces. One wallop was sufficient to give them the decision in each case, Gehrig's single producing the winning tally in the first game and Southworth's homer settling the issue in the Sunday game before a record-breaking crowd.

Defensively, the Yankees have had somewhat the best of it so far. They played errorless ball in each game, with their "kid" infield shining particularly, while the Cardinals seemed less steady and were charged with an error in each contest. The expected superiority of the Cardinals behind the bat has failed to materialize thus far. Hank Severeid, now in his fifteenth season, has played faultlessly behind the bat for the Yanks in filling the shoes of the injured regular, Bengough. Defensively, his work has easily measured up to that of Bob O'Farrell, the Cardinal star, although the latter's bat has been more potent.

Fair Weather Is Promised For Third Tilt Of Series

ST. LOUIS, October 5. (Canadian Press).—Fair and cool weather was predicted for to-day when the Cardinals and Yankees play the third game of the world's series at Sportsman's Park.

SWAT KINGS FAIL TO SPARKLE IN THE FIRST TWO

Ruth and Hornsby Have Made One Bingle Each.

AVERAGE .143

(By Paul W. White, United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, October 4. — The bright particular stars of the world series teams thus far have twinkled but feebly.

When the news somehow was noised about that the New York Yanks and St. Louis Cardinals would fight it out in the 1926 classic, the lovers of swat were jubilant at the prospect of seeing Babe Ruth and Rogers Hornsby engage in a batting duel of the ages.

Here were two batting heroes who hold most of the slugging records in their respective leagues. The fans figured that the opposing outfielders would enjoy a great deal of roadwork as a result of the activities of the two extraordinary wallopers.

One Hit Each.

But the first two games have passed, and both Ruth and Hornsby have a batting average of .143—the result of one hit apiece in seven legal trips to the plate.

In the first game Hornsby was held hitless by Pennock, and Ruth reached Sherdel for one single. Sunday Ruth was at the mercy of Alexander, and Hornsby nicked Shocker for one hit.

Ruth was fanned in his first trip to the plate Sunday, when "Aleck" pitched his 6-to-2 masterpiece.

In the third inning Combs was on first with one out, but the best the big Yankee could do was a pop to short. In the sixth he grounded to Hornsby, and he finished up the day by lining to Hornsby in the ninth.

Failed on Saturday.

The Cardinal manager had a little better day than on Saturday, when he was retired on four easy chances.

In the first he doubled to right, but was stranded. In the third, with men on first and second and the Yanks two runs ahead, Hornsby denied himself a chance at glory by sacrificing. The strategy was successful, for Bottomley's single brought in Douthit and Southworth.

Hornsby completed the day with a hopper to Dugan in the fifth, a grounder to Koenig in the seventh and a base on balls in the ninth.

With three splendid pitching performances thus far, those of Pennock, Sherdel and Alexander, there hasn't been much batting strength exhibited anywhere. Southworth, with three hits, including Sunday's home, which scored two men ahead of him and broke up the game, has been a leader on the offence, as has Jim Bottomley, with four hits out of nine trips to the plate. Lou Gehrig and Toney Lazzeri have earned whatever laurels were due to the Yanks.

The fans are wondering whether Hornsby and Ruth will yet provide the thrills that were expected from them. One recalls the fate of Roger Peckinpaugh in last year's series, when the American league's "most valuable player" committed eight errors, contributing largely to Washington's downfall.

SENATORS PREPARE FOR OPENING GAME

Will Open Big Four Schedule in Hamilton on Saturday.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 5. — (Canadian Press). — The Ottawa Senators reached the city after the exhibition game with Queen's in the early hours of Sunday morning, a tired lot. They travelled by 'bus, and after playing a hard game the 'bus ride was certainly not the best thing in the world for them.

The team rested yesterday, but will start back at the grind to-day, preparing for the opening game of their big four schedule in Hamilton Saturday. Coach McCann was well pleased with the showing made against the better-conditioned collegians on Saturday, and is confident that his charges will drive the Bengals along at a merry old clip in the battle for points at the ambitious city.

Tubman, who sustained an injury to his hip in Kingston, is reported to be well recovered, and the remainder of the team will be available, with the exception of Mulroney, sub back fielder, and Buells, sub snap and outside wing. Mulroney is still carrying the marks of McKelvey's cleats on his face, while Buells sustained a broken hand in the third-period mix-up.

THOMASBURG PERSONALS

THOMASBURG, Oct. 4.—Misses Ruby Holbert and Muriel Kingston, nurses in training, of Kingston spent a few days with friends here last week.

Mr. Charlie Hick, of Belleville, took dinner at the home of Mr. Walter Harrison on Tuesday.

Mrs. Harper Broad of Coldsprings, and sister, Miss Irene Kerr, called to see Miss Mildred Harrison, who has been quite ill on Thursday.

Quite a number attended the rally service in the United church on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne Adams have returned to live at our burg.

Mr. John Adams is ailing at present.

Sunday school of the United church will start at 2.30 p.m. instead of 9.30 a.m. on October 3rd.

Mrs. Margaret Embry is spending a few days with Belleville friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Post, Miss McCann and Miss Ketcheson, of Eldorado, were Sunday guests at Mr. Harry Lee's.

Mr. and Mrs. Badgley and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour, of Frankford, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fennell on Sunday.

PRESENTS OF MIND.

An Aberdonian and his daughter took up golf. At the close of a game the father was laid a dead stymie, while the daughter had one to play to win the match. Turning around to her, he said, "Jeannie, isn't the morn yer burthday?"

"Yes, faither."

"Ah, well," he said. "I'll gie ye that hole for a present."—Canny Tale Frae Aberdeen.

CANADIAN SEED STANDING HIGH

Has Reputation For Vigor, Production and Early Maturing.

"NORTHERN GROWN."

"Northern-grown" seeds are much discussed by farmers and gardeners who do not live in the north. The term has come to imply unimpaired vigour, early maturity, and productiveness. Canadian-grown seeds enjoy a high reputation because of these qualities and because there has been established in Canada a system for standardizing seeds under grade names designated in the Seeds Act. The inspectors of the Seeds Branch of the Department of Agriculture inspect seed crops for purity of variety at a cost of fifteen cents per acre to the farmer. The threshed and cleaned seed is again inspected by the same officers, and if of superior quality is graded, registered, and sealed in the sack for commerce.

Cereal Seeds.

The quantity of Registered, Extra No. 1, and No. 1 grades of inspected seed grain produced in Canada is much in excess of domestic requirements, and large amounts of seed oats, barley, wheat, and rye are offered for export under seed inspection certificates. Because of having so large a quantity available in the domestic market the cereal crops in Canada during the past fifteen years have become greatly improved, with fewer varieties and the general use of seed that is true to a desirable variety.

Grass and Clover Seeds.

Alsike seed grown in Canada controls the world's prices for that commodity. The rich, moist clay loam soils of Canada produce alsike seed of a quality unequalled by any other place in the world. The world's greatest centre of alsike seed production is probably Victoria county in the province of Ontario.

Heretofore red clover seeds have not been grown as extensively as they should have been. Northern varieties of red clover do not give large yields of seed as compared with southern clovers. Twenty to thirty cents per pound may be required to attract Canadian farmers to the production of red clover seed, whereas the farmers of Italy, Chile, and other southern countries may acquire wealth in the production of red clover seed at from twelve to fifteen cents per pound. This southern seed, however, though cheap, is not winter-hardy in our norther areas, and in future, under regulations recently adopted, the imported seeds will have to be stained green, or, if of extreme southern origin, red, so that farmers may protect themselves against purchasing them. In consequence the price for Canadian-grown red clover seeds during the next year or two is expected to be unusually high.

Under the Seed Branch service of field crop and seed inspection, alfalfa seed producton has increased in twenty-five years from nothing to more than one hundred thousand bushels. Our exports from last year's alfalfa seed crop amounted to approximately seventy-five thousand bushels. The Ontario Variegated and the Alberta Grimm varieties of alfalfa seed are sought after in many countries because of their proven winter hardiness and superior quality for forage crop purposes.

Grass seed production includes many kinds: timothy, western rye, grass, brome grass, and in recent years, that finest of turf grasses browntop (Agrostis tenuis). Twenty-five thousand pounds of seed of this latter grass was produced last year on Prince Edward Island from inspected seed crops, and it is anticipated that this amount may be increased this year to sixty thousand pounds. Seed of No. 1 grade will yield approximately a dollar per pound. The No. 3 grade and other inferior qualities equal or superior to the imported stocks of the same species will be sold in competition with them at prices commensurate with the quality.

From the brome grass seed crop five hundred thousands pounds were inspected and sealed in the sack for export at a cost for seed testing and sealing of one-fifth of a cent per pound. Trading on the basis of an inspection certificate as distinguished from a type sample certificate, would seem to be highly satisfactory to seed merchants.

Field Rootand Garden Vegetable Seeds.

Thus far the greater part of Canadian requirements of field root and garden vegetable seeds have been imported. Fifteen years ago a start was made by the Seed Branch to encourage the home production of these seeds. The work so undertaken was attended with success but was disrupted during the war. About thirty-five farmers and gardeners who have made a specialty of growing seed of one or more kinds of these crops have continued throughout, and during the last few years these have steadily increased in number. The province of British Columbia offers numerous local climates,and under ideal soil and moisture conditions the best quality of field root and garden seeds in the world may be economically produced in quantity for commerce.

The development of this industry will necessarily continue to be slow because it requires many years of special training on the part of the seed grower. Horticultural plant breeders at the various experimental stations in Canada have undertaken to provide Elite stock seed specially bred and selected to fit into Canadian climatic conditions. It is to the multiplication of this stock seed that the seed growers in British Columbia and other parts of Canada will devote their attention. The steady development of this special industry is reasonably assured because the quality of the seed produced excels that of any other seed, and is particularly suitable for Canadian use.

ANOTHER LAWSUIT FACES JACK

Just as though Mr. William Harrison Dempsey hadn't had enough trouble recently, Mrs. M. J. LaRoche, right, wife of a Philadelphia business man, has filed suit against the ex-champion for $35,000. She claims that as Dempsey was leaving the ring at the Sesquicentennial he cleared his path with a blow to her jaw. Governor Pinchot, of whose party Mrs. LaRoche was a member, is said to be ready to take the stand in her behalf. Oh, yes, the decoration at the left is Mabel, Mrs. LaRoche's daughter.

REUTHER MAY OPPOSE HAINES

CAPACITY CROWD.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press). — With the World Series starting all over here today, the managers of the contending Cardinals and Yankees were giving serious thought to pitching selections. The pitchers proved the most important players in the first two games.

Subject to possible last minute changes Rogers Hornsby was expected to call on Jess Haines, a big right hander, with Miller Huggins prepared to nominate "Dutch" Ruether, a left hander, but almost as big as Haines.

The first game of the series in New York brought a sterling pitching test between Pennock and Sherdel, the Yankee sharp-shooter getting a 2 to 1 decision. The clash of right handers gave the Cardinals an opportunity to even the Cardinals an Alexander stopped the American leaguers in their tracks and beat them, 6 to 2.

If Haines opposes Ruether today, it will be the first case of a right-hander against a southpaw.

After rain cast a pall of gloom over St. Louis yesterday, the weather bureau brought smiles today with a forecast of "clear, but cool," for today's game.

Play will begin at 1.30 p.m. Central Standard time.

No changes in the respective line-ups, outside the pitching mound, were anticipated by the rival managers.

A capacity crowd of 38,000 was assured, with all the grand stand seats sold in advance and long lines formed for the 7,500 bleacher seats and 3,500 standing room to be sold at the gate.

MABEL AND LEU AT HOME

Mabel Normand, screen comme-dienne, is Mrs. Lew Cody now. This picture shows her and her actor-husband at their home in Hollywood just after the wedding.

the lovely fur scarfs which were worn with many of the gowns, in the dress coats, where the straight lines and deep fur trimming to collar and cuffs were much in evidence and in the dresses themselves.

Combinations of materials and colors were lovely in some of the models exhibited. One stunning costume was developed in black and white satin, with the new dolman sleeves which appear on so many of the frocks, and are really a continuation, in appearance, of the gowns themselves, with a commencement deep under the arm and finishing the tiny wrist cuff. These were developed again in a black and rose and a black and pale green dress. Silk panne velvet and silver cloth was a striking combination also.

Coats of dress type were in needlepoint, in black and grey, in warm tans and browns and the new Chanel red, with the latter shade in a lovely model finished with grey lynx collar and cuffs. They appeared with deep fur collars in the sports models, with stole-like fur collars and deep cuffs in the dressier types, and some had fur hems. One lovely coat was of leopard skin, with moufion colalr, cuffs and hems, and others had squirrel and lynx trims.

Sports gowns in frocks with straight lines and half collars were shown first, followed by the afternoon gowns and evening frocks. These gorgeous and yet with an appearance of extreme artistry, evoked many enthusiastic comments from the audience. They showed the moderate length in skirts, the fitted bodice and buffant skirts, the uneven hemlines, and, above all, the beautiful effects in steel beading and glittering sequins that are an outstanding item in evening wear for this season. Pastel shades were paramount, with one wonderful creation in a rose cut velvet on chiffon. The gown of the soloist, Mrs. Perrin, was also from the McNabb store, and was a lovely affair finished heavily with sequins.

Names of the young ladies acting as mannequins for the Fashion Show are the Misses Mildred Morphet, Daisy Davidson, Maida Conner, Florence Adams, Violet McKeown, Jennie Frederick, Agnes Sowden and Teddy Conner.

DORIS KENYON IN HER GREATEST ROLE

"Mismate" Sees Talented Actress Giving Superlative Performance at the Strand

Surrounding Miss Kenyon is a brilliant cast. Warner Baxter has the feature male role. Philo McCollough is the "heavy." Mae Allison, Charles Murray, John Kolb, Maude Turner, Gordon, Naney Kelley, Cyril Ring, Charles Beyer and others compose the remainder of the cast.

CABINET OF SILVER FROM WORK MATES

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor Receive Gift on Wedding.

At a very pleasant gathering held on Friday last, the members of the freight staff of the Canadian National Railways presented Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor with a beautiful cabinet of silver on the occasion of their marriage.

Departing from the usual lines of such celebrations, the company held a mock trial at the home of the happy couple, and the couple pleading guilty, expressed extreme regrets for the offence, and in asking for clemency, reminded the judge, Hurrell Dodds, that he himself had committed the same offence. The judge treated them as first offenders and sentenced them to a life time of happiness.

The following address was read by Carl C. Smith:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Taylor,—We were pleasantly surprised a few weeks back on learning of your desertion from the ranks of bachelorhood and becoming a member of that ancient and noble order of benedicts. As the years rolled by, some of us had thought you were delaying this higher state of life too long, but now agree, on meeting your bonny bride, that there was justification for postponing the happy day.

Your stealthy departure for that small town, boasted of by the natives, "the prettiest in Canada," and returning with the choicest flower from their collection as your bride, proves that you will be a most worthy member of our order. We heartily welcome you, at least those of us who are so well acquainted with the traditional mysteries connected with this so-called perfect state of life.

There are many in this gathering seriously endeavoring to fit themselves and longing for their day to arrive. We know you will join us in extending them a word of courage and hope, so that at some later date we shall be able to welcome them into the fold.

We your friends and colleagues are glad to gather in your home this evening to spend a social hour, and at the same time ask your acceptance of this cabinet of silver, as a tangible token of our friendship and cordial good wishes for your future happiness and welfare. May all your troubles be little ones.

We may express the hope that in the years to come, this small gift will ever recall to mind pleasant memories of this evening and the happy years we have so pleasantly spent together.

Signed on behalf of staff,
A. MacNab, Agent.
F. V. Clementi, Chief Clerk.
C. H. McGee, Shed Foreman.

H. Dodds and W. Dalliday of the local Customs House staff were present and joined with the C.N.R. men in extending felicitations to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor.

THEATRE

McNABB'S FASHION SHOW AND "MANTRAP."

Every available seat in the Capitol Theatre was filled last evening for a splendid programme in which each item was entertaining in the extreme. With a Fashion Show put on by the J. A. McNabb Company, Limited, just the right length and artistically handled in every particular, an excellent feature picture, a really funny comedy and appropriate music played by the Capitol orchestra, the programme could not fail to appeal to the audience, which applauded the various items enthusiastically.

The singing of Mrs. Jessie H. Perrin was a decided addition to the Fashion Show. Her soprano voice was lovely, particularly in the charming song, "Mavourneen," and in the final rendition of the "Song of Love" from "Blossom Time," which accompanies the group appearance on the stage of the eight models in a swirling parade in which the young ladies wore beautiful evening frocks. This group with colored lights playing over the exquisite gowns, is a fitting final touch to a Fashion Show that is attractive in every detail and is one of the most interesting affairs of its sort ever presented in the city. Tonight and to-morrow night will give patrons an opportunity to see this demonstration again.

The picture programme included a burelesque comedy which was unusually good, for this type of funny picture, displaying as it did, real cleverness in the quality of the characterizations. The feature picture, "Mantrap," is somewhat out of the ordinary also, with the popular Percy Marmont in the role of the hero, Ralph Prescott, a New York lawyer who seeks the great Out of Doors in order to escape from women and their wiles; Ernest Torrence in a splendid characterization of an outdoor man who wants to be vamped, (Joe Easter), and Clara Bow, as Alverna, in one of the finest feminine roles seen in a picture in some time. The lady has a style all her own, and she mixes things up pretty thoroughly for Ralph and Joe alike. The manner in which she vamps the pair of them and incidentally, every other male in the vicinity, is worthy of especial mention. The title, "Mantrap," although it is supposed to refer to the "Mantrap Trading Company" of which Joe Easter is proprietor, really has more to do with the significant pair of ankles that appears behind the title in the introduction to the picture.

Preceding the feature picture is the Fashion Show, which is the real attraction of the evening, and is just a little bit different in presentation to the usual run of such affairs. With an attractive stage setting, provided by furnishings from the Comstock stores, the gowns from the J. A. McNabb Company, Limited, the furs from Wm. Lech and Sons store, the hats from Mrs. J. Wilson's millinery parlors, attractive mannequins, members of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D. E., with coiffures aranged by Madame Merriam, and vocal solos by Mrs. Jessie H. Perrin, accompanied by an augmented orchestra, the Fashion Show is exceptionally entertaining.

The order of presentation was as follows: Utility sports dresses and sports coats, dress coats, afternoon and evening frocks. High lights in the season's modes were exemplified in every instance, both in the frocks and in the modish hats, in which the flair for draped turbans and black velvets was apparent, in

Many clever people will think with today's puzzle solved they have full directions to find the key, but the wise man will not count his chickens before they are hatched. There is one more installment of the puzzle tomorrow.

Twelve words have already been given in this $50.00 prize contest and these, with today's three and the three that are to come on Wednesday make a sentence of eighteen words telling clearly where the key is hidden. Any key won't do. The key that wins the Black Pirate's treasure has been specially marked by the Manager of The Examiner and hidden by the City Editor.

Once again searchers for this treasure are warned that they must have a copy of Wednesday's Examiner with them when they bring the key to apply for the treasure. Wise treasure-seekers will be on hand at The Examiner office tomorrow immediately the papers are issued so that they can obtain a copy without delay and hurry to the very clearly described place where the key is hidden. Everyone has an equal chance—it is simply a question of who gets the key first.

13.—Inside
14.—Place for open air recreation
15.—Piece of armament.

Get tomorrow's Examiner, work out the last three words, get the key, bring it to The Examiner Office and receive the prize of $50.00. There is only one prize.

PRINCE'S ACTION CAUSES UNREST

Commander of Regiment Must Resign—Monarchist Coup Feared.

SERVED IN ARMY.

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (United Press).—Disclosures that the former Crown Prince's eldest son, Prince Wilhelm, recently served with the First German Army during the Wuerttemburg manoeuvres, to-day was causing the Government increasing embarrassment.
The revelation increased the apprehension of those persons in Germany who believe that the German army is being prepared for a Monarchist coup. It was reported to-day that Wilhelm stayed at the same Muensingen hotel that sheltered President Von Hindenburg during the war games. It appeared to-day that the commander of the Potsdam regiment with which the Prince served would be asked to resign.

DENTAL TREATMENT NATIONAL MATTER

British Government Includes Dental Service in Health Scheme.

LONDON, October 5 (United Press).—England is hanging out her sign as dentist to 15,000,000 people.
The Ministry of Health has included dental treatment in the Governmentally controlled national health insurance scheme and has arranged for selected dentists to treat insured people at stated charges ranging from 60 cents for the extraction of one tooth to $30 for a complete set of false teeth.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE ROY STUDIO

In keeping with its policy of progress, the Roy Studio has recently re-modelled, enlarged and re-decorated its show windows in such a way as to make them much more effective for the display of the work of the Studio. The windows have been deepened considerably and refinished in a background of dark mahogany panelling that is extremely decorative. In these windows are on view this week some of the new "Roycraft" enlargements, which are projection prints from amateur films, which exemplify perfectly the motto of the Studio: "Professional printing for the Amateur Photographer." They are a plate-marked, sheet print, made on the highest grade professional paper of the type termed "Old Master," with a rough tapestry finish, and a soft grey gery coloring which gives the effect of a steel engraving to figures and landscapes alike.
The reception and skylight rooms have also been re-decorated, in soft grey coloring which gives the draperies. Many new and interesting prints are exhibited on the walls, featuring principally child photography in oil-colors, a type of work which is becoming increasingly popular. The Roy Studio is indeed an interesting spot to spend a leisure half-hour. 1d-81-34

FROST.—In loving memory of our dear mother, who died in Detroit, October 5th, 1924.

"The month of October again is here,
To us the saddest of all the year,
Because it took our dear mother away,
Just two years ago to-day.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of her so dearly loved by all;
She is remembered as well to-day
As on the day she passed away."

OBITUARY.

MARTIN BERNARD FLOOD.
The death ocurred in this city last evening of Martin Bernard Flood, aged 26, son of Bernard Flood, of Ennismore.
The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning to St. Martin's church and cemetery, Ennismore.

HELEN EPHGRAVE.
The death occurred this morning of Helen Ephgrave, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ephgrave of Leahys Lane.
The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.00 o'clock, from the family residence, to Little Lake Cemetery. It will be conducted by the Rev. J. D. Paterson.

WHY HE DIDN'T MARRY
She was worth a million, but he hated to marry for money.
She was so beautiful, he was afraid he'd be suspicious all his life.
He didn't like her mother.
He didn't want to live where she wanted to.
He wanted to feel free.
And because she turned him down.—Judge.

RESCUE ATTEMPT IS HALTED; CHINESE FORBID VOLUNTEERS TO BRING OUT MISSIONARIES

Fifty-one Foreigners Marooned in Besieged Chinese City.

HELD BY BANDITS.

Military Ruler of Province Calls Nationalists Bandits.

PEKIN, Oct. 6.—There are fifty-one foreigners in the beleaguered City of Sianfu, Capital of Shensi Province, which the national armies are holding against the attack of General Liu, Tuchun of the Province.

The United States Legation at Pekin appealed to the rival commanders to safeguard the foreigners, among whom are a number of British and United States missionaries. General Liu replied by telegraph expressing his desire to aid the marooned foreigners, but stating that the city now "is occupied by bandits."

Pirates Seize Ships

HONK KONG, Oct. 6. — After cruising three days with a pirate crew the Chinese steamer Hsin Fung arrived here yesterday, the pirates having fled on the approach of airplanes.

Twenty steerage passengers armed with revolvers suddenly sprang upon the officers of the vessel and took charge. They terrorized the Chinese passengers voyaging from Shanghai to Chefoo and Tientsin and forced the captain to steer the ship to Bias Bay, near Hong Kong, which was reached yesterday morning. Silk valued at $30,000 was landed on the bay shore with other cargo and a large quantity of the passengers' belongings. The steward and a boy were carried off by the pirates.

Rescue Attempt Fails.

HANKOW, Oct. 6.—Dr. Wheeler of Shantung University, who led a party of six volunteers seeking to reach Sianfu, Shenei Province, offering themselves as hostage for the release of a like number of foreigners, chiefly American and British, imprisoned there since the siege of last May, telegraphs that they were halted three miles outside of Sianfu and forbidden to pass.

Dr. Wheeler telegraphs the China Inland Mission under date of Sept. 30 that the condition of thirty-nine foreigners is desperate and asks that a relief expedition be sent. The British and American Consuls at Hankow replied that they are utterly unable to attempt any resistance, since all naval strength is required to keep the Yangtse open.

Wuchang again was bombed from the air Sunday night, with shrapnel falling heavily on the besieged city.

It is reported, but not verified that for foreign women led 500 Chinese women and children from Wuchange under cover of the air raid, boarding a ship secretly sent and landing after dark well below Hankow.

Well-Known Missionary

HANOVER, Oct. 6.—Miss Vera Schweitzer, who escaped from Chinese bandits, is well known in Evangelical Church circles in Hanover, having spoken in the Evangelical Church on different occasions. Her former chum, Miss Pearl Drier, is on the post office staff here. Miss Schweitzer was born on a farm near Heidelberg, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Schweitzer. She was educated at Heidelberg Public School, Kitchener Collegiate, and at the Northwestern College at Napierville, Illinois. Her parents at present reside at Waterloo. She is about 25 years of age. She went to China a year ago last August as a representative of the Evangelical Church of Canada.

Asks Court To Decide if Knickers Immoral

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., October 6 (United Press).—The Clark County courts probably will be called on to determine whether knickers worn by a nine-year-old school girl are immoral and immodest.

The principal of the school at Port Fulton refused to allow Virginia Allen, nine, to attend school because she wears knickers instead of dresses.

Mrs. Thomas Allen, Virginia's mother, insists that she wear them and has protested in vain to the city superintendent of schools.

"Take it to court," Mrs. Allen's friends advised her yesterday.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING SHORT

Reception of Reports Main Item of Business Last Night.

REQUESTS GRANTED.

Acceptance of reports from different officials and adoption of the reports of the various committees, with two or three routine items, comprised the business at a session of the Board of Education last night which lasted only twenty-five minutes. The County Teachers' Institute was granted permission to use the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute for a public session of the annual convention, which is being held next week. The request of the Kiwanis Club that the pupils of the Collegiate Institute be allowed to attend the opening of the Produced-in-Canada Fair, at 1.30 on Monday, was granted. The annual grants to the Collegiate and Public School athletic funds were made.

In connection with his report on work done during September, the School Dental Officer, Dr. J. C. Green, gave a comparison of the results of his inspection at the Queen Alexandra School for three years, as follows:

WM. HAMILTON LTD. GETS LARGE ORDER

Port Alfred Pulp and Paper Co., of Quebec, Places Contract For Pulp Barking Machines.

Mr. P. P. Westbye of the William Hamilton Co., Ltd., has just returned from Montreal where he has closed a fine contract for his company with the Port Alfred Pulp and Paper Company, of Quebec.

The contract is for nine barking drum machines, for barking pulp wood, each with a capacity of from 250 to 300 cords per day, or a total capacity of about 2,500 cords per day for the entire equipment.

The machine is built under Mr. Westbye's own patent, and its ability to handle the work in comparison with competitors had considerable to do with the securing of the order.

Each barking drum, with the driving mechanism, will weigh in the neighborhood of two hundred thousand pounds, or about two million pounds for the nine machines, and they will require between thirty and thirty-five cars to transport the machines to their destination.

Each machine is 12 feet in diameter and 45 feet in length.

Six of them will be installed at the Port Alfred plant in Quebec, and the other three at the plant at Three Rivers, Quebec.

This is one of the biggest orders to come to the local plant of William Hamilton & Co., and with other work under way will keep them busy for some time to come.

SCOTS LOSE MONEY.

GLASGOW, Oct. 6.—Despite the jokes circulated about the Scotch national characteristic, Scots do part with their money. A report of the Glasgow Corporation Tramways shows that in one year 2186 different sums of money and 918 packages of clothing were left by them in street cars.

Puppy Races With Eagle Woman Shoots Down Bird

HINGHAM, Mass., Oct. 6 (Associated Press).—A woman armed with a shotgun won a battle with an eagle yesterday when the giant bird, measuring nine feet from wing tip to wing tip, tried to carry off a puppy.

Hearing children screaming and dogs barking in her yard, Mrs. William A. Wagner hurried out in time to see the eagle swooping downward and the puppy racing madly toward a fence. The little dog got under the fence, and the eagle was temporarily frightened away.

Mrs. Wagner went inside, and as she was returning with a shotgun, she saw the eagle sweeping down again toward the dog. Taking hurried aim, for there was no time to lose, she brought down the eagle with her first shot.

Statement Laid By Former Counsel To Royal Customs Commission.

LIQUOR QUESTION.

Rum-Runners Seized Outside Three Mile Limit Should Be Prosecuted

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—In a statement handed out last evening, W. F. O'Connor, K.C., formerly joint counsel with R. L. Calder, K.C., for the Royal Commission investigating the Customs Department, charges that his dismissal is based on political ground. Mr. O'Connor's statement follows:

"During the Customs enquiry at Halifax I took the stand that in law all decisions of the Department of Customs releasing Canadian rum-runners because they had been seized outside the three-mile limit were wrong, and I contended that any such vessel, with her cargo, was seizable and condemnable, although taken anywhere on the high seas. I so argued to the Chief Justice and subsequently to the Department that Canadian ships were floating islands of Canada, and that any infraction of Canadian law occurring on the deck of a Canadian ship, at sea, occurred in law, upon the soil of Canada.

"I connected up this argument with certain sections of the Customs Act which would enable arrests, condemnations and convictions. The situation to which I referred had been wholly overlooked by all concerned with the parliamentary committee of last session. Chief Justice Lemieux was interested and impressed. He asked me to prepare, fully to argue my contention along with other matters of law arising from the hearings before him at a later date to be fixed.

"Then we adjourned business until after the elections. On September 28, the Chief Justice wired me sug-

COBHAM PLANS ATLANTIC FLIGHT

British Aviator Is Considering Flight Across Ocean

WESTERLY FLIGHT.

LONDON, October 6 (Canadian Press).—The next great flight of Sir Alan Cobham, Great Britain's newest knight, may be across the Atlantic Ocean, says the Daily Express.

The newspaper adds that Sir Alan has had this trip under consideration for some time, and that before his recent flight to Australia and return he made tentative plans to fly from England to North America.

RUTH'S HOMERS FEATURE GAME

Babe Hits Out of Park in the First and Third Innings.

BOTH OFF RHEM.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., October 6. Canadian Press. — After playing the third world series game on the instalment plan, there was a disposition in both camps to-day to ask the weather man if he meant what he said when he issued a prediction of fair with little change in temperature.

In spite of the forecast of fair for to-day the mankilling tarpaulin is down and will remain so until the sun definitely chases it away.

Fair weather pitchers were in readiness for the fourth test of the series. Miller Huggins, who makes no secret of his pitching thoughts, had definitely decided on Waite Hoyt to serve. Rogers Hornsby, after mentioning Arthur Reinhart as a possibility every day, finally drew the left-hander's number from the hat.

Although only 26 years of age, Hoyt has been pitching professional baseball for nine years and has tossed with varying success in three world series. Reinhart is just Hoyt's age but lacks the New Yorker's experience.

With a last minute change sending Flint Rhem, a young right hander, to the mound, St. Louis today sought to make it three straight from the New York Yankees in the fourth game of the World's Series.

Manager Huggins sent Waite Hoyt, his youthful veteran, to the box in an effort to even the series with the Cardinals and end the Yankee slump. Both are right handers.

Rhem was given preference over Arthur Reinhart, a southpaw, after making an appeal for a chance to tame the New Yorkers.

"I'm sure I can lick these fellows if I get chance," Rhem told Manager Hornsby.

The line-up for to-day is:

St. Louis—Douthit cf; Southworth rf; Hornsby 2b; Bottomley 1b; L. Bell 3b; Hafey lf; O'Farrell c; Thevenow ss; Rhem p.

First Innings.

New York—Combs struck out. Combs let a fast curve break over the plate, striking him out. Koenig struck out, taking a called third strike. Ruth got a homer over the right field stands, hitting the first ball pitched. The ball fell into the adjoining street. Meusel got a base on balls, the fourth pitch being outside. On the hit and run play, Gehrig singled into right, Meusel going to third. On the throw in, Meusel tried for the plate and was out, Southworth to Hornsby to O'Farrell. One run, two hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Douthit beat out a hit to deep short, hitting the first ball pitched. Southworth singled into centre. Douthit went to third. Douthit scored on Hornsby's single to right, Southworth stopping at second. Shocker warming up for the Yankees. Bottomley sent a fly to Ruth, the runners holding their bases. Bell flied out to Combs. Southworth raced to third on the catch, a sacrifice fly for Bell. Hornsby held first. Hornsby stole second. Hafey struck out. One run, three hits, no errors.

Second Innings.

New York—Lazzeri got a long hit into left for two bases, and was out stretching it, Douthit to Thevenow to Bell. Dugan popped to Thevenow. Severeid singled over the middle bag. Hoyt popped to Hornsby, who had to go back to make the catch. No runs, two hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Lazzeri stole a hit away from O'Farrell, taking his grounder near second and throwing him out. Thevenow sent up a weak fly to Gehrig. Rhem fanned, taking a third called strike with the bat on his shoulder. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Innings.

New York—Combs sent out a high fly to Douthit. Koenig up. Hornsby made an easy play on Koenig's roller and threw him out. Ruth scored on another homer over the right field stands into the street. He was loudly applauded. Rhem tried to fool him with a slow one. It was Ruth's sixth world series home run. Meusel had to jump away from the plate on a close one. Rhem threw out Meusel at first. One run, one hit, no errors.

Two Cyclists Exhibit Skill at Charleston

Two cyclists, travelling in opposite directions, and in manifest doubt of each other's intentions, entertained spectators yesterday afternoon on George Street with a fair imitation of the Charleston, as they met near the Simcoe Street intersection.

The wiggling and wriggling of the two cycles, as the riders endeavored to avert a collision, provoked shouts of merriment from all except the two principals who were obviously relieved when they steered clear of each other without a spill.

FORKE'S POLICY ON IMMIGRATION COVERS CANADA

Considers Peopling of Maritime Provinces as Well as West.

GUEST AT BANQUET.

New Minister Honored By Municipal and Provincial Authorities.

BRANDON, Man., Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration and Federal member elect for Brandon, was the guest of honor last night at a banquet following his return from Ottawa.

Mr. Forke said that while he would do his utmost for Western Canada to secure immigrants, that at the same time he would have in mind the interests of the whole Dominion. He referred particularly to the Maritime Provinces, which he said could absorb many immigrants.

Verbal bouquets from speakers hailing from all parts of the province were showered upon Mr. Forke who was paying his first visit to the province since his elevation to the cabinet. Three hundred

ESTIMATED OVER THREE MILLION VOTED SEPT. 14

Shown By Compilation of Unofficial Returns By Canadian Press.

LIST NOT COMPLETE.

235 Out of 245 Ridings Makes Total of 3,125,750 Votes.

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press)—Well over three million persons voted in the general elections on September 14 last, is shown by compilation of unofficial returns by The Canadian Press. Complete returns are still lacking from nine large ridings. These are Nelson, Man., which returned a Progressive; Athabaska, Bow River and Peace River, three Alberta seats which all returned U.F.A. candidates; North Battleford and Melfort, Sask., which were both Liberal; Qu'Appelle, Sask., Liberal-Progressive; Mackenzie, Sask., Progressive, and Cariboo, B.C., which elected a Conservative.

Unofficial compilation by The Canadian Press of complete riding returns shows that the popular vote in 235 out of 245 ridings (one of which returned a Liberal-Progressive by acclamation) made a grand total of 3,125,750. Of this 1,446,124 was the Conservative vote; 1,334,200 the Liberal vote; 101,850 the Progressive vote; 85,279 the Liberal-Progressive vote; 50,153 the Labor vote; 17,790 the Independent vote, and 45,177 the vote for U.F.A. candidates in Alberta.

The unofficial popular vote by parties and provinces, exclusive of the nine missing seats mentioned above, was as follows:

BULLET MARKS ON WAGON SAYS FARMER AS PROOF OF FUSILADE

Russell Tayor Says Lead Whistled Past His Head.

NEAR MEYERSBURG.

Woman in Nearby House Heard Sound "Like Shooting."

(Examiner Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, October 6. — Russell Taylor was "scared stiff" Monday evening when he reached Runciman's store at Meyersburg to telephone back to the local police that four shots had been fired at him near the old saw mill on his way home about 7 p.m. from Campbellford to Morganston. His home is about two miles south-east of Norham, and the saw mill is opposite Peter Bound's house.

To The Examiner the young woman in the store told of Mr. Taylor's arrival and of his call to Chief Constable John Brown.

"'Twas a blowout he heard," sneered a big thresherman impatient for the bottle of ginger beer he had ordered for a thirst that felt unquenchable.

There may be other persons down that way who doubt. Mr. Taylor's story, and certainly there are almost incredible features to it, but on the morning after his escape from the ambush he tells of his narrative sounded more emphatic than when it was relayed by the police.

"There are two bullet marks on my hog rack," Mr. Taylor told The Examiner yesterday with significant emphasis.

Woman Heard Shot.

The wife of Peter Bound, whose home is near the aforementioned sawmill, heard a sound which she believed was a rifle shot about 7 o'clock Monday night. Mr. Taylor's escape occurred a few hundred yards up the road and around the bend.

"We were tired and decided to go to bed early," Mrs. Bound said to The Examiner. "Some time between 7 and 8 o'clock I heard a

FLOTATION OF GERMAN BONDS HAS BECOME SETTLED POLICY IN PRINCIPAL ALLIED COUNTRIES

Ready Cash To Be Used in Poincare's Stabilization Plans.

IN UNITED STATES.

Seek To Persuade U. S. Government To Allow Banks To Invest.

PARIS, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press) —Flotation of German railroad, industrial and reparations bonds in the United States has become a settled policy of the principal continental allied countries entitled to reparations.

The French government, which formerly was adverse to the scheme because of the large sacrifices it would be obliged to make in order to render the securities attractive to United States investors, now is earnestly in favor of the scheme because of the ready cash in dollars the flotation of the bonds would make available for use in Premier Poincare's stabilization plans.

France, Italy and Belgium, who have been especially interested in the project, have had the matter up at Washington, it was authoritatively learned yesterday. They seek to persuade the United States government to allow United States banks to interest themselves in the project. It is understood that the French used the argument that floating these bonds will make it easier for France to stabilize the franc and hence make the payment of war debts less burdensome.

Premier Poincare, it was stated on excellent authority, has given assurance to Washington that ratification of the Mellon-Berenger settlement of French war debts to the United States will be pushed in the hope of getting favorable action on it before the end of November.

The premier told M. Simon, chairman of the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies, that the government would ask parliament to ratify the agreement with reservations along the lines of his recent speech at Bar-Le-Duc. That is to say ratification would contain the proviso that France cannot be expected to undertake the impossible—that is, that payments must be deferred if they should derange the French exchange at any time after the franc has been once stabil-

Bobbed Hair Venus Found In Ruins Of Old Babylon

BERKELEY, Calif., October 6 (Associated Press).—Tombs definitely assigned to the neolithic period, marking the transition from the stone to the early bronze age, have been discovered in recent archaelogical investigations in Palestine, by Prof. William Bade, of the Pacific School of Religion.

Several crania and one skeleton encased in paraffine are en route here for scientific study.

Dr. Bade also uncovered a well modeled head of an Asarte or Babylonian Venus whose coiffure strikingly resembles the modern feminine hair cut.

King George Presenting Alms Dish To Cathedral

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (United Press).—A silver alms basin will be presented to the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine here by King George of England. Bishop William Manning, just returned from abroad, announced that the King had approved the design and the basin would be finished in two or three months.

Taxicab Of Marne Fleet Exhibited In United States

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (Unied Press).—The most famous passenger to arrive here Tuesday upon the S.S. Republic was a taxicab. It was one of the fleet that carried General Gallieni's army from Paris to the defence of the Marne in 1914, and will be exhibited at the American Legion convention at Philadelphia, beginning October 11.

Will the young ladies who have won the following prizes, call at the Prudential Insurance Company's office and obtain letters confirming their winning the different prizes, and they then can obtain same from the different firms, who so generously donated them:

1—Miss Bregetta Conroy	5 lb. Box Laura Secords
2—Miss H. Jackson	Pair Boudoir Shoes
3—Miss B. Conroy	Pair Boudoir Shoes
4—Miss M. MacCannon	Slicker
5—Miss L. Sedgwick	Pair Ladies' Shoes
6—Miss E. Outram	Ladies' Hat Box
7—Miss H. Jackson	Permanent Wave
8—Miss M. McCannon	Silk Scarf

The prizes which were awarded today were won by the following:

Ladies' Silk Scarf, donated by Mr. Al. Sharpe, was won by Miss M. McCannon. One of these prizes is very serviceable and the other is very beautiful, and the girls wish to thank Madame Merrian and Mr. Sharpe.

The prizes for to-morrow are exceptionally good and will be awarded to the girls turning in the most bonds by 10 a.m. to Mr. John I. Allen, Superintendent, Prudential Insurance Company, and they are as follows:

1.—Diamond Ring, donated by Warne Bros., will be awarded to the girl turning in the largest number of bonds.

2.—Ladies' Silk Parasol, donated by the Hall Store, will be awarded to the girl turning in the second largest number of bonds.

3.—Two Pairs Silk Hose, donated by Mr. Botnick, will be awarded to the girl turning in the third largest number of bonds.

To-morrow morning we would like every girl in the contest to turn in as many bonds as possible and obtain more, as the prizes for to-morrow are exceptionally good.

The Bond Selling Committee are well satisfied with the work the young ladies are doing and we wish to thank them for the support they are giving the Kiwanis Club.

On Thursday there will also be a prize for the girl in the country who turns in the most bonds, and it will be a Parker-Dufold Pen, donated by Mr. Percy Bond.

The nine leading girls are as follows:

1—Miss M. McCannon	122,000

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

REBEL YELL WORKS.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Ernest Arthur Clegg, a Civil War veteran, has used the old "rebel yell" to good advantage. Awakened by a burglar he gave vent to the famous old cry and the intruder fled. Police heard the yell, too, and caught the man a few squares away.

"TIS SWEET TO MEET OUR FRIENDS AGAIN."

Sweet is the dawning after the darkness,
Sweet is the sunshine after rain,
But sweeter still, after years of absence,
To meet long parted, loved ones again.

Life holds for us here, no deeper rapture,
A joy or pleasure, more pure, than this,
Kind Heaven, to mortals, has not given,
To drink more deep of the cup of bliss.

Friends once, are friends, just the same forever,
Though their meetings be few and far apart,
For time, nor distance, nor fate nor fortune
Can change or estrange the constant heart.

Though long and weary the years that sundered
Our hearts, yet how soon their memory decays!
In the fond hand clasp, and the tender greeting
Atones for the past, and it's grieving repays.

Brief and bright are our hours of gladness,
Lost in sad farewell, and blinding tear,
Life's fabric is woven of shine and shade,
And for every meeting a parting here.

But beyond the clouds, there's a world where parting,
Sorrow and sadness can never be,
Where friend, with friend, shall be reunited,
In our Father's Home by the crystal sea.

Swiftly the sands of time are sinking,
Our earthly meetings will soon be o'er,
Heaven grant us a happy meeting yonder
Where parting rends the heart no more.

W. H. BRADBURN NEW CHAIRMAN

Succeeds E. F. Mason as Head of Peterborough Utilities Commission.

LIGHTING COSTS.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., has been elected chairman of the Utilities Commission to take the place of E. F. Mason, who resigned the chairmanship recently. Mr. Bradburn, on accepting office, expressed his regret that Mr. Mason was unable to continue as head of the Commission, and he also thanked his colleagues for the honor which they had conferred upon him.

The Commission resolved that $5,000 be set aside annually for the next six years to allow for a depreciation fund for the filter plant machinery and fixtures.

A letter was received from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, giving certain estimates which were approved by that body in connection with the street lighting system of this city. The estimates are as follows:

Series system
500 watt—$25.00 per lamp per year.
300 watt—$18.00 per lamp per year.
100 watt—$10.00 per lamp per year.
60 watt — $8.00 per lamp per year.

The secretary was instructed to send a copy of these estimates to the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE HELD

Impressive Sermons Delivered By Rev. Walter Cox at Lakfield

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 6.—Harvest Festival services were held in St. John's Church on Sunday and were largely attended. The rector, Rev. Walter Cox, was in charge and delivered impressive sermons on "The Brotherhood of the Wheat," the evening sermon continuing the theme of the morning. He dealt with the origin of the special celebration of the in-gathering of the harvest, which was begun by the parish priest of a little Cornish village many years ago, who grew the wheat from which the bread was made for use in the celebration of Holy Communion, and also grew the grapes from which the wine was made. His piety was known far and wide, and now the feast of the in-gathering of the harvest is celebrated by the Church of England in all lands.

The church was decorated for the occasion with fruits of the field and garden; sheaves of grain, wheat and oats were used and the pews and choir stalls were decorated with small wheat sheaves. The windows were decorated with autumn leaves and flowers, and garden vegetables and flowers were banked around the lectern, which was decorated with autumn leaves. The prayer desks were also banked with flowers and vegetables. The altar was decorated with gladioli, asters and salira and with mounds of grapes. The effect was very pretty and was much admired.

There was a celebration at the 11 o'clock service of the Holy Eucharist, and at 7 o'clock there was shortened evensong and sermon.

News Briefs.

Rev. James Ross, of Peterboro, will be in charge of the Presbyterian services in Lakefield and Warsaw for the next six months.

A large number of Lakefield people took in "Massey" Batten's annual excursion to the Bobcaygeon Fair on Saturday, per steamer Stoney Lake. The weather conditions were absolutely perfect and the changing foliage made the scenery even more beautiful than in the summer season. No water trip of the summer could compare with the beauty of the lakes on Saturday last.

Scheduled games in the Softball League for the week are: On Thursday evening, at 7.30, North Douro vs. Wesley; at 9 o'clock, Lakefield vs. Centre Douro.

On Tuesday evening last the members of the Lakefield Volunteer Fire Brigade assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Grylls on Queen street and presented the bride and groom with a very handsome piece of furniture as a remembrance on the occasion of his marriage from his friends in the brigade. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner, concluding with renewed felicitations to the happy couple.

Field Crop Competition.

The judging in the field crop competition for corn, under the auspices of the Lakefield Agricultural Society, was held on Monday, and prizes awarded as follows: William Frankish, Douro; H. J. Abbott, Douro; Joseph Mann, Smith; B. Q. Dench, Douro; Gordon Mann, Smith; R. Charlton, Douro; N. S. Higgins, Smith.

The judge was Mr. H. E. Redmer, Prince Edward County.

ARCH FOR MISSING.

LONDON Oct. 6.—The British war memorial at Ypres, Belgium, where 58,000 British fell who have no known graves, is nearing completion. King George is expected to unveil it next year.

Write The Borden Co. Limited, Montreal for this helpful book showing how to prepare appetizing, nourishing dishes. Many new recipes. Especially valuable to mothers of under-nourished children or little ones who are hard to please at meal-times.

Pyle Invites Papers To Photograph Lenglen

NEW YORK, October 5.—(United Press).—Something of the modern art of Ballyhoo is illustrated in the following telegram sent to newspapers and press associations by Mr. C. C. Pyle, the go-getting impressario of professional football and tennis:

"Mademoiselle Suzanne Lenglen will pose for press photographers in Parisian gowns and sports clothes in the private suite on the second floor of the Vanderbilt Hotel, beginning at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Adequate lighting will be provided, rendering flash lighting unnecessary. Your writers and photographers will be welcome."

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 6.—Anniversary services are to be held Sunday, October 24, afternoon and evening. Rev. Mr. Wilson, Brighton, will be the preacher. On the following Monday night a fowl supper will be served in the dining hall.

The Efficiency League will be held Friday night of this week instead of Thursday.

Mr. Jack Scully and some friends motored from Toronto and spent the week-end at "Idylwood."

Work has commenced on removing the logs which have been placed on the grounds at the wharf all summer, and the same are being loaded on a scow and taken en route down the canal to Trenton Co-operage Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Wight, of Peterboro, spent Sunday at "Cedar Isle."

Mr. and Mrs. John Waters have returned from spending a few weeks with their daughter at Kingston.

The trustees of the Public School received word on Sunday night that Miss Blakley, teacher, who has been ill at her home near Warsaw, has taken a relapse and is still very ill and will not be able to return to the school this week. They are trying to secure a temporary teacher in the meantime.

Mr. Stanley Carnrite's health has not improved and he went to Peterboro to enter a hospital for treatment.

Mr. Isaac Lawson went to Peterboro Sunday to see his sister, Mrs. Vanderburg, who is ill in the hospital.

MR. MASON'S DECISION.

The decision of Mr. E. F. Mason to complete his term as Utilities Commissioner so long as he is relieved of the responsibility of the chairmanship has been received with satisfaction, not only by the members of the Council, but by the citizens generally.

Had Mr. Mason adhered to his original decision the city fathers would have been compelled to appoint a Commissioner for the balance of his term, a task about which the Aldermen were not at all eager.

The Commissioner recognized the difficulty that would have been created by his withdrawal, and at a personal sacrifice has consented to remain in office until the end of the year.

For this resolution Mr. Mason deserves the thanks of the public; it is realized that he is sticking at his post through a keen sense of civic duty and at a cost to himself, inasmuch as his public responsibilities mean the loss of time that would otherwise be devoted to his own business.

So far no aspirant for the role of Mr. Mason's successor has officially tossed his hat into the ring.

HIDING ITS WOUNDS.

Red Cross officials are complaining that their work in Florida is being hampered because of the attempts being made to make light of the results of the cyclone.

Naturally officials in Florida are anxious to put the soft-pedal on its stories dealing with the catastrophe.

What they have been selling to the world during the boom years was principally climate.

People were lured to Florida by the promise of perpetual sunshine and delightfully warm and pleasant weather.

The devasting storm of last month destroyed in a few hours the results of years of publicity.

People are likely to decide that they can get along with a little less sunshine and endure a little more cold, if they can be assured at the same time that a cyclone or a hurricane is not likely to come along at any time and lift their home off its foundations.

It is no wonder then that Florida is endeavouring to hide its wounds and minimize the effect of the great storm.

NEXT WEEK'S EXHIBITION.

The people of Peterboro are genuinely interested in next week's Produced-in-Canada Exhibition, not only because of the merit of the programme offered, but because of their faith in the Kiwanis Club as an organization that is doing a splendid community service.

It is not necessary to specifically mention the different activities with which the local Kiwanis Club has been associated since its inception.

The citizens know what Kiwanis has done and is doing, and are therefore ready to assist the organization in continuing its programme on behalf of a better city.

Of the Exhibition itself it may be said that in a number of its features it will be unique.

It will serve to give Peterboro people a better conception of what Canada is doing along manufacturing lines and to stress the importance of buying Canadian products.

And while its educational side will be important, entertainment is not being neglected.

In fact, the Exhibition will have something for everybody, and a huge attendance throughout the week would seem to be assured.

COBHAM'S TRIUMPH.

Although his exploit was not marked by the same publicity that made the feats of other flyers a nine days' wonder, the wonderful performance of Alan Cobham, British birdman, in completing a round trip from England to Australia will rank as one of the outstanding triumphs of flying history.

It is gratifying to learn that the successful aviator was given a warm reception by his fellow-countrymen, who usually take such exploits as more or less a matter of course.

Cobham's record in the air has been remarkable. In two years of distance flying it is estimated that he has covered some 500,000 miles.

His Australian flight represented an air journey of 28,000 miles, the actual flying time being 320 hours, or 13 days and eight hours.

Starting on his flight last June, he travelled by easy stages, crossing Europe, Asia Minor, India, the Malay Peninsula and the East Indies. On the return journey, which commenced on September 14th, he ran into heavy storms in the tropical regions, but was able to adhere closely to a well prepared schedule.

The long flight may not have been as sensational a display as other air feats, but in the way of practical usefulness it has accomplished much more than other more showy "stunts," and the name of Cobham should be a household one in every part of the British Empire.

STILL THE COAL STRIKE.

The desperately distressful coal strike still continues in England, with apparently no prospect of termination except the sort of termination which Mr. Cook, the miners' leader, has indicated when he says: "We may be beaten by starvation."

It is a frightful thing in its evil consequences for a hundred and fifty thousand idle men and a million of terribly distressed women and children. The miners are stated to have lost $200,000,000 in wages. The mine owners are said to have lost a vast sum of profits; and outside of the coal industry there has been a shortage of $750,000,000 in the volume of British business turn-over, compared with any recent similar period of time prior to the coal strike.

Indeed, the present British condition of unemployment is appalling and almost incredible. There are usually a million paupers or unemployed in Great Britain, but now, owing to the coal strike, the figure of jobless persons registered at employment exchanges stands at 1,700,000, and this figure does not include the striking miners.

It is a terrible reflection upon human folly that such statements can be made. There was no reason except human stupidity and human pugnacity why there should ever have been any strike. The dispute was an endeavor by the employers on the one hand to increase profits or to banish losses, and on the other hand, the determination by the men not to accept any condition which would interfere with the wages they were getting or the hours they were working. What was essential was simply some disinterested and honest opinion as to what could best be done to reconcile the difficulties in the case. This could have been had by arbitration; and there are thousands of square and intelligent men in the British Isles from whom a tribunal could have been drawn to attempt a just verdict. In fact something of the kind was framed by a Government board, but neither side would accept its finding. Now both sides have suffered a loss which, even if one of them were to gain all that it desired in its most extreme mood, would still leave that side a loser for years to come.

The whole story should be accepted by industry everywhere, both on the part of employers and on the part of employed, as an object lesson as to the folly of war instead of arbitration in industrial disputes.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADA'S FUTURE.

These are the words of the Baron Byng of Vimy, uttered only a few minutes before his departure from our shores yesterday.

Canada's interests, His Excellency pointed out, are varied; she has a great East and a great West, industries and agricultural resources yet untouched, wealth and people. In welding all these economic and social factors into one cohesive whole, Lord Byng said, Canada's unity will be attained and is being attained by the process of mutual comprehension and sympathy.

The retiring Governor-General has often laid stress on the need of unity in this country. To him it has appealed as something for which Canadians should continually strive. And we should. Unity has always been something nice to talk about but in practice we have fallen sadly away from it many, many times—particularly election times.

Canada is one of the world's largest countries. Despite our comparatively small population, we have here representatives of practically every race. We have a great variety of natural conditions. We have varying types of climate. We have problems peculiar to this or that section of the country. What seems to be in the interest of this section appears to be injurious to another, and so on. This has resulted in a good deal of what we call sectionalism. Sometimes it seems impossible to get away from it. But there is a way out, a middle ground upon which all parts of the country can meet. This ground will be found when we, as Canadians, become more generally impressed with the importance of our country and the need for complete co-operation between all sections for the advancement of the whole. When this impression comes home to us all, we shall have gone far in the direction of achieving the unity for which Lord Byng pleads.

London Truth, a weekly journal with a title that explains itself, bluntly tells us that Canada is tending toward some sort of unity with the United States. Leaders in the Dominion aver that such a thing will not happen, and that is just why Truth concludes it will.

Truth may be drawing an analogy, consciously or unconsciously, to the custom of Americans, with whom the Old World comes greatly in contact through visiting tourists. Our neighbors to the South, for instance, seldom lose an opportunity to talk of equality, tolerance and how they have exploded the "divine right" of royalty. Yet in actual life their very tourists are the best examples of inequality; their personal and official foreign policy is anything but tolerant and their attitude to all nobility is one of almost slavish emulation. Truth, applying this reasoning to Canada, probably infers that if the Dominion did not have a secret feeling of future annexation, there would not be so much public talk of it.

But all this has a tendency to belittle Canada. It is equivalent to saying that the Dominion is not competent to be a nation by itself, even if it should leave the Empire. There is no justification for that assumption, either in the premise or the conclusion. Canada is a rich country with her best days ahead of her, and she has a population equal to that of many influential countries. To argue that in the improbable event of her leaving the Empire she must throw herself willy-nilly into the arms of the United States is paternalistic nonsense. It reveals the Truth writer with a Victorian mentality, laden down with the obsolete question of what will become of the "colonies."—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make Saturday's tag day on behalf of the Children's Aid Society a success by doubling your last year's contribution.

The Industrial Exhibition Board is already planning for next year's Exhibition. The directors' interest in the event is spread over the whole year, a condition which goes far in explaining the success of the Exhibition.

It is to be hoped Mr. Ferguson doesn't hold off the election campaign until the Christmas shopping season is at its peak.

The Produced-in-Canada Exhibition is growing in magnitude, and there is no doubt as to the patronage it will be accorded by the people of Peterboro who recognize it as a big event in aid of a big cause.

Harry Batstone is to become a doctor. The famous athlete should make a good surgeon judging by the ease with which he cuts off runs on the ball field.

Control figures largely in the World's Series battles, and Government control may be the big factor in the Provincial election—when Mr. Ferguson decides he will have one.

Looking back over the season we are forced to admit we lost out on having a new straw lid this year.—Galt Reporter.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press)—Wheat underwent fresh setbacks in price yesterday owing largely to better weather for the Canadian crop movement and because of lower quotations at Liverpool. The wheat market here closed unsettled at 1-2c to 1c net decline; with corn 1-8 to 3-8c off; oats 1-8 to 1-4c to 3-8c down, and provisions varying from 22c decline to 7c advance.

Corn and oats went lower with wheat, but corn rallied somewhat sharply toward the last. Better weather conditions and increased offerings of old corn to arrive were reported, but choice grades were in demand both by elevators and shippers.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 16,005; better grade yearlings strong to 25c higher; choice kinds showing upturn; other yearlings and matured steers weak to 15c lower; top yearlings $12.75, highest of season; best weighty steers on sale $11.25, scaling 1,427 and 1,439 pounds; vealers strong to 25c higher; Hogs 13,000; closing generally 15 to 25c lower than Monday's best prices; top $14.10 paid for selected 220 to 240 pound weights; practical top $14; most 210 to 250 pound weights $13.60 to $14; bulk 260 to 325 pound butchers $13.25 to $13.85; most packing sows $11.60 to $12.40; heavies downward to $11; most strong weight slaughter pigs late $11.75 to $12.50.

Sheep 20,000; fat lambs mostly 25 to 35c higher than Monday; spots showing 50c upturn; western lambs to shippers $14.35; to packers $14.25; heavy buck lambs $12 to $12.50; sheep steady; bulk fat ewes $5.50 to $6.75; top $7; choice lambs held late around $13.75.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the decline in wheat prices at Winnipeg yesterday Montreal exporters were in a position to accept a few orders from English importers for No. 2 Northern and for No. 4 barley. On spot sales of several loads of No. 2 Northern wheat were made at 11 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, and No. 4 barley at 8 cents per bushel over c.i.f. Montreal.

An easier feeling developed in the local market for Canadian Western grades and prices were reduced two cents per bushel.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were well maintained under a fair demand.

A fair amount of business was done in millfeed and prices were unchanged. The demand for standard grades was good and the undertone to the market was firm.

The undertone to the potato market continued weak on account of the unfavorable weather prevailing which tends to check the demand to some extent of which the offerings are increasing. Car lots of New Brunswick Cobblers were quoted at $1.30 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.00 per bag of 90 pounds.

The tone of the market for beans was firm at the late advance in prices noted, but the volume of business was small. Car lots of choice white hand-picked sold at $2.40 per bushel and broken lots at $2.50 to $2.60 per bushel.

On account of the continued indifferent demand for butter from all sources, a weaker feeling developed in local situation and prices were reduced 1-4c to 1-2c per pound. The receipts were 390 packages.

The tone of the cheese market was also weaker and prices were shaded 1-8c per pound. Extreme dullnes smarked the trade. Receipts were 9,555 boxes.

The egg market was moderately steady. The receipts were 765 cases.

MEN SLAY DRIVER WHO REFUSES RIDE

Son of Driver Shot and Wife Dragged From Car.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—Frank Kearney was slain, his son Robert was shot, and his wife dragged from their auto last night when Kearney refused to give two men on the Stelton Road a few miles north of here, a ride. Police believe the men were bandits on their way in an expensive car to loot a truckload of air mail due for delivery at Hedley Field, near here. Their own automobile ran into a ditch.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Young Bank Clerk Pleads Not Guilty of Stealing $30,292.

GALT, Ont., October 5. Canadian Press. — Harvey McNeil, the young ledgerkeeer of the Bank of Montreal who is accused of breaking, entering and stealing $30,292 from the local bank last week, appeared in the police court here this morning, and pleaded not guilty.

After a prima facie case had been established, Chief Gorman being the only witness called, the accused was committed for trial at Kitchener.

Crown Attorney Bowlby prosecuted and D. G. McIntosh of Kitchener, for R. L. Brackin, K. C., of Windsor, who has been retained as defense attorney, acted for the accused.

300 EGGS IN OMELET.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—When the American Theosophical Society held a banquet in connection with its recent convention here, the culinary force of a hotel was taxed to manufacture a huge omelet, containing 300 eggs and 800 pounds of mushrooms, the single dish of the meal.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE VALLEY

Our valley seems just like a bowl,
A dark, green bowl with bright, blue edges,
With here and there a line or scroll,
And that's the highway, and the hedges.
And I would like to go sometime
And climb and climb and climb and climb
Some summer's day to the highest brim
And sit up there on the very rim!

For I could look 'way, 'way, 'way down
Inside my bowl with bright, blue edges,
And I'd be taller than the town,
My fingers longer than the hedges.
And there I'd sit and watch the sun,
And I'd be rich as anyone—
The sun would fill my bowl with gold,
Yes, just as full as it could hold!

And then I'd slide right down again
Inside my bowl with bright, blue edges,
For they'd be looking for me then,
Along the highways and the hedges.
And Daddy'd hug me hard, like this,
And Mother give me such a kiss,
When I cam sliding from the rim
Right home again to her and him!

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

PAYING BY CHECK
By Dr. Frank Crane.

Recent press items disclose that more and more large firms are adopting the method of paying by check.

This method seems to be admirably suited to paymasters and others in charge of large payrolls. It would obviate the danger of the robbery of bank messengers.

The check is comparatively safe as payment upon it can easily be stopped if it is stolen.

Nothing in regard to money is absolutely safe. The wings money is supposed to sprout are only too real, and every protection should be taken to lessen the temptation to steal it.

Housekeepers who have a checkbook instead of carrying in the house large sums of currency take a much safer way.

Factories and other business firms will find payments by check add greatly to their safety.

A great part of the currency, that is, of the medium of exchange, in the United States is composed of bank checks. People have confidence in their banks and the failure of banking concerns has become rarer and rarer.

If we have a financial system which involves the lodging of large sums of cash in well protected institutions and issue checks against this, why not take advantage of it and make the payroll in the form of checks instead f cash?

Money should be kept in safe places and the only thing that is to be carted about in the streets are the pieces of paper which represent this money. It is harder to steal these pieces of paper than to steal the currency itself.

Use your bank. Get the banking habit. It behooves every one of us to save, and the main part of saving is the security of one's funds.

See that your extra money is put in a bank and not hidden about the house in a bureau drawer or an old sock which may tempt burglars.

It is the bank's business to take care of money. All their regulations are to make their reserves of money safe, and an institution can take better care of your money than you can yourself.

Not by Bread Alone

does Canadian Agriculture drive on to Greatness

A MILLION workers on Canadian farms are producing substantially more than a billion dollars' worth of farm products. In the first quarter of "Canada's century" our areas of land under cultivation have increased three-fold, from 20 million acres to 60 million acres—yet only one-fifth of Canada's arable land is being cultivated. In the second quarter century just commencing, with wider markets, more scientific farming and improved marketing methods, Canada is certain to have her greatest period of land settlement. And "not by bread alone" is the Canadian farmer of the east and the west bringing this country to supremacy as a grower of foodstuffs.

A year of the most magnificent field crops in the history of the Dominion brings home forcibly the undeniable truth that our prairie provinces, once known only for their golden grain, are making remarkable advancement in other branches of agriculture. While our wheat lands are filling up in the steady march toward prosperity the older farmers are applying the methods that will ensure the soundness of agriculture from year to year because of the extension of dairying and the diversity of crops. The west is well on its way to offering a "balanced ration" of foodstuffs to the world.

The Bank of Toronto, through its chain of branches, is close to the new trends and sounder practices of Canadian agriculture from coast to coast and holds the firm conviction that the great basic industry that means life to the nation—because it deals in the raw material of food and clothing—was never on a more promising and substantial basis. In this belief the BANK of TORONTO offers its services and its heartiest co-operation to the men and women of agriculture and the entire community that depends so much on agriculture for present and future as a nation.

FRED SIMPSON STOPS RUNAWAY RESCUING GIRL

Alderville Indian, Formerly of Hiawatha, Performs Fine Deed.

HORSE GALLOPING.

(Examiner Correspondence).

HASTINGS, October 6. — Fred Simpson, the former Marathon runner, stopped a runaway horse on the Roseneath road Monday morning, and saved the daughter of Richard Thompson from a very real danger that threatened serious injury and possibly worse.

Mr. Simpson was striding along the road apparently equipped for duck shooting, when the galloping horse, with the girl vainly pulling on the lines, approached him. Without thought of himself, Fred set himself squarely in the way of the plunging animal, and by shouting and gesturing, giving way but little ground, forced the horse to swerve to the ditch and fetch up a few steps further against the fence.

John J. Collins, local grain dealer, was an eye-witness of Mr. Simpson's splendid rescue, and related it to The Examiner. Farther along the road, Mr. Collins was apparently the only spectator, and warmly praised Simpson's courage and successful manoeuvre. The horse, a fine black, and usually a tractable, quiet driver, in some way became frightened and was galloping madly along the Roseneath road.

"Make it as strong as you like," said Mr. Collins to The Examiner, "for it was a great thing Simpson did. The horse had bolted and was running with all the strength it had."

Simpson is The Examiner's own Fred who came up from Hiawatha years ago, won The Examiner's road race and developed into a marathoner, racing in London, England. He has many friends in Peterboro who will accept and endorse Mr. Collins' appreciation at its full measure, for the same J. J. Collins is not given to superlatives.

After rescuing the Thompson girl, Simpson readjusted his kit and hiked into Hastings, where he never even mentioned the episode. He had an engagement with Henry Scriver at the latter's boathouse, but Mr. Scriver knew nothing of Simpson's brave deed when The Examiner called at the boathouse on Simpson's trail. But Fred was by that time away on the river, and the Thompson girl was happy and unhurt in her home.

CARGO RUINED BY FIRE IN HOLD

Greek Vessel Damaged By Blaze Which Costs $150,000.

PEOPLE SAFE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—The steamship Byron of the National Greek Line made a thrilling entry into New York harbor yesterday, but for all the warmth of the reception she got, it was an occasion she would not like to repeat. Two coast guard boats and three city craft steamed out to meet her, but they were concerned about a fire raging in her hold and not with the niceties of a proper welcome.

A single tug put the Byron into her dock at 39th Street, Brooklyn, at 5 o'clock yesterday evening. She had a slight list to port, ugly heat blisters along her side and a belly full of water that had completed the fire's work of ruining a cargo worth $150,000 to $200,000. But the flames were whipped and her 397 passengers and crew of 189 were safe.

Laden with figs, olives and olive oil, tobacco, Turkish rugs and mail the Byron sailed from Piraeus and Patras, Greece, September 17. She carried 51 first, 213 second, and 133 third-class passengers. Yesterday morning at 5 o'clock a half hour off Ambrose light vessel, Steward Nerris discovered fire in hold number 5, aft, and gave the alarm. The Byron's S.O.S. was picked up by the Radio Corporation of America, Independent Wireless Company and Navy Communications and New York began to take interest.

INVESTIGATORS SOON TO BEGIN

Formal Commissions Sent To Two Additional Judges on Probe.

CONFER NEXT WEEK.

OTTAWA, Oct. 6—Formal commissions have been forwarded to Justices Wright and Brown, who were added to the judicial commission in the customs probe. It is expected that in the next week the judges will confer with themselves and the counsel recently appointed, Hon. N. W. Rowell and R. L. Calder, K.C., and determine when and where the inquiry will be resumed. As the lower provinces had been finished with and as the Quebec cases were extensively explored by the parliamentary committee, it is expected that sittings will next be held in Ontario, but the commission will make its own plans.

Meanwhile Inspector Duncan and his staff are in the department preparing any matter which seems to warrant judicial inquiry. The hearings may be somewhat extended by the enlarged scope of the commission, which empowers it to make concrete suggestions for reorganizing the service.

New York's Fashion Centre Is Hit By Tailors' Strike

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Fifth Avenue's fashion tailors went out on strike yesterday for higher pay and shorter hours, but most of the women and girls employed in the exclusive apparel shops remained at work. All in all, about 600 tailors obeyed the strike order of their union.

These men are considered to be the aristocrats of tailordom — who fashion the gowns and suits and coats which society women wear. The result of their walk-out will be that production of tailored apparel will be curtailed or stopped altogether.

There was no violence on the first day of the strike. Forty picketing strikers were arrested. Two received suspended sentences for distributing circulars in front of the home of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street. Additional policemen on duty were the only outward indication that an industrial dispute had hit the exclusive shopping district.

gesting a written argument. On the same day, I wired him agreeing, but suggesting that an oral argument, to be taken down, would be more valuable. On September 29, he wired asking me what would be a fitting date and place. On the same day, I wired him suggesting Ottawa on any day of the ensuing week to be named by him.

"On September 30, before receipt of an answer from the Chief Justice I was notified by the Department of Justice that my services as counsel had been dispensed with. On the same day, I wired the Chief Justice as follows:

"Have now received notice from Department Justice that my services as counsel for commission dispensed with as from this date. No reason assigned but action necessarily premised upon theory that proceedings of Commission are of partisan character. I, like you, had considered them to be non-political and I have acted throughout, both before the Commission and outside of it, in conformity with that theory. I hope that the courtesy of consulting you before disposing of your counsel has not been overlooked. Under the circumstances, no answer necessary to my last telegram. Best wishes and deepest respect and regards.'

"Now somebody else will have to make the necessary argument. I have talked over my views with Hon. Mr. Rowell and I think that he, too, has been impressed by them. However, I have been dismissed on political grounds from service in a non-partisan capacity, of a non-partisan, non-political judical tribunal. I was counsel of the tribunal and not of the former government. The circumstances are unique. In a profession matter I have no politics. I have on several occasions, for instance, acted for Liberals petitioned against under the Dominion Elections Act. The Government must have considered that there was some real necessity for what has been done, and if now the tribunal standing by consents that counsel serving it may properly be removed because of his political opinions, privately held, there will be an end to the matter so far as I am concerned, but perhaps it would be just as well for all others concerned to cease contending that the Customs inquiry is in its scope and intent non-partisan and non-political."

LADY CATCHES LARGEST FISH

Mrs. E. Runions, of Campbellford, Captures Nine-Pound Pickerel.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 6.—The waters of the Trent River have supplied the natives and visitors alike with plenty of sport and many a good fish dinner during the past season, and for some time to come members of the "Walton Fraternity" will be heard discussing their record catches, or a more enthusiastic individual harping on the size of the biggest one he ever caught, but when it comes to a showdown they will probably all have to take a back seat to one of the town's enthusiastic lady anglers, Mrs. Edward Runions.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Runions was not using any particular bait for which prizes are offered, although Ed.'s tackle box contains quite an assortment, but Mrs. Runions picked on a home-made spinner and a fresh dew-worm to entice the finny tribe, and her choice was amply justified by connecting with one of the biggest pickerel to be landed this season. The prize beauty tipped the scales at nine pounds after he had been bled and out of the water eight hours. It measured 29 inches in length and had a girth of 16 inches at the largest part.

Mrs. Runions had an exciting time landing the big fellow, and finally had to call on Mr. Runions for help.

RYLSTONE CHURCH HOLDS ANNIVERSARY

Rev. D. C. Ramsay, of Belleville is the Special Preacher.

RYLSTONE, Oct. 6. — Ideal weather prevailed for the anniversary services at Rylstone United Church on Sunday, and the church was filled to capacity at both services. Services were withdrawn for the day at Springbrook, Stanwood and Zion, and the people from these churches helped to swell the crowds.

The speaker for the day was the Rev. D. C. Ramsay of John Street United Church, Belleville, and he gave two splendid addresses full of fire and vim, characteristic of the man who has become recognized as one of the outstanding ministers of the gospel in the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Rev. Mr. Gardiner, minister of the Rylstone Church, assisted Mr. Ramsay, as did also the Rev. Chas. Daniel of the Seymour circuit at the evening session.

One of the main features of an anniversary occasion is the special music provided, and this was no exception. Much of the effectiveness of the services was due to the splendid music of the local choir and the four wonderful solos rendered by Mr. Bankier, Belleville's leading tenor singer.

Liberal offerings were received at both services, and all are agreed that this was one of the finest anniversary occasions Rylstone congregation has ever enjoyed.

LADY STANLEY DEAD.

Widow of Famous African Explorer Dies in London.

LONDON, October 6. — Canadian Press, — Lady Stanley, widow of the famous African explorer, Sir Henry M. Stanley, died yesterday in London at the age of 71 years.

Lady Stanley was a noted beauty, and was famed in artistic and literary circles. She was an accomplished painter. Among her paintings was a much admired portrait of Sir Henry Stanley.

Although Lady Stanley married Dr Henry Curtis, a famous surgeon, in 1907, three years after the death of Stanley, she continued to be known generally as Lady Stanley.

FOKKER PLANS FLYING OFFICE

Dutch Aviation Expert Says Conferences Will Take Place in Air.

BUILDING BIG PLANE.

NEW YORK Oct. 6 — Business conferences above the clouds in "flying offices" travelling without stop between New York and San Francisco are to be a development of the very near future, according to Anthony H. G. Fokker, whose passenger-carrying monoplanes are now used on commercial airways in both Europe and the United States. By way of proving his assertion is no idle dream he announced yesterday he would exhibit shortly cabin plans of a forty passenger air liner with office equipment.

The machine is now under construction for long distance flying and is the largest airplane yet designed by the "Flying Dutchman." It will have either three or six air-cooled motors, depending upon the horse-power of the type selected, and will travel at 140 miles an hour, carrying sufficient fuel, Mr. Fokker says, to cross the continent in a single hop.

The fuselage is to be built in two sections, or decks, with sleeping accommodations above and a completely equipped office, convertible in a few hours to a regular passenger compartment, below.

"Some people may think I am looking too far into the future when I talk about adapting the passenger cabin of such a giant plane into a flying office," Mr. Fokker said, "As a matter of fact, one of my three-engined planes is now used right here in America as a 'flying office.'"

This plane is a ten-passenger machine, identical with the Josephine Ford, which carried Byrd and Bennett to the North Pole and back.

ANNIVERSARY AT MARMORA CHURCH

MARMORA, Oct. 6. — Anniversary services at St. Paul's concluded with a celebration of Holy Communion at 11 a.m. on Sunday. There was a large congregation present to hear Ven. G. R. Beamish, M.A., who is retiring from the Archdeaconry of Ontario to take up other clerical labors in England. His eloquent sermon on prayers and alms-giving was based upon Acts 10:4. Having described the circumstances leading up to the angel's message to Cornelius, "Thy prayers and thy alms are come up for a memorial before God," the Archdeacon showed how Cornelius had fulfilled the moral law of God in its fulness. He had given to God and to his fellowmen. Such giving is the fullest expression of life.

Prayer and service is the work of angels above, and in the Lord's Prayer it is prayed for that it may be performed on earth.

Prayer and service comprises our work, contemplative and active. To pray formally and to give grudgingly are faults to be contended against. Our prayers should not be by impulse, but rather by methodical action. Alms-giving should not be confined to such times as sympathy is awakened, but should take on the nature of systematic giving.

The preacher then reviewed the matter of worship from patriarchal times to the time of Christ, pointing out how that at every stage the nature of the offering to God was sacrifice. "Has Christianity lowered this idea of giving?" he enquired. "Surely not. It, too, has called for a devout, reverential and costly offering. The ceremonial law does not remain, but the moral law is still binding. Christians should say as David on one occasion, 'I will not offer to God that which costs me nothing.' God gave His Son and now gives His Spirit, and if anything more could be given by God to help us, He would have given it. Deeds speak louder than words. So alms-giving speaks louder than prayer. Jesus said: 'Not everyone that saith unto Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, but He that doeth the will of My Father which is in heaven.'"

In giving out the notices, the rector stated that the Harvest Festival, which was to have been held on the 10th of the month, was postponed until the following Sunday, when it was hoped that the Rev. John Lyons, of Picton, would be the special preacher.

Dr. Fred W. Routley, medical director of the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society, has been invited by the League of Red Cross Societies to go to Paris to act as the league's adviser in public health for a period of three months during the absence of Dr. Humbert, the permanent adviser.

Now talk about your exhibitions
And the rights that are so rare,
But you can't enjoy yourself at them
Like you can at Douro Fair.
Sure you meet so many people
Some are short and some are tall,
And who it is who always has
A welcome for us all!
P. G. Towns is the man I mean
So we're allright.
Let's be gay, hip, hip-hooray
Douro Fair is here to stay;
Hello, hello, shout with all your might
P. G. Towns is the head of the fair so we're allright.

The postponed sports of the Douro Fair were held on Saturday afternoon. The short afternoon only gave time for the playing of three snappy ball games. The first was a girls' softball game Warsaw vs Sixth Line (Otonabee). The latter were winners, the score being 21-13. Martin Coughlin was umpire. The Warsaw line up: Alberta Darling, p; Edna McCauley, c; Daphine Payne, 1b; Annabel Carlow, 2b; Mrs. Rufus Payne, 3b; Mrs. Edward Payne and Miss Olive Little, ss; Eileen Hamblin, rf; Gwendoline McQuaig, lf.

Sixth Line—M. Hall, p; L. Donaldson, c; Jean Davidson, 1b; L. Bowie, 2b; D. Chapman, 3b; Vera Elliot, ss; E. Donaldson, lf; Jean Wood, f; Helen Weir, rf.

The next game was a very fast softball game of seven innings between two city teams the C.G.E. vs Crescents. The game was featured by two home runs, one by each side, and some splendid fielding. The C.G.E. wer winners the score being 11-9.

The line ups:

C.G.E. — Powell, Nicholls and Richmond, pitchers; Dyer, c; Ash, 1b; McDonough, 2b; L. Richmond, 3b; Corbett, ss; Jones, lf; Jones, cf; Richmond, rf.

The last game was also a softball game, North Douro vs Lakefield, for the Gordon Cup. Lakefield was the victor, the score being 1-10. The Lakefield line up was: Northey, p; Payne, c; Stabler, 1b; Tanner, 2b; Ridpath, 3b; Trude, lf; Porter, cf; Bickel, rf; Northey, ss.

North Douro—C. Towns, p; M. Coughlin c; W. Towns, 1b; Frank O'Brien, 2b; Rev. J. McCarney, 3b; R. Essor, ss; Hubert Allen, lf; G. Condon, rf; J. Collins, cf.

HARVEST SERVICE AT CHRIST CHURCH

Rev. G. J Bousfield, of St. Luke's, Preaches at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 6.—"But thou shalt remember the Lord thy God; for it is He that giveth thee power to get wealth, that He may establish his convenant which He sware unto thy fathers as it is this day." This verse, the 13th of the 8th chapter of Deuteronomy, was the text from which Rev. George Bousfield, rector of St. Luke's church, Peterboro preached his evening sermon at the Christ church Harvest Festival on Sunday. Services throughout the day were indicative of harvest time and thanksgiving.

From his text, the speaker said, that he thought that phrase could well be made applicable to our country, in that we abound in fruits, ores, grains, etc., just as the land granted to Moses and his people, was rich. He said the only reason people made no progress in a land like ours was the lack of "industry" and "stick-to-it-iveness" and that if we labored we would succeed, for our abundant harvests and prosperous times are a fulfillment of the promise God made to Noah, "I will not again curse the ground any more for man's sake, while the earth remaineth, seed time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease."

He said, that as a rule the poorer class who were constantly struggling to get along, were happier than the rich and that so often, when riches were attained, God is forgotten and gave as an illustration the parable of the rich fool. The speaker closed with the thought that if we would be truly happy we should give devotion to God, for all our blessings for we owe everything to him.

Special music was rendered for the day. Miss C. M. Hawley of Toronto as organist. Mrs. (Dr.) F. Free sang very sweetly "Abide with Me" and the hymns were Harvest hymns.

The church was nicely decorated for the occasion with fruits of the harvest, vegetables, grains, fruits, flowers, leaves, and red berries adding to the effect.

The flowers on the altar were dedicated in memory of the late Arthur Lyndhurst Colville.

EAST EMILY PERSONALS

EAST EMILY, Oct. 6.—The annual Harvest Home services were held in St. John's Anglican church on Sunday, Oct. 3rd. The church was very tastefully and beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Hughes of St. George's Anglican church, of Peterborough, officiating.

A very pleasant evening was spent at Bethel league last Thursday night.

The regular meeting was held after which Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lowes were presented with a beautiful mantle clock. A pleasant hour was spent in games and contests, after which dainty refreshments were served by the ladies.

Friday, October 1st was observed as a special holiday in the Public schools throughout Victoria county, being appointed as a special holiday by Premier Ferguson, which the children all enjoyed very much and also by the teachers.

Mr. Geo. Newman had the misfortune of having one of his valuable Jersey cows drop dead on Sunday.

On Sunday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brae and two girls were coming to Bethel church with their horse and buggy, when they came to the four corners down in the swamp on the quarter line from the south, a strange car driving very fast from the east, struck Mr. Brae's horse, breaking the animal's leg. A veterinary surgeon was called from Peterborough and did all he could for the suffering animal.

Quite a number of the farmers throughout this district have most of their fall ploughing well on the way and some also have thier potatoes up.

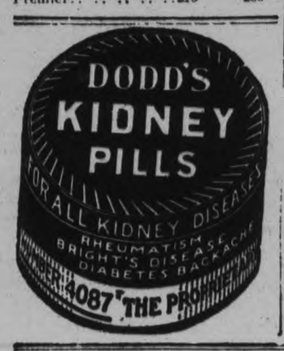
Heavy Dealing In Smelters Massey Harris Advances

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Busines was brisk on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with many shares changing hands. The market was steady, gains and losses being evenly divided over the list. Consolidated Smelters received the greatest attention with 280 shares dealt in, this issue closing two higher at 237. Canada Bread A. Preferred was 1 1-4 higher at 109 1-4. McKinnon Voting Trust was down 1, closing at 28. Brazilian and Brompton were unchanged at 117 and 36 respectively. Massey Harris Preferred was up 1-2 at 69 1-2.

Wheat Market Remains Firm With Little Change

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Governed a good deal by firmness of Liverpool quotations, the wheat market here averaged a little higher today in early dealings. Favorable weather for the Canadian crop movement, however, tended to check the upturns in price. Starting unchanged 1-2 cent higher, Chicago wheat values later showed slight general gains. Corn and oats were also firmer, corn opening unchanged 1-4c off and then scoring something of an advance all around.

Provisions declined.



IN POLICE COURT.

Some 15 bicycles and numerous spare wheels decorated the police court this morning, as a result of the activities of Detective Sergeant W. E. Meagher, Detective William Carey, Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker and C. P. R. Constable Evans of Havelock. The bicycles, which had all been stolen around the city, had been taken to Havelock by road and distributed through [illegible]mont town ship, making their recovery a difficult task.

Leonard Davis, 16, pleaded guilty to stealing the bicycles. The accused by selling the machines to his relatives, implicated them in the matter with the result that several of them appeared in court charged with receiving stolen property knowing it to be stolen.

B. E. Park, counsel for the accused, declared that his client had had no opportunity to learn like other boys, and submitted that it was a case for the Magistrate to exercise mercy.

Magistrate O. A. Langley sentenced the accused to three months in the Ontario reformatory and an indefinite period thereafter not to exceed two years less one day. In passing sentence His Worship gave the accused a severe lecture warning him of the dangers of the course he had taken and advising him to make the most of the opportunity he was giving him to make good.

Chas. Emmory and James Davis, charged with receiving two of the stolen wheels were defended by Mr Park. After hearing the evidence Charles Emmory was dismissed. In the case of James Davis His Worship found the accused guilty, sentencing him to two months imprisonment.

G. Alley who was arraigned on the same charge, was permitted to go on suspended sentence, His Worship taking into consideration the previous good character of the man.

Mrs. May Emmorey, also charged with receiving, was found guilty and was sentenced to three months at the Mercer Reformatory. Mr. Park, counsel for the accused, stated that her husband was already in jail. His client, he said, was not bright mentally and in his opinion she should be sent to some institution.

At the conclusion of the cases His Worship paid tribute to the excellent work on the part of those engaged in the investigations, declaring that they had acted "very capably and thoroughly in the matter."

BEAD TRIMMED EVENING GOWNS

Sequins Also Popular in Fashion Show Frocks.

HANDSOME COATS.

The evening gowns shown at the Capitol Theatre just now in connection with the Fashion Show put on by the J. A. McNabb Company, Limited, are particularly lovely, showing, in the majority of instances, the trend toward bead and sequin trimmings. Massed effects in steel beads and self-colored sequins form the ornamentation of many of the sleeveless frocks. One pure white satin, with semi-bouffant effect in the skirt draperies, has loose, slender, floating panels of the goods over a slip of the satin, trimmed with radium lace. Beads and sequins form the only trimming. Another white model uses the beads in a flower-like design centered with white chenille. A chanel red georgette gown of gorgeous coloring has a heavily sequined skirt of black sequins, which also outline the straps at the hem. A wonderful frock of pale jade has knife-pleated insets, flanked by sections of heavy green beads and is finished with a green velvet sash.

A pale poudre blue georgette is solidly embroidered in self-toned sequins and steel beads and a confetti (pale rose) frock has vertical lines from neck to hem of rose and steel sequins in banded effect, with a georgette flower at one side as sole adornment. Another dress is developed in jade georgette trimmed with radium lace.

The afternoon gowns show the liking for black satin. One model has a left inset on the skirt in which chanel red, pleated in knife fashion, is edged with black, the same pleated ruffle finishing the high collar. The popular chanel red is used in a gown of soft satin trimmed with brass nail-heads and a soft woollen flower in conventionalized design. The skirt is done in tier effect. Still another gown of black frost crepe has the separate top edged with a wide band of white felt, crossed by narrow lines of leather in gold, silver, red and black shades.

Needlepoint is a favorite in the dress coat models. One beautiful model is developed in chanel red, with the new dolman sleeve and collar and cuffs of grey wolf. Another coat of sandalwood shade has a Vicuna fox trimming and cape sleeves, and two of the grey models are very fetching. One is a taupe velvatone, trimmed with grey mole and sable, and the second is an individual French model in silver grey valvatone, with natural squirrel finish, this fur also trimming in elaborate style the full cape back.

ITALY SHOULD MASTER SEAS

Mussolini Says She Needs To Find Outlet For Population.

RECALLS ROMANS

PERUGIA, Italy, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Premier Mussolini yesterday delivered a lecture at the municipal building on "Ancient Rome on the Sea," which is considered here as a lesson not only on Italian history, art and archaeology but also as a lesson to modern Itaiy.

The Premier quoted a phrase of an erstwhile ambassador from ancient Carthage, who said: "Romans cannot even wash their hands in the Mediterranean without permission from the Carthagenians." That ambassador must have turned in his grave when the Mediterranean became a Roman lake, the Premier added.

Modern Italy is not in such a bad condition as ancient Rome regarding the seas, the Premier continued, but like ancient Rome modern Italy also must master the seas in order to find an outlet for her surplus population besides obtaining by sea the raw material in which she is lacking.

The Premier gave an historic outline of how Rome first mastered the Italian Peninsula and then, facing the naval powers of her day, succeeded in wresting control of the Mediterranean for herself.

He also made a brief address after his lecture in which he told of the strides Italy has made since the war in restoring her power and prestige.

During the day he inaugurated the new university for foreigners in Perugia.

'Guardian Angel Of French Forces'—Canadian Lady Receives Large Fortune As Legacy From Frenchman

TAUNTON, Mass., Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Miss Virginia Savoil, a native of New Brunswick, Canada, known during the war as the "Guardian angel of the French soldiers," has fallen heir to a fortune in France.

Miss Savoil was taken to France while still a child and the family settled in a little village near the Belgian border. When the war began she turned the chateau, which she had inherited when a child, into a hospital. As a volunteer nurse she was twice wounded. She lost four of her seven brothers in action with the French army. Her father died of wounds.

HORSES STRAY FROM STABLES

One Owned By Sanitary Ice Co. Has Not Been Found.

TWO RECOVERED.

Three horses, from stables located in the city, spent last night out of bounds; one of them belonging to the Sanitary Ice Company, not yet being recovered. The missing animal, which is a young buckskin mare, streaked with grey, with black legs, black mane, and black tail, evidently broke loose during the night. The teamster who placed the horse in the barn last night, found on returning this morning that the door had been kicked from one of its hinges, and the broken bridle strap was still attached to the stall. The loss of the animal was reported to the police.

The two other missing animals, the property of Ed. Cooney, were found this morning by the police, contentedly cropping the grass off the lawns of the houses in the neighborhood of the stable.

TEN ELECTION WRITS ISSUED

Ministerial By-elections Will Be Held on Nov. 9.

SIX UNSETTLED.

OTTAWA, Oct. 6. — Canadian Press. — Ministerial bye-elections will be held in ten constituencies on November 9th. Nomination day will be November 2nd. The writs were issued to-day.

The constituencies are:

Middlesex West and Waterloo North in Ontario.

Chateauguay-Huntingdon, Dorchester, Richelieu and St. James, in Quebec.

Gloucester in New Brunswick.

Brandon, Manitoba.

Regina, Saskatchewan, and Edmonton West, Alberta.

This leaves six vacant seats to be contested by members of the cabinet. There is also a practical certainty of another bye-election in Nova Scotia, when a seat has been found for the prospective Minister of National Defence, Dr. J. L. Ralston.

Writs for all of these will be issued shortly, it is expected as soon as the formalities have been completed under the elections act.

Liberal candidates in the bye-elections already announced will be the following cabinet ministers:

Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Public Works; Hon. F. D. Euler, Minister of Customs; Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance; Hon. [illegible] Cannon, Solicitor General; Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries; Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State; Hon. P. J. Veniot, Postmaster-General; Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration; Hon. C.A.Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals; Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior.

This leaves the following Ministers who will also have to be elected as members of the cabinet:

MANY EXHIBITS COMING TO FAIR

Manufacturers From Many Parts of Canada To Be Represented.

MUCH PREPARED.

The Kiwanis Club has been making elaborate preparations for the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition to be held in the Armories next week and already much has been accomplished towards the making of it a great success.

The display men have turned the Armories into a riot of flags, pennants and bunting; over a thousand flags are in use, and this display will prove very attractive. Already it has brought forth considerable favorable comment.

We have authoritative information that the exhibits to be put on by the manufacturers coming from all parts of the Dominion will be of the highest order. There will be demonstrations at many of the exhibits, and with an aisle space of 20 feet fronting every booth, the public is assured of every comfort.

From School Teacher To Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him thru medical college. After the Civil War, he began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pa., and often rode horse-back thru the woods to reach and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, knew and could easily recognize most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Later, he moved to Buffalo, N.Y. where he launched his favorite remedies, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold. If your druggist does not sell the "Discovery," in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to Dr. Pierce's Branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

FASHION SHOW IMPORTANT ITEM

Local Stores Putting on Exhibition at Armories Next Week.

The merchants of Peterboro are bending every effort to make the style shows being held in the gun section of the Armories next week one of the best attractions of the splendid programme arranged for by the Kiwanis Club

These fashion shows are very popular with the public throughout the province, and they are extremely useful for the showing of the various styles of gowns to be had in the stores and also for the further purpose of advertising in a general way.

The Peterboro merchants are departing somewhat from the usual custom of some cities, and are choosing some of Peterboro's young ladies as models to display the gowns. It might be pointed out here that these young ladies are lending their splendid talent in aid of the worthy work of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club.

NORTHERN LINES DISPUTE SETTLED BY GOVERNMENT

Bonds Exchanged For Canadian National Stock at Equal Value.

ARE GUARANTEED.

No Provision Made For Payment of Back Interest

LONDON, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press) — The negotiations which have been proceeding for some time between representatives of the Canadian National railways and Canadian Northern five per cent. income bond holders, have been concluded, and a scheme of settlement has been arrived at, which is meeting with general approval.

The agreement reached is that the Canadian Northern five per cent. income bonds shall be exchanged for Canadian National stock of equal face value, bearing 5½ per cent. interest from 1930, and repayable at parity in 1970, or after 1940, on three months' notice being given.

No Interest Paid

No interest has been paid on the old Canadian Northern bonds since 1914, and apparently, as in the case of the recent settlement of the differences between the Grand Trunk Pacific four per cent. debenture holders and the Canadian National railways, no provision has been made for the payment of back interest.

The full details of the settlement will be made known tomorrow.

Canadian Northern five per cent. income bonds were quoted early this year at 56 but lately the market for these securities has been lively at the advanced price of 76.

BABY SHOW PLANS FINALLY ARRANGED

There Will Be Two Classes in Feature at the Kiwanis Fair.

In connection with the Made in Canada Fair "under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club", proceeds for underprivileged child work, show appreciation of their efforts by your co-operation and assistance in making the Baby Show a real attraction at the Fair. Entries will be received up till Tuesday October 12.

The committee in charge, after due consideration, decided on two classes namely: A Class, from 4 up to 12 months of age; B Class, from 12 months to 18 months.

Prizes will be awarded as follows: First, $10.00; second, $5.00; third, $2.00, in each class.

The best pair of Twins, either sex or both, from 8 months to 18 months, $5.00 in gold.

Points To Be Considered.

Babies should be lightly clothed and not hampered by unnecessary or cumbersome garments.

Proportion as to height, weight, circumference of head and chest will be considered.

Hour For Judging.

Mothers are required to bring babies to the Armouries on Wednesday afternoon, October 13th, the day of the Show and be there at 2 o'clock sharp in order that the judges and nurses in charge will be able to proceed with the measuring and weighing without any delay.

Judging from the number of enquiries by phone and otherwise a large entry is assured. However the club asks all to assist by making entries as soon as possible at LeBrun's Clothing Store or Percy Bond's Drug Store.

No entry fee will be charged and entry ticket will admit you to the Armouries on the day of the show.

The judging of the babies will be done by five outside doctors who are competent and familiar with the work.

The committee in charge: F. C. Webber, J. P. Bond, Dr. G. R. Scott, Charles Lacheur, W. S. Merrell, chairman.

REV. G. E. CLARKE, CAMPBELLFORD, CALLED TO YOUNGSTOWN CHURCH

LEAVES NOV. 1ST.

Stipend in Ohio Church $1,000 More Than He Is Receiving.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 6.— At the congregational social Monday evening, under the auspices of the Willing Workers' Society of Christ Church (Anglican) the rector, Rev. G. E. Clarke announced the termination of his pastorate on November 1st, to accept a call from St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of Youngstown, Ohio. His new charge provides a stipend of $1,000 more than Rev. Mr. Clarke's salary here. He came to Christ Church three years ago. One of his accomplishments was the renovation of the rectory at a cost of $2,000. Mr. Clarke has actively engaged in all the work of the church and will be greatly missed.

Mr. A J Jenkins was chairman of the concert Monday night Those assisting in the program being Mrs. (Dr.) Free, Miss Cherrie Turner, Miss Meiklejohn, Mr. Percy Heale and Rev. Mr. Clarke who sang, and Mrs. Robert Scott whose readings were well received. Refreshments were served at the close.

Banquet by Ladies' Aid

The Fall and Winter activities at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church were very happily launched Monday evening at the Ladies' Aid dinner to the Christian Endeavor Society.

Burnbrae Presbyterian Church's anniversary will be celebrated with special services next Sunday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Stuart of Belleville. The Belleville Male Quartette will assist in thte musical program. The congregational supper will be held Tuesday evening. A feature of the entertainment will be the Frankford Orchestra.

Case Adjourned

Judge Huycke in Division Court here Saturday adjourned the hearing of the case of N. L. Martin, trustee for the Kelly Estate, vs. Thomas Sampson, involving a claim of $167 for lumber and fuel in connection with the winding up of the estate. Mr. Lynch represented the plaintiffs and Mr. Payne the defendant.

Pleased With Convention

Dr. H. T. Scott, chiropractor, returned from the recent convention of drugless practitioners more than ever convinced of the growing recognition of the success and broader possibilities of this branch of the science and art of healing. The lectures dealt with the latest methods and appliances that are designed to assist Nature in her own cure and were delivered by leaders of the various branches in Canada and the United States.

Quickly tracing a car belonging to a Stirling man named Bailey, which had been stolen from its parking place here a few nights ago, Chief Brown finally located it near West's about 1 a.m., where it had jumped a ditch and stopped against a fence without material damage. The occupants got away in the darkness.

William Theobald netted about $1,700 from the sale of his farm stock and implements on Monday. It is understood that he is remaining on the property.

PIONEER RESIDENT LEAVING HAVELOCK

Knox Ladies' Aid Makes Presentation To Mrs. James Campbell.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 6. — Mrs. James Campbell, one of the pioneer residents of Havelock, who is leaving in the near future to live with her daughter, Mrs. Leddier, at Buffalo, N. Y., will carry with her many memories of her forty-one year's residence in Havelock but none of these memories will be brighter than those of Friday evening when the Ladies' Aid of Knox Presbyterian church held a social gathering in the school room of the church to wish he God speed and to present her with a purse of money as a tangible token of their appreciation of her faithful services. Mrs. (Dr.) A. S. Thompson, president of the Society read the following address and Mrs. William Hitchins made the presentation:

Dear Mrs. Campbell:

On the eve of your departure from Havelock to take up your residence in a distant city we, the members of the Ladies' Aid of Knox church, take this opportunity of expressing our regret at the loss we shall sustain in your removal from our midst.

For a great many years you have been a member of this church and have taken an active interest in its life and work and we know we are expressing the feeling of the whole congregation when we say "we shall miss you very much."

In token of our esteem we ask you to accept this small gift accompanied with all good wishes for your future.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid—Anne S. Thompson, president; Lucy B. Hitchins, secretary; Christiana Copp.

The gathering was marked by the presence of Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Lougheed of Warkworth. Mrs. Lougheed who knew Mrs. Campbell in Portage La Prairie, where she was brought up, expressed pleasure at being present to pay honor to one with whom she had been associated earlier in life and to extend best wishes for the future. In speaking of church work in Portage La Prairie she said that the first Presbyterian pastor there had been Mrs. Campbell's pastor also and it was people like Mrs. Campbell the pioneers, who had made the Presbyterian church the church it is.

Mr. Wm. Matheson, representative elder, voiced the esteem of the congregation for one who had been with them so long; and their appreciation of her qualities as friend and co-worker. He recalled that it was fifty-eight years since he had started to hold up the Presbyterian banner in old Havelock school and it is his belief that the Presbyterian church will flourish in spite of the disruption through which it has recently passed.

Mr. H. F. McNichol, secretary-treasurer of the congregation, also spoke a few words assuring Mrs. Campbell that she would take with her the best wishes of all the members of the Havelock congregation.

A dainty lunch was then served and after singing "Auld Lang Syne" and with reiterated good wishes to the guest of honor for the years ahead the social gathering was brought to a close.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE ALBERT DUNFORD.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 6.—The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon to St. Mark's cemetery, Warsaw, of George Albert Dunford. Rev. T. M. Wesley was in charge of the service which was held at the family residence Nassau street, and was largely attended.

THOMAS DUNFORD.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 6.—The funeral of Mr. Thomas Dunford was held from the family residence, Dean street on Friday afternoon with Rev. S. K. Kemp in charge. There was a large attendance as Mr. Dunford has been for more than half a century a resident of the village and was well known. Interment was made in the family plot in the Lakefield cemetery.

ROBERT ALLT.

MADOC, Oct. 6.—The death occurred suddenly of Robert Allt, of Madoc township on Thursday night last. Mr. Allt had been in Madoc the day before and the news of his passing came as a great shock to his wide circle of friends and acquaintances. The funeral was held in St. John's church on Saturday morning, conducted by Rev. A. Strother. The fact that it was one of the largest funerals ever seen in Madoc testified to the high esteem and respect in which the late Mr. Allt was held. The sympathy of the community is extended to his sorrowing widow, who survives him, and his two sisters, Mrs. Comerford of Madoc and Mrs. A. Love of Madoc township.

MRS. LAWRENCE LONERGAN

NORWOOD, October 6. — The death occurred on Tuesday morning of Ann Fallon, relict of the late Lawrence Lonergan, at the advanced age of 80 years.

The funeral will be held from her late residence, lot 15, con. 5, Asphodel, on Thursday morning, leaving the house at 9 o'clock, and proceeding to St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, where mass will be sung, by Rev. Father J. J. McCarthy. Interment will be made in the Asphodel R. C. Cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS.

BELL—BENNETT

A quiet and pretty wedding wedding took place at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bennett, Coldsprings, Otonabee, when their daughter Laura Mae was united in marriage to Mr. Wesley Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bell of Smith. The Rev. Mr. Richardson, pastor of St. James' Church, Peterborough, officiated.

The winsome bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory silk and georgette, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern. The young couple were attended by Miss Myrtle Waldie and Mr. Harold Bennett of Peterborough; the groom's gifts to them being a gold watch bracelet, and a pair of gold cuff links, and to Mr. Caven Dunn, of Toronto, brother-in-law of the bride who played the wedding music, a pair of gold cuff links.

The happy couple left amid a shower of good wishes and confetti on a trip to Detroit. The bride wore the groom's gift, a stone marten neckpiece. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Bell will reside in Smith.

STARR—BRINSON.

A pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized in Gilmour Memorial church by the Rev. Edgar, on August 10, 1926, when Miss Lillian Ivy Brinson was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Albert McKenzie Starr of this city. They were attended by Miss Jean Moore and Mr. James Hall. The young couple will reside in the city.

SECOND VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED

Belleville Man Identifies Articles as Son's Property.

QUEEN'S STUDENTS.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 6.—The mystery of the second victim of Saturday's tragedy at the Cemetery Crossing, when a gasoline truck was struck by a train on the C.P.R. was solved last night when David M. Farrell of the postal staff here positively identified the clothes, keys and other articles found on one of the two bodies after the wreck, as those of his son, Mack Farrell, aged 19 years, who had just gone to Queen's University to take a course in science. He was a brilliant youth and had headed the High School Literary Society and was intermediate athletic champion of the local high scrool.

A friend of the boy had made enquiry here and the police learned from Queen's that Farrell had not been at home or at his classes. He left Kingston about nine o'clock on Saturday morning, and apparently secured rides to Belleville, and got on the gas truck here which carried him to the fatal crossing along with the old man, Archie Reavie, of Toronto, who also was killed.

Tuesday morning the two bodies were buried side by side in separate graves in the Belleville cemetery with Anglican services. It is likely that Farrell's body will be exhumed and re-buried in the family plot.

BULLET MARKS ON WAGON

noise like a gun shot. Our window was facing in that direction up the road, and the sound was quite distinct. I mentioned it at the time. I'm not sure about hearing a second shot."

Identified Coupe.

It was said that George Rightmeyer's family also heard explosive sounds about the same hour.

Mr. Taylor's story to The Examiner follows:

"I was driving home with the waggon and a hog rack on it. It was market day and I had delivered my hogs in Campbellford. I first noticed the automobile by its three strong lights. They were very bright. Suddenly they went out, and that struck me as queer, and I felt that there might be some trouble.

When I was about fifteen yards from them the lights flashed on and off. Then the first shot in the dark. I felt the breeze of it past my head. If I tried to turn my horses I knew they would get me for sure; so I let them go. As I was passing the car several more shots were fired. I counted four altogether. I noticed their flashes of flame. All I could recognize was that it was a coupe stopped alongside the road."

Mr. Taylor smiles with the forbearance of him who said, "He laughs at scars who never felt a wound." In his case the wounds are on his waggon rack, but his nervous system probably bears a corresponding scar, for there is no air of unreality when he relates his experience.

Evelyn Runciman and Mrs. Wm. Pearce caught up to and passed Mr. Taylor on the bridge near Meyersburg. They said they had met a car with three strong lights. It was going toward Campbellford at a high speed.

Mr. Taylor was unable to explain the motive of the attempted hold-up. "I don't think I have any enemies. Somebody might have thought that I had money coming back from market, but I hadn't much, and, besides, I don't know any people of that kind in this neighborhood."

FLOTATION OF GERMAN BONDS

ized.

The general opinion is that ratification can be obtained under these conditions while unqualified approval of the Washington accord is impossible. The government, it is understood, will allow deputies to make reservations in speeches which, supported by an official declaration, will go into the French congressional record but will not be incorporated in the resolution of ratification.

Many deputies, including M. Franklin-Bouillon, chairman of the foreign relations committee, will fight to have reservations added to the resolution of ratification. This will probably turn on that question.

Premier Poincare is expected to link ratification with the proposed operations in German reparation bonds, pointing out how stabilization of the franc could be furthered by immediate favorable action on the settlement with the possibility that it would be followed by the consent of the American government that the bonds be placed on the American market.

The project, as understood here, is that Germany would issue bonds for 2,000,000 marks for immediate sale. Some hope is entertained that in consideration of the evacuation of the Rhineland, Germany would be willing to increase the interest on the bonds which now is fixed at five per cent under the Dawes plan. Otherwise the bonds would have to be offered at something like 62.50. As France is entitled to 52 per cent of the proceeds of the operation on that basis, it would give her 650 000,000 gold marks, or $162,000,000. If Premier Poincare is able to hold out the prospect of having this sum placed at the disposal of the French treasury, it will have an important influence on the ratification question.

AUTO COLLISION ENDS FATALLY

Car Runs Into Heavy Truck on Road Near Oakwood.

LINDSAY, Oct. 6.—The second automobile fatality on the Oakwood Road within four days occurred last night at ten o'clock about two miles from Lindsay, when John F. Yeabsley, a resident of this town, was the victim.

The unfortunate man and his wife were on their way home from Toronto with a carload of fruit, and when rounding a curve swung across the highway in front of a Toronto transport truck proceeding to Toronto.

The driver of the truck in attempting to avoid a collision almost toppled into the ditch. Yeabsley's car struck the truck and was completely wrecked. The owner sustained a broken arm, a broken shoulder blade, fracture of four ribs, and fracture of the base of the skull.

He was rushed to the Ross Hospital, and passed away a few hours later. The injuries sustained by his wife are not considered serious.

Yeabsley is an employee of the C.N.R.

TO THOSE WE CAN'T MEND LET US AT LEAST LEND

In some measure we are all responsible for the conditions which develop the poor, the sick, the ignorant, the shiftless, the improvident. These conditions are the flaws in our civilization.

As citizens we must compensate those who bear the brunt.

If we personally can't help the conditions, we can at least help the victims—those who this winter will be hungry, cold and ill, and the children who will suffer because of need in the family.

CURVE LAKE FAIR PROVES SUCCESS IN SPITE OF RAIN

Attendance Smaller Than Usual, But Programme Very Good.

MANY EXHIBITS.

Work of Women and Children Provides Interesting Display.

A learned gentleman who spends some of his spare time in investigating such things declares that Indians love red best of all the colors. Perhaps it is for this reason that Nature dips her paintbrush in the rouge pot every year and splashes scarlet and carmine and crimson on the trees and the undergrowth that border the roads to Curve Lake, where the Mississauga tribe held their eighth annual Fair yesterday. Along the road to Chemong and through Ennismore, before the traveller reaches the ferry, the trees flaunt lovely colors, but it is on the back-road that leads to Selwyn and Buckhorn that the wayfarer sees all the beauty of autumn hues, flung with a prodigal hand from Nature's palette. Here the gorgeous sumach bobs, a deep glorious crimson, border the road on either side for nearly three miles, the bright yellow of the ironwood tree glows against the dark background of the evergreens, and the pale gold and green of the birches makes a foil for the glowing colors of the maple.

Yesterday's inclement weather kept the attendance at the Curve Lake Fair down to a small number, but there were quite a few cars, nevertheless, parked on the road to the tiny village, several of them bearing license numbers from American cities, and a quartette of launches was moored at the ferry slip. The Indians on the reserve donned their brightest clothing and came from their little houses to see the exhibits, take part in the parade and watch with much interest the softball game in which the girls appeared to much advantage in their knickers and bobbed heads. The centenarian, the patriarch of the village, old William Taylor, was one of the most interested spectators of this game, sitting on the side lines, his pipe in his mouth, his wide straw hat over his eyes that are bright still after their hundred years.

The parade was, as usual, one of the main features of the Fair, and was headed by Chief Dan Whetung in his beaded Indian suit and headdress. Chief Quinquish won the first prize in the parade and Chief Seneca of Rama was the victor in the war dance which followed, with William Nott of the Reserve a close second. Indians from Rama and Rice Lake, from Alderville and Scugog, from Deseronto and the Georgian Islands, were present for the occasion, and made a colorful display with their varied costumes.

In the hall was the display of women's work, of fruits and flowers and vegetables and cooking. There were pieces of embroidered linens, little knitted sweaters, children's penmanship executions of the poem, "In Flanders Fields," watercolor birds in black on green, tiny birchbark canoes and small paddles, boxes made of porcupine quills, black decoy ducks, and sweetgrass baskets. Of especial interest were the new baskets made of ash splint, the two top handles sliding down and lying flat on either side, instead of in the regular one-handled fashion. A cushion of green felt faced with a loon's breast and feathers was another novelty. In the vegetable section were three onions weighing five pounds, the largest of the trio tipping the scales at nearly two pounds.

The tug-of-war which was an item of the sports programme, was won by Bobcaygeon, headed by G. Nicholls, against Curve Lake, headed by Bert Williams. North Smith girls were winners in the softball game played with girls from Curve Lake. Although there was a display of horses and cattle, there were no races on the programme. The Curve Lake Band dispensed music during the afternoon and assisted with the dancing programme in the evening. On the grounds there were several refreshment booths and a dining tent, with a number of games. A special exhibit was made of a pair of Plymouth Rock birds and a couple of Belgian hares, their soft necks adorned with pink ribbons.

MONTREAL MAN WINS WAY BACK TO HEALTH

Suffered For Months After Severe Attack of La Grippe, with Insomnia, Nervousness, Indigestion and Coughing. Found Relief.

Like thousands of others, Ernest Beland, proprietor of Beland Barber Shop, 194 Laurier West, Montreal, found long-sought relief from intense suffering in Tanlac.

Mr. Beland says: "At the end of a two-months' siege of La Grippe, I was so completely wrecked that my friends nor myself thought I would never get well. For weeks I could not sleep.

"Pains in my lungs, shortness of breath, choking sensations and a nagging, wracking cough, made life almost unbearable. Finally I was persuaded by a man who was benefited by Tanlac to try it out.

"I was able to get up and move about the house after taking two bottles of Tanlac, and by the time I had finished the seventh bottle I was able to return to work.

"I have an excellent appetite, sleep well, and have gained 11 pounds. I feel fine in every way. It is with pleasure that I recommend Tanlac to anyone."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists—more than 40 million bottles have been sold. Let this marvelous tonic, made according to the famous Tanlac formula from roots, barks and herbs, help bring you robust health and vigor, as it has to thousands of others. Ask for it by name.

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the ten-day period ended September 30, 1926, were $8,238,737, as compared with $7,814,072, for the same period of 1925—an increase of $424,665, or five per cent.

DEAN OF QUEBEC CHOSEN BISHOP

Rev. L. Ralph Sherman Elected Head of Calgary Diocese.

CONSENT EXPECTED.

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Dean L. Ralph Sherman, of Quebec, was elected Anglican Bishop of the Calgary Diocese at a Synod meeting on Tuesday morning, to succeed the Rt. Rev. Cyprian Pinkham. There were twelve other candidates. The election of Dean Sherman took place on the first count.

The election took place in the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Redeemer, the whole proceedings being characterized by much solemnity.

At a roll call held before the election took place, it was stated there were 40 clergy present out of 44, and 102 lay delegates out of 165. The Very Rev. Dean Paget, administrator of the Diocese, presided.

The clerical secretary of the Synod, Canon Gale, has wired to Dean Sherman for his acceptance. The hope was expressed that this would be received before the Synod meets again at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. If this is favorable, it will be the duty of the clerical secretary and the lay secretary, W. W. Winspear, to notify Archbishop Matheson, of the ecclesiastical Province of Rupert's Land, of the result of the election and to pray him to arrange that Dean Sherman be consecrated Bishop of the Diocese of Calgary.

CHEMICALS IN SOIL CAUSE OF MARVELS

Wonderful Complexions and Strange Vegetable Growths Result.

VICTORIA, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—A region on Vancouver Island where men "get marvellous complexions, a sort of rose fairness," is described by Francis Dickie, the author, who has spent many years collecting data on the wonders of this part of the Pacific Coast.

"This marvel," he says, "is easily explained by the possibility of a solution of arsenic in the water. There is another spot on the west coast of Vancouver Island where dead matter, such as fish and meat, does not decay when thrown upon the ground. This apparent miracle has also probably a chemical explanation.

"Again, in another part the vegetation attains enormous proportions, wild peas growing to the size of marbles, and the wild berries large in proportion. In this same region, on the Brooks Peninsula, are to be found a whole forest of hemlock trees with abnormal branches; the branches grow thickest toward the ends, and then give off clusters of root-like little branches. The explanation of this phenomena has yet to be volunteered."

USES 1909 MODEL.

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kas., Oct. 6.—William Brown has the oldest automobile in the county, according to court records. His Ford roadster is a 1909 model with the motor number 19013. He's still using it.

FUNERAL SERVICE.

BAILIEBORO, October 6. Canadian Press.— The funeral of the late Roy Dawson took place from home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawson, on Thursday last. The deceased was 12 years and 11 months old, and leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing mother and father and two sisters, Irene and Vina.

The service at the house commenced at 2 o'clock p.m., conducted by Rev. W. H. Foley, and assisted by Rev. A. H. McConnachie, of Springville, while interment at the Dawson's cemetery took place at 3 o'clock.

The pallbearers were Harold Barnard, Joe Barnard, Melville Wood, Ray Barnard, Vincent Jewison, Robt. Dawson.

The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

News.

The anniversary services were held at the Anglican church here on Sunday morning and evening. Both services were largely attended.

Rev. Mr. Foley conducted the anniversary services at the Fallis line church on Sunday; Rev. Mr. Howard of Millbrook United Church conducted the evening service in the United Church here during the pastor's absence.

The Continuation and Public schools here observed a holiday on Friday last on account of the Millbrook exhibition.

The farmers of this district are making use of the fine weather which has been prevailing during the past week and are busily engaged in raising their potatoes. In many cases the crops are reported good while others are found to be only fair, with a great quantity of rotten potatoes being discovered.

CRAVES MORE JAIL.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—"Make the sentence a little longer, judge," was the request of an elderly man recently sent up for a month for drunkenness. The man has spent most of his life in jails as a crook. The judge refused to lengthen the term.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE.

Miss Marjorie Rannie Receives Many Useful Gifts.

BURNBRAE, Oct. 6.—On Thursday evening last a large number of Burnbrae and Menie people with several from outside points gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Rannie to honor their daughter, Miss Marjorie prior to her marriage. Many beautiful and useful gifts were presented to the bride-to-be, who is one of Burnbrae's most popular young ladies. The evening was very pleasantly spent by those present in cards and dancing, music being supplied by Godden brothers and Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Archer.

Miss Rannie, who on Wednesday becomes the bride of Mr. Carl Johnson, also of Burnbrae, is a true native of the district, having been born and brought up near Menie, and has always been closely associated with the church and community activities. She will be greatly missed by the Young People's organization of Hoards United church, in which work she took an active part.

Mr. Johnson is also a well known resident of Burnbrae district and has always been prominent in the sporting activities of the community. A hockey and baseball player of some renown, he has always been known as one who played a clean game for the game's sake. Of late years he has been employed with the Hydro Commission in the town of Campbellford and will take up his residence there in the future. It is needless to say that both these young people will be missed by their many friends here, who wish them a happy married life.

RUSSIAN CLAIM GOOD.

Soviet Believes Colonizing Wrangel Island Cancels Other Claims.

IRKUTSK, Eastern Siberia, Oct. 6.—Canadian Press.—Whatever claim Canada and United States may have to Wrangel Island, is held by Soviet opinion to have disappeared with the establishment there of Russia's first colony and the raising of the Red Flag.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

IRMA

Irma is one of the many feminine names derived from Teutonic mythology. Its evolution is somewhat involved, and it cannot be definitely determined when or how its final form, which comes to us as Irma, was reached. It is evidently the Anglicization of a patently Teutonic form. Curiously enough, it signifies "public peace."

Tracing Irma back to its mythological origin, it is revealed that the third son of Mannus was said to be Er, a deity worshipped as Irman or Ermin. The evolution of this word through German nomenclature is irrelevant here, but the curious fact remains that its feminine form appears in the Teutonic language as Herminie, not Irminie or Irma, as one might suppose.

In Italy, however, the name Ermelinda arose and named a saintly virgin of the sixth century. Spain had already received Irmin, and had proceeded to give it various interpretations, until a certain Hermenburga is discovered among the royal princesses. This lady was offered in marriage to a Frank King, but the honor was declined.

Ermesinda was the name of the lady who carried the blue blood of the Balten to the line of Alfonso. Her name meant public dignity. Southey, in his famous poem, calls her Hermesind.

The Anglo-Saxon version was Ermatrude and Irmagarde or Ermengarde. The latter form is frequent in Germany today.

The beryl is Irma's talismanic stone. It is said to make its wearer amiable and unconquerable, and to awaken love in married people. Friday is Irma's lucky day and 2 her lucky number.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

LEON GAMBETTA AND LEONIE LEON

Leon Gambetta, France's great statesman fell in love at thirty-three with Leonie Leon, the daughter of an officer, and although they never married, Leonie was the inspiration of that part of his life over which she ruled. For herself she asked nothing more than his love. She refused to marry him for fear lest this marriage compromise his career and was reluctant to even bask in the glory reflected from her lover, remaining constantly in seclusion. After a long time, Gambetta persuaded her to take his name legally, but just as the wedding date was set, death stepped in and prevented this formal consummation of a happy union. Gambetta died at the age of forty-four from stomach trouble.

The following excerpts are from the voluminous correspondence that passed between Gambetta and Leonie and tell the story of their love better than any biographer could:

"Our souls were never in more complete harmony and I drink deep draughts of a love such as the most exalted lights of the human race have dreamed of. You alone among women have succeeded in lifting me to those dazzling heights of passion and soul-communion . . . .

"You are my mortal and intellectual home. I have got so much into the habit of consulting the oracle that I must have it always close at hand. There is in my love a strong element of fetish-worship which I must put up with as best as I can. . . ."

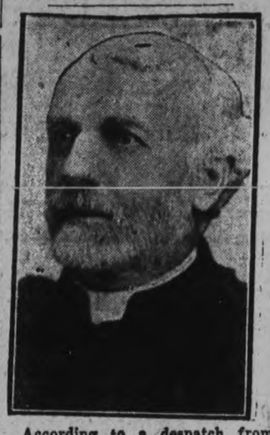
"I know not how to thank you for all the dignity and beauty that you confer every day upon our mating. It is in this way that I have always passionately longed to love and be loved. To meet such a woman, to devote my life to her, to unlock for her the most hidden recesses of my soul, to be admitted in my turn into the innermost shrine of my heart and fill every corner of that heart as a lord always ready to obey; my dream has come true, and she whom I have won has become the lodestone of my life, the secret arbiter of my fortunes."

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Hot oil shampoos are now given for oily hair—strange as this may seem. But though oil shampoos are certainly beneficial to oily heads they are quite as helpful to heads that are not oily—to over-dry heads, in fact. At the hairdresser's a hot oil shampoo is rather expensive—but you can manage one yourself without much difficulty. The advantage of having it in your own home is that you can leave the oil on for some time—thus doing your scalp all the more good.

A good quality of olive oil is recommended for this process and about a cup of it should be heated in a jar over hot water—or the top of a double boiler. It should be applied by means of a piece of absorbent cotton. Part the hair first here and then there, and apply the oil to these parts until all the scalp has been rubbed with some of the oil. Then apply the oil to the hair with the fingers. You should use it as hot as you can handle it. After the hair and scalp are thoroughly oiled heat some large bath towels and wind one around the head as hot as you can comfortably stand it. Leave it on until it cools and then apply the towel which has been heating. Continue this for a half hour or more. If you can spare the time, leave the oil on the head for two hours, the head being wound in a towel turban fashion meantime.

After this comes the shampoo, which should be very thorough. Wash the hair very carefully in warm or hot water and plenty of soap once. Then rinse and wash all over again. If there is any doubt as to the oil's being out wash it a third time, and rinse several times before finally drying.



According to a despatch from New York, Rev. Dr. Salem G. Bland, noted Canadian divine of Toronto, and Emma Levell, also of Toronto, were married. Dr. Bland is an outstanding man. Deeply interested in the public welfare, he has always been in the forefront of human betterment, laboring hard for reform, temperance, social and moral.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

After the manner of the new sports things is this frock of wool jersey consisting of an orange jumper trimmed with bands of brown to match the brown skirt.

The French dressmakers were rather slow in waking up to the fact that women's sports clothes were important—quite as important as evening clothes, street clothes, negligees or any other traditional species of apparel. Once they did realize the importance of smartly made sports clothes they made up for lost time, and now it is to the French dressmakers that we look for leadership in sports clothes of all sorts.

Patou was the first of the great French dressmakers to devote a special department to sports apparel—and this no doubt was because Patou knew his America better than any of his fellow couturieres. This season the sports collection at this house is greater even than before and anent the increased importance of this type of apparel Patou said: "A modern woman can be well dressed practically without having afternoon dresses. She can put on in the morning and for luncheon an ensemble which belongs rather to the sports type and in case of necessity she can keep it on for dancing and even for tea, and she need not really dress in the evening except for dinner or the theatre."

Jenny of Paris has just added a sports department. This is especially noteworthy as Jenny has always been considered one of the most thoroughly Parisian of all. Jenny's name is at present associated with leather jackets and leather trimmings. Chanel is another one of the French dressmakers who has a special sports department and whose name appears in almost every discussion of new sports apparel. Like Patou, she makes much use of Scotch tweeds and sweaters. Premet's furtrimmed velveteen jumpers and wool sweaters are worth noting, for Premet—always the exponent of youthful fashions—is regarded as an authority in matters of sports apparel. Madame Yteb, who was once maid of honor to the Empress of Russia, is another authority on sports apparel in Paris. From her mother, who was daughter of the American minister in Petrograd, she derived a taste for sports which she has now turned to account.

Jane Regny in Paris is the creator of many of the most practical of sports garments—sports clothes that really are worn on the tennis court, the golf links and not simply affected for luncheon and tea in town.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1926.

Benefic aspects of the stars dominate today, according to astrology. The Sun, Saturn and Neptune are all friendly, Jupiter and Uranus are adverse.

It is pre-eminently a time to seek support in any business enterprise or political ambition.

While this rule prevails the spirit of helpfulness and co-operation is supposed to be stimulated., Solicit money or influence under this sway.

All the signs appear to indicate the continuity of persons now in high place and that would seem to foreshadow for President Coolidge another term in the White House.

Mines and mining now will come much into notice and the planetary government is rather promising today.

Warning is given that coal will be in demand even more than commonly in the coming winter which is to be severe.

Neptune today encourages fair dealing and stimulates aspiration in certain directions.

This should be a lucky date for beginning journeys, if they are on water, but air trips may be most unfortunate.

This is not an auspicious direction of the stars for beginning any big enterprise. Merchants and manufacturers should look far ahead at this time.

Many changes are prognosticated in Legislative bodies in the United States. Congress is to be the source of many surprises, it is foretold.

Persistently astrologers predict for the eastern states and Canada a bad winter season, marked by tremendous storms.

To the stationary position of Mars is attributed the tendency toward earthquakes in unusual places. These may be expected all through the winter.

Persons whose birthdate it is haev the augury of a year of peace. Success in financial affairs is indicated.

Children born on this day probably will have well-balanced, judicial minds. These subjects of Libra often attain great wealth.

HER OWN WAY

by A GIRL of TODAY

IS IT LOVE?

"Of course we won't go," spoke up John Meredith who had heard my suggestion for leaving. "If we should do that now everyone would think that there was something they had not been told by Mr. Hathaway."

"Well, isn't there?" I asked, still angry.

"Of course there is, Judy; of course there is," answered John, "and after we have finished our dinner I shall insist that the manager make ample apology for allowing one of his staff to insult my sister's guests."

"Oh, Judy, Judy," implored Mamie, "don't let's have any more trouble. I think Mrs. Tremain has gone home so we won't have to worry about her and here comes a waiter with another baked Alaska. We'll eat it and get away as soon as possible. Tomorrow, Mr. Meredith," she said turning to John, "you can come back here and make everyone apologize to your heart's content."

"That's right, John," I whispered, "tomorrow I will explain to you all about this silly affair. Tonight let's be happy. In a short time, you must remember, you will be out in the African wilds and I want you to think of tonight as the happiest in your life." John Meredith's arm went around me.

"It is Judy darling. Surely you can understand that in all my miserable existence I never before have had the joy of looking into eyes that might love me. You do love me a little, do you not" He stopped and looked at me wistfully.

On the other side of me I felt Jerry moving restlessly. Evidently he was not to remember this night as the happiest of his life.

Again I asked myself the question as I felt every nerve in my body draw itself taut: "Is this emotional excitement that I am feeling for John Meredith the thing that people call love?"

I was the more ready to call it so because I had never felt that great mental intoxication before.

"What are you saying to John Meredith and what is he saying to you?" whispered Jerry in my other ear. "You eyes are like stars and the color keeps going and coming in your cheeks making them first white and then like damask roses."

I turned to Jerry—good old Jerry, who from the moment his eyes had rested on mine, had looked at me with unutterable love.

I knew that whatever could happen to me, I had only to glance in his direction to bring him to me immediately. I might hurt him but I could not keep him from loving me. Jerry would never be anything else but a man to care for me and to make my way easier in life.

Suddenly I felt my eyes fill with tears. I thanked God for letting me know Jerry. Whether it was love or not that I felt for him now, it was something that made my heart glad whenever I thought of him and sensed his protection.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE THREE STICKS

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

Once upon a time Baby Bunty, the cute little rabbit girl orphan, went hopping, skipping and jumping over to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, singing as she went.

"Why are you so happy today, Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears as he opened the front door, to let the bright sunshine on his twinkling pink nose.

"Oh, you are going to take me adventuring with you, and I know something lovely will happen," said Bunty.

"This is the first I knew I was going to take you adventuring with me," laughed the bunny gentleman. "But, since you say so, it must be, so come along," and down the front walk he hopped, followed by Bunty.

They had not gone very far before the little rabbit girl asked:

"Uncle Wiggily, do you believe in fairies?"

"Sometimes," answered Mr. Longears, judicial like, and not to be caught in a trap. "But why, Bunty?"

"Well, I'm glad you do," said the little orphan child rabbit. "Because I want you to have a fairy story adventure when I am with you. It will be so thrilling!"

"Yes, it may be thrilling all right," admitted Uncle Wiggily. "But one cannot call the fairies whenever he wishes, Bunty."

"Oh, I think you can," laughed Baby Bunty. "Now see here," she went on, as she hopped a little way ahead on the woodland path. "Here are three sticks. With these you may have a fairy adventure."

As she spoke Bunty picked up three sticks, the first was short, the second was a bit longer and the third was longest of all.

"Take them, Uncle Wiggily," she said, "and see what happens."

Now the sticks were just ordinary pieces of tree branches, such as you or I might pick up if we walked in the woods. Uncle Wiggily did not see how there could be anything magical, or fairy like, about them. Still he did not want to disappoint Baby Bunty. So, taking the three sticks, Uncle Wiggily hopped on beside her.

All of a sudden the little rabbit girl said:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! I am so hungry for a lollypop! Please couldn't you be a fairy right now and make a lollypop on the end of the littlest stick? Please do!"

"Why, Bunty!" began the bunny gentleman. "I don't know—" he was just going to say he didn't know how to make a lollypop appear on the end of a stick when, all of a sudden he happened to notice that he was standing near a hollow tree in which some bees had made their hive. And the tree was filled with sweet honey. So the rabbit gentleman changed his mind and said: "I don't know whether you would like a honey lollypop, Bunty!"

"Oh, I'd just love it!" she cried. "Can you make one?"

"I can!" said Uncle Wiggily, solemn

ike. So he dipped the little stick in the honey, first whispering to the bees what he was about to do. Whirling in the air the stick with the honey on, made the sweet stuff into a round lump, and lo and behold! Bunty had her lollypop.

"Oh, this is wonderful!" she cried, jumping up and down in joy. "The magical sticks are working. What will happen to the other two?"

Uncle Wiggily didn't know, but he said nothing, and he and Bunty hopped on a little farther. The lollypop honey was soon eaten and Bunty said:

"Oh, dear, I am so thirsty! I want a drink, Unkie Wig! Make some nice drinking water come out of the middle-sized stick."

Uncle Wiggily didn't see how he could, but just then they came to a little house in the forest where lived a cow lady. She was trying to raise one of the windows in her house but the cords being broken, the window banged down as fast as she raised it.

"Here!" called Uncle Wiggily, handing the cow lady the second stick. "This will prop open your window, Mrs. Moo!" And the cow lady was so glad to get a window stick that she gave Bunty a glass of milk and the little rabbit orphan was no longer thirsty.

"Two of the sticks were magical!" laughed Bunty. "What will happen to the third one?"

"I wonder?" said Uncle Wiggily, but by that time he was back home at his hollow stump bungalow, and what the third stick did we shall have to wait until tomorrow night to find out about. Then, in case the jumping Jack doesn't take all the air out of the auto tire to blow up his football, the story will be about Uncle Wiggily and the third stick.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Jet is the talismanic gem for this day. Worn against the flesh, it protects its wearer from sorrow and bad luck. Unless it is broken or chipped, then it should be thrown away at once, for it loses all its power for good.

Today's natal stone is the emerald, which brings assurance to those who appear in public—such as speakers, singers, etc. It also bestows on its wearer the power to foretell future events if the ancients are to be believed.

Light blue is today's lucky hue. Especially should it be used in decorations for weddings and social functions given to the young.

The purple aster is today's significant flower. It is particularly recommended for those who are anxious to create favorable comment upon their social entertainments.

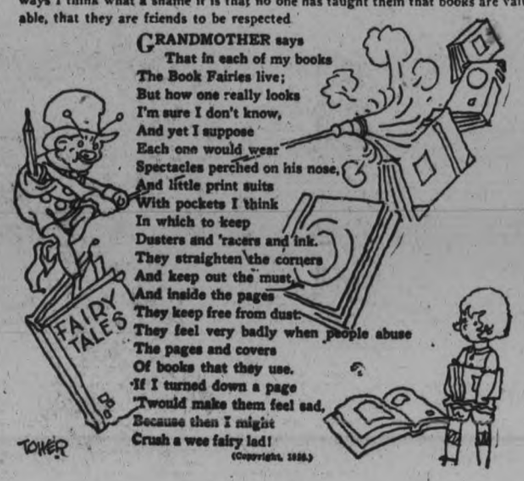
The Book Fairies

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

BOOKS are among the best friends a child can have. From babyhood he should be taught that they are precious things, that they have personality and must be treated with respect. Mutilating a book is really a destructive, thoughtless act and should be dealt with as a real offense. I've seen school children throw their books at one another, mark them up hideously and break the covers. Always I think what a shame it is that no one has taught them that books are valuable, that they are friends to be respected.



GRANDMOTHER says
That in each of my books
The Book Fairies live;
But how one really looks
I'm sure I don't know,
And yet I suppose
Each one would wear
Spectacles perched on his nose,
And little print suits
With pockets I think
In which to keep
Dusters and tracers and ink.
They straighten the corners
And keep out the must,
And inside the pages
They keep free from dust.
They feel very badly when people abuse
The pages and covers
Of books that they use.
If I turned down a page
Twould make them feel sad,
Because then I might
Crush a wee fairy lad!

SHORT STORY

(By Cora Bennett.)

The water was turquoise green, the air was cool and soft, when Jack Allen, tired of swimming, clambered upon the sloping rock, that marked deep water. For awhile he sat there, watching the gaily tinted crowds that thronged the beach and scattered into the water. Then he would swim again, sliding down the rock until his feet almost touched bottom and soon he would come up again, buoyant and alive, ready to swim out to the point and back again once more.

It didn't turn out exactly as he had planned. Jack slipped down the rock, feet first, but he knew nothing of the stout and elderly gentleman who was floating on his back just beneath the surface, almost somnolent with the joy of the day.

It was mere chance that the floater rounded the rock just as Jack decided to submerge. The result was as startling as it was mortifying. There was the moment of contact, a fish-like leap on the part of the unhappy Jack, a momentary glimpse of a pair of elderly feet and a red and wrathful face.

Jack went back to the rock. "I am sorry, sir," he said apologetically. "Of course I could not know you were there. I hope you are not hurt, sir."

"How can I tell that until I have seen my doctor?" asked the victim irascibly. "I would like you card, sir!"

"Of course I haven't got one here," said Jack in a peaceable voice, "but my name is John Allen and I am at the Cliff Hotel."

"Suppose you will go kiting off in a high powered car as soon as you get ashore," muttered the injured one. "My name is Flood—I'll get you wherever you are."

As Jack swam away toward the ocean he told himself grimly there was just one thing for him to do now—get himself drowned for good and all.

Had he not just become engaged to Daisy Flood, the most charming of the Flood twins, and was he not waiting around to meet Daisy's father to put the important question? Mrs. Flood was willing, but Amos Flood, the well known lawyer!

Daisy's father! And the prospective son-in-law had almost killed him!

Jack had reached the point by this time and lay panting on the sand. He was still miserably going over the accident when a motorboat whooped over a wave and edged along the beach. The genial face of the life guard mooned at him.

"There you are, Mr. Allen," he called. "Here I am—what has happened? Come to arrest me?"

"Came to rescue you. Miss Daisy Flood says there's sharks out there."

"There's sharks ashore," retorted Jack glumly.

The guard laughed heartily. "I saw you do it," he chortled. He was a college student on vacation, and had a strange sense of humor. "They put the old gentleman to bed and sent for a doctor and a specialist. Money flowing like water."

"How is he?" growled Jack with a faint show of interest.

"I don't know. But I've orders to bring you home, dead or alive."

Jack made himself comfortable in the boat, and they rushed back to the hotel, where he found a note from Amos Flood asking him to call at his suite that evening at nine o'clock.

"I'll get my conge sure as shootin'," gloomed Jack, and packed his trunk and bags before he dressed for dinner. Exactly at the hour named, looking very pale and handsome, the unfortunate lover presented himself at the Flood suite.

Mrs. Flood welcomed him with tearful eyes. Daisy squeezed his hand sympathetically, and Jean nodded in her brusque little way. There was nothing to indicate that this was anything except a death bed scene.

"Oh, Jack," whispered Mrs. Flood. "It does not seem possible."

"Has he—passed away?" asked Jack, horror-stricken.

There was a mellow laugh in the distance, the aroma of a good cigar and Amos Flood ambled into view, smiling cheerfully like an amiable cockatoo.

"You have saved my life, Jack," he said, extending a hand.

"Saved your life?" echoed Jack.

"So I have said."

"I thought I had killed you."

"It proved to be the kindest thing you ever did! That drastic treatment was what I needed and I have just concluded a full course dinner of indigestibles, and my doctors say you have cured me by your supposed carelessness."

"I am very glad indeed, Mr. Flood," said Jack dizzily.

"Now," bustled the great lawyer, "I understand you want to marry Daisy."

"He is going to," said Daisy, possessing herself of Jack's arm.

"I'll say that you would never have had a chance winning her if you had not cured me," said Mr. Flood. "Because there's two or three good-looking young doctors been after Daisy and—well, call it a day. Come mother, come Jean—he isn't courting both of you—good luck, Jack."

"Thank you, sir," said Jack and took all the luck that was coming to him, including Daisy herself.

FASHIONS

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(United Press).—The biggest "hick" from the smallest village can walk among the well-dressed throngs on Fifth Avenue without causing the slightest commotion for New York is a rube town in many ways.

Riding on a Fifth avenue bus from Washington Square to 135th Street and Broadway yesterday I saw the following sights which I believe could only occur in a hick town like New York.

At the Square a bearded middle-aged man, evidently an artist, wearing an egg-stained swallow-tailed coat and a wide-brimmed black felt hat, stooped down to rescue a kitten that had been thrown in a water culvert. With a huge white silk handkerchief he gently dried the legs of the half-drowned little animal, folled him up, tucked him in the massive folds of his coat and walked off with him.

At 20th Street two country women sat high and regal on a load of hay which they were bringing to market.

Opposite me, two women dressed in the garb of 1890 attracted my attention. The younger woman, a person of middle age, wore side combs, a barette, a veil and a wide-brimmed hat which turned up at the rear being held by a red rose. On her arms were black lace mittens with half-fingers. A bracelet dangling with silver hearts adorned one arm. The older woman wore a veiled turban studded with black jet beads, carried a long crooked handle umbrella which had weathered many winters. A scant-flued feather boa acted as her scarf. There was an air of refinement about these two which probably would not be appreciated to-day.

On 40th Street a skinny-legged person with rolled stockings, bare knees and a skirt two inches above her knee-caps strutted proudly.

Further along, a fat woman placed her foot upon a water hydrant as she tied a high-laced shoe.

A colored maid clutched a white-faced monkey in her arms, followed by a crowd of youngsters. As she passed, there was a shuckle from the seat in front. There sat a cute rouged flapper with a toothless old woman whose head was covered by a worn shawl. Her mother. The two nudged each other as they laughed, youth unashamed of slovenly age and age proud of modern youth.

A lost child surrounded by at last 25 mothers and baby carriages delayed the traffic at 135th Street and Broadway.

With all its wealth, its "oimine, poils and foirs," New York can boast of a small-town heart grown large enough to understand the smallness of it's side streets!

FOOD AND HEALTH.

THE USE AND ABUSE OF PIE

(By Winifred Stuart Gibbs, Food Specialist.)

"Would it be possible," said a good friend in California, "or agreeable to write on the use and abuse of pies? I have a friend about fifty years of age who complains of stomach trouble, loss of sleep and lack of appetite. He will order a vegetable dinner at a restaurant, then push it away and consume two pieces of strawberry pie served with whipped cream and sweetened with three or four teaspoons of sugar. I wonder if there are not others like him and whether a discussion of this question might not help a good many."

Yes, indeed, I can "see my way clear." It is both possible and agreeable to write about such a popular subject as pie!

Our friend is wise to raise the question and from a fair knowledge of masculine peculiarities, I am convinced that if she goes about it in the right way, she may win her friend to the proper point of view.

Now about this man's diet. Since he orders a vegetable dinner, he evidently knows something about nutrition. The fact that he doesn't eat it is no indication of his lack of knowledge. His stomach troubles, loss of sleep and lack of appetite probably come not so much from the pie itself, as from the fact that he is eating an unbalanced diet. Of course, his stomach rebels when it is given chiefly fuel food. Strawberry pie is excellent food. It is rich in energy, but the energy is excessive, when one remembers that it is served with whipped cream and much sugar.

My first suggestion is this. Think of this fifty-year-old man merely as a grownup boy, for that is what all men are. Get him interested in earning his appetite. As a business man, he will appreciate the wisdom of this. When he has earned an appetite for an all-round good meal of vegetables with occasional meat, if he likes it, he will not have to be coaxed to eat only a reasonable portion of pie or any other dessert.

As for how he goes about earning his appetite, only he can work this out. The friend who writes to us in his behalf can probably help him by her influence and also by her suggestions. As a business man, he may earn his appetite by the simple process of sending his motor car away and walking down to his office and then walking home again. The point is, he must earn the appetite. He would not pay an employee a salary which had not been earned. Point out to him that he must not over-pay his stomach in food which it has not earned. All of this may seem a long way off from pie, but unless there is some serious disturbance which I doubt, it will solve the whole problem. Pie will then take its proper place as a food that contains much energy, some body building material and if it is made with fruit, minerals and vitamins also.

Pie itself should be looked upon for what it is. Good food—it should not be given to young children and perhaps the whole problem is simplified if we remember that it is a somewhat complex food which should not be bestowed upon a stomach already struggling with a hearty meal.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, says:

THAT the United States has invested in Canada, in industries, stocks and bonds and securities, over 2 billion dollars and that, therefore the United States has a very great interest in the prosperity of the Dominion. At the present time something over 1,000 United States industries have branch factories or distributing plants in Canada and is heavily interested in the pulp and paper industry, the mining industry, and automobile and th lumber industries.

Canada is, I believe, on the eve of great industrial and commercial activity. Agriculturally, the Dominion has been progressing steadily if slowly, but the big crop of this year—which will approximate 400 million bushels of wheat alone, combined with the greater crop of 1923 and excellent crops in 1924 and 1925—means distribution of vast sums of money throughout the country which is evidenced in the financial conditions of the farmers and of trade and commerce generally.

"JESS" HAINES WINS OWN GAME BY HITTING HOMER WITH ONE ON HOLDS YANKS DOWN TO FIVE HITS

Throng of 38,000 Spectators Watch Cardinals Whitewash Yankees 4-0.

SUPERIOR PLAYING.

Game Interrupted For 32 Minutes at Start of the Fourth.

(By Alan J. Gould.)

ST. LOUIS, October 6. Canadian Press. — The rugged figure of Jesse Joseph Haines was cast in heroic mould yesterday to celebrate the homecoming of the Cardinals with a dramatic victory over the Yankees in the greatest diamond spectacle St. Louis has ever witnessed.

Standing out in relief against a background of conflict and the feverish cheers of a record-breaking crowd, Haines not only blanked the American League champions with five scattered hits but hammered out a home run that capped the climax of the Cardinals' decisive batting attack in the fourth inning.

A vast throng of close to 38,000 spectators, the largest and most enthusiastic crowd that ever jammed Sportsman's Park, saw Haines subdue the Yankees with a 4-0 triumph in the third game of the intersectional battle. It was a stirring victory, the climax of a 24 hour outburst of unprecedented hometown spirit, and put the Cardinals in the lead, two games to one, in the struggle for premier baseball honors.

Victory by any margin would have been thrilling to this big outpouring yesterday, but it was satisfied even beyond its keenest expectations by the brilliance of Haines' pitching, the mighty power of his bat and the all-round dash with which the Cardinals demonstrated their superiority over their New York rivals.

While Haines was turning in a masterpiece, fit companion feat to Alexander's triumph on Sunday over the Yankees, the Cardinals outplayed the Yankees in every department of the game. They had the punch when hits meant runs and they fielded with a sparkling snap that cut off the few threats made by the invaders.

Dutch Ruether, veteran southpaw, tried to check the onward surge of the Cardinals, with his cross-fire, but he lasted less than five innings, yielding the mound to Bob Shawkey, after being shelled for seven hits and four runs.

It was an occasion built for victory by Rogers Hornsby and his rampant Redbirds.

The big crowd, though dwarfed by the throngs that witnessed the first two games in New York, yielded to no rivals in spirit. It came to cheer a Cardinal triumph after an all-night celebration of the home team's return from the east, and it was not disappointed in the climax.

If anything the National League champions outdid themselves, spurred on as they were by this astonishing demonstration of support. They had every incentive to win, and they did it with such decisiveness that there isn't a St. Louis fan who isn't already making preparations for a final flourish that will celebrate the winning of the world's championship.

Two victories more will clinch the title for the Cardinals and the form they have displayed in the last two games, contrasting sharply with the almost listless performance of their opponents, has greatly strengthened their prospects for final triumph. In three games, the American League champions, supposedly one of the hardest hitting outfits in the game, have produced only 15 hits and four runs. Not one of their blows has been of the extra base variety, while the Cardinals have been walloping the ball to all corners of the lot.

For a time yesterday the intermittent showers of rain threatened to mar the setting for the triumph of Hornsby's men. The game was delayed for 32 minutes at the start of the fourth inning by a sudden shower, but heroic efforts put the field back into playable condition, muddy though it was. It was a fortunate 'break' for the Cardinals came back after the interval to check a budding Yankee rally, and then score the runs that clinched the game.

There was another and contributing 'break' in this decisive inning, for the slippery condition of the ball was at least partly to blame for a wild throw by Mark Koenig, Yankee shortstop, who had a double play in sight that would have choked off the Cardinals without a run.

Lester Bell opened the fourth with a single, and went to second on Hafey's sacrifice bunt. O'Farrell walked and then Thevenow rapped a hard grounder to Lazzeri, who scooped it up and tossed to Koenig for a forceout of O'Farrell. The Yankee shortstop threw wildly past Gehrig, however, and Bell raced home with the first run. This set the stage for Haines and the husky pitcher provoked a tumultuous outburst by lofting one of Ruether's curves high into the right field stands.

It was a towering blow, worthy of a Ruth or a Southworth, and Haines trotted around the bases to the accompaniment of a bedlam of cheering, the ringing of bells and the honking of horns.

To all intents and purposes this settled the game as it turned out, but the Cards added another run for good measure in the fourth, Southworth scoring on his single, another one-base blow by Hornsby and an infield out by Bottomley which marked the retirement of Ruether.

With this margin to work on, Haines toiled the rest of the game with invincible skill. In no inning were the Yankees able to get more than one safe hit and in none of them did a base runner get beyond the keystone bag.

Twice, snappy double plays checked the Yanks once in the ninth as a finishing gesture when Gehring singled with one out.

Joe Dugan started the third with a single and was sacrificed to second by Severeid, but got no farther.

In the fourth, just before the downpour came, Ruth was on the middle bag by virtue of his one base hit to centre, and Meusel's infield out.

Gehrig in the seventh and Paschal, a pinch hitter, who walked in the eighth also got as far as second base but they were likewise stranded as the Yankee bats were also silenced.

The Cardinals concentrated their attacking efforts in the fourth and fifth frames although they had constantly threatened Ruether up to the time he was shelled from the hill. After the fifth however Shawkey toiled effectively for two innings while young Miles Thomas, making his series debut, checked the Cardinals in the eighth with the aid of a double play started by Koenig.

BATSTONE JOINS QUEEN'S AGAIN

Toronto Boy To Take Six-Year Course in Medicine.

SENSATION.

KINGSTON, Oct. 6.—The sudden return of Harry "Red" Batstone to Queen's Monday after the famous backfield star had been with the Argonauts for a couple of weeks and taken part in their first exhibition game, came as the most sensational pre season development to feature Canadian football in many years.

Plenty of Rumors

Ever since Batstone graduated last spring from the Kingston institution of learning, football rumors have been afloat that he would take still another year at that school and more than three weeks ago it was stated on good authority in this column that Batstone would be found once more on the Queen's backfield. Therefore the return of Red was not a tremendous surprise to all but at the same time it must have been a terrific shock to the Argonaut management who were banking heavily on him to lead the Double Blue in the Big Four race.

Batstone's last minute jump, came about it is said when Harry found that the position he had secured in this city did not suit his talents and it is stated that he now intends to go through for medicine at which he feels he will be more successful.

Kingston Joyful

At any rate there is jubilation in Kingston and the Argos are a little downcast for the time, but there is this to it, the loss suffered by the Scullers or the gain of Queen's is not nearly so great as many people seem to think. Batstone is still a fine backfield man, his consistency and handy work making him a valuable addition to any team, but he is not the sensational, spinning, running "Redhead" who helped the Argos and later Queen's to so many titles. Batstone is not a has been but he has lost a lot of his old-time zest for the fall sport.

Had Hard Knocks

He has been through the mill of hard kocks and they have told on him to some extent. A team-mate of his, "Red" McKelvey, went through the same experience. The last couple of seasons that performer was at Queen's he was not the great plunger her had been in his earlier seasons. Rather he was a good man gone stale and only his reputation kept him in there. Still Batstone is good enough for any man's team and Queen's need him as Chantler may not be able to go the distance. It is not likely, despite rumors to the effect, that either McGill or U. of T. will have anything to say about the matter.

'HALIGONIAN' WILL NOT PARTICIPATE

Impossible To Get Schooner Ready For Race on Monday.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—The Halifax fishing schooner "Haligonian" will not go to Gloucester for the races starting next Monday. This was finally announced late yesterday afternoon when it was discovered that it would be impossible to get the vessel ready in time to make the trip. When the request of the Halifax committee for a postponement was rejected by the Gloucester authorities Monday it was planned to make every effort to get the "Haligonian" ready in time to start in the race Monday, but yesterday afternoon it was discovered that the schooner could not be placed on the marine railway before Thursday, and this would not permit completion of preparations in time. It was apparent last night that there would be no Canadian contestant in the races.

YANKEES NOT HITTING RIGHT

MAKES DIFFERENCE.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press)—Blame for the defeat of the Yanks in the third game of the world's series yesterday was hung on the old, old story by Manager Miller Huggins—the fact that the Yanks were not hitting. Huggins believes the tide will turn today, that the Yanks will come crashing through in a storm of base hits that will even up the series.

The Yankees were an angry, white-lipped group of baseball players when they reached their dressing room. Babe Ruth mumbled to himself while searching under benches for his shoes. Then the Babe blurted out: "I can't see the Cardinals as a club no matter if they did lick us today. There are at least two better clubs in the National League—Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. The Cardinals have been lucky, that's all, by getting a lot of flukey hits. We are not licked yet. Tomorrow is another day. When we start hitting, it will be a different story."

Huggins praised the Cards and the masterful pitching of Jesse Haines.

"It's the old story, but I've got to say it—we're not hitting," Huggins declared. "We've only made 13 hits in three games. Hits make a lot of difference in many ways. They inspire the players and keep us in the fight. We have not been ourselves in hitting for a long time but we are going to get started tomorrow. We have faced three of the best pitchers on the St. Louis staff. We are bound to hit better from now on. The Cardinal staff cannot hold up the standard of pitching set by Alexander, Sherdel and Haines."

Huggins offered no criticism of Koenig's wild throw in the fourth inning that started the scoring. He merely regarded it as one of the breaks in the game, declaring that the ball was slippery and wet and that Koenig apparently got a poor grip on it.

"It was just one of those things—a poor throw likely to occur in any game," Huggins added.

The diminutive Yankee leader intended to start Waite Hoyt against the Cards today, while Flint Rhem probably will be Manager Hornsby's pitching selection.

Hornsby and his players were in high spirits, glowing with smiles as they stripped off their rain-soaked uniforms in their clubhouse. They swarmed around big Jess Haines, their victorious pitcher slapping him on the back in showing their appreciation of his achievement in smacking out the home run in the fourth that scored Thevenow ahead of him. Haines, stripped to the waist, hunched up his shoulders to ward off every resounding slap.

The 30-year-old pilot of the Cardinals praised the fighting spirit of his team. He was highly pleased with the fact that the Cardinals have been connecting with the ball.

"It looks like we'll win the series now for sure," Hornsby said. "If we lose tomorrow we will fight all the harder, but I don't think we will lose. I intend to pitch Rhem. He's ready. But I may switch my plans and send Sherdel back at them. Or I may decide on Reinhart. The Yanks apparently do not like left hand pitching. If we can keep them from hitting, that's all that will be necessary to make us champions, for I'm confident that there is nothing that can stop the batting of the Cardinals."

Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavy who reached the peak of his fame when he stayed 10 rounds with Champion Jess Willard, has gone to Hollywood to enter the movies.

FINAL TOUCHES BEFORE OPENING

Put in Strenuous Training For Game Against Toronto University.

ON SATURDAY.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 6 (Canadian Press)—McGill rugby players settled down to their final three days of strenuous training for their opening intercollegiate game against University of Toronto here when they went into a heavy scrimmage drill yesterday afternoon at the stadium.

While McGill's playing strength has been weakened through injuries, it is likely that all players will be available for Saturday's game, including Captain Gordie Hughes and Littlefield, both of whom are out with injured knees, the result of the Old Boys' game last week-end.

CARDS FAVORITES.

Wall Street Wagering Firms Quote 2 To 1 Odds For St. Louis.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press) — Following the Cardinals' victory over the Yankees in the third game of the series yesterday, St. Louis was installed as favorite for the world championship by 2 to 1 in odds quoted by Wall Street wagering firms. One bet of $10 000 against $5,000 was placed on the Cardinals. The National League club was an 11 to 10 choice to win the fourth contest today, with many backers of the Yankees holding out for 13 to 10.

A freak wager of 11 to 5 was placed that the St. Louis club does not win the next two consecutive games.

DEMPSEY MAY GO AFTER TITLE

Not Crying Because He Lost Title To Gene Tunney.

MADE MONEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (Canadian Press).—The experience of being heavyweight champion for seven years with all the trials and tribulations it brought him was worth the price to Jack Dempsey. Admitting that "it's still a pretty sweet world to me," the detroned fistic king today indicated that he may return to the ring to regain his lost laurels. "I've lost the title, but maybe I can get it back. I can try, anyway," he explained.

Apparently fully recovered from his battle with Gene Tunney, the former title holder said he had been happy to find that "someone" cared for Jack Dempsey and not just the champion. He referred to his wife, the former Estelle Taylor.

"I made a lot of money, a couple of million, I guess," he continued. "The title was mine for seven years, and I'm not crying now that some one else has it. It was taken from me, fairly and squarely, by a lot better fighter than he gets credit for being.

"Tunney wasn't Firpo. He knows his way around in that ring. I'm not kicking—I've got something worth while out of it. And I made some pals who are still for me, and that's a whole lot."

MLLE. LENGLEN TO PLAY IN CANADA

Will Visit Toronto on Oct. 12th and Montreal Oct. 23rd.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—While Mlle. Lenglen was displaying her Parisian gowns before a battery of cameras here yesterday, William Picke, who will manage the professional tennis player's American tour, announced that she would be in Toronto on October 12 and in Montreal on October 23.

Under the guardianship of C. C. Pyle, who wooed her to professionalism from the amateur world's title, Mlle. Lenglen is now loaning her name to a good many things, including racquets and hats. Pyle says she will make about a quarter of a million out of that end of the game.

CLEAN CHIMNEYS ADVICE OF CHIEF

Requests Citizens To Inform Office Before Burning Leaves.

As this is fire prevention week, the Fire Chief suggests that, in accordance with the idea of the week, the citizens of this city see that the chimneys and pipes in their home are cleaned. During last spring there was a great number of chimney fires in this city, and to prevent this occurring this fall the suggestion has been made.

This also is the time of year when people burn leaves and permission can be had for doing so by calling the first station up and reporting the same.

The fire loss in this city this year shows a decrease in the first six months over the same period last year. The loss by months this year is as follows:

January, nothing; February, $1,432.48; March, $2,350.11; April, $139.75; May, $23,166.07; June, $1,084.25; July, $349.93, a total of $28,522.59. Last year for the same period the loss was $28,761.82.

AROUND THE CITY.

Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the Peterboro Automobile Club, made a flying trip to Apsley to-day with a party of four. The business is in connection with a development affecting the tourist traffic to that district.

RUTH'S HOMERS

St. Louis.—The stands applauded Ruth as he went out into left field. Douthit went out by the Koenig-Gehrig route. Southworth got a Texas Leaguer into centre for his second hit of the game. Hornsby struck out, swinging for his third strike. Hornsby went out on three pitched balls. It was a pitch-out, but Southworth did not get down. Lazzeri threw out Bottomley at first. Hoyt used a half speed curve all during the inning. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Inning

New York.—Gehrig struck out. He did not swing for the third strike. Lazzeri got a base on balls, the fourth pitch being outside. Lazzeri scored on Dugan's two bagger into left. Douthit and Hafey collided trying to make the catch. The two players were knocked to the ground and were unable to arise to make the play on Lazzeri, who rushed across the plate as the ball bounded away from Douthit. Time was called and the players of both teams rushed to the outfield. It was apparent that both players were badly shaken up. After a couple of minutes the two St. Louis outfielders arose and the Cardinals took their places in the field. The crowd cheered when it seemed that both players could continue in the game. Play was resumed. Severeid singled into centre and Dugan was thrown out at the plate, Douthit to O'Farrell. Hoyt struck out, taking a called third strike. One run, two hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Koenig made a nice running catch of Bell's fly. Hafey got a single over the middle bag. Meusel came in from right field to second base and the players gathered around him. The trainer was called and it appeared as if Meusel was ill. He washed his mouth out several times with water. The trainer talked to him for several minutes after which he went back into right field. Play then was resumed. Koenig fumbled O'Farrel's grounder when a double play was in sight, Hafey going to second. Hafey scored on Thevnow's double to right, O'Farrel going to third. Torporcer batted for Rhem. Torporcer flied to Combs and O'Farrel scored after the catch. Combs' throw was wide. Thevenow held second. Thevnow scored on Douthit's double to right. The stands were in an uproar. Southworth singled to left and Douthit was thrown out at the plate, Ruth to Severeid. 3 runs, 4 hits, 1 error.

Fifth Inning

New York—Reinhart went in the box for the Cardinals. After Reinhart had warmed up a bit, Combs came up to the plate. Combs was given a base on balls. Koenig got a double into right and Combs scored by fast base running. Ruth walked, the fourth pitch being outside. Hornsby came in and talked to Reinhart. Meusel got a base on balls and the bases were filled. Koenig scored when Gehrig got a base on balls. The bases were still loaded and Hornsby sent Reinhart to the showers. Herman Bell was called into the box. Ruth scored on Lazezri's sacrifice fly to Southworth, Meusel going to third on the catch, Gehrig holding first. Meusel scored while O'Farrel was throwing Dugan out at first, Gehrig going to second. Gehrig went to third on a balk. Severeid was purposely passed. Hoyt forced Severeid, Hornsby to Thevenow. 4 runs, 1 hit, no errors.

St. Louis—Lazzeri took Hornsby's hopper and threw him out. Hoyt was working a slow ball. Bottomley got a base on balls. Dugan threw out Bell at first, Bottomley going to second. Hafey struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning.

New York—Combs beat out a hit to deep short. Koenig fanned swinging on a drop curve. Hornsby went over and talked to Herman Bell. Ruth hit another home run into deep centre field stands, scoring Combs ahead of him. Ruth's hit shattered all world series home run records. Meusel singled to right, but was out, stretching it, Southworth to Hornsby. Gehrig pumped a long hit into left for two bases. Lazzeri popped to Thevenow. 2 runs, 4 hits, no errors.

The remainder will be bulletined in full at The Examiner Office.

O.T.A. OFFICIALS RESIGN BECAUSE OF ESSEX DRIVE

Two Men Stationed at Leamington Quit After Seeing Williams

FOLLOWS RAID.

Glaring Violations Found on Border By Special Officers.

WINDSOR, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—The resignation of License Inspector D. O. Copeland and Provincial Constable Athol White of Leamington is the latest development in Attorney-General W. F. Nickle's drive against Essex County O.T.A. violators. Inspector W. H. Lougheed, head of the Ontario Police and O.T.A. enforcement squads in Western Ontario, said he knew Copeland and White were ordered to appear before Major-General Victor Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, at Toronto, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. The resignations followed the conference with the General, Inspector Lougheed said.

The investigation made by "special officers" sent to the border some time preceding the week of September 17, has disclosed a glaring violation of the Ontario Temperance Act, it is said.

Roadhouses, which were raided by Provincial Officers several hours previous to the start of the "special officers'" activities, were in full swing again two or three hours later, serving whiskey, brandy and beer by the glass, it is charged.

Not only was this disclosed by the secret work of the "special officers," who were unknown to Inspector Lougheed, or members of the local staff of the Ontario police, but also by raids conducted on Friday night by License Inspector Matthew Side, formerly of Chatham, substituting for License Inspector M. N. Mousseau, who has been seriously ill. Thirty roadhouse and hotel proprietors will face charges Friday as a result of the drive.

Nickle Consults Officials

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General of Ontario, when questioned today regarding charges under the Ontario Temperance Act, laid against thirty hotels and roadhouses in Windsor and other Border Cities, said that nothing new had developed and that he had no comment to make on the situation. During the morning, however, Mr. Nickle held a series of consultations with officials who are charged with the enforcement of O.T.A., among them being Commissioner of Police Victor Williams, Deputy Commissioner A. Cuddy, Inspector Ward, chief O.T.A. Inspector John Ayearst, Chief Inspector P. Elliott, Chairman James Hales, K.C., of the License Board and director of O.T.A. prosecutions; F. B. Brennan, solicitor in the department, and others. None of the officials who attended the consultations would make any announcement.

A Toronto paper says today that premature announcement of the operations threw the plans of the Department awry.

RUSSIAN SETTLEMENT

The new settlement at Rogers Bay consists of fifty emigrants from the Siberian mainland, taken there by the Russian volunteer fleet steamer Stavropol.

The Soviet government provided the settlers with money, clothing and food for three years. They form the nucleus of a larger colony which the government hopes to establish.

It is intended to make Wrangel the administrative centre of the Russian Polar regions. Siberian government officials believe the island is of great strategic value to the Soviet Union.

MARITIME REPORT FOR PARLIAMENT

Expected That Cabinet Will Not Take Up Matter Before.

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (Canadian Press).—It now appears probable that the report of the Maritime Rights Commission will not be made public until parliament meets. The report was submitted at the time the Meighen Government was going out of office and was left for the new government to deal with. It is understood that the matter has been brought up tentatively in cabinet counsel but the pressure of work awaiting the cabinet has prevented any extended discussion of the report. Premier King leaves on Friday for the Imperial Conference and consideration of a number of matters will stand over until his return. It is understood now that the new government is in favor of holding the Maritimes Commission report for the consideration of parliament.

HONORARY DEGREE FOR NEW GOVERNOR

McGill Makes Him LL.D. at Founder's Day Ceremony.

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press.)— McGill University to-day conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada and on three distinguished graduates of the University, F. G. Finlay, Archdeacon F. G. Scott, of Quebec and Samuel J. Willis of Vancouver. Thirty-one degrees, chiefly in the faculties of Arts, Science and Music were also conferred in the ceremony.

To-day was Founder's Day and the first day of a re-union which has brought some hundreds of graduates back to their Alma Mater.

BOOZE IN COFFIN.

Customs Officers at Boston Find 75 Bottles of Scotch.

BOSTON, Oct. 6 (United Press) —Customs officers here apparently believe prohibition is a "dead" issue. While searching the steamship President Hayes for contraband they peered into an otherwise empty coffin and found 75 bottles of Scotch whiskey.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL

IN "THE BLACK PIRATE" ARRIVES ANOTHER BIG FAIRBANKS SPECTACLE

Vivid Adventure in the Days of Morgan New Topic of Screen's Most Active Romantic Hero, Filmed This Time in Color.

In presenting "The Black Pirate" which is coming to the Capitol Theatre to-morrow, Douglas Fairbanks is up to one of his pioneering tricks again. The film is in natural color, and a vast improvement, we are told, over past efforts to presenting color. "Doug." has picked out tones which are calculated to rest the eye—principally browns and greens and their complements. And all the color is selected in accordance with its dramatic value. Four months of experimental work was done along this line before a crank was turned on production.

The story is an original from the facile pen of Mr. Elton Thomas. All the "yo-hoes" and "avasts" of 17th century piracy are in "The Black Pirate," along with everything that any pirate ever did, from burying treasure to walking the plank. Without being specific, Fairbanks chose the Southern Seas as his locale, thus giving his adventure plenty of sea room. Albert Parker was custodian of the megaphone on "The Black Pirate."

Billie Dove, that lovely young leading lady who is rapidly heading for stardom, furnishes the pulchritude in this picture and also Doug's motive for cleaning up a couple of shiploads of pirates.

Mr. Fairbanks opens this picture, we are told, where most of them end—with the freebooters blowing up a galleon along with the passengers, cargo and crew. After this placid incident things get exciting, and the first thing we know the star is the black pirate, rowing about and capturing ships single-handed and all that. All told two ships are blown up, and one is sunk under fire. The hero is made to walk the plank, and just how he extricated himself from that unhappy predicament after his hands have been tied behind his back is quite a story in itself. After viewing this film there no doubt will be an exodus of small boys to the equatorial seas of various vacant lots and back yards to dig for the huge quantities of doubloons and pieces of eight that "Doug's" pirates bury.

With a story flavored by the tang of the sea and highly spiced with Fairbanksian stunts and the wildest sort of adventure, along with a pleasing romance, it would seem that much is in store for those who go down to the screen in cushioned chairs to watch the unfoldment of flickering fantasies.

The cast for the picture is of very compact dimensions. There are only two women in the piece — Billie Dove and Tempe Pigott, the latter in the role of maid to the heroine. Other featured players include Anders Randolf as pirate captain; Sam De Grasse as the villainous pirate, and Donald Crisp as a genial kind of pirate. In support of these are some 500 of as wicked-looking freebooters as ever stepped out of a story book.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE STUDENT PRINCE"

The Messrs. Shubert's "The Student Prince", undoubtedly the greatest and most ambitious production, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House for matinee and evening performances, next Wednesday.

Seldom in the history of the theatre have critics risen to such superlative heights of praise for the merits of an attraction as did the New York reviewers after the premiere of "The Student Prince" at the Jolson Theatre in New York, where it had its premiere on December 2nd last and where the attraction played for two seasons.

The combined efforts of Dorothy Donnelly as Librettist and lyricist and Sigmund Romberg as composer, have blended a story and score as delightful as anything that has been seen in the theatre in a generation.

And the cast selected by the Messrs. Shubert to play Canada and the Northern States has been chosen with great care and is said to be the pick of the nine companies that presented the operetta last season. This company plays the Alexandra in Toronto all the week following their local appearance.

The company presenting the operetta here will be a very large one numbering nearly one hundred persons, included among which is a student male chorus of fifty trained voices and a symphony orchestra of twenty.

"SENOR DAREDEVIL" NEW TYPE PICTURE.

Ken Maynard and Dorothy Devore Are Co-Starred in First National Film.

An entirely new type of outdoor picture.

Great, open and spacious settings and a star, Ken Maynard, who is a superb horseman and athlete, are the only points which classify "Senor Daredevil," which comes on Thursday to the Regent Theatre as a "Western," according to persons who have seen it in review and given it their enthusiastic approval. It is a Charles R. Rogers production, directed by Al Rogell, who, although one of the youngest directors, has a long list of screen successes to his credit.

"We are in the comedy arc of the screen cycle just now," said Rogell, "and 'Senor Daredevil,' with one of the most adept of comediennes, Dorothy Devore, as featured lead, we have plenty of laughs. Moreover, with a cast, including such actors as George Nichols, Josef Swickard, J. P. McGowan, Sheldon Lewis and others, we are assured of fine portrayals of the widely divergent characters of the story. The greatest attention was paid to the selection of beautiful settings and backgrounds for the dramatic and romantic episodes, and with Sol Polito, A.S.C., at the camera, the beauty spots were transferred to the screen at their full value."

"Senor Daredevil" is Rogell's first directorial contribution to First National pictures, as it is Maynard's first appearance under that brand. It is a modern story, dealing with the work of the pack-train freighters in keeping remote communities of gold miners and prospectors supplied with the necessities and a few luxuries of life.

THE KEY HAS NOT BEEN FOUND

Search parties yesterday and last night have failed to locate the key that means a prize of $50.

The key was still in its hiding place at noon today, but The Examiner representative did not dare go near the place again for fear someone would see him.

But the key has not been returned at the time of going to press.

NOTE WELL

The person finding the key must have a copy of today's Examiner with him when he comes to claim the $50. The key and a copy of this evening's Examiner are all that are required—when The Examiner office will hand out $50 to the winner.

Here is the Black Pirate's last message:

UNKNOWN STEAMER STRIKES SCHOONER

Boat Was Loaded With Laths From Nova Scotian Ports.

NORTH TRURO, Mass., Oct. 6.—Canadian Press. — The three masted schooner Nova Queen, bound with a deck load of lath from Nova Scotian ports to New York city, was run down in the early morning darkness off Nantucket Shoals by an unidentified steamer, the coast guard station at Monamoy Light reported to-day.

The bow and rigging of the schooner was smashed. All the damage occurred above the water line, but the schooner was forced to anchor near the Stone Horse light ship in a heavy sea to await the arrival of a coast guard cutter to take her in tow.

PETERBORO' MEN GO TO WELLAND

Will Take Part in International Plowing Match Next Week.

LOCAL MATCH.

An outstanding feature in connection with prize plowmen in Peterborough County is that a number are leaving next week to compete at the International Plowing Match, which is being held in Welland County on the land on which the historic Battle of Lundy's Lane was fought near Niagara Falls.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Peterborough County Plowmen's Association was held in the office of J. J. Duffus, Limited, on Saturday afternoon last at 2 o'clock with the President, Deputy-Reeve R. I. Lillico of North Monaghan, in the chair. A large number of directors was present. It was decided that this year's match be held on Thursday, October 21, on the farm of James Fowler, in Smith Township, about two miles northwest of Peterborough.

Complete arrangements have been made and this year's match promises to be better than ever.

A large list of prizes, amounting to upwards of $400, consisting of cash and goods, donated by the citizens of the city and county and generously augmented by the county and township councils, will be competed for.

Most of the classes are open; that is to say, may be entered by competitors other than residents of the County of Peterborough. Each year many plowmen attend from adjoining counties. More are expected at this match

The fields selected on Mr. Fowler's farm are admirably adapted for plowing match work. Plenty of sod and stubble is available. The fields are side by side, level and free of stone. The Plowmen's Association is most grateful to Mr. Fowler for providing land on his splendid farm.

It is anticipated that some ladies' organization in the Township of Smith will provide lunches on the field for plowmen visitors.

Interest in plowing matches is increasing from year to year and as this is the most essential operation in connection with Canada's basic industry, it is producing beneficial results, as good plowing means good farming, which inevitably brings increased prosperity.

WOMAN STRUCK BY MOTOR TRUCK

Miss Helen O'Toole Knocked Down on Local Street.

MINOR INJURIES

Miss Helen O'Toole was slightly injured last night when she was struck by a truck while she was crossing the street, just after alighting from a Hydro 'bus.

The accident occurred at 6.30 p.m., when a truck driven by George Sage, proceeding north on Park Street, overtook the 'bus which had stopped at the corner of Park and Parnell for the purpose of discharging passengers. Miss O'Toole went around the rear of the 'bus intending to cross the street, when she was struck.

She escaped with a few bruises and scratches.

Travels 4,500 Miles in a Star Six Brougham at a Cost of Only $48.25.

I have just returned from a tour which comprised New York and other eastern centres. The total mileage was over 4,500 miles.

I made this trip in a New Star Six Brougham and I was certainly astonished at the minimum cost incurred. I am enclosing a clipping from our local paper, which gives the details of the trip. The figures given are perfectly authentic. The Star Six has made the taking of long trips possible to the ordinary motorist because of its economy, as well as its ability to stand up under long runs.

Your truly,

BORN
LILLOW—To Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Lillow a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, Nichol's Hospital, Oct. 5th.

WEDDING BELLS.

MANDEL—FLAHERTY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized September 13th, at eight o'clock, at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Reta, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Flaherty became the bride of Henry Mandel, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mandel, Buffalo, N.Y., the Rev. Father Maher officiating. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss L. Hanley. The bride's gown was of rose georgette embroidered in three tone ribbon in the form of flowers. She wore a large black picture hat, satin slippers, and carried butterfly roses and delphinium. Miss Selenia Twomey cousin of the bride acted as bride's maid, and wore green georgette and picture hat, and carried sweetheart roses. Miss Kathleen Caulfield was maid of honor, wearing peach georgette, large picture hat, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Fred Flaherty, brother of the bride was best man. Miss Annie Simons sang beautifully.

The groom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver, to the bridesmaid a pearl bar pin, to the maid of honor white gold bands and to the groomsman a gold watch and chain.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Covers were laid for twelve. The bride's table was decorated with chrysanthemums. The number of costly gifts showed the esteem in which the young couple were held in both Buffalo and Peterboro.

After a honeymoon through eastern Ontario, and Watertown, and the Thousand Islands, the young couple will be at home after October 1st, at 158 Good avenue.

The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Nick Doris, Keene, Mrs. John Mandel, Buffalo, Mrs. Carl Ferguson, Albany, N.Y., and Miss Kateline Caulfield, Buffalo, N. Y.

OBITUARY.

guests, including civic and provincial officials were present at the banquet.

Hon. T. C. Norris, provincial Liberal leader, who preceded Mr. Forke, said that Manitoba and the rest of the Dominion were to be congratulated on the selection of Mr. Forke for the ministerial post.

Mr. Forke, in replying, stated that he was most optimistic in regard to immigration and that he had no doubt that a great influx of immigrans could be expected as a result of "a more aggressive immigration policy." He stated, however, that he had no revolutionary immigration policy to announce.

TORIES DISCUSS TRADE UNIONISM AT CONFERENCE

LADY PRESIDES.

Propose To Declare Illegal Strikes Not Preceded By Secret Ballot.

SCARBOROUGH, Eng., Oct. 6 (United Press).—Trade Unionism, strikes, picketing and organization of Union finances came under a crossfire of resolutions here today, when the National Union of the Conservative Party began its 54th Annual Conference. For the first time in the party's history, a woman presided over the conference tonight. Premier Baldwin was to speak.

The scope of the conference's intentions toward Trade Unions were indicated in the resolution introduced by Sir Arnold Gridley in behalf of the Rugby Conservative Association. In four blunt items the resolution proposed that any strike which had not been preceded by a secret ballot should be illegal; that greater protection should be given Trade Unionists against "victimization and intimidation"; that mass picketing and the picketing of workers' homes be forbidden by law, and that the national accounts of trades unions be subject to public inspection with annual certification by chartered accountants.

The Enfield Conservative Association asked the Government to make a private investigation, all testimony to be secret, in an effort to discover from the working men themselves "the difficulties from which they are suffering under Trade Unionism."

Dame Caroline Bridgeman, who has been actively engaged in Conservative Party work for many years, presided today.

SAFETY MEN TO BE WITHDRAWN FROM MINES; STRIKERS REJECT GOVERNMENT'S PEACE PROPOSAL

Resolution From South Wales Unions Passed By 594,000 To 194,000.

DELEGATES MEET.

Majority Against Baldwin's Plan Is Nearly 700,000.

LONDON, Oct 7 (Canadian Press).—The delegate conference of the Miners' Federation today adopted a resolution presented by the South Wales delegates to withdraw the safety men from the coal mines. The vote was 594,000 to 194,000.

The delegates had previously rejected the Government's latest proposal to settle the long-drawn coal strike by a district vote of 737,00 to 42,000.

The announcement of to-day's vote was a definite answer to the ultimatum issued by the government yesterday in which it was said that the government offer would be withdrawn immediately unless it was accepted by the miners.

One of the essential features of the government's offer was the provision that if the miners would resume work under district agreements the government would establish a national board of arbitration to handle any disputed question.

The proposals rejected by the miners today were contained in a letter sent by Premier Baldwin on September 17, to A. J. Cook, General Secretary of the Miners' Federation.

The principal point was an assurance that, if the miners returned to work they would be given Government assistance in obtaining a nation wide agreement in effect, not in word. Such an agreement has been one of the main points held out for by the men.

Mr. Baldwin admitted that he had failed in efforts to bring the owners to a conference on a national agreement covering hours and wages as desired by the men, but said that the owners throughout the country were generally willing to admit the principles that such a national agreement would secure. He, therefore, appealed to the miners to return to work under provisional district agreements, while the Government prepared legislation to establish a national tribunal of appeal.

TREASURE WON BY MARK LOWE

Lock Street Man Accidentally Comes on Key in Old Cannon.

GETS $50 IN GOLD.

Mark Lowe, 186 Lock Street, found the key that entitled him to the Black Pirate's Treasure. He brought it to the manager of The Examiner yesterday evening, with a copy of yesterday's Examiner containing the last day's puzzle correctly worked out, and was given the fifty dollars in gold which was the prize.

Mr. Lowe found the key quite accidentally. It was hidden in a gun at the courthouse—in Victoria Park—and in reaching into the inside of the barrel to look among the rubbish there, his sleeve and the back of his wrist rubbed against a protuberance on the top inside of the barrel. Investigating, Mr. Lowe found this to be the key. It was coated with paste and then with loose rust to make it less easily seen, and then fastened to the gun with chewing gum.

If the treasure hunt did nothing else, it at least brought to the minds of the people of Peterborough the fact that this city has three captured German guns, and two or three others that are scarcely noticed. On Tuesday evening, when the Black Pirate's messages seemed to indicate clearly that the key was hidden in one of the guns in Central Park—although warning was given in the accompanying article—hundreds of people searched every inch of the guns. They were there with flash lights and matches and candles, and one man even brought a wrench to take a gun apart. And so, for the first time since they were captured by Canadian troops from the Germans, the guns were the centre of interest for a time. Even last night, long after the winner had been announced by bulletin on The Examiner bulletin board, two persons were see searching the guns in Central Park.

The message conveyed in the Black Pirate puzzles was: "Start at George and Charlotte Streets, go north four blocks, look in gun in park two blocks east." The directions were very explicit, and only the twist given by the last three words prevented the finding of the key on Tuesday. At it was, many came close. There were some who searched these two old guns on Tuesday, but were not fortunate enough to find the key. They probably did not think to look for it at the top of the bore, though every other inch of the guns was searched.

The Black Pirate sent a good advance notice of himself in this treasure hunt. A lot of people had a lot of fun, and one lucky man is the richer by fifty dollars in gold pieces.

Afoot and Riding

Never since their last battle were the two old guns in Victoria Park handled as much as they were yesterday afternoon. A few minutes after The Examiner was on the streets a regular mob was to be seen treking its way towards the Court House. Old folks, young folks were there. They arrived by bicycles, autos and by foot, all bent on the same errand; that of finding the mysterious key, which would net the lucky individual the $50.

PITCHING DUEL IN FIFTH GAME OF BIG SERIES

Sherdel and Pennock Turn Back Opposing Batters at Start.

FEW SAFE HITS.

Cards Open Scoring With Two Hits For One Run in the Fourth.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7 (Canadian Press)—The boards of strategy of the Cardinals to-day were in conference to devise ways and means, if any, to curb the home run activities of George Herman Ruth. As preparations went forward for the fifth and last game of the world series in St. Louis, the big bat of slugging Ruth was regarded as a distinct menace to St. Louis' aspirations for world supremacy in baseball.

The crowd had properly reached the conclusion that the ball game was lost to the Cardinals anyway, and since one home run more or less meant nothing to an affair like yesterday, seemed to hope that Ruth would give future generations something to shoot at by lofting another pitch out of the park.

The fifth game was promised fair weather with rising temperatures. A perfect baseball day restored confidence in the weather man, who had lost many friends on Tuesday, and plans for to-day's game went forward without hesitation.

For pitching choice to-day Managers Huggins and Hornsby were expected to turn back to the page of the score book showing the opening game of the series, when Herb Pennock downed Willie Sherdell 2 to 1. There was a possibility that Hornsby, at the last minute, might call on Grover Cleveland Alexander, but Sherdel was regarded as the most likely nominee.

B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, went on record with a prediction that the Yankees will surely win. "They've got to win, and they will," said he.

The men who let their dollars talk for them were willing to wager five to four against the chances of either Yankees or Cardinals, and two and a half to one against either winning the next two games.

An all southpaw pitching cast was named for the fifth world series game here to-day. Herb Pennock, for the Yankees, and Bill Sherdel, for the Cards, took up their left hand battle where they left it off last Saturday in New York. A last minute change was made in the Cardinals' line-up when it was found that Douthit, injured in a collision with Hafey yesterday, would not be able to play. Manager Hornsby announced that Holm would play centre field and bat first for the Cardinals. There was a little apprehension among the fans when the sun disappeared in a thick haze just before time to play. Grey clouds replaced the blue prevailing throughout the forenoon, but there was no very distinct threat of rain.

The line-up:

New York—Combs, cf; Koenig, ss; Ruth, lf; Meusel, rf; Gehrig, 1b; Lazzeri, 2b; Dugan, 3b; Severeid, c; Pennock, p.

St. Louis—Holm, cf; Southworth, rf; Hornsby, 2b; Bottomley, 1b; L. Bell, 3b; Hafey, lf; O'Farrell, c; Thevenow, ss; Sherdel, p.

First Innings.

New York—Combs sent out a fly to Hafey. Thevenow threw out Koenig at first. He hit the first ball. Hornsby threw out Ruth at first, the Babe going after a slow ball. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis — Holm went out, Koenig to Gehrig, hitting the first pitch. Koenig juggled Southworth's grounder and Southworth was safe. It was an error. Time was called until Southworth could tie his shoe. Southworth stole second. Severeid dropped the ball and it went for a passed ball. Pennock threw out Hornsby at first, Southworth going to third. Lazzeri tossed out Bottomley at first. No runs, no hits, one error.

Second Innings

New York — A big bouquet was presented to Ruth as he came to the bench. Bell knocked down Meusel's hot smash and threw him out. Gehrig singled over the middle bag with the count three and two. Lazzeri singled to right, Gehrig going to third. Dugan hit into a double play, Hornsby taking Dugan's grounder, touching Lazzeri and getting Dugan with a quick throw to Bottomley. No runs, 2 hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Bell struck out, taking the third called strike. Hafey kept fouling off Pennock's slow curves. Dugan took Hafey's grounder and

Canadian Rum Running Schooner Tries To Ram United States' Armored Cutters Following Him

BRIDGEWATER, N.S., Oct. 7 (Canadian Press).—The story of a 75-foot Nova Scotia windjammer with a gasoline "kicker" to help her along, pitting its strength against three armored vessels of the United States dry navy far out on the bounding main, was told in the magistrate's court here yesterday and on the strength of it Captain Norman Oxner, of the schooner Gaspe Fisherman, was ordered tried by the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia for attempting to send to the bottom two units of the United States fleet. No damage was suffered by the fleet, but the schooner with her cargo of alcohol got away.

The story is that the McCall was trailing the Nova Scotia schooner at a point about 75 miles off the United States coast and 350 miles from the nearest Canadian land. The coastguard boats C.G. 147 and C.G. 211 flanked the schooner, one on the port side and one on the starboard. Members of the United States vessel said in court yesterday that as they proceeded in this formation the schooner suddenly swerved and ran straight for one of the patrol boats, which was forced to go quickly astern to avoid being rammed. This operation, it was testified, was repeated four times within 15 minutes, and in the confusion which ensued the schooner disappeared in a fog bank.

Captain Oxner, who hails from Riverport, N.S., declared in his defence that he had simply tried to prevent the encroaching patrol boats fouling his log line and that he had no designs upon the cutters.

According to the evidence of the witnesses, Captain Oxner had cried to the cutters, "Don't foul my log or I'll get you yet." And the answer that came back from the Americans was, the evidence stated, "To h—— with your log."

IS INVITED TO ADDRESS CHURCH MASS MEETING

American Churches of Christ Extend Invitation To Labor President.

ANSWER TO-DAY.

Federation of Labor Convention Delegates Denounce Action of Churchmen

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7 (Canadian Press).—The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America moved to calm a rising tempest in the American Federation of Labor convention last night with the announcement that a mass meeting in the First Congregational Church of Detroit Sunday afternoon, arranged under the auspices of the Council, would be addressed by President William Green of the Federation, should he see fit to accept the invitation.

President Green's answer will be given to-day to a formal committee of invitation at his hotel headquarters.

Rev. James Myers, field secretary of the Council, announced the plan from the convention floor a few minutes before adjournment at 6.30 o'clock of a three-hour special session held under suspension of the rules to discuss the action of several Detroit churches and the Y.M.C.A. in withdrawing invitations to Labor leaders to fill their pulpits Sunday.

Myers was extended the courtesy of the floor by unanimous vote after a number of Labor leaders had denounced the action of the churchmen.

The Rev. Myers announced also that arrangements were being made to have John P. Frey, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor, address a gathering of Detroit clergymen on Monday afternoon should convention business permit.

Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, formerly president of the North-Western University, and now pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church of Detroit, will preside at the Sunday meeting.

Mr. Green will be invited to speak on the "Ideals of Labor and the Church."

President Green, chairman of the special convention session, announced in answer to a question from the floor immediately after suspension of the rules, that during the noon recess yesterday he had been formally notified an invitation extended him in July to speak at a Y.M.C.A. meeting next Sunday had been withdrawn.

Frey, president of the Ohio State Federation, prefaced his interrogation of Green with a vigorous denunciation of the action of the churchmen and a reply to the published inference of the Detroit Board of Commerce that the aims of the American Federation of Labor speakers who had been invited to fill Detroit pulpits Sunday were not in harmony with the traditional ideals of American patriotism.

Frey began by reading an open letter from the Detroit Board of Commerce to the ministers of the city in which the Labor speakers named were characterized as "men who are admittedly attacking our Government and our American plan of employment."

The letter ended with the suggestion that the ministers deliberate "whether or not you wish to have your church deviate from the programme for which it is maintained."

"I first wish to ask," Frey began, "if it is in truth a fact that a speech by a representative of the American Federation of Labor would represent a deviation from the programme for which the Christian church is maintained?"

The altar of the church ever has been the refuge of the oppressed," he concluded. "Let this convention warn now that when Mammon dominates the altar, Christianity has passed away.

"I deeply resent the implication of those gentlemen that the patriotism and loyalty of the American Federation of Labor leadership and programme are opposed to the ideals of our American institutions and historical traditions."

George L. Berry, president of the Pressmen's Union and formerly vice-commander of the American Legion, cited the war record of American labor.

RADIO OWNERS OF PETERBORO' ORGANIZE CLUB

H. O. Fiske Heads Society To Look After Interests of Set Owners.

MOST ENTHUSIASTIC.

Fifty-five Members Enrolled at First Meeting, Held Last Night.

The Peterborough Radio Club came into being last night as the result of a most enthusiastic gathering of local set-owners in the Chamber of Commerce.

Fifty-five of those present registered as members of the organization and from the interest shown there is every reason to expect that the club will have a successful career.

While to the officers and executive committee was left the task of drafting the objects of the organization the tone of the discussion last night indicated that these objects will include an active campaign to eliminate interference and improve reception conditions, the holding of meetings at which radio will be discussed from various angles by experts and in general a crusade to make radio more enjoyable for Peterborough set-owners.

Mayor Holloway presided during the preliminary stages of the meeting and mentioning the fact that the subject had already received the attention of the city council, expressed himself as heartily in sympathy with the proposed club.

After some discussion as to the objects of the organization it was decided, as the result of a motion by E. H. D. Hall, that this should be left to the executive, who would also decide upon the amount of the annual fee which it was understood will not be heavy.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Mayor Holloway.
President—H. O. Fisk.

BYNG EULOGIZED FOR HIS TENURE OF OTTAWA POST

High Praise Given Former Governor-General By London Newspapers.

GOOD CANADIAN.

Constitutional Dispute Was Mere Incident in Term of Office.

LONDON, October 7. Canadian Press. — The Times in an editorial eulogizing Lord Byng in connection with the governor-generalship of Canada, says:

"The constitutional controversies in which Lord Byng has lately been involved are seen now to have been the merest incident in his term of office. If they contain any permanent lesson it will probably be that there is a real advantage in the system under which the governor-general at present is appointed from circles detached from local politics and that he is in duty bound, on rare occasions, to make an independent personal decision.

"A weaker man, or one who had done less to prove himself a good Canadian, might have wrought irremediable damage by leaning upon the secretary of state for the Dominions, and though constitutionalists will continue to discuss the limits of the governor-general's discretion, and though there may be something to be said for its further definition, Lord Byng himself has lost nothing of the affection and respect which he has steadily won since his appointment in 1921."

The Times adds:

"The Dominion Confederation has done less than had been hoped for The widely different provinces care little about each other, and one of the few links between them is the governor-general."

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 7. — Lord Byng, arriving on the Empress of France, was given a great welcome at Southampton, thousands of people lining docks to see him. The mayor and council of Southampton gave him and official reception. Lord Byng interviewed, refused to say anything about the constitutional issue in Canada except that it would be threshed out at the Imperial Conference. He was most emphatic about the loyalty of Canada.

He said: "Immigrants must be prepared to forego the comforts of England. Artisans at present cannot be absorbed. Canada is extremely prosperous. I have enjoyed my five years, but now I must rest. Canada's greatest need is more men."

BOY SCOUTS TO START TOY SHOP

Raise Money For Carrying on Scout Work in City.

INTERESTING TALK.

An enthusiastic meeting of the members of the Boy Scout Association of this city was held in the City Buildings last night. Ways of raising money to carry on the work in this city were discussed, and J. Clancy, the Scout leader, who was sent to the summer school near Brantford, gave an interesting talk on the work of the school.

A committee was appointed to draft a letter which would be sent out to citizens of Peterborough, asking them for a contribution towards helping Scout work in this city. Plans were discussed for the starting of the boys' toy shop in which the Scouts are to mend toys and distribute them at Christmas to needy families. These toys are to beb donated by citizens who have families which in the most cases are grown up and they have no more use of the toys. Broken toys will also be collected so as they may be repaired.

Mr. Clancy told of the course he took at the school situated on a beautiful park which is part of a farm five miles outside of Brantford. The man who owns the farm is very enthusiastic about Scout work, and thus he gives his park for the school. Thirty-two Scout leaders were present from all parts of Ontario and a wonderful course was given them in wood craft astronomy and many other kinds of Scout training.

IF REIGNING SOVEREIGN IS AT WAR DOMINIONS BECOME INVOLVED NEED NOT CONTRIBUTE SOLDIERS

ATTENDS CONFERENCE.

Very Rev. James Harvey, D.D., moderator of the Scottish United Free Church Assembly of 1925, who is in Canada to participate in the Dominion and World Service conference of the United Church. He predicts church union between the United Free and Established Churches.

Attitude Taken By British House Against Premier Hertzog's Question.

UNITY ESSENTIAL.

Has Right To Decide For Itself Whether To Participate.

LONDON, Oct. 7 — When the sovereign is at war, all his dominions are at war and it is impossible for the dominions legally to remain out of such a war, although they may not contribute one soldier or one sailor to the defense of the Empire. This is the attitude taken by the British government here toward Premier Hertzog's intention to raise the question at the forthcoming imperial conference.

Every dominion can, of course, decide for itself whether it wishes or not to participate in any war in which the Mother Country is involved. It has perfect freedom in this respect and enjoys the fullest sovereign rights, but so long as its people are subject to the King they are liable to be regarded as being in a state of war by the King's enemies.

It is not a question of policy but one of international legal fact, from which there is no escape unless the dominions withdraw from the Empire. Naturally, any enemy of the Mother Country in time of war would not deliberately increase its enemies without good cause, but on such matters as blockade, it would be impossible for any dominion to remain purely neutral.

Liberal Daily News says:

"We hope a great deal will be done at the coming conference in the way of clarifying imperial relations and improving the machinery for co-operation in foreign affairs, yet it is to state plainly, that if the British Empire is to function at all, it must function as a whole and if one or more of the partners is determined to be half in, or half out, the concern must sooner or later cease to exist. Hertzog is an able and conscientious man, but he will discover, as others have dis-

Produced In Canada Exhibition

We stated we would give a list of all girls who are working in the Bond Selling Contest, in the interests of the Under-Privileged Child work, being done by the Kiwanis Club, and they are as follows:

1—Miss Eva Outram	130,000
1—Miss Bregetta Conroy	130,000
2—Miss Marion McCannon	122,000
3—Miss Lareta Sedgwick	86,000
4—Miss Alice Johnson	80,000
5—Miss Majorie Lang	47,000
6—Miss Hazel Jackson	41,000
7—Miss Kathleen Cooney	34,000
8—Miss Annie Logan	32,000
9—Miss Edna Thompson	31,000
10—Miss Queenie Miller	25,000
10—Miss Sybil Jackson	25,000
11—Miss Helen Bell	22,000
12—Miss Vera Wagar	14,000
13—Miss Hazel Brown	10,000
14—Miss Grace Allen	10,00
15—Miss Janet Young	10,000
16—Miss Dorothy Worboy	10,000
17—Miss Beulah Huffman	10,000
18—Miss Pearl Eakins	10,000
19—Miss Margaret Blodgett	10,000

The leaders for the prizes for today were as follows:

The Diamond Ring was won by Miss Eva Outram, and same was donated by Warne Bros.

The Lady's Silk Parasol, donated by the Hall Store, was won by Miss Bregetta Conroy.

The Two Pairs Silk Hose, donated by Mr. Botnick, was won by Miss Kathleen Cooney.

The girls did excellent work yesterday and are to be congratulated as to the interest they are taking, and they report that the bonds are beginning to sell much easier now, inasmuch as the friends of the Kiwanis Club realize that the Fair dates from October 11th to 15th are very close.

We cannot help but comment on the excellent work being done by Miss Eva Outram and Miss Bregetta Conroy, Both these young ladies have 130,000 votes and are now tied for first place, but you never can tell who will win. There may be a dark horse in the distance, who will come in first and be crowned "Queen of Peterborough."

While it is true that a number of the girls have not turned in any bonds, we would appreciate their turning in some to-morrow morning, and try and win one of the prizes, also obtain more bonds.

The Prize, donated by Mr. Percy Bond, a Parker Duofold Pen, was won by Miss Helen Larmer, Millbrook, Ontario, and if Miss Larmer will call at the Prudential Office, when she is in town, we will give her a letter to Mr. Bond, so she may obtain the pen. We will also give the letters to Miss Outram, Miss Conroy and Miss Cooney if they will call at this office.

The Prizes for to-morrow will be as follows, and will be given to the girl turning in the most bonds by 10 a.m. to Mr. John I. Allen, Superintendent, Prudential Insurance Company:

1—An Eight-Piece Lady's Dresser Set, donated by Mr. C. B. Routley and I am told this is very handsome.

2—A Pair of Electric Curling Irons, donated by Mr. H. McCannon.

On Saturday we are also giving the following prizes, for the young ladies in the country turning in the most bonds by 10 a.m. to Mr. Allen:

Both these prizes are worth working for and we would like to see them claimed.

The Bond Selling Committee wish again to congratulate the young ladies, who are working so hard, also those who are purchasing the bonds and assisting them in the work of the Kiwanis Club in Peterborough.

JOHN, I. ALLEN, Chairman Bond Selling Committee.

ALL CAN GAIN SOME TREASURE

Black Pirate Will Add To Life's Store of Good Fortune.

SEARCH S ENDED.

The Treasure Hunt is ended. Mr. M. Lowe of 186 Lock street was the lucky finder of the key which meant fifty dollars in gold from the "Black Pirate's" Treasure Chest. Thousands followed this contest through to its close though knowing that there could be only one winner of this gold. But those thousands, disappointed in the search for gold, can find compensation in seeing Douglas Fairbanks in "The Black Pirate" at the Capitol Theatre the last three days of this week. For this picture is worth its weight in gold. It has everything—action, thrills, comedy, intermingled with a love story of remarkable appeal, wonderful scenic effects, the entire production on the scale which only Fairbanks' pictures are produced. And the entire picture is in natural colors, a picture for old and young alike. Max Lowe got the gold, but you can all add a little to your life's store of good fortune, by seeing "The Black Pirate." If you miss it, you're the loser.

KING REFUSED ANY AUTHORITY SAYS RINFRET

Would Not Submit To Any Foreign Power, He Declares.

CLAIMS RIGHTS.

Secretary of State Says Relationships Major Issue.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press).—Premier Mackenzie King, in his fight for the supremacy of the Canadian Parliament, refused to subscribe to a foreign authority, no matter where it came from, declared the Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, addressing the Junior Liberal Association here last night.

"Mr. King claimed for the Canadian Parliament in its relationship to the Governor at Rideau Hall the same rights as the British Parliament towards the King in England."

Mr. Rinfret said that the major issues before the electorate in the last elections were the relations between different peoples and sections in Canada, and, secondly, but of more importance, the relations of Canada within the Empire.

DIVER'S DEATH IS BROUGHT UP

Fred Harrison Died of Pneumonia After Seeking Evangelist's Body.

HEARING RESUMED.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 7 (Canadian Press). — Preliminary hearing of criminal conspiracy charges against Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, will be resumed today with the prosecution indicating a desire to recount the efforts of Fred Harrison, a deep sea diver, to recover the evangelist's body from Santa Monica Bay, where she was thought to have drowned when she disappeared on May 18.

Harrison died of pneumonia after several days of diving and the story of his search will be told by Richard D. Hunt, a fellow diver. Hunt is expected to testify that he was engaged by Mrs. Kennedy to aid Harrison in the search and that he was instructed to continue diving after he had told his employer there was no body in the surf.

District Attorney Asa Keyes yesterday announced the discovery of new evidence purporting to prove his charge that Mrs. McPherson rode to a point near Douglas, Arizona, in an automobile, leaving the motor car to appear in Douglas, June 23, with a story of having escaped from her abductors in Mexico.

Wagon Driver Mystified When Wagon Won't Bulge

The driver of a coal delivery wagon, who had stopped his team on George Street this morning near the Hunter Street crossing, appeared extremely puzzled when, on seeking to start again, the horses were unable to move the wagon, in spite of their most strenuous efforts.

The driver alighted from the wagon, and looking for the cause of the trouble, found that one of the whiffle trees had been pulled tight against the wheel, acting as a very effective brake on the progress of the wagon. A strong kick from the irritated teamster knocked the offending whiffletree into its proper position—and the wheels again commenced to turn.

Adjutant and Mrs. Ham Delegates To Annual Gathering.

HELD IN TORONTO.

Adjutant and Mrs. Frank Ham have been appointed as delegates to the Salvation Army's 44th Annual Congress, to be held in Toronto from October 15th to 19th. The public gatherings will be held in the Arena, Mutual street. It is expected that a group of some fifty Salvationists from Peterborough will be going to Toronto for the week end public gatherings. The meetings at the Temple for Saturday and Sunday will be, in the absence of Adjutant and Mrs. Ham, led by Envoy Brooks, Treasurer J. J. Cunningham, and Bandmaster Frank Robinson and the Peterborough Temple Band.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION MEETS

Opening Meeting Held By Queen Alexandra Branch.

The first meeting after the holidays of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held on Monday evening, the president, Mr. H. G. Walker, in the chair. Routine business was transacted. The paper collection for the past month was most successful, prizes going to Miss E. Morrow's room and Mr. F. H. Dearborn's room. The banner for attendance was won jointly by the rooms of Miss Thompson and Mr. Dearborn. Arrangements were completed for the presentation of Entrance certificates, to be made on Monday, October 18th.

At the conclusion of the business session, a brief programme was presented, including a piano solo by Marjorie Lang and a reading by Mildred Archer. A short social hour fololwed.

LIQUOR CONTROL PROVES FAILURE SAYS CHURCH

Survey of Canada By Official of M. E. Church Reported.

HIS CONCLUSIONS.

Increased Use of Liquor, With More Vice and Crime, He Finds.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—Canadian Press. — The system of Government control of liquor in Canada is a failure, the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church declares to-day in a long statement reviewing conditions in the Dominion since the end of prohibition in the various provinces.

The board explained that its conclusions were based upon a personal survey by Ernest A. Grant, its assistant research secretary, and upon government documents, newspaper articles and other material. It added that "only facts and figures of undoubted authenticity are used."

Summarizing the conclusions resulting from the survey, the board says:

"Government control in Canada has meant:

"An increased consumption of liquor."

"Greatly increased use of alcoholic liquors by young people and women.

"A swollen liquor bill.

"A great economic loss, which has halted prosperity and acted as a burden upon the general population.

"Increased vice and crime imposing upon the governments expenses which have burdened the tax payers.

"A corruption hitherto unknown in Canada.

"An illicit trade as great as that under any prohibition law."

"The system of Government control in Canada is a failure," the statement adds. "Under it all of the evils of the illicit traffic in the United States are present, plus the evils of a government protected traffic as vicious in principle and practice as was the saloon system in the United States."

The survey of the Methodist Board was undertaken because of recurring proposals in this country for the substitution, for the present Federal prohibition, of government sale and regulation.

The operating of the Quebec system is reviewed at length with the conclusion that it has resulted in an enormous increase in the consumption of liquor by young people; increased drunkenness; an increased illicit manufacture and sale of liquors; and "frightful" vice conditions.

To support these conclusions, the Board quotes from newspapers, clergymen and the report of Judge Coderre of Montreal, which figured rather extensively in the Senate wet and dry hearings early this year.

Comparing conditions in Ontario, which is operating under a prohibition law, with those in Quebec, the report said:

"The experience of Ontario with prohibition is the same as that of various American States," the Board asserts. "Prosperity increased, labor was more productive, drunkenness and crime fell off, and general health was greatly improved."

Hon. R. W. Craig, Attorney General of Manitoba, is quoted in the report as declaring that present conditions in Manitoba are worse than under prohibition, while Judge J. St. Georges Stubbs of Winnipeg, is quoted as declaring that the enforcement of prohibition law in that province was "a colossal farce."

Newspapers and police officials of British Columbia are given as authorities for statements that commercialized vice floods Vancouver and that there is more drinking and use of narcotics among young boys and girls of that city than ever before.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Save in the most back-woods regions in this country oil reading lamps are a drug on the market. In England there are some folk who still contend that the oil lamp is far preferable to the electric light for reading, and good student lamps are sometimes found there even in houses wired with electricity. But no one wants oil lamps on this side of the Atlantic if they can possibly do without them. But candles—an even more old-fashioned lighting device—are to be found in almost every house. A house without candles would not be considered cozy and home like. There is a picturesque air of quaintness about candles that appeals to almost everyone. Why is it that no one considers the oil lamp picturesque and quaint?

Much the same sentiment prevails concerning open fire places and their successor the living-room stove. Few people nowadays would build a house without a fire-place in the living-room—but who would want one of those stoves that were considered a great improvement on open fire-places seventy-five years ago?

REVIVAL SERVICES BEING CONTINUED

Rev. D. J. Davies Delivers Powerful Sermons at Bethany Tabernacle.

"Whom do men say that I the Son of man, am?" and "Whom say ye that I am?" were the pointed scriptural questions Rev. D. J. Davies, the Welsh evangelist, put to his hearers last night at Bethany Tabernacle.

Pointing to Revelations, the speaker said, that it is revealed that in the last day's men will worship something. Many will worship an image of an earthly God-emperor but some will worship and sing "unto Him who loved them and washed them from their sins."

The speaker said the disciples gave Christ good commendation in their answers to His question, "But whom say ye that I am?" for they said "Thou art John the Baptist," and "Elias" and "Jerimah," "or one of the prophets." But that was not enough. He was more than "a voice" of a faithful fore-runner and evangelist more than a prophet, and Peter by a revelation from God said "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

With a brief account of his own conversion and other incidents and experience of his fifteen years as a Christian and a minister, Mr. Davies illustrated these great truths in an interesting way. There was a spiritual atmosphere in the meeting that gripped the people, especially so when the speaker brought to his hearers the testimony of Nathaniel the Israelite, John 1:49. He said, "Rabbi, thou are the Son of God; thou art the King of Israel." What Nathaniel really said was, "My Great One, thou art the Son of God; thou art king of my people. My Lord."

Rev. Mr. Davies has been putting strong emphasis on preparation of the people for the blessing of God in revival power. His messages on Prayer, Faith, Miracle, Working God, have been a great help to any who heard.

Mr. Davies in his recent trip abroad in seven months held services in twenty-five churches in Wales and England. He is being greatly used of the Lord. He will speak every evening at 8:00 and each afternoon at 3:00.

ONTARIO CATTLE WIN MANY PRIZES

Winners in Every Class of Holsteins at Detroit Show.

DETROIT, October 7. Canadian Press. — With a prize winner in each of the first four classes of the Holstein breed judged to-day at the National Dairy Exposition, cattle entered from Ontario had carried away away more honors than the entrants from any other one province or state.

The Canadian exhibitors owning prize winners are:

Leroy Siddall and J. F. Gibbons of Denfield, T. C. Dolson of Brampton, and Haley and Lee of Springford.

In class 2 for bulls one year and under 18 months, Maple Crest Albert Canary Sylvia, another Canadian bull, entered by Leroy Siddall and J. F. Gibbons of Denfield, took fourth prize.

The third prize in the fourth class for bulls between two and three years old, also went to the Dominion when Abbekerk Sylvius Lad, owned by J. W. Innes of Woodstock, was awarded the ribbon.

Young Banker Admits Theft of $35,000 From Bank of Montreal.

KITCHENER, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press). — Harold MacNeil, young Galt bank clerk, who was arrested recently charged with the theft of $35,000 from the Bank of Montreal, and who has elected to be tried by the County Judge, has pleaded guilty and will be sentenced on Monday by Judge eHarn. No evidence was taken when the case came before the judge, but it is the intention of the judge to hear some of the evidence in order to learn the circumstances surrounding the theft.

WHY THE YAQUIS ARE FIGHTING

The ancient church and reclining plaster saint are the indirect cause of the rebellion of Mexico's Yaqui Indian tribes. Every fall the Yaquis make a pilgrimage to Magdalena, in Sonora, to the statue of San Francisco, shown above. This year the government refused to let them. So they're on the war path.

STRIKE A BLESSING

(United Press).

"The coal stoppage might prove to be a blessing if it resulted in a death blow to Communism in Great Britain," Dame Caroline Bridgeman said to-day in her speech as presiding officer of the 54th annual conference of the National Union of the Conservative Party.

The 26,000 delegates adopted a resolution endorsing the Government's policy during the general strike last May.

"During the past two years," said Dame Bridgeman, "trade unionism so far as it concerns the industrial improvemenet of its members, has been subordinated to political movements. It has failed to resist the temptation to embark on a policy of political revolutionary activity." In behalf of the Conservative party, Dame Bridgeman expressed unbounded confidence in Premier Baldwin. She was the first woman ever to preside over a Conservative party conference.

MORE HELP NEEDED.

The Children's Aid Society's history in Peterborough has been one of splendid service.

It has been the means of giving hundreds of neglected and dependent children a fresh start in life, a start that has resulted in the development of useful citizens.

Throughout its long existence in Peterborough the Society's work has been efficiently performed, good management and capable financing enabling results from a minimum of expenditure.

Naturally, however the overhead has increased from year to year with the result that it becomes necessary this year to raise a larger appropriation than usual to meet the working expenses during the coming year.

That is why in connection with Saturday's Tag Day the public is urged to liberally support the Society.

Last year's total will not be enough to finance the operations of the coming twelve months, and the citizens are asked to bear that fact in mind on Saturday.

MAKING THE PUNISHMENT FIT, ETC.

The policy announced by a Toronto magistrate that henceforth he proposes to deal with each case of speeding on its own merits, and that he intends to suit his sentences to the offences, will appeal to most people as good common sense.

It has always seemed to The Examiner—keenly as this paper has sought to promote safety first principles—that heavy fines for motorists who happened to drive faster than twenty-five miles an hour on a practically deserted country road were unjust and unfair.

The law sets 25 miles per hours as the maximum legal speed and those who violate that law of course must be prepared to be punished but there is need for the judgment Magistrate Brunton is displaying in dealing with these cases; such offenders are in a different category from the reckless motorist who imperils the public safety by wild driving, and the Magistrate does well to recognize that fact and to moderate the punishment accordingly.

The dangerous driver should get all the punishment the law provides, but the man, who on a road almost free from traffic exceeds the limit by a mile or two, is entitled to the consideration Magistrate Brunton has announced.

THROWING AWAY THEIR VOTES.

There is to be said in favor of election recounts that they at least serve to draw attention to the fact that many people are surprisingly careless about the important duty of marking their ballots.

Voting is a singularly simple operation—or should be.

With the simple rules that are laid down for the guidance of the elector the system should be foolproof.

Yet the recounts that are taking place in a number of ridings show that there seems to have been no limit to the ways in which voters, by their own disregard of the regulations, contrived to spoil their ballots.

Marking an X opposite the name of the candidate favoured by the voter would seem to be a proceeding so elementary that a school child couldn't go wrong, yet one recount has already revealed nineteen different mistakes on the part of voters that resulted in their ballots being rejected.

The political organizations might remember this condition of affairs at the next election and include a course in how to mark ballots as a necessary part of their campaign work.

It seems that something more is needed than getting people into the polling booths; some of them must be taught what to do when they get there.

THE ELECTION FIGURES.

Unofficial returns in connection with the Federal election show that the total vote polled throughout the Dominion was much larger than the apparent apathy of the electors previous to polling day gave any reason for expecting that it would be.

With complete returns lacking from nine constituencies a compilation shows that over three million Canadians marked their ballots on September 14th—the unofficial total being 3,080,573.

In the 235 ridings from which the totals have been compiled the largest vote was polled for the Conservative party, a total of 1,446,124, as against 1,334,200 straight Liberal,, 101,850 Progressive, 85,279 Liberal-Progressive, 50,153 Labor, 17,790 Independent, and 45,177 U.F.A. votes. As the majority of the nine ridings not included in these figures returned majorities against the Government the final figures may be somewhat changed.

The totals for the various provinces afford some material for reflection. In Nova Scotia where 97,858 votes were polled for Liberal candidates as against 121,519 for the Conservatives, the latter swept the province.

On the other hand although the Conservatives polled 263,026 votes in Quebec, ascompared with 460,352 Liberal votes, or better than one for every two, there were only four Conservatives elected.

And British Columbia showing a Liberal vote of 61,880 as against 92,919 for Conservative candidates returned nearly a solid Conservative bloc.

THE LEADERSHIP.

The problem of the leadership continues to agitate Conservative minds and the minds of Liberals as well. The interest of the latter springs from a different source, but it is no less strong.

There are Liberals who would breathe more freely if Mr. Meighen were to carry out his announced intention of retiring from public life. This feeling is in itself a large-sized compliment to Mr. Meighen. There are others who think that the Liberal party could desire no greater advantage than to have the man from Portage la Prairie continue as opposition leader. As long as Mr. Meighen is head of the Conservative party, these Liberals argue, the Conservatives can make little headway either in Quebec or the Prairie Provinces and without progress in these two important sections there can be no real success for Conservatism.

Many other Canadians, some of them with Liberal affiliations, but not bitter partisans, take another attitude altogether. They would like to see Mr. Meighen remain in public life as head of the Conservative party because they believe he is a real ornament to the country and an invaluable man in Parliament whether in or out of office. After all, the post of leader of the opposition is hardly less important than the premiership itself. It may not seem so to those on the outside, but in practice it is. A Cabinet or Government is really a committee of Parliament appointed for the purpose of actively directing the various departments of the nation's business. The Premier is chairman of this special committee. The leader of the opposition is chief of those in political disagreement with the majority of the House, but he is more than that. He is the chief watchdog of the treasury and of the Government's general acts. It is to him that the people look to protest against injurious legislation, unwise spending and other things that may be against the nation's interests. It is on the advice of the leader of the opposition, eventually, that Governments are turned out of power, and then the opposition chief is called upon to assemble another committee of Parliament to attend to the details of the country's business.

Another indication of the importance of the opposition leader's position is seen in the fact that he is paid a salary of $10,000 a year in addition to his sessional indemnity of $4,000. This is less, it is true than the Prime Minister receives—his salary is, in all, $19,000—but it is an important sum nevertheless and emphasizes the importance of his post in the political scheme of things.—Border Cities Star.

MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT CANADA.

We often wonder whether our own comments on the affairs of other countries are as grotesquely uninformed as the comments which outlanders make upon Canada. For when it is not a Dean Inge telling how we are about to go in for annexation, or a London Spectator suggesting that we are about to "cut the painter," it is some equally misguided American newspaper or Congressman in the other extreme of nonsense.

The latest illustration of this hinges on the announcement that Canada is to have a Minister at Washington. The most intelligent of United States newspapers comment upon this step as though it were some Empire-quaking development. They appear to think that it is a concession wrung from England, that it is the beginning of the "parting of the ways," and that it must bring consternaion in Downing Street.

The truth, of course, is that the arrangement for a Canadian Minister at Washington was made six years ago, that Downing Street not only agreed to it, but apparently strongly favored it, and that no responsible voice in England has ever been raised against it. In 1920, when the matter came before the British and Canadian House simultaneously, Mr. Bonar Law simply said:

"It has been agreed that His Majesty, on the advice of his Canadian Ministers, shall appoint a Minister plenipotentiary, who will have charge of Canadian affairs, and will at all times be the ordinary channel of communication with the United States Government in matters of purely Canadian concern, acting upon instructions from, and reporting direct to, the Canadian Government. In the absence of the Ambassador, the Canadian Minister will take charge of the whole Embassy, and of representation of Imperial, as well as Canadian, interests."

Mr. Law further pointed out that the need for such a representative had been realized for some time by the British, as well as the Canadian, Government that it involved no breach in the diplomatic unity of the Empire, and that it would, indeed, be likely to "have the very desirable result of maintaining and strengthening friendly relations and co-operation between the British Empire and the United States."

One may well doubt whether the need which Mr. Law discerned was quite as vast as he imagined, and doubt also the wisdom of a Canadian Minister taking charge, in the absence of the British Ambassador, of all imperial matters—but of such things, we shall see. The objectionable thing is that a people living so near to Canada, and dealing so largely with her, should be so wholly ignorant of what she is thinking and doing. And if the best in the United States are so ignorant of our affairs, and still believe that in some way England is trying to hold us down, what must be the mind of its masses?—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

What have you done to make Fire Prevention week a success? Because it all gets back to the question of individual responsibility.

The Children's Aid Society requires a more liberal tag day collection than usual this year. Citizens should bear that fact in mind when they are asked to contribute on Saturday.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.84 3-8.

Sterling cables $4.85.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press).—There was a general improvement in the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday and the bulk of the local offers made overnight were accepted by foreign buyers. The sales were estimated at 500,000 bueshels of Manitoba Spring wheat.

The local market for coarse grains was again inactive, the demand being only for odd cars to meet actual wants. Prices for Canadian Western oats were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was done in Spring wheat flour for October shipment to the English markets, while the movement for local and country account was fair. Prices were steady for all grades.

The undertone to the market for winter wheat grades was steady with a moderate demand for supplies and light offerings.

The millfeed market continued moderately active and prices were firmly maintained. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm with a fair trade passing.

An active trade was again transacted in all grades of fresh and storage eggs and values were firm. The receipts were 299 cases.

The volume of business transacted in potatoes continued small on account of the mild weather prevailing which tends to check the demand to some extent. Car lots of New Brunswick Cobblers were quoted at $1.30 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.00 per bag of ninety pounds.

The trade in beans was quiet, but the undertone to the market was firm with car lots of choice white hand-picked quoted at $2.40 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $2.50 to $2.60 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct 7 (Canadian Press)—Notwithstanding that North American wheat export business yesterday was the largest in some time, wheat values finished lower. Weakness of stocks and cotton was a contributing bearish factor, and so, too, was favorable weather in Canada, as well as 17,327,000 bushels increase of the world's available supply. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 5-8 to 1 1-8c net lower; corn 1-2 to 3-4c down; oats unchanged to 1-8c off, and provisions unchanged to 2c decline.

Corn and oats steadied a little at the finish, but the general tone was weak. The country was offering old corn rather freely to arrive.

Eastern selling of lard acted as a weight on the provision market.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 18,000; few choice yearlings about steady; supply heavy; steers excessive; trade very dull; mostly 25 to 50c lower; top yearlings $12.70; medium weights $11.75; best heavy bullocks $10.85; vealers mostly 50c lower; bulk to packers $14.50 to $15.

Hogs 11,000; generally 10 to 15c higher than best time Tuesday; top $14.15 paid for 210 to 250 pound averages; most 210 to 250 pounds $13.75 to $14.10; bulk 260 to 300 pounds $13.50 to $14; few heavies below $11.25; bulk desirable strong weight slaughter pigs $12 to $12.75.

Sheep 20,000; mostly fat lambs fully 25c higher than Tuesday; considering sorts, a number of sales look 50c higher: top range lambs $14.35; bulk $13.50 to $14.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE ENGINEER SPEAKS

Listen to me just a moment please,
You folks who drive a car;
Who think my life is one of ease,
And moves without a jar.

I pull a train I'd have you know,
A thousand tons of steel;
Swift as an arrow from the bow,
Along my path I wheel.

Do you give to me a single thought
Do you think I have no fear?
Don't you realize my nerves grow taut,
When a speeding car draws near?

Time after time, I have held my breath,
My heart 'most stopped with fear;
As I've seen a driver flirt with death
With those he holds so dear.

I've seen despair upon the face,
I've heard the moans of pain;
Of those, who ran a losing race,
With my swiftly speeding train.

I've felt my engine leave the rail,
As she struck a passing car;
I've lain for weeks upon my back,
I've glimpsed the gates ajar.

And as I've left the shades of death,
In anguish and in pain;
I breathed a prayer beneath my breath,
For the fools that race a train.

Please use the brain, the eye and ear,
The sense the good God gave;
And save yourselves, and the engineer,
From grief or an early grave.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

YOU CAN'T "OPERATE" ANYONE

"He had to go to the hospital, and there the doctors operated him, and he died."

"Is that so? Why, I didn't think they could operate a person for that."

The two speakers used the word "operate" incorrectly, by not employing after it a preposition, "on" or "upon." In other words, you can't operate a person, but you can operate on or upon him. In this use, the verb "operate" is an "intransitive" verb; that is, it does not have a direct object. When a verb has a direct object, as in the sentence, "I love my mother," it is said to be a "transitive" verb; the action is "carried over" directly from the verb to the object.

In some other senses, the verb "operate" may be transitive, as when we say, he operated the machine, the elevator, the automobile, etc. But you cannot operate a person.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The young fellow who studies aviation is the one who is bound to rise to the occasion.

The gutter is a fine place to put plays written by those whose minds are in the gutter.

College has started and many are taking steps toward learning the new fall dances.

The fellow who is content with little usually gets less.

Bragging about what you are doing leaves very little time for accomplishment.

Contentment is merely the victory of mind over what's the matter.

Most of us think we could do much better if we only had the opportunities which we don't realize we have.

The harvest is on and there are farmers who were perfectly right when they raised a howl.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

ETIQUETTE.

She knows the rules of etiquette,
How folks are introduced, and met,
And what to do and what to say,
In any place, on any day,
Her acts are always gentle and
Her manners always sweet and bland.
She's all politeness to another—
That is, of course, excepting Mother

And he is careful how he speaks,
Whatever favor that he seeks.
He's quite a model, I am told,
He's so respectful to the old,
It's "Yes, sir," "No, sir", "If you please,"
For these are little courtesies
That really aren't any bother
To use—except, of course, to Father.

Now someone ought to write a book
On how to speak and act and look
At home, some etiquette invent.
For home, for home is different,
There ought to be a book to tell
Some rules to use at home as well,
Because it seems, of all the others,
That none apply to dad or mothers.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

LIFE'S UNCUT VOLUMES.

(By Dr. Frank E. Crane)

E. E. Slosson describes the scientist as a reader of a book that has been issued in an uncut edition.

He is forced to open its pages one by one as he progresses.

Ths simile applies to the manner in which most of the important labor of life is carried on, and most of the valuable knowledge that is uncovered or accrues throughout the years is obtained.

All of it is read in uncut volumes. It is the first reading that takes the time. Those who follow find the pages cut and the reading comparatively easy.

In the matter of government humanity is feeling its way forward, experimenting as it goes, reading one page at a time and laboring before it can turn over another leaf.

Looking back, it is easy for us to see where mistakes have been made. But we are merely glancing over the part that has been gone over, read and cut. Going beyond the knowledge we have accepted so far is the part that requires the struggle.

No two are alike. The volume of each child's character is a new one. No two can be handled exactly the same. Each must be approached from a different angle. Each develops in a different way.

As it grows from stage to stage there is a need for continual adjustment if the child is to be understood. How to treat it is a problem that grows with individual cases and for which no rule can be laid down. To read it aright requires patience, care and painstaking labor.

Developing your own life, too, is reading an uncut volume.

Success, achievement, attaining worth while ends, are made in different ways by different people. No rule can be laid down. Each man and woman has to work his way forward, cutting the leaves as he goes.

For everyone, Life itself is the great uncut book. You can't jump ahead and find out how it all comes out.

You have to read each page, one after the other and cut the leaves as you go.

A dimeful daily will suffice—KRUSCHEN'S worth three times its price.

Costs No More— Lasts Much Longer!

Quantity does not always imply quality. The unnecessary bulk found in ordinary health salts demands large and disagreeable doses which are harsh on the sensitive organs of the body. This increases the cost and necessitates frequent trips to the drug store. At best, the results are unsatisfactory.

Kruschen Salts contain quality in compact, unadulterated form. A 75 cent bottle lasts longer than ordinary salts and, therefore costs less. The standard daily Kruschen dose is just sufficient to cover a dime. One bottle will last about six months, and in regular daily use costs only half a cent a day.

Kruschen is tasteless in tea or coffee. It contains nothing but the six mineral salts which every human organism requires for the regular and efficient elimination of waste materials that clog and poison the system — the cause of most ills.

While youth prevails, nature tolerates many abuses—overeating, overwork, worry, etc. But when the abused body needs nature's aid most during the years of maturity, she is liable to foreclose and demand prompt payment in the form of numerous maladies. You can forestall such a tragedy by cultivating the daily Kruschen habit.

True, "it is never too late to mend" — yet all progressive physicians admit that it is better to prevent disease than to remedy it. A perfect body is better than a patched body. The systematic daily Kruschen habit — your "dimeful" of prevention — will keep you sound in mind and body, fighting fit to tackle successfully "the cares that infest the day."

It's the daily dimeful that does it.

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The dose of a dimeful taken every morning is found in practice just the right amount of a most invigorating daily tonic. The medicinal dose for persons suffering from pains of rheumatism, gout, lumbago or sciatica, or habitual constipation, with inactive liver, etc., is half to one teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water before breakfast. Every druggist sells Kruschen. A 75c bottle lasts three months. This works out at half-a-cent a day for health and happiness. Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day and start to-morrow. It's the little daily dimeful that does it!

MADOC FAIR MOST SUCCESSFUL IN SPITE OF RAIN ALL MORNING; LAST YEAR'S RECORD EXCELLED

Large Crowd Attends and Sees Many Fine Exhibits.

THREE GOOD RACES.

Midway Attracts Large Gathering—Children's Drills Good.

MADOC, Oct. 7. — In spite of rain on Tuesday and on Wednesday morning, Madoc Fair was a wonderful success. Over four thousand people were on the grounds on Wednesday afternoon, and the gate receipts are expected to exceed last year's record.

Exhibits were of a high-class and there were three thousand two hundred entries. The exhibition of live stock was exceptionally good, with a showing of ninety cattle and one hundred and thirty horses. The chief exhibitors and prize-winners of heavy draft horses were Adam Dean of Madoc; Wilfred La Barge, of Tweed; S. J. Danford, Stirling, and John Danford of Harold; John Trotter, George Ketcheson, John Fleming and Will Moore of Madoc.

Light horse winners were: S. P. Hagerman, Belleville; W. K. McCaw, Tweed; Denis Fleming, Enterprise; G. D. Watson, Wellman's Corners; Victor Irwin, Harold; W. H. Heath, Bonar Law; William McCracken, Belleville; W. Hodgin, Foxboro; Adam Dean, James Caskey, William Moore of Madoc; E. H. Potter, Belleville, and Victor Irwin, Harold.

Cattle Exhibits.

Prize-winners in the cattle exhibit included Thomas Walker of Queensboro; J. L. Foster of Madoc, and Arthur Tufts of Tweed for Jersey cattle: Hector Wood of Ivanhoe and W. K. Ellis of Madoc for Ayrshires; J. Caskey, John Fleming, and Arthur Fleming of Madoc for Holsteins; Sam. Danford of Stirling, John Danford of Harold and John Lewis of Madoc for Durhams; and for grade cattle, W. Stewart of Madoc, Samuel Danford and W. J. Ellis of Madoc.

In the fine exhibit of sheep and swine the winners were: George Hutchison, Warkworth; W. L. Van-Allan, Stirling; E. G. Honey, Warkworth; W. A. Martin and Son, Phillipston; W. H. Heath, Bonar Law; John Barton, Madoc, and Malcolm Allan and George Ketcheson, Madoc.

The poultry show was not quite as large as usual, owing to the rain. Prizes were won by W. Van-Allan, Campbell Wallbridge, John Armstrong, and Arthur Pitts of Madoc and W. G. Kerr, Tweed.

The Main Building.

Passing into the main building one found what was said to be the biggest exhibit of cheese that there has been at any Fair in Hastings County this year. The Bank of Commerce silver cup was won by Zera Bristol.

Next came a fair showing of apples and a splendid exhibition of roots and vegetables. One man who has attended a great many Fairs this fall was heard to say that the roots and vegetables were the best he had seen anywhere. Many beautiful flowers and plants occupied a large space on the centre table. Noteworthy exhibitions in this department were made by Mrs. Wickham, Mrs. Countryman and Gavin Wallbridge.

Fine samples of exquisite needlework in white and colors were there in abundance, also an unusually large display of hand painted china. Among the chief exhibitors in the Ladies' Department were: Mrs. W. A. McColl of Wooller, Mrs. S. A. Lockwood, Belleville, Mrs. J. S. Wardner, Belleville, Mrs. W. S. Stork, Belleville, Mrs. K. R. Vivian, Shannonville, and in the Domestic Science Department, Mrs. Walter Ross, of Madoc, was a successful exhibitor of many tempting "goodies."

The special prize for the longest loaf of bread was won by Tom Caverly, of Madoc, whose giant loaf measured nine feet.

Miniature Monuments.

One of the most original exhibits was a large case of miniature monuments, hand-carved, from pure white talc by David Kernahan. Perfect in line and smoothness of surface, these carvings showed the skill and ingenuity of their origin-

RASPBERRIES PICKED.

Warsaw Lady Takes More Than Quart Off This Year's Wood.

WARSAW Oct. 7.—On Saturday, October 2, Mr. David Taylor picked over a pint of beautiful ripe raspberries from the bushes on Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garbutt's farm. There were still more berries ripe, and a great many green ones. The berries came on this year's wood. Mrs. Taylor thinks her daughter will likely be able to get a good deal more than a pint yet.

Rev. H. B. Herrington and daughter went to Carrying Place on Saturday to visit Mr. Herrington's father. He took Rev. Mr. Barret's work in Stirling on Sunday, and Mr. Barrett preached the anniversary services at Bethel church.

The United church Missionary Society meet at Mrs. Robert Moore's house on Thursday afternoon. Cottesloe branch will conduct the service.

CHURCH SOCIETIES HOLD GATHERINGS

United Church Sunday School and W.M.S., and Christ Church Workers Meet.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 7.—The Sunday school of St. John's United church held its annual Rally Day services on Sunday in the church auditorium. The programme was interesting and a large number was present.

After the opening exercises, a responsive Scripture lesson was read, after which Rev. Mr. Elliott led in prayer. A short exercise was given by the teachers and responded to by the boys and girls. Mr. Cecil Stephens read the Scripture lesson from the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians, after which Mr. G. A. Kingston, Sunday school superintendent, gave an address, "Rallying for Service." Miss Doris Mason and Miss Essie Cassan sang a duet.

The offering taken will be used for the work of Religious Education in the United Church of Canada and credited as part of the offerings to the Maintenance and Extension Fund.

The ladies of the W.M.S. of St. John's church held their monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school room. The president, Mrs. Haig, had charge of the meeting. After the opening exercises, Mrs. Ernest Bonney read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. T. L. Diamond read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Douglas gave the treasurer's reports. Moved by Mrs. Davidson and seconded by Mrs. Bonney that envelopes be procured for Thanksgiving, and a book on the Missionary work of the United church in India be supplied.

The ladies decided to hold a joint meeting of Hastings, Dartford, Warkworth and Hoard's in St. John's church on Thursday, October 21st, when Miss Haig will be present to speak and reports given from Mission bands, circles and societies. Interesting papers were read by Mrs. H. Atkinson, Mrs. C. Davidson and Mrs. Haig on Missionary work in India, after which the meeting was brought to a close by the Doxology and the Lord's Prayer.

Congregational Social.

The Willing Workers of Christ Church held an interesting congregational social on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the church house on Rear street. Mr. A. J. Jenkins was chairman for the evening and the following programme was enjoyed by all: Solos by Mrs. Fred Free, Miss Hilda Bonnycastle, Rev. G. C. Clarke and Mr. Heale, accompanied by Mrs. Carke; solo by Miss Cherrie Turner, accompanied by Miss Irene Stephens; solo by Miss Emma Meiklejohn, accompanied by Miss Kathleen Connor; reading by Mrs. R. W. Scott, and a duet by Arthur Collison, piano, and Kenneth Collison, violin.

After the programme was finished, dainty refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Rev. G. C. Clarke, rector, is leaving his charge here the latter part of the month. Mr. Reeve Newson in a short speech, said it was with regret that the people had heard of Mr. Clarke's removal but all joined in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Clarke and family every success in their new home.

Mr. Clarke has been an untiring worker for the church and was also interested in public welfare. He was a great lover of sports and the ball teams and hockey teams will regret his departure.

Epworth League.

The young people of St. John's Epworth League held their weekly meeting on Monday evening in the Sunday school rooms. Mr. Fred Phillips, the president, had charge of the opening exercises after which Miss Verna Saunders, convenor of the Christian Endeavor Department, took charge of the following programme:

Readings by Miss Myrtle Forde and Miss Stella Keir; solo, Mr. Jack Boyd. Rev. Mr. Elliott gave an interesting talk which was enjoyed by all.

Arrangements were made to hold a pie social next Monday evening when a good programme will be given and an enjoyable evening predicted for all who attend.

PEOPLE STARVING.

HANKOW, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Two rescue launches and several lighters have succeeded in bringing 12,000 women and children to this city from the neighboring city of Wuchang, where Northern and Southern Chinese troops are at death grips. The rescue was effected on Sunday and Monday after a previous attempt had failed when the ships were fired on and forced to return, although the opposing forces had previously agreed to the rescue. The Northern troops who are holding Wuchang against the Cantonese have permitted the beggars and the impoverished element of the civilian population to depart, holding the better classes in the city. Charitable organizations are caring for the rescued, who relate repelling stories of conditions in Wuchang. They say the people are desperate from starvation, are eating dogs, cats and rats. Roots and tree leaves already have been eaten.

The military as well as the civilian population is starving after consuming all the livestock. Bodies litter the streets, unburied because coffins are unobtainable.

GREAT DEVASTATION IN MEXICAN FLOOD

Twenty Known Dead and Hundreds of Families Homeless.

NO GALES, Arizona, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press).—With twenty known dead and hundreds of families homeless, people of the State of Sonora, Mexico, are endeavoring to salvage their belongings from the area devastated by last week's unprecedented rains. The search for bodies continues with the expectation that the death toll will mount. Reports reaching here from the south say that persons residing in the vicinity of Rio Sonora and Rio San Miguel and their tributaries are facing starvation unless they secure immediate aid.

Water is selling at a premium in Hermosille, capital of the State of Sonora, since destruction of water plant and food is very scarce.

Class of '38

Big sister's cap and gown are somewhat oversize for little Mary to-day, but the years will quickly pass. Important years, years when the foundations for her life-long health are being laid. Whether Mary will graduate with the Class of '38 depends on the start she is getting now.

If your child is to grow up strong and sturdy and mentally alert, she must go to school fortified with food that gives ample energy for the morning's work.

Medical and school authorities agree that a child's success in school and after-life is largely dependent on the physical development during its early growth years. The big problem is to keep the energy supply equal to the demands made upon it.

Quaker Oats and milk supply the important elements for energy and growth in an easily digested form. Here is a hot, satisfying breakfast that "stands by" all day. It builds sturdy bodies for future years.

Serve hot Quaker Oats and milk every morning.

FRENCH WAR ACE PLANNING FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

To Attempt Paris, New York Hop Before the End of Year.

BERNARD MONOPLANE.

PARIS, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press) —Paul Tarascon, well - known French aviator and war ace, will attempt a Paris-to-New York flight in a Bernard monoplane "probably before the end of 1926," M. Tarascon informed the Associated Press Tuesday.

The airman, however, said that reports that he would start October 21, were not accurate. He declared that the accident which caused the death of two of the crew of the plane piloted by Rene Fonck, had made him and his companions doubly cautious not to venture to hop off until they were certain of success.

To Win Prize

M. Tarascon estimated that flight, which will be made in an effort to win the Raymond Ortzig prize of $25,000 should take from 31 to 33 hours. His plane will have a load of 4,200 kilograms, and will be equipped with an engine of 420 horsepower. It is expected to average 115 miles an hour.

Frank Coli, an expert maritime navigator, and an alternate pilot whose name has not yet been divulged, will make the trip with M. Tarascon.

A Pretty Little "Itwas" Visits Highland Park

DETROIT, Oct. 7. — Mrs. Roy Wilber notified the Highland Park police by telephone that a little black and white animal was under her porch at 302 Hawthorne Avenue.

"Is it a cat?" inquired the sergeant.

"No, it's not a cat," said Mrs. Wilber. "I don't know just what it is. It's a very pretty little animal."

"I've already formed my theory," said Patrolman Roy Johnson as he and Patrolman James Wilson started to investigate.

They returned 15 minutes later.

"It was," said Johnson.

"You don't need to tell me," replied the sergeant.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Local Branch of Upper Canada Bible Society Met on Tuesday.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 7.—The annual meeting of the local branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, one month earlier than usual to permit the collectors to cover their respective rounds before the bad weather sets in and hinders their efforts.

The President, ex-Warden A. J. Henderson, was in the chair; Rev. Canon Allen read the Scripture lesson, and Rev. Joseph Wilks led in the opening prayer. Miss Mamie Collins presided at the piano.

Mr. R. Stone, secretary-treasurer, presented his report showing a total of $129.85 remitted to Toronto last year. The following officers were appointed for the current year: President, A. J. Henderson; First Vice-President, W. T. Wood; Second Vice-President, L. C. Russell; Secretary-Treasurer, R. Stone. Directors: Messrs. A. J. Fallis, M.P.P.; J. Steele, L. W. Smith, G. E. Burnham, A. A. Smith, N. Belch, J. L. Byam, T. H. Aiken, J. W. Hamilton, Henry Hubbeard, J. W. Gardiner, H. A. Elson and Dr. A. Jemison.

Rev. J. D. Paterson, Rector of All Saints' Church, Peterborough, was introduced by the president as the speaker of the evening, this being the third consecutive year that he has addressed the public gathering to the great pleasure and profit of his listeners.

"Millbrook is the first place I visited after coming to this part of Ontario," Mr. Paterson said, "and I have a feeling that it will be the last place I will visit should I leave for some other section."

"The Story of the Year," was the speaker's theme, and he introduced it by reference to the Book itself. "There is only one Book that could call such a gathering as this together, and have us sit side by side, as we learn of its tremendous influence." It is the Book that you and I live by—the one force that united men and women together all over the world."

"I believe there is a place for this Book from which it is being crowded out today, and that is in our own Canadian homes. Because the Bible is not being fitted into the national life as it used to be we have lost the binding force which used to unite father and mother, and sister and brother, to each other. The really great problems affecting our nationhood are not to be settled on Parliament Hill, but round the family altar. It would be a good thing if we were all to interest ourselves in a home missionary movement and bring back the Word of God into the homes, for it is the force that binds the household together, and gives security to the coming generation."

The Society which has grown up around the Book formed the second part of Mr. Paterson's address, as he told of little groups gathering together all over the province making up the local branches of the Bible Society, and these uniting to make up the Upper Canada Bible Society. Similar organizations are formed in all the other provinces, and these federated compose the Canadian Bible Society which is in turn auxiliary to the British and Foreign Bible Society.

"One hundred and ten different languages are used in Canada to distribute the Bible. You cannot buy a Bible in Canada for any foreign-speaking immigrant, or in any dialect, except through the Canadian Bible Society, and every church, of whatever denomination, and no matter among what peoples it labors, must go back to the Canadian Bible Society for its supply of the Scriptures."

The story of how an aboriginal language is learned, reduced to writing and into which the Bible, or portions of it, are finally translated, was interestingly related, the manner in which the Gospel of St. Mark was produced in the tongue of the blonde Eskimos by a young missionary, being instanced.

"The missionary society can't work without the Bible, but the Bible can work without the missionary society. Wherever a copy of the Scriptures finds itself, it seems to work in hearts and lives."

"I wouldn't like you to think that the Bible Society is far distant—it exists here for your benefit and mine. No clergyman, and no Sunday School teacher, can carry on without the Bible, and the source of supply is the Bible Society, at a price at which no other organization can sell, and in a binding never inferior to that for which you may pay double the price elsewhere. This Book is the cheapest in the world because there is no exploiting as a "best seller." It is procurable in any size, and with print suitable to all ages."

"What of the future of the Bible Society which has already printed the Word in 580 different languages and dialects? A deficit exists, but not a serious one, yet the call is for advance. The amount asked this year is slightly over ten million dollars, and this can be reached if everyone will do his and her part; when the collector calls, do not have her feel it is money drawn from unwilling pockets, but rather that it is a pleasure and a privilege to give because we are workers together with the Lord Incarnate, our Saviour and our King."

The local collectors for this year are: Millbrook East, Misses Stella Hetherington and Margaret Whyte; Millbrook West, Miss Maud Fee and Gertrude Gray; Fallis Line, Mrs. H. A. Fallis and Miss Lulu Hurd; Zion, Miss Ethel Patton and Miss Blanche Fallis; Carmel, Mrs. Wilbert Thorne and Mrs. Lambert Gibson; Seventh Line, Mrs. Offa Williamson and Miss Florence Larmer.

A hearty vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Paterson for his instructive address was moved by Rev. P. R. Howard, seconded by Rev. J. Wilks, Rev. J. Riddle also adding his personal word of appreciation. Votes of thanks to the collectors were moved by Mr. R. Stone and seconded by Dr. A. Jemison.

The meeting was dismissed by Rev. Mr. Paterson, who pronounced the Benediction.

THREE BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Nine Have Now Been Taken From the Mine at Rockwood.

18 STILL IN MINE.

ROCKWOOD, Tenn., Oct. 7 (Associated Press).—Nine bodies had been recovered last night from the Roane Iron Company's coal mine here, in which an explosion Monday trapped more than 30 miners three miles beneath the mountainside.

The badly mangled bodies of three miners were brought to the surface by a rescue crew which had worked since early morning clearing a path to the explosion area, where it is believed 18 bodies remain.

Six bodies previously had been removed from the mine since the men were caught by the terrific blast of dust and gas.

LORD WILLINGDON'S ARRIVAL

REVIVAL SPEAKER TALKS ON PRAYER

Rev. D. J. Davies Preaching Daily at Bethany Tabernacle.

"If there is one need above another in the Christian church today that need is prayer," was the statement of Rev. D. J. Davies, Welsh pastor evangelist, now holding meetings in Bethany Tabernacle on George street.

In his first services Rev. Davies has been putting strong emphasis upon the preparations needful to the Christian to make it possible for the Lord to bring about His desired revival in the church and salvation in the world.

In his initial message Mr. Davies wonderfully portrayed the miracle working Christ in the bible account of the marriage feast of Cana. His hearers were deeply moved and a time of fervent prayer was had at the close of the address.

On Tuesday afternoon Rev. Davies spoke on the subject of "Prayer," taking for his scriptural lesson the parable of the widow and the unjust judge in Luke 18. In this message the stress was placed upon two statements of the scripture "men ought always to pray" and "mine adversary." Referring to Peter's words, "Your adversary, the Devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about seeking whom he may devour," I Peter 5:8. The speaker clearly pictured the personality and power of satan, the Christian's enemy.

In the service last night Mr. Davies laid another emphasis upon the petition of the prayer taken from the life of Elisha, I Kings.

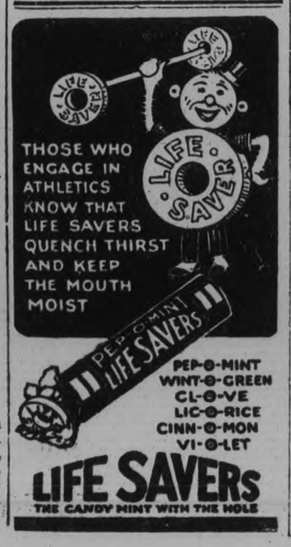
Mr. Davies is a forceful preacher and draws from his experience in evangelistic campaigns in Wales and in the trenches during the war that makes his messages deeply interesting.

Mr. Davies speaks each evening at 8:00 and each afternoon at 3 p.m.

STOMACH TROUBLE GONE, BAKES 40 PIES

"I was a nervous wreck with stomach trouble. Had dizzy spells and could scarcely walk. I began taking Adlerika, and now I run a restaurant and bake 40 pies a day. When my friends ask how I do it, I tell them about Adlerika."—Mrs. L. Amrol.

Adlerika differs from most medicines because it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. It gives the system a REAL cleansing, and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. No matter what you have tried for stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Peterboro at McDermid & Jury and other druggists.



HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, Oct. 7.—Miss Verna Crowe of Toronto is visiting at her home for a few days.

Mr. Frank Hawkins of Johnson Bros., contractors, Brantford, who has been employed on the Provincial Highway, is with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hawkins this week.

Mr. John Sexsmith visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webbdale at Selwyn on Sunday.

Mr. Reuben Castle and wife and daughter Beatrice of Peterboro were visiting friends near Hiawatha on Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Olmstead and party of Cleveland, Ohio, are spending a few days at "Without-A-Care" cottage, which is part of the Lake Shore property. A radio equipment is attached to their car.

This has been a busy week on the streets of Hiawatha and on the township roads. Mr. Madden Howard is the local foreman. He and his two sons, with Messrs. Roy Emery Bert and Bill Anderson and Henry Muskratte were filling up holes which were partly made by the local traffic and also by cars that carried licenses from the provinces of Saskatchewan and Quebec and from the following States of Uncle Sam's Country: Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New York, Michigan and Illinois. They were also doing some ditching.

The frequent rains have assisted the township pathmaster in his work of grading the Eleventh Line and the side road leading to Dr. Neal's cottage on the Otonabee River. Much improvement can be seen.

Other township work is being done under the direction of Mr. A. Dorris on the road south of the farms of Messrs. W. Northey and R. Thompson. It is being widened and later will be gravelled. Harry Fife is operating the straightened tractor which supplies the power for pulling the grader. Jerry Adamson and J. Shearer are also with the men.

Mr. Harry Bourrie was renewing aquaintance in Cavan township over the week end.

Mr. H. Delaney of Cobourg was hunting on the Lake for a few days. Alfred Crowe was his guide. The ducks are not so plentiful as the weather is allowing them to feed longer in the Norther lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell and Mrs. Cameron and daughter Agnes of Keene, and Rev. I. J. McLean of Toronto were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cowle on Sunday last.

A number of the younger and older people spent an enjoyable evening at the shower given for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dorris on Tuesday.

Miss Mary Northey was a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webbdale, at Selwyn, on Sunday.

Special services will be held on Sunday, October 10, when Rev. Dr. Barner of the United church of Canada will be here at 10 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. Sunday school at 3.00 p.m. as usual.

On Tuesday evening following there is to be a supper and programme in the Community Hall.

INSPIRATION FOR KIWANIS WORK

Names of Ladies Selling Most Bonds Known on Monday

Inspiration is one of the fundamental principles upon which all success is based. Success cannot be obtained without one first having an inspiration. An artist who desires to paint a landscape goes out into the open. Like the artist, Peterboro Kiwanians have come out into the open by putting across one of the largest activities ever attempted in this city, and the reception that is being accorded them for the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition to be held in the Armories all next week by every citizen is an inspiration to go forward and build up greater benefits towards Under-Privileged Child Welfare Work.

The streptococcus that causes measles has been discovered by Dr. N. S. Ferry of Detroit, the American Medical Association announces, and measles may become one of the preventable diseases in the near future.

W. M. S. MEETING HELD AT NORWOOD

United Church Ladies Gather at Home of Mrs. J. Weir.

NORWOOD, Oct. 7.—The W.M.S. of the United church held its October meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Weir, Colborne street. The president, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, presided. After the opening services the business of the society was taken up and settled. Mrs. Weir, convenor of the group for the month of October, then took charge of the program. A paper on the work of the former Presbyterian church in Formosa and Honan by Mrs. W. Spence and Mrs. J. Weir respectively. Mrs. (Rev.) Moir and Mrs. R. G. Lawlor favored the meeting with a vocal duet. A social time was spent after the meeting when refreshments were served by the members of the group. There was a large number of the members present.

A number of the members of St. Andrews Presbyterian Womans' Missionary Society motored over to Campbellford on Tuesday to attend a rally of the Missionary societies of the district. Those attending were: Mrs. J. W. Rork, Mrs. W. Robb, Mrs. J. Calder, Miss C. Calder, Mrs. Slater, Mrs. J. Dickens, Mrs. W. Beckett, Mrs. Elizabeth Robson, Mrs. Rogers, and Mrs. T. Borland.

Mr. Kelly and daughter of Oshawa were in the village on Saturday last attending the funeral of the late Herman Ennis.

Mrs. William Rutherford, who has spent the past few weeks with friends in the village and district left on Monday for her home in Nelson B.C.

Rev. R. F. Stillman and Mrs. Stillman are in Toronto attending the United church convention being held in Massey Hall, Toronto, this week.

Messrs. W. T. Buck and H. Buck were called to Toronto this week on account of the serious illness of their sister, Mrs. David Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. James Paget of Trent River were in Norwood on Tuesday.

Mr. J. S. Weir was in Peterboro on business on Tuesday.

MILLBROOK REEVE TAKING HOLIDAY

Announces His Intention of Spending Several Weeks in West.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 7.—Millbrook Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Reeve W. T. Wood in the chair, and Councillors J. R. Eakins, P. Stinson, T. J. Lang and G. W. Sayles present.

After the reading and adoption of the minutes, and some discussion regarding the change of insurance on the Town Hall, the following accounts were read and ordered paid:

Municipal World, $1; Millbrook Telephone Company, $4.10; S. Donnelly, labor $15; S. E. Eakins, account, $7.39; James McMillan, labor, $13.13; H. Nattrass, salary, and labor, $35.50; H. Ward, labor, $5.

Council was informed by Reeve Wood of his intention to leave for the West on a business trip involving an absence of some weeks, within a few days, and the necessity of appointing an acting reeve during that time.

Councillor J. R. Eakins acted in this capacity last year, but no definite appointment was made on Monday evening.

BARLEY STOOKED THROUGH WINTER

Threshed in Spring and Used For Seed—Yield Good.

NORHAM Oct. 7.—A field of barley belonging to Ira King, of Codrington, Brighton township, that was cut but not harvested in 1925 and that remained in stook all wintre was threshed in the field on May 18, 1926 and yielded 150 bushels. Grant Clark, a neighbor, took some of the barley from the machine the day it was threshed and sowed it just as it was without cleaning and on October 1st, threshed, he says, as good a crop of grain as any one could wish.

There is still a quantity of grain out in the fields. Farmers are resorting to threshing in the field as the straw is useless for feed and threshing inside would be exceedingly dirty work.

Potato digging is in full swing. The yield promises to be an average one. The rot seems to vary according to the soil and the time of year the crop was planted. The light land and later planting seems to be giving the best yield and the fewest rotten potatoes.

The first auction sale of the season was held in the Orser neighborhood last week, the chattels of John Ames, who has rented his farm to Charles Armstrong, near Wooler being sold. Mr. Ames reports prices satisfactory. He realized in all about $2,500.00. Cows sold from $50 to $75 and horses as high as $165.

Thomas Poyser is moving into the home vacated by Mrs. William Wilson and Eldred Cameron has taken the farm owned by Maurice Ames, which Thomas Poyser has been working for the past two years.

The congregation of Bethany United church, Brighton township is holding its anniversary services on Sunday, October 10, at 2.30 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. Rev. Charles D. Daniel, of the Seymour circuit will have charge of the services. The usual thankoffering will be received. Mr. Daniel will also preach at Meyersburg at 10.30 a.m. on October 10. There will be special music at each of the services.

Roy Peterson and Freda Fowler of Warkworth, were quietly married in Campbellford last Friday.

Miss Hazel Everson, of Belleville, spent the week end with her parents, Rev. J. F. and Mrs. Everson, at the parsonage.

Rev. E. A. Tonkin, of Bowmanville had charge of the preaching services at Colborne and Salem on Sunday last in the absence of Rev. S. C. Moore, B.A., B.D., who is indisposed.

Dr. Fraser Smith, returned missionary of the United church of Canada and formerly of the Presbyterian church, who as a minister of that church labored in Honan, China, and Central India over thirty years ago, drew some startling pictures of contrast as he compared conditions a year ago when laboring there with conditions when he first went out as a missionary. Mr. Smith, who preached at all the appointments on Norham circuit on Sunday, said there was no doubt about the future in these heathen countries if only the church at home became seized with a sense of its privilege, responsibility, and opportunity.

Rev. W. W. Jones of Warkworth and Rev. J. F. and Mrs. Everson of Norham left on Tuesday for Toronto where they are to attend the Conference on Dominion and World

Bruce Gummer has purchased the Grenly farm in the Wilson settlement.

Mrs. Beavis, who has been seriously ill in the hospital, is improving.

Mr. William J. Dunstan has the contract for painting and decorating the interior of the Stanwood church.

MORE EVIDENCE ON 'KIDNAPPING'

Two Important Revelations Made To-day, According To Paper.

NOTES FOUND.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press).—The Times yesterday says two important revelations in the criminal conspiracy case against Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, have been brought to light.

First is the discovery of a pencilled draft of the famous "Miss X" affidavit by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Sielaff, confessed perpetrator of the Carmel Hoax, declared by the District Attorney's office to be in the evangelist's handwriting. The second is the disclosure of an attempt on behalf of Mrs. McPherson to regain possession of the clothing worn by the evangelist when she re-appeared in Douglas, Ariz., with the story that she had been kidnapped and held for ransom in Mexico.

The pencilled notes were taken from Mrs. Sielaff's safety deposit box following her confession that she had been employed to employ false witnesses to substantiate the evangelist's kidnapping story. According to a statement to the District Attorney's office by Mrs. Sielaff, the notes were dictated by Mrs. Kennedy and written by Mrs. McPherson while the two women were in conference with Mrs. Sielaff in Mrs. McPherson's home adjoining the Angelus Temple. From this draft Mrs. Sielaff later prepared her affidavit in which she swore that she was the companion of Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio operator, during the ten-day stay at Carmel at the sea. The prosecution charged that Mrs. McPherson was at Carmel with Ormiston.

TREASURE WON

It was a real treasure hunt, the searchers extending through the eastern portion of the park searching the ground around the Court House, wending their way between the office buildings, some even examining the rope that holds the flag in place. One enthusiastic youth not satisfied with that, even climbed a tree in the vain hope that he would be the finder.

An automobile jack was requisitioned by one youth, who extended it to its full length and then started drawing out the accumulated debris from within the muzzle of the gun, sifting it through as he pulled it to the surface.

One disgusted bunch of young boys, after raking over every inch of the surrounding ground got into an argument as to what direction they were looking. The argument concluded by one boy addressing the crowd and saying, "That's not east, you darned fools—that's north."

Discovering that the guns could be both elevated and depressed by the addition of weight to either end of the gun caused another sensation among the younger fry. No sooner had the idea occurred when three boys sat on the end of the barrel, depressing it until the muzzle almost touched the ground. The remainder of the gang started in and scraped away most of the earth beneath it, but without success. They picked fact anything that looked as if it fact anything that looked as if it might be the hiding place.

Finally at 5.30 a panting boy arrived on the scene and announced to all and sundry that the key had been found—that he had seen the name on The Examiner bulletin.

Thus concluded Peterborough's famous treasure hunt.

DIGNITY? AH, YES:

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Some of the famous Parisian restaurants maintain a lofty dignity, but this sign, taken from a table in Voisins, in the Rue Cambon, is perhaps the most unbending: 'Voisins is one of the distinguished restaurants of Paris. The management begs to state that it does not desire the patronage of those who desire light luncheons or afternoon teas."

HASTINGS SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Public School Board Held Regular Meeting on Tuesday Evening.

HASTINGS, Oct. 7. — The Hastings public school board met on Tuesday evening in the school room. Several items of business were discussed, and the Principal suggested that the Board purchase two teachers' desk chairs—one for each room.

On consideration it was decided by the Board to purchase chairs immediately.

The schools will be closed on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday while the teachers are attending the O. E. A. convention in Ottawa.

An auction sale was held by Mrs. Agnes Dunlay on Tuesday afternoon at her farm on the edge of the village. Mr. J. R. Battisby of Campbellford acted as auctioneer. Prices realized are reported good in every line. Part of the farm was purchased by Mr. McCarthy, Mrs. Dunlay reserving the house and nearby lands.

Mr. J. E. Oliver has purchased from Mr. Hugh McCarthy the new house erected this summer on Albert street. Mr. Oliver intends taking possession as soon as convenient.

On Monday evening the Young People's League of the United Church was in the form of a shower and social evening for Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Knight.

A varied programme was given, and the pride was presented with a gift from the Mission Circle Girls of which she is president, and was also presented with many useful gifts. Lunch was served at the close.

Mr. Houston of Cobalt had charge of the services in the Hastings United Church on Sunday. The subjects taken were at the morning service—"The Power of the Spirit," and in the evening "The Forgiveness of Sin."

The weekly half holiday held each Wednesday afternoon by the local merchants during the summer months are ended, last Wednesday being the last one.

Mr. Earl Fairman and Miss J. W. Fairman of Campbellford, were in Hastings on Monday.

Mr. C. P. Doughty and daughter Irene have returned home after spending their holidays in Gelph and other points.

Misses Joycelyn and D'Arcy Berry of Port Perry have returned after visiting their aunt, Miss Elizabeth Fowlds.

Miss Kathleen Gallagher of Warkworth, spent a few days in Hastings recently.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Preston and family spent Sunday with friends in Burnley.

Rev. M. L. Huston has been in Toronto for some time.

Mrs. J. G. Staples and son Herbert of Lindsay have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Tate.

OBITUARY.

MISS EMMA McARTHUR.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 7.—The death occurred in Rochester, N.Y., on Monday evening at ten o'clock of Miss Emma McArthur, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McArthur of Seymour. Deceased was operated on for appendicitis and was apparently recovering when she suddenly relapsed, and despite all medical aid, passed away. Miss McArthur lived on the farm a few miles from town until about five years ago, when she and her sisters moved to town and lived on Rear street. Last May they moved to Rochester where her death occurred.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. John I. Adams of town, Mrs. Bruce Gould of Morganston and Miss Mary McArtur of Rochester.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vita-fected "ironized mine food; but yeast" — which not until we perfected comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Fort Erie, Ontario, Canada.

MADOC FAIR

ator, and even more remarkable was the hand-carved revolver containing a cylinder that actually revolved with perfect motion, also entirely made of talc. Not entered for the winning of any prizes, this display drew many admiring comments from the crowds, and congratulations are due Mr. Kernahan for the perfection of his handiwork. Madoc being the centre of the talc mines made this exhibit of double interest.

School Children's Work.

In the school children's section the art work of the different grades attracted much attention, and much excellent work was shown. Conspicuous in the paper-folding work was a circus, showing a big tent, the typical cage for the wild animals, elephants and other animals, and clowns, all done by second book pupils.

The programme of marches and drills given by the school children during the afternoon was much enjoyed by the large number of people gathered around the platform, the crowning of the Provinces and Miss Canada by a bevy of wee dancing tots being heartily applauded. Band selections and step-dancing in which old and young participated formed part of the afternoon's programme.

Races Are Good.

The races were good, although the track was a bit soft from the recent rain. The events were marred by one accident, when W. A. Fanning, of Lindsay, was thrown over his horse's head. Most fortunately he escaped being stepped upon, and though badly bruised and shaken up, it is not anticipated that his wounds will be of a serious nature. Dr. Dafoe and Dr. Eagleson were soon on the spot and rendered first aid to the injured man.

The results of the races were:

The Midway

In the Midway the Merry-Go-Round divided attraction with the aerial swings this year. All the well-known games made amusement for the crowd and numerous vendors cried their wares,—hot dogs vieing in popularity with candied apples.

That Madoc is gaining an enviable reputation as having one of the best fairs was demonstrated today by the large crowd who attended in spite of threatening clouds and showers which lasted until after twelve o'clock. Had the weather been fine no doubt Madoc would have seen the largest fair in her history, but to have such a signal success in the face of discouraging weather indicates the credit due to the managers who are making the Madoc Fair a popular one throughout the county and beyond its boundaries.

BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES

On Face and Neck. Itched Badly. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with blackheads which after a while festered and caused little red pimples. The pimples were scattered over my face and neck and itched badly. When I scratched them it caused little sore eruptions, and the trouble lasted about four months.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using it I purchased more which healed the pimples in about two months." (Signed) Ivan Towriss, 51 Frederick St., Arthur, Ont.

Clear the pores of impurities by daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as needed to soothe and heal. Cuticura Talcum is fragrant and refreshing.

IF REIGNING, ETC.

covered before him, the futility of trying to make the best of two different worlds. If the issue is ever put to trial, South Africa will decide very emphatically in favor of an entity represented by British ideas, British progress and British fellowship."

Canada's Attitude

OTTAWA, Sept. 7—Discussions in the cabinet council this week have had to do considerably with the attitude of the Canadian delegation towards different matters that will come before the imperial conference. So far as can be learned here the Canadian premier, while participating in the discussion on the general agenda does not intend to broach many matters of a particularly Canadian angle before the conference, although there are a number of such things to be taken up with the British government, including the status of the Canadian minister at Washington.

An interview, attributed to Premier Bruce, of Australia, and expressing certain misgivings as to the deliberations of the conference, is understood here to be directed not at the Canadian attitude, but at the possible autonomy issue by Premier Hertzog, of South Africa.

Locarno Treaty

The Locarno treaty will be discussed. It is believed that by reason of the implications which it involves the Canadian delegation will display no eagerness to adhere to that convention with regard to imperial migration. It is understood that following the trip of Lord Clarendon, the Empire settlement board will submit certain proposals for an extension in Canada fo the plan under which 3,000 British families are being sent here. The experiment has seemingly proved successful. It is understood that in keeping with the absorptive powers of the Dominion, the government will be ready to facilitate this British immigration, but without shutting the door to other countries sending out people, especially of the colonizing type.

Foreign Policy

In regard to the foreign policy the position will be taken that the dominions should be fully consulted on any matter where their interests are involved. On the questions of parficipation in war and the extent of the contribution, the supremacy of parliament in determining the Canadian attitude will be reaffirmed, It is also likely to be suggested that where international joint commissions are concerned, the selection of the Canadian section ought to be made by the Dominion government itself instead of by the British government, or on recommendation of the Canadian ministry.

On trade matters, the British preference, initiated by the Laurier government will be upheld but it is not believed that compensating preference from the British government will be demanded, the view taken being that such things come within the domestic sphere of the home ministry.

The constitutional question of the recent election may come up but, in view of all the circumstances, it is doubtful if it will be especially stressed.

INSPECTOR ORDERS HORSES DESTROYED

Two Animals on Farm in South Monaghan Are Condemned.

The condition of the stock of a South Monaghan farm has recently engaged the attention of Humane Society Inspector R. C. Smith, who yesterday again visited the place and on examining the horses found one of them suffering from an abscess in the shoulder and another being worn out by old age and under-feeding. Mr. Smith ordered both animals to be destroyed.

CAT CALM IN FIRE.

BOSTON, Oct. 7. — Fire drove scores of employees from an office building the other day, forced a dozen or more patrons of a restaurant on the first floor to flee, but failed to frighten "Pete," a nondescript, white-haired cat. Pete sat unconcerned on the counter in the lunch room, oblivious to the flames roaring overhead. Water fell through to the restaurant until there was a foot of it on the floor, but Pete stayed. When the "all out" sounded and the owner of the building had figured up his loss of $5,000. Pete strolled calmly out, unsinged.

ANNUAL RALLY DAY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Millbrook United League Opens Season on Monday Evening.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 7.—The annual Rally Day programme was observed at the Young People's League on Monday evening, the president, Miss Estelle Hetherington, being in charge. The attendance was good, and the service was inspiring and productive of a manifestly spiritual atmosphere.

Soft music opened the devotional period, Miss Dorothy Crossley taking up the first chapter in the new study book, "The United Church of Canada" in a most capable manner. Mrs. Percy Stinson contributed a solo which was much enjoyed.

Responsive Scripture readings added to the helpfulness of the meeting, and hymns chosen were appropriate to the central idea of personal consecration.

The response to the special Rally Day offering was as generous as could reasonably be expected considering that practically all the members have numerous other financial appeals in connection with various church organizations.

The usual social hours was a pleasant closing to the gathering.

The Tuxis Square will take up the citizenship topics, under the heading, "The Great Question of World Peace," and the C.G.I.T. group is responsible for the "Canadian Writers" evening during the year.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the United church met at the parsonage on Tuesday afternoon for its regular October session, the Vice-President, Mrs. A. J. Brown, being in the chair.

Business in connection with the annual fowl dinner, to be held on Wednesday, October 20, took up practically all the time of the gathering, the programme committee reporting that Miss Mabel Clarry, and members of her choir from Trinity Church, Peterborough, have kindly promised to provide the main part of the entertainment on that occasion.

The change from Tuesday to Wednesday evening, to accomodate those who are generously assisting with the programme, was explained and met with general approval.

The proceeds from the dinner are to be used to help in reducing the remaining debt on the church improvements which have given such satisfaction since their completion in the early summer, and it is confidently expected that the canvassers, who were appointed on Tuesday, will be courteously received at the various homes and a generous response to their appeal, as usual, will be given.

Among those appointed for this purupose were: Mrs. W. E. Ball, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Miss May Duncan, Mrs. Edgar Fallis, Mrs. Lambert, Sr., Mrs. A. J. Brown, Miss M. E. Needham, Mrs. William West, Mrs. J. L. Byam, Miss Martha Lunn, and Mrs. J. McKnight.

ROGERS BATTERYLESS A/C RADIO RECEIVING SETS

in your home we will tune in

No Batteries. The Rogers operates direct from any light socket on any alternating current. No chemicals; no charger; no attachments. You "Just Plug In—Then Tune In".

No Aerial. In most homes the Rogers will function without any aerial whatever, either outside or built-in loop—and with less disturbance than when an aerial is used.

And from the time you first pull the light cord that turns on the current—from that time on, you have uniform, everlasting power. No run-down batteries to replace and re-wire; no mediocre reception from weak batteries; no noises from fading batteries; no expense; no bother.

Free Demonstration

Added to the above are a dozen other points of advantage that combine to make the Rogers the one set that can give you all you hoped for in a Radio. If you are prepared to purchase a Rogers, providing it meets your expectations in every respect, we will install one in your home free of charge. If you are entirely satisfied—payment can be made in cash or spread over three to twelve months for a slight charge.

HARVEST SERVICE.

Held in Anglican Church on Sunday Evening at Westwood.

WESTWOOD, October 7 — The Harvest Home service in connection with the Anglican Church was held on Sunday evening. The church was filled with a large congregation, several motoring from Norwood. The decorations were beautiful, with the many fruits of the harvest so artistically arranged with autumn berries and foliage.

Rev. Moon, the rector of Young's Point Anglican Church, delivered a practical sermon, bearing on the harvest of souls as compared with the harvest of nature.

At the close of the sermon Mrs. Everette Birdsall delighted the congregation with a well-rendered solo, "My Task."

At the regular Sunday morning service in the Presbyterian Church, Rev. McLean of Toronto preached a very practical and impressive sermon. Rev. McLean is the father of Mr. Leslie McLean, who has fulfilled the duties of pastor in this church throughout the past year.

Fire Extinguished.

While threshing operations were in full swing at Harry Boswell's on Saturday, considerable excitement was caused among the men when the sparks from the engine were blown by the strong wind on to the roof of the barn and ignited. However, the flames were extinguished before they had made much headway. As the rest of the farm buildings were in a direct line with the wind, it made the anxiety greater.

A number from the village went to Peterboro on Saturday night to see the great fight between Dempsey and Tunney, reproduced on the screen.

Miss Laura Harrison returned on Saturday from Barrie, where she was the guest of her sister, Mrs. I. Jory.

Mr. George Pringle of Brooklyn is visiting friends in the village.

Miss Bessie Sargent spent the week-end in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brackenridge spent Sunday in Monaghan, guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. Brackenridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Manley spent Sunday afternoon with his mother, Mrs. M. Manley.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Girven of South Dummer were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sargent on Sunday.

Mr. C. Brackenridge is recovering nicely from his recent operation.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Tucker and Miss Gladys spent Sunday afternoon the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Brackenridge.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, Oct. 7.—Miss Edna Heaslip visited Cavan friends over the week-end. She returned to her home in Janetville on Sunday, her cousin, Miss Muriel Matchett, accompanying her for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Howe, Janetville, and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Staples visited friends in South Monaghan on Sunday.

Miss Olive Smith has taken a position in Toronto.

Mr. Archie Matchett was a visitor in Manvers on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Paul motored to Bobcaygeon and attended the Fair on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Carr also attended Bobcaygeon Fair on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tinney and Mrs. Jas. Paul motored to Blackstock and attended the Fair on Tuesday.

Miss Preston, Welcome, visited Cavan friends at the week-end.

Rev. J. and Mrs. Totten motored to Stouffville on Monday. Mr. Totten is attending the United Church Conference in Massey Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. T. McIvor, Peterboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McIvor, Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Paul on Sunday.

Mr. S. Bonner, Cavan, has an extra good yield of alsike this year—fifteen bushels to the acre. He had one hundred and fifty-four bushels.

George and Margaret Lang started to Peterboro Business College on Monday.

Patsy Agnew, aged 10, and his brother Billy, 12, set what is believed to be a world's record for youthful mountaineers, when they successfully climbed Mount Edith Cavell, 11,027 feet high, one of the tallest peaks in the Canadian Rockies. Above, Patsy is shown on the LEFT, and Billy on the RIGHT. Seated between them is Henry Fuhrer, their Swiss guide.

BYNG REFUSES ANY COMMENT

Won't Discuss Constitutional Powers of Governor-General.

ELECTION OPINION.

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — Lord and Lady Byng arrived at Southampton to-day on board the Empress of France and were officially welcomed by the Mayor and Sheriff.

One of the first enquiries put to Lord Byng by press representatives was with regard to his constitutional powers as Governor-General.

"I think we had better leave that alone," said Lord Byng with a laugh. "Everything turned out very satisfactory. If the question is raised at all again it will be at the Imperial Conference, but at the present moment there is nothing one can say about it. As I say, it all worked out very well."

Asked about the recent Dominion general election Lord Byng expressed the opinion that the result of the election was mainly due to the popularity of the Robb budget with reduced taxation and to three good harvests.

Lord Byng spoke with enthusiasm of prospects which Canada opened to British people who were prepared to work hard there.

PIANO RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss Eva Race Give Recital on Thursday.

OMEMEE, Oct. .—On Thursday evening a number of piano pupils of Miss Eva Race were invited to the home of their teacher, where a studio recital was held. Following the recital a very pleasant time was spent in games and contests and later refreshments were served.

The following was the programme given:

Flotilla March—Master Howard Vaughan.

"Heather Rose"—Miss Margaret Morton.

"Leola Waltz"—Miss Florence Laidley.

"Sonatina by Kullak"—Miss Helen Johnston.

"Spinning Song"—Miss Christina Connell

"Lola"—Miss Doris Vaughan.

"My Lady's Mantle"—Dorothy Deyell.

Piano Duet, "Jolly Darkeys — Howard Vaughan and Freddie Weir.

"March in C"—Verna Gardiner.

"Contraband Schottische"— Olive Reeds.

League Service

The Young Worshippers' League in connection with Trinity United Church met at the morning service of worship on Sunday, as a commencement for the Fall and Winter months, and also to make a presentation to three of the members, who exceeded all others in proficiency in the memorization of verses of Scripture.

The centre front pews were occupied by the members and the discourse by the pastor was directed towards the children. As an opening, the early life of Booker Washington, the negro teacher and reformer, was related in a manner which emphasized many wonderful traits of character in this noted gentleman. As a second part, Mr. Rowland chose the first three phrases of "The Lord's Prayer." These, he briefly explained so that each child could understand. In closing, he asked the children never to use the name of God blasphemously but to live up to the principles outlined and each would be ready for the Kingdom.

This organization has been active for the past two years under the capable leadership of the pastor and the children have displayed a keen interest in the work allotted to them. The morning service is especially given over to them the first Sunday of each month, when each member is asked to recite a passage or possibly a chapter of Scripture, distinction being made by the leader, according to age. Each contestant is credited with marks for recitation, delivery, etc. throughout the year and at the close the three who attain the highest marks, are presented with suitable books.

The rewards this year fell to Mildred Williamson, Willie Weir, and Arthur Williamson. After making the presentation, Mr. Rowland expressed a strong desire to have each member strive to put forth every effort in this coming term so that many more may be rewarded next year.

An unique feature of the evening service was a male choir composed of the following: Messrs. Hubert Gardiner, Alex. Lang, J. Bushnell, R. Poast, G. Haygarth, Harry Lamb, David Weir, Fred Lowe, E. Corneil, Arthur Stinson, E. Marsh, W. Nightingale, Herbert Norton, and Epworth. Two numbers were well rendered by the entire group namely "We're Marching to Zion," and "My Hope is Built on Nothing Else." A brief song service was held at the opening of the service when, led by the male voices, the entire congregation entered heartily in the singing of many old familiar hymns.

Camp Lecture

To meet with the Young People of Trinity United Church League on Monday evening was next best to having attended the Summer School at Bobcaygeon, for Miss Faulkner, the delegate, gave such a graphic description of camp life, that it was not difficult to imagine oneself enjoying with the many delegates the week spent by the speaker, under such wholesome environment. Not only did Miss Faulkner deal with the camp life but she took her hearers in fancy to each session and gave a synopsis of each splendid address given by the many gifted speakers present. The report was most thoroughly enjoyed by all present, and the addresses given by two returned missionaries, one from Formosa, and the other from China will be given on Missionary Night by Miss Faulkner and Miss Myrtle Weir, who also attended Summer School.

Following the report, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Faulkner for her splendid report.

The meeting, which was presided over by Miss Jessie Lamb, was brightened by a selection of rousing hymns which were heartily rendered. Miss Christina Connell read the Scripture Lesson, a vocal duet by the Misses Genevieve Sandy and Mary Weir was much appreciated, as was also a piano duet by the Misses Eva and Lillian Race.

At this juncture of the meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Oral Grandy were called forward, and dainty little Jean Laidley drew before them a myriad of lovely gifts in an express wagon. After each parcel had been opened and admired, Mr. Grandy thanked those present for the many kind wishes expressed by word and gift to Mrs. Grandy and himself.

Two contests followed: one, "The Floral Love Story," and the other answered by names of local people as follows, proved a real entertainment: 1, What kind of beach do people prefer when walking barefooted? Answer, Sandy. 2, If out in mid-lake and in quest of land, what would you do? Rowland. 3, An encore and a toilet article, Morcombe. 4, A group of preachers? Parsons. 5, The chief field-day sport? Race. 6, What the old lady said when she observed the bride and groom? Grandy. 7, Very crooked but not broken? Bent. 8, A mode of conveyance and an Irishman's name, Carmichael. 9, An English nobleman Earl. 10 What the girls said when the new barber came to town? Nugent.

Candy and apples were passed following the contests, and after the singing of The National Anthem, the young people dispersed, having enjoyed an intellectual and social treat.

Try Coffee served with

EAGLE BRAND

CONDENSED MILK

(Sweetened)

YOU will find it has the new and distinctive flavor, far superior to that you get when you use ordinary top milk and sugar. It makes it richer, more mellow and golden-unusually appetizing. Then too, it gives a richer 'body' to the beverage, quite the opposite of the thin, flat consistency it has when served with ordinary milk. Eagle Brand is a blend of milk and sugar, pure, full-cream milk, (double) rich and creamy because part of the water content is removed) and fine granulated sugar. In place of cream for coffee, Eagle Brand means a tidy saving from day to day. It avoids the annoyance of having milk and cream run short or spoil. For you can always keep a supply on hand. Eagle Brand keeps perfectly until used. Try Eagle Brand in your coffee tomorrow morning—and for the rest of the week. If you prefer tea, you'll find Eagle Brand improves that, too. Cocoa, and chocolate, are wonderfully good made with it.

POLICE BELIEVE MURDERER SHOT MAN BY MISTAKE

Think an Italian Who Alternated on Night Shift Was Intended.

ROBBERY MOTIVE.

Fellow Workman of Guelph Shooting Victim Carried Much Money.

GUELPH, Ont., Oct. 7. — After four days of careful study, Provincial and local police reported last night there were no new developments in the Thomasson murder case, and so far they have failed to dig up one solid clue to work on. While Provincial Inspector John Miller of Toronto, and other officers working on the case have little to say regarding the inquiries that they have been making, it is reported that they are now of the opinion that the shot which took Thomasson's life while he was working at the International Malleable Iron plant at an early hour on Saturday morning was intended for another man—a foreigner named Franchetti, who alternated every two weeks with the murdered man on the night shift.

It is said that the Italian workman was in the habit of carrying a large sum of money on his person, and the fact that Thomasson's pay envelope was missing has led to the belief that robbery was the motive for the crime. The flickering lights of the annealing room throw shadows. Thomasson and Franchetti were much alike in stature, and in the excitement of the moment the murderer may have mistaken his man, and fired the charge of shot into Thomasson's body, instead of that of the Italian on whose person the money was concealed. This is the way Franchetti figures it out. He believes that he is the man the murderer sought on the night of the tragedy and has since refused to go back on the night shift and carry on his duties heretofore.

ANCIENT AMERICA

More than 2,500 years ago there lived on the American continent a great scientist a genius who made startling discoveries and formulated important principles in mathematics and astronomy that antedated by centuries the first attempts of the fathers of our modern science to peer beyond the veil that shrouded them from knowledge of their world.

No one knows the name of this wonderful ancient savant. It may remain forever a mystery. His fame though is made everlasting by his amazing work, the importance of which was discovered recently by Dr. Herbert J. Spinden, distinguished archaeologist of Harvard University. By deciphering inscriptions on ruined temples and crumbling stone houses found in Guatemala and Honduras, Dr. Spinden has proved definitely, says Popular Science Monthly, that the Mayas who built them were a highly cultured, civilized people.

That these people inhabited the western hemisphere centuries before Christopher Columbus' time has been known, of course, but it remained for Dr. Spinden to fix definitely the time at which these early Americans reached their highest state of culture, which was in the seventh century after Christ. And now he has finally succeeded in checking up the Venus calendar of the ancient Mayas with the true astronomical positions of the planet Venus in the sixth century before the Christian era.

These latest investigations prove that the mysterious unknown scientist developed, by abstruse mathematical calculations and observation of astronomical phenomena, a system for measuring the passage of time that is more accurate than any other method ever evolved. In fact, this amazing man was the constructor of a machine for time keeping that worked without error for almost 2,000 years! This marvelous machine was destroyed during the Spanish Inquisition.

Dr. Spinden's discovery makes it possible to translate the dates on the ancient inscriptions into the Gregorian calendar we use today. All of these records show vaguely, yet unmistakably, the influence of the great man whom Dr. Spinden calls "a figure as grand and mysterious as Zoroaster or Buddha at the beginning of history in Persia and India."

DICTATOR TAKES ARMY COMMAND

Officially Said Due To Ill-health of Fascist General Gonzaga.

MUTINOUS EPISODES.

CHIASSO, Oct. 7.—The decision of Mussolini to take over command of the Fascist militia is officially explained by the alleged ill-health of General Gonzaga, who has just retired from that position. Actually, the reason is far more important than Gonzaga's health, states an informant. Like the Fascist party, the Fascist militia also has been rent by discord and Trieste, Tarranto, Sepezia, Gennoa and Rome were the scenes lately of grave episodes of insubordination when militia officers, openly took sides, and in some cases led mutinous dissident fascists in sanguinary clashes with the regular police.

At Trieste as a result of such a clash two Fascists and one Carabinniere were killed. Carabiniere stations were attacked in Trieste, Capodistria and Ponte Chiasso. In the latter locality on the Italian-Swis frontier, eight Italian Customs House officers were clubbed the other day because they had wounded the local Fascist secretary and other Fascists in a free fight.

Numbers of Como Fascists were rushed in motor cars to Ponte Chiasso to effect reprisals. Eight of the Customs officers already had been arrested, but the Fascists attacked the prion, overpowered the Carabininieri and clubbed the prisoners so savagely that four died the next day.

Fascist Headquarters Seized

The latest episode of the Fascist internecine war occurred in Rome the other day, when a branch headquarters of the Fascist party were seized by dissident Fascists and held for several hours until finally driven away by a company of Carabiniere.

The leader of the revolt, Calza Bini, former secretary of the Rome Fascismo, and thirty of his followers were arrested, but Bini was released the next day. Extremeist Fascism is incensed against Musolini because of his impotence to protect it against Federzoni's systematic war. Dumini's arrest was not only due to his plans to fly to France, but it also appears to threaten to kill Mussolini. Apparently the Duce fears a coup de main by the extremist Fascists against him, and hence his dicision to take over the command of the militia.

Changes in Fascist Statutes

ROME, Oct. 7.—The meeting yesterday evening of the Fascist directorate under Premier Mussolini's leadership was to discuss important changes in the party's statutes. The tendency of the proposed reforms as drawn up by Augusto Turati, head of the labor trade corporations, is to abolish the elective rights whereby the lower grades of the party offices are filled by votes. Instead these posts will be filled by nominees of the executive committee. Choice will be based on services rendered to the party by candidates as well as their length of membership.

It is believed the new method will prevent much heart burning and local intrigue in provincial centres. Another big innovation is the proposal that the party's secretary-general be exclusively designated by the grand council. The council with the secretary-general's help will designate the directorate members.

The Fascist children's organizations known as Ballila and the Young Guard will receive far more attention from the party's executive han before. The chiefs place great hopes in the rising generation's enabling Fascismo to develop no matter what becomes of the actual pioneers. But they must have special military and spiritual training to become Fascists heart and soul, and this task will be undertaken by the directorate with redoubled energy. The national militia likewise will be brought into closer touch with the executive committee.

When the reform are settled the directorate's next move will be a careful sifting of the rank and file of the party. Recent events prove that large numbers who have obtained membership cards are not real Fascists at heart, but joined in order to hold their jobs or get promotion.

TRINITY CLUB BANQUET.

First Annual Affair Held With New Pastor Guest of Honor.

The first annual banquet of Trinity Club was held last evening in Reid street hall.

About 165 young people were present and enjoyed the pleasure of meeting their new pastor, Rev. David Wren.

Misses Trucie Pearson, Helen Lytle and Francis McFadden contributed splendidly to the short programme by vocal and instrumental selections, and the Rev. Wren introduced himself in a manner that left no doubt in the minds of the members that the success of the club was assured through his co-operation.

The first regular meeting of the club will be held Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, in Reid street hall.

A speedometer for a locomotive has been devised. It employs a magneto generator, driven from one of the engine wheels, with an indicator in the cab.

BALDWIN SPEAKS AT CONFERENCE OF PARTY TO-DAY

Will Make Statement on Demand For Change in Union Law.

AMENDMENTS URGED

Preventing Sudden Strikes Without Votes Aim of Conservatives.

LONDON, October 7 (Canadian Press).—Premier Baldwin to-night will address the annual conference of the Conservative party at Scarboro and make an important statement on the demand for an amendment of the law governing trade unions in Great Britain. Ever since the general strike, following the coal strike, members of the Conservative party have been pressing their leaders to revise the law and curb the powers now wielded by the various unions.

A resolution to be placed before the annual conference will declare, among other things, that the trade union law in its present state menaces the national security and deprives the individual worker of political and industrial freedom. It will call for specified measures to overcome these things.

The law would be amended to provide protection of trade union members from intimidation or victimization because of their political beliefs.

The adoption of the resolution comes as the result of pressure from party members for some legal means of preventing such "lightning" labor movements as the recent general strike, in which the men were called out by their leaders without a strike poll first being taken.

The conference unanimously adopted a resolution urging a change in the trade union law to make the calling of a strike illegal without a secret ballot of the members of the union affected.

ORMISTON SEEN AT BALL GAME

California Newspaper man Says He Saw Suspect in St. Louis.

MORE EVIDENCE.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 7 A telephone call fromSt. Louis from G. Fellows, San Francisco newspaper man, who is attending the World Series, that he saw Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive from justice, in the Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy case, at the World Series game there, was received by Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan yesterday. At Ryan's request, St. Louis police are looking for the radio man.

Ormiston whom the state alleges occupied a cottage at Carmel, Cal., with Mrs. McPherson during her disappearance last May and June, faces charges similar to those against the evangelist, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and several others who are alleged to have attempted to manufacture false evidence supporting Mrs. McPherson's story that she was kidnapped. The radio operator has been sought for several months and last was represented in the vicinity of Chicago.

It was testied at Mrs. McPhersons preliminary hearing which will be resumed today after a recess yesterday, that Ormiston, while employed atthe evangelist's radio station last year visited Mrs. McPherson in a hotel room on two occasions.

Has Further Evidence.

District Attorney Asa Keyes announced he had obtained further evidence to support his charges that Mrs. McPherson was not kidnapped.

The evidence is a statement from F. Blevins, telegraph operator at Gila, Arizona, who declared he has identified Mrs. McPherson from photographs as the woman who came into his office at Gila on June 15 last, and sent a message saying an automobile had broken down and she was taking the train. The addressee and destination of the message were withheld by Keyes. This was a week before Mrs. McPherson re-appeared at Douglas, Arizona, with the story that she had escaped from her abductors.

Blevins also had notified Keyes that he has the original telegram and that the handwriting on the blank corresponds with that on grocery slpis found at the Carmel Cottage and the handwriting of the "light and darkness" sermon which Mrs. McPherson was writing when she disappeared. Pictures of these documents have been published in newspapers which Blevins used for identificatfon.

Keyes said that Blevins has stated his willingness to testify here. The District Attorney, however, withheld his decision pending his seeking funds from the country board of supervisors to pay expenses of Blevins' trip.

The board, against whom Keyes has filed embezzlement charges, has announced that they will approve no more District Attorney expense funds until Keyes appears personally before them, to which Keyes objects, saying he does not want to submit himself to questioning by the board. The board has also filed charges of misuse of funds against Keyes.

At last!
a real cold weather gasoline

IT is no trick to make a gasoline that will start quickly. But to make such a gasoline without sacrifice of power and mileage, has long been a problem that has baffled the best brains in the oil industry.

The discovery of Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound--after 7 years' research in the General Motors Laboratories--has enabled us to solve the problem.

We produced a very special grade of quick-starting gasoline. We added this Ethyl ingredient. We thus achieved a gasoline that, while "light" enough to explode the moment the spark jumps, gives more power and longer mileage than any winter gasoline heretofore made or sold in Canada. And in addition, it makes your motor absolutely knockless. 4 cents more per gallon--but emphatically worth it.

Fill with Imperial Ethyl. In the first mile it will show its superior acceleration. On the first hill it will reveal its truly remarkable climbing performance. On the first cold morning it will prove its readiness in starting.

You will come to it some day soon--why continue to miss the driving thrills, the real motoring satisfaction, you can get by filling with Imperial Ethyl.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)
FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1926.

This is an unfavorable day in planetary direction according to astrology. Mars and Uranus dominate in adverse aspect.

Under this rule the judgment should be doubted and special care should be taken to avoid all impulsive or ill-considered action.

Quarrels in business matters may be easily precipitated while this rule prevails and it is best to defer conferences or consultations.

Many scandals, political and social, are likely to be disseminated while this configuration lasts. Libel suits will be numerous.

Deception and intrigue in public affairs are supposed to be encouraged while Uranus is in malefic aspect. Truth is likely to be distorted and misapprehensions accepted.

This is a threatening direction of the stars for love affairs. While there will be much wooing, few weddings will follow.

Aviators should be unusually cautious today which is menacing in its influences. Accidents are forecast.

This is not an auspicious day for beginning any sort of constructive work. Iron framework and steel applied to industrial building are subject to unfavorable conditions.

Extremes are to manifest in regard to religious feeling. There will be fanaticism and scepticism voiced emphatically in pulpit and press, the seers foretell.

Under this government of the stars envy and jealousy may be very strongly manifested to private and public life.

Egotism will be apparent in women as well as men, as individualism will be emphasized under this sway.

Mars is in the Nadir threatens more fires and explosions. Accidents in mines also will be numerous.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a busy year in which it is well to be unusually careful about legal papers.

Children born today probably will be endowed with rare charm of personality and real intelligence. They may be victims of too much romance, if not wisely started out in life.

A Frock of Diversified Appeal

Plaits and scallops are both used on this smart frock of printed foulard. Inverted plaits trim the skirt front, while scallops outline the lower edge of the bodice front giving the effect of a two-piece dress. A tailored touch is lent by the convertible collar and centre-front opening, while the dart-fitted sleeves are trimmed with narrow cuffs. NO. 1320 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch figured material, and ¼ yard plain contrasting. 20 cents.

FLAPPER MODE IS GONE

Another Lanvin, that glorifies all the autumn colors. It is of moire and velvet.

A bouffant type of frock with the fulness concentrated at the hips. This is a Lanvin creation.

A young girl's party frock of rose-colored taffeta. The sash is banded in French blue velvet.

By HENDRI BENDEL
For NEA Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Lovely as a picture—that's the way a woman must and will look this season in her dinner and evening gowns.

For the romantic quality to be found in lovely old portraits, the graceful sweep of the silken skirt, the seductive sheen of satins and velvets, and the colors and fabrics that suggest the courts of the Louis' are what she draws in Fashion's lottery.

Paris couturiers are apparently repentant over the meager way in which they doled out color and glitter for so long, and are making amends in a lavish manner.

Flapper Mode Gone.

If the flapper were not a dead issue, so far as style is concerned, she would be after this season. For the abbreviated, blunt and graceless attire she affected has departed from the mode.

Even the simplest frocks designed for sport have a softness and ease about them. Day clothes have been given touches of imagination and illusion as well as utility. And evening clothes have become visions of loveliness.

And let me warn you that your evening and dinner gowns will not be so short as last season—even though an inch below the knee is considered quite enough for a day frock—they are rarely shorter than twelve inches from the floor.

Illustrated today are three typical dinner frocks, Paris importations, which tell the story of the passing of the flapper.

The skirt with the floral border is one of Lanvin's triumphs this year—deservedly so, as it has everything it should have, and not one superfluous gesture. Black tafeta is made into a bouffant type of frock where the fulness of the skirt is concentrated at the hips, giving the plain effect in front and back. Roses of velvet and taffeta that grade from deepest green to Nile appear at the hem and in single motifs at the shoulder and waist.

The color combination is new, and is much more lovely than it sounds, for so many shades of green are contrasted, that the effect is startling.

A memory of the flamboyant beauty of the woods in autumn must have haunted the mind of Lanvin when she created the moire and velvet model, for it glorifies all the autumn colors.

Flattering Types.

Moire, that shades from gold to brown is the material, with a deep band of purple velvet at hemline. These colors are so subtle and the materials so gorgeous that these colors blend into a perfect color harmony.

For the young girl, nothing seems more appropriate to me as trimming for a party frock than a big, fluffy bow, posed lightly over one hip. That is what recommends the model of rose-colored taffeta, with the simple bodice and skirt formed of two full flounces. Incidentally, the sash is banded with wide bands of velvet ribbon in French blue.

While slenderness is still fashion's first law, it is possible with a bouffant frock to conceal the too ample hipline, or a thigh more curved than modern standards of beauty approve of. And no type of dress is more flattering.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

Ingenious yet simple is the device for holding this scarf together. It is of copper-colored kasha with one end put through a velvet strap. It is banded with brown velvet.

We ought to shed tears over the apparent passing of the fashion for bare necks—and some of us doubtless would were we quite sure that the present flair for high-collared day frocks and tightly swathed necks was in reality the requiem of the bare neck. When older women observe that the low neckline is really more becoming, daughters of flapper age, feeling very smart in their new high-collared jumpers, smile indulgently—much as we used to smile when older women assured us that bangs were more becoming than pompadours.

Doctors tell us that real harm can be done by the fashion of swathing the neck. The overheated throat is, they assure us, much more subject to colds. But fortunately there is still excellent precedent for continuing the fashion of the open neck, and many of the smartest frocks are made with neck and throat bare. Some of the winter coats are made with rather close up-standing collars, but the wide shawl collar that leaves the neck partly exposed at the front is still with us.

For the woman who chooses the frock with low neckline but who still wishes to produce the effect of a fairly high neckline for street wear there are clever little collars of kasha and other woolen materials, hardly heavy enough to cause overheating. If desired these scarfs may be left with ends hanging loose, or one end may be thrown over the shoulder. However, to produce the collared effect there is usually some sort of device to keep the scarf close about the neck. The sketch shows one of these new scarf-collars. It is made of copper-colored kasha trimmed with brown velvet. Two shades of blue—one a dark navy—make a smart combination for a scarf of this sort.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

JUDGE SAMUEL SEWALL AND MARY GIBBS

Samuel Sewall may be called the American Pepys. Like the Englishman, Sewall kept a diary for forty-five years from 1674 to 1729, which everything of topical interest or gossip found ready admittance. Today this diary is valuable for its historical data.

In other ways, Sewall was an interesting personage. Intended for the ministry, his first marriage turned his thoughts to more earthly matters and he became a printer in Boston. From printing he advanced to Judge of the Probate Court. As a judge he joined in the sentence of the Salem "witches," and in doing so he went to the limits his righteous conscience dictated. When he realized that he had judged in error, the matter preyed upon his mind; he could not rest peacefully. He proved himself a man of extreme honesty and uprightness of character by making a public confession of his bigotted miscarriage of justice.

Before the congregation of the Old South church in Boston, Sewall came one day and stood with bowed head while the minister read a bill written by Sewall in which the latter confessed his error. Thereafter the judge spent one day annually in fast as a penance.

Sewall's love affair as told in his letters and other writings are amusing. When he was almost seventy he renewed his love for a Mrs. Mary Gibbs and proposed to her as follows:

"January 12, 1721-22.

"Madam, your Removal out of town, and the Severity of the Winter, are the reason of making you this Epistolary Visit. In times past (as I remember) you were minded that I should marry you, by giving you to your desirable Bridegroom. Some sense of this intended Respect abides with me still; and puts me upon enquiring whether you be willing I should Marry you now, by becoming your Husband, Aged and feeble and exhausted as I am. Your favorable answer to his Enquiry, in a few Lines, the Candor of it will much oblige, Madam, your humble Servant, "S. S."

The love that Judge Sewall bore Mrs. Gibbs was not, however, flavored with youthful fervor for when Mrs. Gibbs accepted him, he was careful to make it clear that he took her to his heart, but not her debts, saying in another letter:

". . . The last Proposal was for your children, or some in their behalf, to give Bond to indemnify me from all debts contracted by you before the Marriage; and from all matters respecting the Administration.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchical asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HER OWN WAY
by
A GIRL of TODAY

THE FIRE

But again I could not help asking myself: "Is this the real love that would last until death do us part? Is it the kind of love that marriage would consummate and make holy?"

I did not know.

There was only one thing that I did know—it would probably never be so thrilling as to keep me catching my breath, that came hot and cold to minister to the moods of my lover.

Could one live in the rarified atmosphere of passionate love always? Would one get used to the calmness and sweetness of companionship only?

Again, on the other side of me John Meredith whispered: "Look at me, Judy, and tell me what you are thinking about. What makes your eyes narrow? What makes you pull that soft red mouth which my lips are aching to kiss, into that decisive straight line? Judy, you must be, tonight, all softness and sweetness, you must be to me my dream of love only.

"God, girl, I did not think loving was like this; it hurts, it hurts. I've often dreamed of love, but it only came to me as something which would make me incapable of thinking. Tonight my brain is full of thoughts, long thoughts, great ideas, splendid ambitions. Judy, do you know that tonight I am a god, straight and perfect—yes, I am more than a god—I am a man, a man who can love and be loved"—again there came the insistent crooning whisper, "You do love me, don't you, Judy?"

Without warning there came a most deafening detonation. It sounded as though it were in the room above us. In a moment everything was excitement again.

"Fire!" shouted a silly coward, and there became a panic-stricken rush toward the outside door, which against them all opened inward.

John reached for me and caught me from under the maddened feet of a half drunken man who was muttering.

"Let me get out; let me get out," and mowing down everyone in the way of his exit.

"Here, here, damn you, who do you think you are!" shouted a man as he casually knocked him down and yelled: "Say, is this another tray of baked Alaska?"

"No," answered Jerry, who was helping Mamie and Judy toward the door.

Then he turned to the crowd behind him and shouted: "Don't push! I don't know what is happening any more than you, but I am sure if the men in this crowd will keep from showing their yellow streaks and walk slowly ahead, everything will be ——"

Again another explosion. "The hell there will," someone screamed, "there goes the front of the whole building."

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE THIRD STICK

"Tap! Tap! Tap!" sounded on the door of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Hello, who is there?" asked the rabbit gentleman who had just finished his breakfast, after having helped his wife get the forty 'leven little bunny boys and girls off to school.

"I am here," a voice answered.

"Why, Baby Bunty!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Why aren't you at school?"

"Because I have come to bring you the stick," answered the little rabbit orphan, who was staying for a time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady and gentleman.

"Oh, dear me! A stick! Have I, then, been so bad that I must be tickled with a stick?" asked Uncle Wiggily, pretending to be frightened, though he wasn't at all.

"Oh, it isn't that kind of a stick," laughed Baby Bunty. "It is the third stick. Don't you know, yesterday, you and I went fairy adventuring? I gave you three sticks. On the first you made a honey lollypop. The second you gave to the cow lady to prop open her window, and she gave me a glass of milk when I was thirsty."

"I remember!" said the [illegible] see what fairy magic the third stick would do," went on Bunty, "so I have brought it over with me now. Please come out me and we shall see what happens to the third stick."

So Uncle Wiggily, pretending he did it to please Baby Bunty, though, really, he liked to go adventuring, set out with her and the third stick. It was the longest of the three pieces of tree branches the bunnies had picked up in the woods the day before.

Over the fields and through the forest hopped Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit carrying the third stick, and every now and then she would stop and ask:

"What do you think will happen, Uncle Wiggily?"

"I'm sure I don't know!" the gentleman bunny would answer.

Then Baby Bunty saw a hole in the ground and she exclaimed:

"Oh, perhaps if we put the stick down in the hole something magical will happen!"

"Try it!" said Mr. Longears.

Bunty thrust the stick into the hole, but nothing happened except that a little dust floated out and blew away in the wind.

"Oh, dear!" sighed the little rabbit girl.

Over the fields and through the forest hopped Uncle Wiggily and Bunty, and soon they reached a second hole.

"Maybe something will happen here," said the orphan rabbit. So she thrust the stick down the hole, but the only thing to happen was that a little dust floated up and was blown away by the wind.

They reached a third hole. Again Baby Bunty thrust in the stick, but all that happened was some more dust floated out and was blown away by the wind.

"Why, Baby Bunty!" exclaimed Mr. Longears.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Bunty, "I don't believe this third stick is at all magical as the first two were."

And then, all of a sudden, they heard many little voices saying:

"How shall we ever get across the river! How can we ever cross the wide river?"

Uncle Wiggily and Bunty looked down and saw about seven million little ants crawling along.

"What river do you want to cross?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I see none here. Where is the river?"

"There!" answered the head, or captain, ant, and he pointed to a little brook. "That is a big river, and we ants can never cross it," said the captain. "Yet we must get to the other side."

"Ha! That is easy," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I will make you a bridge." And, laying down the third stick so that it spanned the brook from shore to shore, the bunny made a dry place over which the ants could crawl. "There is a bridge for you!" said Mr. Longears. Bunty clapped her paws.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" she exclaimed. "The third stick was magical after all, wasn't it? Out of it you made an ant bridge!" And so it had happened, and the little crawlers thanked the two bunnies very much.

So this teaches us that there is often magic in common things, especially when they can be made to do a kindness. And if the slice of bread doesn't feel jealous because it isn't a piece of chocolate cake, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the yellow lily.

SHORT STORY

"Besides if you had your hair bobbed you wouldn't look so prim and the boys would like you a lot better," said Mrs. Westerman.

Mrs. Westerman's niece, Nancy Gray, cross the hotel luncheon table, pouted her lips prettily. "You know Dad likes my hair long. After you've gone to all the trouble and expense to bring me to the city I hate to be contrary."

"I knew you'd consent," beamed her aunt. "You'll just have time for it this afternoon. We leave for home at eight tomorrow morning—so you'll have to have it done this afternoon. I'll go right after luncheon to make an appointment."

Like a good many recently bobbed middle-aged women, Mrs. Westerman was bent on having every other woman—especially the younger ones—follow suit. But that was not all. Before she left Denniston for a week's sojourn in the city with her pretty niece she had laid a substantial wager with her husband that she'd bring Nancy back with short hair, and Mrs. Westerman didn't intend to lose her bet.

Nancy, always a little afraid of her domineering aunt, hardly dared to come out with a flat refusal, but, though she appeared to yield, she had no intention of parting with her lovely golden brown curls. She looked around the hotel dining-room as if she half expected someone to appear to champion her. If she only knew someone in the city who might make some other plans for the afternoon. After that it would be too late. It was then that she recognized at a table not far from her own young Brutus Smith—a decidedly presentable young eligible whom she had met a number of times in Denniston. She wasn't at all sure that he would remember her—or that he could rescue her from her aunt and the barber, but Nancy was desperate. Fortunately Brutus was alone. Nancy looked over to him and smiled invitingly. Brutus smiled back, rose from his table and hurried to her side. Nancy introduced him to her aunt. She told Brutus that she thought possibly he had forgotten her.

"No, indeed," said Brutus. "If you'd been bobbed like the rest I probably shouldn't have remembered right away—not expecting to see you here—but a long-haired girl nowadays is like a blue-eyed Chinaman."

"There, didn't I tell you," eagerly put in Mrs. Westerman. "You see I've been telling Nancy that she was making a spectacle of herself with her hair still long. But suppose you get the waiter to bring your things over here with Nancy. I've got to go do some telephoning." She beamed approvingly at Nancy and bustled off.

"I suppose you are busy this afternoon," began Nancy, blushing.

Brutus came to her rescue. "I had several tentative plans," he said. "But it just occurred to me that if you'd care to go to a play with me I'd be tickled to death."

"But I didn't mean to suggest it," said Nancy, much confused. "My aunt was trying to get me to do something I didn't want to this afternoon and if I could tell her that I had accepted an invitation from you—why, you could just leave me at a public library or a museum or somewhere."

"Swell chance a girl like you would have of spending an afternoon alone in a museum or a library—while I'm able to toddle. We'll get your aunt's permission and go right on. But don't flatter yourself that you started this," Brutus went on as they saw Mrs. Westerman approaching. "I was just about to make some such suggestion myself. Moreover I was going to ask you to go to a little dance with me this evening. Nice refined little club of mine. Your aunt couldn't object—plenty of chaperones and no flasks allowed."

Mrs. Westerman really didn't have an opportunity to object, so insistent were both Nancy and Brutus.

"But, dear," said her aunt, "I've just made an appointment for you. Oh, well, I'll go ask them to take you at five."

"I'm so sorry," beamed the bold young Nancy, "but Mr. Smith was just saying that he wanted to take me to afternoon tea after the matinee."

The next morning Brutus met Mrs. Westerman and her niece at the hotel at breakfast. He brought with him orchids and chocolates. At the station he kissed Nancy goodbye. "You mustn't object," he told Mrs. Westerman, "because I'm in love with your niece. I'm coming out to Denniston day after tomorrow to talk things over."

Brutus Smith kept his word. He came two days later, proposed to Nancy and was accepted. Later Mrs. Westerman had a minute to speak to Brutus alone. "I am perfectly delighted," she said, "even if it did cost me fifty dollars. You see I bet my husband that I'd bring Nancy home with her hair bobbed."

Brutus laughed. "Funny thing is—the reason I made such a quick set for Nancy, the minute I saw her there at the hotel, was because I'd made a wager with one of the fellows at the club that I'd bring a pretty girl to the dance that had long hair. They said there weren't any like that any more. And of course I won the bet—blew the whole thing in on orchids and candy the next morning. But I'm going to stand your loss, you see if I don't."

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(United Press). New York can not be blamed, or praised, for setting starting styles and fads for American youths and flappers. It's the small villages and schools far away from this style center that instigate unusual styles which flourish for a time and are then replaced by other novelties without ever reaching New York.

A girl's school in the South introduced the flapper vogue for 'puppy warmers' the little woollen half-socks which there worn over nude stockings last Winter. This vogue never reached the East. Galoshes were worn in Detroit years before they found their way to New York. Yellow oiled slickers began as a fad with Eastern college girls.

A little village in Vermont is now sponsoring golf shorts or running pants for women golfers. Golf knickers are regarded as old-fashioned in this village. The shorts are very short, according to reports, the leg being bare, except for socks, which evtend but a few inches above the ankle. West Coast college towns and resorts are also favoring the golf short, it is said.

Hair cuts of individual type are also confined to certain localities. Women of Western and Southern states wear as a rule longer bobs than do Easterners. In some districts long hair is quite as popular as bobbed hair.

The young lady from Tulsa, Oklahoma, who was voted the prettiest girl in America at Atlantic City recently wore straight long hair parted in the middle and rolled in braided buns over her ears. This style was novel to the judges of pulchritude who were accustomed to sleek boyish or fluffy curled bobs. Doubtless before long we shall find this mode of dressing the hair reflected in some of the girls' colleges outside of New York.

Many a mode starts and ends in New York. Out-of-town buyers concentrate their buying activities upon the types of women in their various localities. When they are afraid of a New York style, they will not accept it and New Yorkers are just as panicky about accepting a style that has its beginning out on the Pacific coast or in the south. Fads are merely the self-expression of a locality.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his precription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury to-day. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

THAT we are in a period when respect for the laws of God and man is at an exceeding low ebb.

THAT one of the greatest causes of the present extraordinary amount of crime of all kinds among the young is this low state of respect for laws.

THAT to a very great extent the reason for this condition among young people is the failure of parents to exert tactfully, firmly and successfully parental authority.

AS A RESULT OF THIS WEAKNESS ON THE PART OF PARENTS, YOUNG PEOPLE ARE TODAY EXERCISING LIBERTIES OF BODY, MIND AND CONSCIENCE WHICH ARE GOING TO CREATE REGRETS IN MIDDLE LIFE AND LATER.

LAVINIA

Lavinia hales from ancient Rome. It is a name associated with old Latin deities, though not of itself divine. Translated to mean "of Latium," it is believed to be the feminine of the old Roman name Latinus with the "t" changed to "v."

The first Lavinia was a mythical personage imitated by the moderns, though not by the Romans themselves. She was the daughter of King Latinus, according to Livy and Vigil, and the last wife of Aenas, in whose right he obtained a footing in Italy.

Niebuhr denied her existence, claiming that she was merely a personification of the Latin territory. However, that may be, the classical Italians of the Cinque-Cento revived Lavinia and bestowed her name upon their daughters.

The name reached England through literary and religious channels, when Thomson contrived to recommend the Book of Ruth to the taste of the Eighteenth Centry by translating the Moabitess into the "lovely young Lavinia." In this manner Lavinia became a favorite, and her popularity spread overseas, until she became one of the oldest and most popular names in colonial America. Now she has become one of the legion of quaint old-fashioned names, exhaling the fragrance of lavender.

The sapphire is Lavinia's talismanic stone. It promises her fidelity of purpose and friends, gives her courage, and protects her from all evil. Thursday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The diamond is both the talismanic and natal stone for this day. It attracts good fortune to all who seek it with honest endeavor, and endows them with courage and strength to meet all difficulties. To those born on an anniversary of this date, it brings the power to attract sincere and constant love, if it is set in gold and worn on the left hand.

Light red is the lucky hue for today. It represents health and vigor and the wearing of it is supposed to attract these qualities.

The pink carnation is today's flower, and brings peace and contentment to the household which it adorns.

THE ORACLE

Sparrow.—Your dominant characteristic, I fear, is one of change and uncertainty. You were born with this, also with a certain amount of social and personal attraction. Circumstances of your lije have led to a good deal of reserve and retirement in your existence, and you must try to overcome morbidity and introspection. You are a natural reasoner and thinker, and like your own ways of doing things, becoming confused if asked to follow other people's minds or suggestions. You like harmony and order in your home, but are not easy to get along with, resenting even well-meant interference. You are generous and whole-souled with those you like, but rae inclined to destroy happiness for yourself by jealousy, as you exact much attention from your partner in life, who is ardent at heart, but not overly demonstrative. You should try to cultivate patience and decision of character. Always eat plain, nourishing food, and never touch stimulants or drugs of any sort, unless advised to do so by a physician. You were born on Friday. Your color is pink, in all its shades.

FIRE PREVENTION AND CONTROL WITHIN THE BODY

(By Winifred Stuart-Gibbs, Food Specialist.)

Are you ever at a loss to think up new ways for interesting small boys in such questions as have to do with the good qualities of oatmeal? or Milk? or spinach? Why not ask them if they would not like to be a good firemen!

Little girls, satisfied with quieter projects may usually be held by means of skillfully planned work in food study. The facts of combustion as it goes on within the body may be dramatized and cooking lessons, featuring appetizing dainties may also serve to lure the feminine interest. But boys! How SHALL I make them interested is a wail of many a teacher and mother.

Hence the suggestion about food firemen.

Why not tell them first that they may learn to become first stokers, then firemen of the busy engines that "run" their bodies? After graduating from these occupations hold out the reward of title of engineer, and watch their eyes brighten! Show them first how to "stoke" the fires by careful mastication of the food selected for them, eating it daintily, mixing it with the digestive saliva and letting the stoking proceed in orderly fashion, accompanied by jolly conversation and attention to all the niceties of table manners.

Next will come the work of a fireman. This means that the youngsters may learn what "fuel" and how much to use. Will they not be more eager to tuck away cereals and milk and vegetables and fruits if they realize that these heretofore uninteresting foods are the actual fuel for their body fires? Instead of rebelling at the necessity for consuming certain quantities of certain dishes, the young firemen may come to take pride in using just the right coal for their fires?

Finally will be the crowning honor, when the firemen learn not only to stoke and fire their engines, but how to administer with practiced eye and hand all the fuel required, while at the same time they will learn now to adjust and oversee ALL the bodily processes that make for health.

While the boys are learning to control the first that are the servans of the body, let them come gradually to know that fire prevention within the body is as important as in the big world. It should be fairly easy to dramatize these lessons. If a young [illegible] learns that overdoing in the matter of green apples, let us say, throws his nicely builded fire out of control the chances are that he will do something on his own account and his mother may be gratified at a sheepish request for some more of that green stuff, please and fruit pudding instead of raw green friut"!

Like anything else such dramatization may be overdone. In the main the boys and girls should be taught to eat sensibly because they themselves as well as their associates will profit. But now and again a bit of "dressing up" is good for dry facts, and such dressing up will accomplish most if it is related to the special interests of those most deeply concerned.

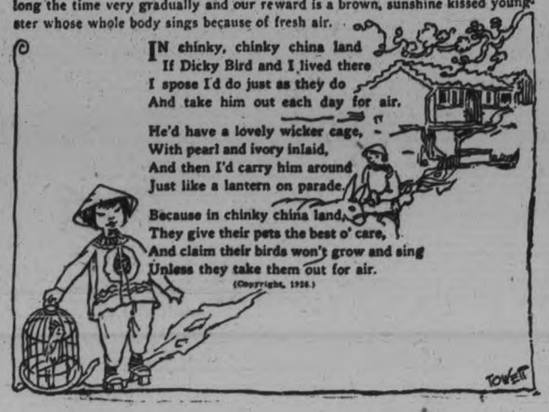
In China Land

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

BIRDS will not sing, the Chinese believe, unless they are taken out to walk for an airing. It is a gentle custom and certainly good food and water supplemented by fresh air will produce song if anything will. If fresh air is good for birds it surely is for children. I know of nothing that will work greater miracles of health and happiness than fresh air and direct sunshine. We've all seen comparative charts of chickens, for instance, raised one in direct sunshine and the other under a glass. Some of us are immensely impressed and rush home to strip the baby and lay him for three minutes in the sunshine, thrilled at our own daring. It doesn't hurt him. He stretches and coos. We try it again and prolong the time very gradually and our reward is a brown, sunshine kissed youngster whose whole body sings because of fresh air.



IN chinky, chinky china land
If Dicky Bird and I lived there
I spose I'd do just as they do
And take him out each day for air.

He'd have a lovely wicker cage,
With pearl and ivory inlaid,
And then I'd carry him around
Just like a lantern on parade.

Because in chinky china land,
They give their pets the best o' care,
And claim their birds won't grow and sing
Unless they take them out for air.

Yankees Again Tie With Cardinals In World Series

THREE HOME RUNS BY BABE RUTH TAKE HEART OUT OF CARDINALS REINHART WALKS 4 IN 5TH INNING

First Two Circuit Wallops Knocked in First and Third.

USED FIVE HURLERS.

Cards Score Early Lead From the Yanks in the Fourth.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth led the Yankees out of the Missouri woods yesterday with the greatest exhibition of home run hitting any world's series has ever seen.

Three battering-ram blows from the Babe's mighty bludgeon cleared all barriers and set fire to a Yankee attack that crushed the Cardinals by a score of 10 to 5 in the fourth game of the world's championship baseball battle. As a result the series is deadlocked again, as two victories apiece, with the fifth game here to-day.

Yesterday was a field day for Ruth, the greatest he has ever had in world's series competition, and one of the most spectacular of his walloping career. His three terrific homers not only lifted the Yankees out of their hitting slump but figured in the shattering of seven world's series records.

Another record crowd for Sportsman's Park, a jam that numbered 38,825 and broke Tuesday's mark, came in the expectation of seeing the Cardinals continue their winning streak. Instead they saw Ruth lead an onslaught that started in the first inning and continue unabated through a hectic fray in which five Cardinal pitchers paraded to the mound. They saw a game of freak plays, filled with good and bad baseball, but most of all they saw the Babe at the peak of his glory. At the finish, the Cardinal rooters had become so excited that they called for Ruth to make a fourth homer when he came to bat in the eighth and booed Hallahan, St. Louis pitcher, when the latter walked the Yankee slugger.

Nothing like the Babe's clouting has ever been seen before in baseball's classic. His first two circuit wallops came in the first and third innings, each time on the first ball pitched by Flint Rhem. The young Cardinal right hander tried a fast curve in the opening frame and the Babe lofted it high over the upper deck of the right field grandstand. In the third inning, Rhem shifted to a slow ball of the variety that had been poison to Ruth previously in the series, but the Babe nailed it and drove it on a line far out over the roof of the right field bleachers.

No one was on base to benefit from either of these clouts, but Earl Combs was on first when Ruth slammed out his third homer off Herman Bell in the sixth inning. The count was three and two this time as Bell worked cautiously on the Yankee star, but the Cardinal twirler made the mistake of trying to slip a fast one over the plate. Ruth took a toe hold and smashed the ball on a line and high into the spectators in the center field bleachers. It was the most resounding whack of the three and established a long distance record for Sportsman's Park.

Never before has the Babe connected for three homers in a single game, where a pennant or world's series was involved, although he had done it in exhibitions. He picked a dramatic and timely spot to do the trick yesterday afternoon but he made the statisticians groggy trying to tally up the records that tumbled as a result.

When the carnage was over, Ruth was in full possession of the record home run total for world's series competition. His trio yesterday set a single game record and brought his aggregate up to seven, eclipsing the mark of six set by Goose Goslin of Washington last year.

There were other factors in the Yankee victory and the Cardinal downfall besides Ruth's hitting, but the Babe so dominated the conflict that little else remained conspicuous.

Waite Hoyt, twirling for the Yankees, was also hit hard, yielding as many blows as did five Cardinal flingers—fourteen—but he was at his best in the pinches and had easy sailing after the fifth inning when the St. Louis pitching staff, as represented by Arthur Reinhart and Herman Bell, collapsed.

Hoyt might have escaped with less damage but for an error in the fourth inning by Mark Koenig, erratic Yankee shortstop, who fumbled O'Farrell's grounder with an easy double play in sight that would have ended the inning. Taking advantage of this "break," the Cardinals rallied to score three runs on doubles by Thevenow and Douthit and a single by Southworth, wiping out the lead which the Yankees had gained through Ruth's first two homers.

Flint Rhem, whose right-handed offerings had been pounded for four innings, yielded to a pinch hitter in the Cardinals' big rally, but his successor, Arthur Reinhart, immediately tossed away his team's advantage with as wild a brand of southpaw slinging as any series has ever seen.

Reinhart walked four Yankees, including Ruth, in the fifth, and permitted a double by Koenig before passing out of the picture. Two runs had crossed the plate and no one was out when Hornsby hurriedly summoned Herman Bell, who issued another pass and contributed a balk while two more runs rushed over, aided by Lazzeri's sacrifice fly and an infield out by Dugan.

After that Hoyt twirled brilliantly, holding the Cardinals easily in check until the ninth, when they manufactured their final run on singles by Hornsby and Lester Bell, mixed with Bottomley's infield out. The Yankee pitching star was a bit unsteady at times but his control was at its best when the Cardinals were on the bases. He struck out eight of the Redbirds, including Hornsby twice.

Bell lasted through the sixth, in which Ruth's third homer, following Combs' single, produced two more runs. Bill Hallahan, another southpaw, was touched for the final Yankee run in the seventh, Severeid crossing the plate on his single, Hoyt's sacrifice and Combs' double. Vic Keen, fifth Cardinal pitcher, held the New Yorkers scoreless in the ninth.

While they were at the business of coming to life at bat, the Yankees shattered the team record for long distance hitting in world's series games. Ruth's three homers, plus five doubles and six singles, totalled 28 bases, breaking the mark of 27 made by the Giants in 1921.

Marked as it was by record-breaking hitting and attendance, the game also was punctuated by freakish plays and episodes. The most noteworthy, occurring in the fourth inning when Douthit and Hafey, Cardinal outfielders, collided while in full chase after Dugan's short fly, threatened for a moment to assume serious proportions. Both players were stretched out "cold" after the impact, but they revived quickly and seemed none the worse for their mishap afterward.

All told, it was as weird and spectacular a tilt as the world's series has witnessed in many a moon. It furnished additional proof that the Yankees and Cardinals are out to battle each other down to the finish. The conclusion is certain now to be fought out at the Yankee stadium, regardless of the result of to-day's fifth game, the last scheduled here. The contending clans are slated to meet Saturday in New York for the sixth contest and on the same battle ground as the seventh, if necessary.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS

Here's an aerial view of famous Sportsman's park, St. Louis where the Cardinals are playing host to the Yankees during the world series. It was enlarged several months ago and is an up-to-date baseball plant in all respects. The third, fourth and fifth games will be fought out on this field.

YANKS JUBILANT OVER VICTORY

Believed When the Yankees Started To Hit They Would Win.

BADLY PITCHED..

(By Charles W. Dunkley)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7 (Canadian Press)—There were no moans and no groans seeping under the doors of the Yankees' dressing room after yesterday's victory. Instead, there was much hilarity and back-slapping, with Babe Ruth hugely enjoying the whacks on his shoulders.

Miller Huggins, the Yankees' leader, broke down and confessed that he made a perfectly sensible prediction yesterday to the effect that when the Yankees started hitting, things would be different.

As the Yankees collected fourteen hits yesterday, within one of the total they managed to collect in the three previous games, Huggins considers that his prediction was absolutely right.

Furthermore, he feels the lacing the Cardinals assinilated yesterday has broken their spirit and that the Yanks will breeze into the championship.

The edge, he believes, now belongs to the Yankees.

"My statement that when our club started to hit we'd start to win seems to have come true," Huggins said. "I look to see the boys keep the hitting up in the next two or three games. If they do, we can't miss winning the championship. I shall send Herb Pennock at them tomorrow. He is right after a good rest since beating the Cardinals in New York last Saturday. He held them to three hits in that game. I look ofr him to repeat."

Ruth whistled a snatch from "Bye Bye Blackbird" while climbing into his street clothes. The other players soon joined in the whistling. The Bambino was as happy as a boy. He was proud of his performance of smacking out three home runs, a feat never before equalled in a world's serics.

Someone called attention to the third homer, saying that it travelled a record-breaking distance of nearly 600 feet.

"Boy, that was a darling," Ruth proudly exclaimed. His face broke into a huge grin.

The Babe was so busy autographing the three balls he hit for homers and other balls shoved at him that he was unable to get any farther in dressing than pulling on his underwear. Ruth wrote his signature on the three balls, labelling them number one, number two and number three in the order in which they were hit.

In the Cardinal dressing room it was like a morgue. The players dressed in silence. Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinal pilot, was off in a corner by himself. Bill Killefer, his righthand man, dressed quickly and hurried out.

Hornsby had no excuse to offer except to say that it was a badly pitched ball game. He was referring to Reinhart, who went in at the start of the fourth inning and walked four and was touched for a two bagger before he was yanked.

"The only thing I can say is to admit that it was a badly pitched game," Hornsby explained. "Reinhart usually has wonderful control. Something was wrong with him in there today. He didn't have a thing.

"The Cardinals played good ball otherwise. We were on even terms with the Yankees in hitting. In fielding we were sharper. It was a tough break for Douthit and Hafey to come together. I consider our club lucky that both of them were not seriously hurt.

"That licking we got won't disturb us. We are hardened to defeats and are not discouraged. Didn't Cincinnati knock us out of the league leadership right at the end of the season and didn't we come back.

"Well, we'll come back tomorrow. I expect to pitch Alexander or Sherdel. Alexander came through for us last Sunday. He also put us back in the race after Cincinnati stopped us, and beat the Reds after resting only three days."

DENS PARKERS STILL UNBEATEN

Dundee and Aberdeen Tied in Race For First Place.

RANGERS LEAD.

TORONTO, Oct. 7 — The Dens Parkers are the only unbeaten team in both sections of the Scottish League and it is a long long time since Dundee and Aberdeen were cheek-by-jowl challenging seriously the superiority of the west. Rangers only hold the lead by the skin of their teeth. Dundee are in second place, two points behind but have a game in which to square matters. Aberdeen who are holding down the third peg are equal in points with the Taysiders but have played nine games to Dundees eight. Nor are St. Mirren out of the hunt although the Paisley players have given an impression of wobbling at times. Celtic are on the fifth rung but may come away with the usual rush. The Edinburgh clubs are not flattering their supporters but there is more to be thankful for at Tynecastle than at Easter road. The championship of the second division is within the grasp of at least half a dozen clubs. Armadale and East Stirling share the first place but only two points separate the first seven clubs.

Unity and West York will stage the semi-final of the Maccabees Cup at Oakwood and Earnscliffe on Saturday at 4 p.m.

RUTH SETS NEW SERIES RECORDS

Statisticians Place Seven New World Series Records on Books.

ACCOUNTS FOR SIX.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 7 (Canadian Press).—Seven new world's series records were put on the books yesterday by statisticians, who found that going as tough in yesterday's game as did the Cardinal pitching corps.

1—Most homers for one game, three; breaking former mark of two held jointly by Harry Hooper of Red Sox; Benny Kautt of Giants, and Ruth.

2—Most homers, total series, seven; breaking old record of six, set by Goose Goslin in 1924 and 1925. Ruth hit one homer in 1921 and three in 1923.

3—Most total bases in one game, 12; breaking mark of nine set up by Hooper in 1915.

4—Most extra bases, one game, nine; breaking former record of six held jointly by Ruth, Kauff and Hooper.

5—Most runs, one game, four; breaking record first made by Mike Donlin with Giants in 1905 and equalled by many others.

6—Most extra bases, total series, 27; breaking Ruth's own previous mark of 18.

The seventh and final record for one club's total bases in a single game was set by the Yankees, whose 14 hits totalled for 28 bases, eclipsing the mark of 27 made by the Giants in 1921.

DELORO WINS ONTARIO HONORS BY DEFEATING BRIDGEBURG 9 TO 4

Captures Intermediate Championship at Alexandra Park, Oshawa, on Wednesday.

CALLED IN 8TH.

Both Teams Well Supported By Fans at Final Game.

OSHAWA, Ont., October 7. (Special.) — Deloro secured the Intermediate championship of Ontario at Alexandra Park, Oshawa, on Wednesday, when they defeated Bridgeburg by the score of 9-4. Umpire Hett called the game at the end of Bridgeburgh's eighth owing to darkness. Deloro and Bridgeburg were supported by large contingents of fans who gave of their loudest vocal powers throughout the game.

Bridgeburg batted first, facing Shea who was on the mound for the Smelters. Fraser singled; Atwood singled, advancing Fraser to second. Young singled, filling bases. Upper out in foul ball. Russell forced Fraser at plate. Williamson popped to first. Williamson opened the pitching for Bridgeburg. Bond out on foul. Brown singled. Ralph struck out on the second innings. Graham and Howe fanned. Kavanagh out at first, retiring the side. A. Quinn struck out; J. Quinn singled; Regan fanned. Hughes out at first.

In the third Fraser popped to second Atwood to first taking second on baulk. Young out on foul. Upper walked. Russell fanned.

In Deloro's half, Shea singled. Bond popped out. Jack singled. Brown out at first. Ralph out at first.

In the fourth Williamson fanned. Graham got a three bagger, Howe fanned; Kavanagh doubled scoring Graham and reached third on overthrow. Fraser out at first. Deloro tied in their half. A. Quinn fanned. J. Quinn out at first; Regan tripled. Hughes doubled, scoring Regan; Shea struck out.

In the fifth Atwood flied to left field; Young walked; Upper forced Young at centre; Russell fanned. Deloro added three runs in their half. Bond fanned; Jack doubled; Brown with a lovely triple scored Jack. Benner here replaced Williamson. Ralph fanned; A. Quinn walked; J. Quinn stole second; J. Quinn singled scoring Brown and A. Quinn. Regan struck out.

In the sixth Shultz replaced Ralph in right field. Benner fanned; Graham out on foul. Howe tripled; Kavanagh walked and stole second; Fraser out at first.

Bridgeburgh in the seventh tied the score. Atwood singled; Young walked; Upper flied to left field; Russell fanned; Benner's triple scored Atwood and Young; Graham doubled scoring Benner. Leal replaced Shea on mound; Shea replacing Bond in centre field. Howe struck out.

In Deloro's half five runs were added. Brown made first on third baseman's error; Shultz walked. A. Quinn singled, forcing Brown at third. A. Quinn attempted to steal and pitcher threw ball to first in endeavoring to get him out. Through dropped balls Quinn and Shultz both scored. Regan and Hughes and J. Quinn later crossing the plate on other wild throwing.

Bridgeburg went in for the eighth time but found Leal much too good and retired beaten by 9-4.

After seven years of playing in the intermediate series of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association Manager R. A. Elliott and his Deloro Smelters of Hastings County have at last inscribed their name on the honor roll as Ontario champions having a record for 1926 that all Eastern baseball enthusiasts can look up to with pride. At the end of their league season they had a standing of 11 wins with one defeat a percentage of .917, while in the Ontario Association play-downs their record is six wins and one loss, a percentage of .857.

In the sudden death games in the group playoffs in Eastern Ontario, Deloro defeated Odessa at Belleville, 13 to 0, Port Hope at Peterboro 8 to 0, and as champions of the East were drawn against Barrie, Northern champions, and captured both ends of home and home games the first at Barrie, by 14 to 0, and the second at Deloro by 17 to 1.

Entering the finals with Bridgeburg, Western Ontario winners, Deloro lost the first game by 4 to 3, but won at home by 2 to 1, and in the sudden death fixture at Oshawa yesterday the score was Deloro 9, Bridgeburg 4. In the seven games of the O.B.A.A. elimination, Deloro scored 66 runs to their opponents' 10. As intermediate champions of Ontario their record in games played is 17 wins and two losses, for a percentage of .893.

This makes the fifth year in which teams in Eastern Ontario have won the Spalding trophy and Ontario intermediate championship, Picton, 1920 and 1921. Canadian General Electric team of Peterboro in 1922 and 1923, and Deloro in 1926. Oakville held the honor in 1924, and Godyears in 1925.

PLAYERS' SHARE BREAKS RECORD

Each Member of Winning Team Will Get $6,254 From Series.

LOSERS GET $4,168.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.)— The present world series will establish a record for players' earnings, with each member of the winning team receiving $6,254 and the losers $4,168. The players share in the receipts of the first four games only.

The previous record was in 1923, when the New York Yankees received $6,143 and the New York Giants $4,112.

THEATRE

AT THE REGENT

"SENOR DAREDEVIL" REVEALS NEW STAR.

Ken Maynard Makes Debut on First National Banner; Scores Big Success.

Something really new in "Western" pictures has arrived at the Regent Theatre, where "Senor Daredevil," a First National picture, which stars Ken Maynard with Dorothy Devore, opened last night. The first thing that strikes the reviewer, of course, is the fact that here is a new, and a real, Western star. There is a good deal of talk nowadays about "It," which is supposed, in talking about movie folk, to denote the very essential quality of screen appeal. Well, Ken Maynard has "It!" It goes without saying that he is handsome, but he also displays a great deal of acting talent, and how that boy can ride! And the stunts he does on and with a horse! We are told that he is a former circus rider, a star of the tan-bark, who has recently transferred his highly strenuous activities to the screen. Such horsemanship is a wonderful asset, but it would be nothing in the movies without the looks and smile and personality required for screen stardom. However, this young man has 'em, so welcome to you, Ken Maynard!

There is also, of course, Dorothy Devore, with whose charm we are much more familiar, and whose work is highly pleasing as Ken's mountain sweetheart, who conducts the "restauraw" in the isolated mining camp. The highly thrilling story is by Marion Jackson, and she, too, has done a good piece of work in giving a number of unusual twists to the story.

CHARMER TRIES TO STOP BLOOD

Local Healer Employed When Howard Wyatt Loses Fingers.

WORKING ON DREDGE.

Howard Wyatt, employed near Buckhorn on the dredge of the Department of Railways and Canals, lost two fingers of his right hand yesterday, and may lose others, through an accident, arising, it is thought, from a misunderstanding in the signals as to the starting of the machinery used for excavating the channel. Wyatt had his hand in the machine when it started and his hand was gripped by the cogs which severed his thumb and forefinger, and made deep incisions on the remaining digits. His plight was observed by workmates, and the machinery was reversed, permitting the withdrawal of the injured hand.

The blood flowed so copiously that it was thought Wyatt would die before the flow could be stanched. Two men who atttempted to render assistance fainted at the sight of the sanguinary stream; and recourse was had to an individual in the neighborhood who enjoys a local reputation as a charmer. This man endeavored, by his incantations to stop the bleeding, but without success.

More modern methods, however, eventually prevailed, and Wyatt was rushed to Peterborough and conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was attended by Drs. N. H. Sutton and H. M. Yelland, who dressed the wounds and who today made a fresh examination in the hope of saving the remaining fingers.

Describing the accident today, Mr. Wyatt declared he could distinctly hear the crunching of the bones as the cogs pressed down on his fingers.

Wyatt, who served four years in the army during the war, had the hand which was injured yesterday, ripped open by shrapnel in France and was in receipt of a pension for partial disability.

PITCHERS' DUEL

threw wide to Gehrig, but Gehrig touched the runner as he came into the big. O'Farrell singled off Pennock's glove, the ball bouncing to Koenig, but too late to make the throw. Thevenow sent out a fly to Combs. The Cardinals were trying the hit and run play. 0 runs, 1 hit, no errors.

New York.—Severeid sent out a fly to Holm, who made his first World's Series catch. The sky was becoming quiet overcast. Sherdel cut off a seeming hit by Pennock, catching the ball in his gloved hand. O'Farrell took Combs' short roller and threw him out. Sherdel worked a wide curve on the corners of the plate all throug the inning. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis.—Koenig threw out Sherdel at first. Holm fanned, letting a third strike float over the plate. Southworth sent up a high fly to the Babe. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Innings

New York—Koenig flied out to Hafey, hitting at a slow curve. Ruth walked. Meusel flied out to Hafey and Ruth had to race back to first. Sherdel tried to pick Ruth off first. Gehrig fanned, swinging for a third strike. Sherdel's curve made Gerhig look bad. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis.—The bleachers jeered Ruth in left field. Pennock took Hornsby's easy roller and threw him out. Bottomley got a double into left. The Babe tried to make a shoe string catch. Bottomley scored on Bell's single over Lazzeri's head. Ruth made a wonderful one hand catch of Hafey's foul over against the left field boxes. Bell out, stealing, Severeid to Koenig. One run 2 hits, no errors.

Fifth Innings

New York—Lazzeri missed a slow curve. Bell threw out Lazzeri at first. Dugan flied out to Bottomley. Severeid flied out to Hafey. Sherdel had the Yankee batters mystified by his slow curves. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis.—O'Farrel's hot grounder bounced off Koenig's mit hand for a hit. Koenig threw out Thevenow at first. O'Farrel went to second. Sherdel struck out. Holm went out, Koenig to Gehrig. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Sixth Innings

New York.—Pennock got a double to left when Hafey made a bad misjudge of his fly. Pennock was almost caught off second by a quick threw from O'Farrel, Thevenow dropping the ball. O'Farrel gets an assist on the play on Pennock. Combs walked. Koenig singled into left and Pennock scored. Combs went to second. Hornsby went to the box and talked to Sherdel. Sherdel broke a slow curve over the plate for Ruth. Sherdel kicked on this one, claiming it was a strike. He came in and talked to Umpire Dineen. Ruth went after a wide curve. Ruth fanned and the crowd was in an uproar. He swung for the third strike. O'Farrel's return throw to the pitcher struck Sherdel on one of his pitching fingers. Time was called and he went to the bench where the trainer looked it over. Hornsby also went in and took a look at it.

Hornsby went back to second base and Sherdel went back to the pitching mound, and it was announced that the first finger on his pitching hand had been bruised. Sherdel warmed up again and then resumed pitching. Meusel flied out to Southworth. Combs raced to third on the catch. Gehrig walked, the bases were filled. Sherdel kicked again, claiming the ball was a strike. Hornsby also came up to the plate but went back again. Lazzeri flied out to Southworth. Southworth had to back up against the wall to make the catch. A foot farther and it would have been a homer. One run, two hits, one error.

St. Louis.—Southworth went out to Gehrig unassisted. Combs made a fine running catch of Hornsby's long drive. Bottomley struck out, swinging for the third strike. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Innings

New York.—Dugan popped out to Bell, going after a low curve. Thevenow threw out Severeid at first. Sherdel took Pennock's hopper and tossed him out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—The crowd was chering for a rally. Bell hit a double to left, hitting the first ball pitched. Hafey flied out to Ruth. Bell scored when O'Farrell singled off Koenig's glove. It was O'Farrel's third hit. Thevenow sent up a high fly to Lazzeri. Gehrig took Sherdel's grounder and touched first. One run, two hits, no errors.

Eighth Innings

New York.—Combs singled over second. O'Farrell saved Sherdel a wild pitch. Koenig flied out to Hafey. Ruth forced Combs, Sherdel to Thevenow. Meusel lashed a liner to left that was only foul by inches. Bell threw out Meusel at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis — Holm walked, the fourth pitch being outside. Southworth forced Holm, Pennock to Lazzeri. Hornsby hit into a double play, Lazzeri to Koenig to Gehrig. No runs, no hits no errors.

Ninth Innings.

New York—Gehrig got a double into left field. It was a high fly that fell back of third base. Lazzeri up. Strike one called. Lazzeri claimed he did not swing at the ball and Manager Huggins made a protest at the plate. Huggins protested vigorously but it availed him nothing. Lazzeri bunted safely. Gehrig going to third. Dugan up. When Dugan came to the plate he was withdrawn, Paschal taking his place. Gehrig scored on Paschal's Texas League to centre. Lazzeri stopped at second. Severeid forced Lazzeri, O'Farrel to Bell. Paschal went to second. Pennock forced Severeid, Thevenow to Hornsby. Paschal went to third. Hornsby threw out Combs. One run, three hits, no errors.

The rest of the game will be bulletined at The Examiner Office.

Three important intersectional contests are included in the University of Missouri football schedule. Southern Methodist University and Tulane University will be met in the new Missouri stadium and for the third intersectional engagement the Tigers will battle the University of West Virginia at Morgantown.

Stocks Register Decline With Very Light Trading

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—Trading was very light on the standard mining exchange today with only 201,341 shares dealt in. Market was weaker, with declines in many issues. Argonaut Consolidated was down 1-4, with 13,700 shares dealt it. Barry Holly registered two point decline, Kirkland Lake was down 1-2 and McIntyre was 25 cents lower at 24.00. Dome Mines, one of the few higher stocks, was strong at 990, up twenty cents. Castle Trethewey up 2 and Can Lorrain up one were also dealt in fairly heavily. There was no change in the balance of the list.

English Market Stronger Wheat Price Advances

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.— (Canadian Press.)— Helped by unlooked for upturns in the quotations at Liverpool the wheat market here averaged higher to-day during the early dealings. Wet weather reports from Canada tended also to lift values. Opening unchanged to 1-2 up wheat reacted a little and then advanced all around to well above yesterday's finish. Corn and oats were easy, corn starting 1-8 to 3-8 cents off and subsequently continuing to sag.

Provisions showed strength.

General Advance Features Very Slow Market

TORONTO, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press).—Price changes were general on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, almost all issues showing a slight rise. Busines was slow, the market being featureless. International Nickel was the market leader, this issue touching a high of 35 7-8 and closing at 35 3-4, up 1-2. B.C. Fishing was up 1-8 at 72, Canadian Canners up 1-4 at 66, Massey Harris Common up 3-4 at 68, with Preferred unchanged at 101. Winnipeg Railway was up 1-2 at 57 1-4. Brazilian was weaker, this isue closing at 116 1-4, down 1-4. Balance of list was unchanged.

General Motor Decline Public Utilities Weak

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (Canadian Press)—Further weakness developed in today's stock market. Encouraged by continuance of easy money rates and favorable trade news, operators for the rise endeavored to rally the list at the opening and succeeded in marking up a number of issues one to seven points. The rally again failed to hold, however, and was followed by energetic bear selling of motors and public utilities which eventually undermined the general list and sent prices crashing two to ten points below their earlier high levels.

One of the interesting features of to-day's session was the sudden weakness of Public Utilities which started with selling of North American Company, and then spread to American Waterworks and other popular issues in that group. General Motors was again offered in tremendous volume, breaking from 165 to around 156, while Dupont cracked from 339 to 329.

Extreme declines of four points or more also were recorded by "Nickle Plate," common, United States Industrial Alcohol, and United States' Cast Iron Pipe. About a dozen issues collapsed to new low levels, including Electric Refrigerator, Atlantic Gulf and West Indies Preferred and Elec. Power and Light.

THE SULTAN'S CURSE

By MILTON BRONNER,
NEA Service Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 7. — "Sultan Abdul Hamid the Second is dead, but his evil eye is still working!"

Throughout Turkey the superstitious village sages are shaking their heads. Enver Pasha, Talaat Pasha, Djavid Bey, Nazim Bey, Nail Bey, Hilme Bey—

As predicted 20 years ago, nearly every one of the Young Turk leaders who toppled "Abdul the Damned" from his blood-stained throne has come to an evil end.

Two Assassinated.

Enver Pasha was slain by Bolsheviks in 1921. Talaat Pasha was assassinated. Now four others have been hanged as ringleaders of a new plot against Mustapha Kemal, President of the Turkish Republic. Fate has come full cycle.

Always the Turks have believed in the evil eye of their evil tyrant. When he held sway in Turkey, great statesmen "sickened" mysteriously, died, or disappeared. Abdul's "evil eye," folks said.

After he played Christian power against Christian power in 1896, and "got away" with massacres of Christian Armenians, "Abdul the Assassin' they called him.

When the bold Young Turks made him prisoner in 1909, local soothsayers were prompt to predict an evil end for the adventurers. And they have come true.

Brilliant Enver Pasha, son of Abdul's cook and scullion in his kitchen, went to Berlin as military attache, turned Pro-German, drew Turkey into the World War, ruled as triumvir until peace came, then fled back to Berlin under a charge of stealing public moneys. Bolsheviks killed him in the Caucasus.

Talaat Pasha, another war dictator, who as Grand Vizier of Turkey approved the post-war Armenian massacres, was assassinated in Berlin by an Armenian in revenge. He, too, had fled with war spoils.

Now the evil eye has fallen upon Djavid, Nazim, Nail and Hilme. Djavid had been Minister of Finance, and a famous orator. Nazim was called father of the Young Turk movement. Nail Bey also had held the nation's purse strings, with Hilme as his Deputy.

A court found them guilty of conspiring to unseat Mustapha Kemal, and the four were promptly hanged.

Raouf Bey Lives.

Only Raouf Bey remains. Ex-commander of the Turkish navy, he lives in exile in Switzerland, hourly fearing assassination. The evil eye has almost completed its work.

Mustapha Wemal, true, was a member of that conspiracy against Abdul. But he played a minor part. And he broke with the Young Turks:

Because of their plundering of the public treasury.

Because their war regime was disastrous, whereas his has been successful.

Because their party contained many able men who might challenge his power successfully.

CANADIAN LABOR PLAN IS PRAISED

Sir John Simon Tells of the Value of Conciliation Boards.

AVERT STRIKES.

LONDON, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press Cable).—Sir John Simon, M.P., speaking at the opening of the bazaar at Heckmondwike, Yorkshire, yesterday referred to the protracted trouble between the coal miners and the mine owners. He spoke appreciatively of the Canadian system of settling any industrial trouble whereby a representative of the employer and a representative of the men met as a conciliation board with a third man, appointd by the Minister of Labor, as impartial chairman.

Again and again, Sir John said lockouts and strikes had been avoided in the Dominion by this means. This method of settling differences between employer and employee had a further advantage, he added, in that it led to public opinion being impartially informed with regard to the merits of the case in question.

PROTECT CHILDREN FROM CONSUMPTION

Association Decides on That Method of Controlling Disease.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—Protection of school children and babies against tuberculosis was urged to-day as the most immediate and valuable method for controlling the ravages of that disease, by speakers at the 22nd annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. Jabez H. Elliott, of Toronto, Ont., said that the programme for the control of the disease in childhood must include the discovery and supervision of all open cases, the isolation of far advanced cases in contact with children, the examination of all children in contact with affected persons, frequent periodic re-examination of all children of school age and even of pre-school age, and adequate treatment of all physical defects in childhood. This system, he added, had reduced the tuberculosis death rate among the children in Toronto from 240 per 100,000 to as low as 67 per 100,000.

FIRST MEETING OF MUSIC CLUB

Large Attendance at Inauguration of Women's Music Club.

FINE PROGRAMME.

The inauguration meeting of the Peterborough Women's Music Club, held yesterday afternoon in the studio at the Conservatory of Music, was an extremely successful affair, attended by about eighty ladies, who were received by the president, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, Mrs. T. Gliddon, Mrs D. Walker and Mrs. Jame M[illegible]n. The rooms were prettily decorated with bowls of cosmos and wild clematis, and afternoon tea was served at the conclusion of a brief address by the president, the reading of the constitution by the secretary, Mrs. G. E. Porter, and a pleasant musical programme, which included instrumental numbers by Miss E. Webber and Miss I. McKee, and vocal solos by Miss G. Collins, accompanied by Miss A. Logan.

In a pleasing short speech, Mrs. Allan spoke of the evolution of the Peterborough Women's Music Club from the organization known as the Morning Musicale Society and alluded to the influence of music as being most potent in every aspect of life. "Music can soothe the savage breast and it can also lift the tired foot. For quickening the pace of progress and precipitating the march of victory there is no more potent force than music.

Mrs. Allan spoke of the undignified way in which the National Anthem was rendered in "movie shows" and thought it would be well to see if such conditions could be remedied. She also referred to the aim of the new organization in wishing to carry on into the larger society the atmosphere of friendliness helpfulness and charitableness which had characterized the working of the smaller organization from which it is evolved and asked for the co-operation of its member in its development and furtherance.

Reference was made to the projected formation of a Glee Club to be in charge of Miss Mabel Clarry the three musical evenings which are being planned for the season and the recital to be given by Miss Agnes Logan on November 5th for which Mrs. Allan bespoke the hearty and enthusiastic patronage of the members.

Mrs. G. E. Porter then read the constitution of the society and outlined its aims as follows: To create and sustain a love of good music, to study musical literature; to encourage worthy local talent, and to present if possible, visiting artists.

The projected programme of the society includes, three musical evenings, with the presentation of the Toronto Conservatory Trio, of Miss Betty Jackson, mezzo soprano, of Hamilton, and her mother, Madame Shirley Jackson, also the appearance, if possible, of Madame Jean Dusseau, soprano of Toronto, and a series of afternoon events which will be made interesting in the study of Slav and French, Scandinavian and German, British, American and Canadian composers, also an afternoon of Scotch folk music and a special Christmas programme.

TEA AND SALE.

Ladies' Auxiliary of Y.M.C A. Holds Successful Function.

A delightful tea and sale of home-made cooking was held yesterday afternoon in the reading-room of the Young Men's Christian Association, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. G. H. Roper, and Mrs. J. J. Turner. Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle acted as treasurer. The decorations were particularly lovely, and excited much favorable comment. They were arranged by Mrs. Roper and Mrs. D. Jordan, and were carried out with a profusion of autumn leaves. The pretty colorings of the leaves were accented on the table which was done in tulle of two shades, gold over American Beauty red, with salvia and autumn leaves in silver vases. Tea was poured by Mrs. M. A. Morrison and Mrs. C. D. Carver, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Brown, Mrs. H. Foote, Mrs. D. Jordan, Mrs. T. Barrie and Mrs. E. F. Mason. During the afternoon, vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. H. F. Doig, accompanied by Miss Gwen Donley, and Mrs. Ford Turner, accompanied by Miss Muriel Bridge. A sale of home-made cooking was in charge of Mrs. J. Garbutt, Mrs. F. A. Gray and Mrs. D. A. Loomis.

WEDDING BELLS.

GAIGER—BURN.
COBOURG, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—A marriage of more than usual interest took place in St. Peter's church here on Monday afternoon, when Catherine May Florence, daughter of Mrs. Burn, King street, and the late William David Burn, banker of Cobourg, was married to Joseph May Gaiger, of the Dominion Bank staff, Huntsville, son of Mrs. Gaiger, of Miami, Florida, and the late Joseph Gaiger, Southsea, England. The church was beautifully decorated by the bride's girl friends. The ushers were: Mr. Lionel Virien and Mr. E. W. Bickle, Cobourg. Miss K. Warner played the wedding music and Miss Freda Stanbury, Toronto, sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Among those present from out-of-town were: Dr. and Mrs. Stanbury and Miss Freda Stanbury, Toronto, Mrs. C. W. Kerr and Miss Grace Kerr, Toronto.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, was unattended. She wore a most becoming gown of sand georgette, trimmed with brocaded satin, shoes and stockings to match, and brown hat and fox fur. She carried pink roses and lilies of the valley.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's brother, Major D. W. Burn, West King street. Almost eighty guests were present, and the rooms were charmingly decorated. A buffet luncheon was served.

Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gaiger left for western points. They will reside at Huntsville. The bride has been much feted with a number of teas, bridges and showers given in her honor.

McCARNEY—KEMP.
The marriage took place at half-past six o'clock this morning, in the Sacred Heart Church, of Helen Pearl, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp, to Mr. John Graham McCarney, son of Mrs. C. McCarney and the late W. J. McCarney. The brother of the bridegroom, Rev. C. McCarney, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Father Maloney.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Jack Kemp, wore a coat of grey needle-point trimmed with mole, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Grace Primeau, wore a rosewood coat and hat and carried columbia roses. Mr. Vincent Killoran of Toronto acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarney left later for a trip to Montreal. On their return, they will reside in Peterborough.

IN MEMORIAM.
In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. M. Smith, late of Ottawa died in Detroit, October 7, 1925.

IN MEMORIAM.
In loving memory of Roy Dawson, who passed away Sept. 28:
Just as the sun was sinking in the west,
Just as the day prepared to take its rest,
"Hark" comes a whisper on the evening clear
And 'low' a flower is plucked from our garden her...
A flower precious in our Master's sight
Grown in innoceney without a blight
He saw it fit to deck his home above
He called him only in the depth of love.
We know dear friends the shock is hard to bear,
We try but all in vain your grief to share,
We stop and whisper, "Lord thy will be done,"
Help us to meet him in that heavenly home.
A home above where all is peace and rest
A home among the sacred and the blest,
Where sorrow and where grief is there unknown
When all is gathered 'round this blessed throne.
We sorrow not as those without a hope
While through this world of sin and grief we grope
Look up and see our beacon over there
It whispers "Love," it also says "prepare."
—Verses Written By His Aunt, Mrs. P. Barnard.

IN MEMORIAM
SAUNDERS—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Winnie, who fell asleep, October 7th, 1925.
At home in the beautiful mountains of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some day, some time, when our work is done,
And silently sinks the western sun
With joy we shall meet her there.
—Sadly missed by Mother, Dad, sisters and brother.

BALDWIN SAYS LOCARNO PACT AND GERMANY'S LEAGUE ENTRY BRITISH DIPLOMATIC TRIUMPH

Premier Praises Chamberlain For His Work in Negotiations.

ADDRESSES PARTY.

Society Needs Trade Unions He Says, Speaking on Resolution.

SCARBOROUGH, England, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press). — Premier Baldwin, addressing a mass meeting last night in connection with the Conservative party conference, alluded to Germany's entry into the League of Nations, and the ratification of the Locarno pact as a signal triumph for British diplomacy, and a great achievement on the part of Sir Austen Chamberlain.

The Prime Minister referred to the difficulties in China as on a fair way to solution. Then, turning to the industrial troubles, he declared that the general strike and coal strike were largely the inevitable result of tendencies which had appeared in Greaet Britain before the war. On the subject of the Trade Union law, Mr. Baldwin said that recent events made it necessary to re-examine the existing law. Collective bargaining was still a necessity to society, which needed trade unions.

"You cannot smash the trade union system," he went on, "and if you could, it would be wrong to do it—the country is greater than the masters of industry or the leaders of trade unions.

"The difficulty we have to solve is to reconcile the rights of men in a combination, and the rights of the individual in full relation to the wider community. To the resolution you passed, the Government will give prompt and careful consideration, and as soon as we have completed our examination of the subject we shall prepare a bill and proceed with it in Parliament."

CUSTOMS PROBE SITS OCT. 15TH

Rumored That Commission Will Have First Sitting in Toronto.

BORDER NEXT.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—Sittings of the enlarged royal commission investigating the customs department, will be resumed on Monday, October 25. This was announced yesterday by W. D. Euler minister of customs. While the minister gave no indication of where the commission would sit first, information received her is that it will probably meet in Toronto. The Toronto sitting will it is expected, be followed by others at border points in Ontario, and then the commission will likely go west.

The commission, as enlarged by the present government, now consists of Sir Francois Lemieux, chairman; Hon. J. T. Brown of Saskatchewan, and Hon. W. H. Wright of Ontario. Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., and R. L. Calder, K.C., are the commission counsel. The latter acted as counsel for the parliamentary committee which investigated administration of the customs department during the last session of parliament.

Restive Team Bothers Customer At Local Shop

A team of restive horses gave a driver from the rural concessions, whose equipment did not include one of the weights prescribed by the city by-law for standing horses, no small amount of trouble when he sought to make a purchase from a store on George street this morning. Basket in hand, the teamster stood on the sidewalk until he attracted the attention of one of the assistants in the store, who hurried outside, took the basket and order, went inside, weighed the goods and brought out a well filled basket to the waiting driver.

Mother and Baby Escape Climbing Down Water Pipe

LONDON, Oct. 8. — The West End of London got a thrill yesterday when a mother carrying her child in her arms made a melodramatic escape from the top floor of an apartment house.

A great crowd watched Mrs. Mary Fowler save herself and baby from the flames by clambering down the outside of the house on a water pipe, then making her way along a neighboring roof and down a skylight. Firemen were forced to lift their hose pipes to permit her to pass under the jets of water while making her perilous descent. The onlookers raised a loud cheer when Mrs. Fowler reached safety.

FAIR DATES SET BY COMMITTEE

Dressed Fowl Fair Will Be Held December 8 and 9.

150 TONS OBJECTIVE.

At a meeting held in the office of the Chamber of Commerce, attended by Alderman Roland Denne, representing the City Council; H. W. Cressman of the Retail Merchants' Association; F. L. Roy, Chamber of Commerce; W. Stewart, Poultry Association; F. C. McCrae, Norwood, and F. H. Buker, Brockville, representing respectively the Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture, and F. G. Stinson, Secretary, it was decided after reading correspondence from other localities regarding fair dates, to hold the Peterboro Dressed Fowl Fair on Wednesday and Thursday, December 8 and 9, which dates avoid conflict with other poultry fairs in Eastern Ontario.

It was suggested that all the smaller towns and villages within a radius of 30 miles be circularized with the object of getting co-operation in the endeavor to reach the objective of the committee — 150 tons of fowl. Alderman Denne intimated that the City Council had passed a draft of $75 towards the cost of advertising and promoting the Fair. It was also decided to have a full page of matter in the prize list book of the Poultry Association. Commencing shortly, a series of Saturday demonstrations of killing and dry plucking will be held in the Market Hall.

In recognition of the past service rendered to community efforts by the Peterboro Examiner, it was decided to ask A. M. Glover, managing director of the Examiner Publishing Company, to join the committee meetings if the committee will be held with the Retail Merchants' Association, and all interested parties with the object of enlisting for the Fair the fullest possible measure of support.

It was mentioned that many small communities in Ontario have been surprisingly successful with dressed poultry fairs, one small town of 3,500 population, during a two-day fair, reaching the 150-ton mark, representing a cash value of over $70,000.

CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS POWERS OF GOVERNORS

Issue Likely To Be Raised at Imperial Conference in London.

UNOFFICIAL UMPIRE.

Free State To Demand Removal of Anomalies Regarding Position.

LONDON, Oct. 8 (United Press). —It seems now inevitable that in spite of determined efforts to keep it out of the discussion, the question of what the future powers of Governor-General of Canada should be, and what precedents they should follow in the event of a recurrence of the situation which arose when Premier Mackenzie King asked for dissolution, will be raised at the forthcoming Imperial Conference.

The Irish Free State is the latest to announce that it will demand what Desmond Fitzgerald calls "the removal of anomalies regarding the position of a Governor-General," though what this means exactly he does not make very clear, while it is also anticipated that Mackenzie King is certain to raise the issue.

Decide on Advisability.

It is believed, however, that all Dominion Premiers will discuss beforehand privately, the advisability or otherwise of starting such a discussion, because it is thought that both Australia and New Zealand would prefer to leave it alone.

If the issue is raised the discussion will not only deal with the powers of Governor-Generals but also whether such officials should be of the same nationality as the country in which they exercise their powers.

Canadian Governor.

It is known that Mackenzie King leans favorably toward the idea that some day a Canadian may become Governor-General of Canada, but the attitude of the British Government is that the time is not yet ripe for such a departure from established precedent. In all these discussions the voice of Canada will be most influential, because in the alignment of forces representative of the conference, Australia and New Zealand will be on one side, with the Free State and South Africa on the other, and Canada holding the post of unofficial umpire.

Observers here believe that the conference will do a great deal to clear the air and bring ideas up to date, thus enabling the new Ministry of the Dominions, which has been created since the last conference, better able to feel the pulse and sentiment of the Dominions, over which it exercises its friendly guardianship.

WITHDRAWAL OF 'SAFETIES' LEFT TO DISTRICTS

Conference Recommends That Welsh Resolution Be Adopted.

SPENCER SUSPENDED.

Negotiatior of District Agreement in Nottinghamshire Punished.

LONDON, October 8. Canadian Press. — The miners' delegates' conference to-day decided to refer the South Wales resolution calling the safety workers out of mines to the various districts for ratification.

At the conclusion of the conference A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' Federation, said that the South Wales resolutions would go to the districts with a recommendation that it be adopted, the conference having already decided in favor of such a policy. The miners' executive will meet next Thursday to act on the districts' decision.

Withdrawal of the "safeties" in support of the striking miners would lead to the flooding of many coal pits, and other serious damage. As these men operate the pumps and otherwise care for the pits during the miners' absence.

In the conference this morning George A. Spencer, Laborite M. P., for Nottinghamshire and mine leader, who negotiated the pit settlements and arranged for the men to return to work in that area, was summoned to explain his position.

He gave a lengthy explanation but was suspended. Several other Nottingham delegates were expelled in connection with the action in Spencer's case.

SOON TO BETTER BOAT SERVICE TO WEST INDIES

Department of Trade and Commerce To Consider Companies' Tenders.

MAY BE DIVIDED.

Islands Becoming Restive Over Delay of Government's Action.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—The department of trade and commerce is getting ready to deal with the tenders for the improved steamship service to the West Indies, which is called for by the trade treaty ratified at the last session of parliament. A better class of boats, more frequent sailings and more ports to call are contemplated.

Owing to the political upheaval last summer, the matter has been hanging fire for some months, and there are evidences of the island governments becoming restive over the delay.

Tenders Received.

Tenders were invited last spring, and several proposals were received, including tenders from the Royal Mail Steamship Company, which previously was subsidized, and the Canadian merchant marine. The bids were never made public, nor was any action taken upon them by the King or Meighen governments. The Royal Mail Company, which, without subsidy, continued a modified service, cut out calls to a number of islands, but an arrangement was made with it by the Meighen government to restore these services.

It is now intimated that in the immediate future the tenders submitted last summer will be dealt with. They are said to conform to the specifications. Possibly the service will be divided between competing lines.

New York Policemen Safe When Patrolling City— Girl Who Kissed Four Goes To Jail For 30 Days

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(United News.)—New York City's finest and best looking policeman can once more parade their beats unaccompanied by their wives, for Mary Jones, a 27 year old model with an uncontrollable weakness, has been sentenced to thirty days in the work house.

Mary pleaded guilty to a charge of kissing a policeman.

She told the court that when she saw Patrolman John J. O'Connor standing on a corner in all the splendor of his well fitted uniform she just lost control of herself. "When I don't drink, I don't do those things," added Mary, turning large eyes on the magistrate, "and I'm through drinking."

But finger prints were taken and showed that Mary had a record—she had been arrested four times before for kissing policemen.

45 BABIES ENTERED FOR KIWANIS SHOW

Lists Are Still Open For Additional Entries.

The Baby Show, which will be held in the Armouries on next Wednesday, during the week of Kiwanis exhibition, will certainly be a pronounced success and excel both in quantity and quality. Already forty-five babies have been entered, each one worthy of a prize.

In order to insure the best of care four trained nurses will be in attendance and equipment has been loaned by the Babies' Clinic for the afternoon, through the kindness of Dr. Birnie.

The lists are still open and entries can be made at the drug store of F. C. Weber, on Charlotte street, Bond's drug store, on George street, or at the store of H. LeBrun and Co., on George street.

The judging will be done by out-of town doctors who will be perfectly impartial. It is well worth the time and effort of any fond mother to bring her baby and have it judged, even if it does not win a prize.

The show is under the direction of Kiwanian W. S. Merill, who certainly deserves to be congratulated upon the success he has thus far achieved.

Class 1 railroads of the United States spend in the neighborhood of $200,000,000 annually for forest products, and thus constitute the market for about 2 per cent of the country's lumber production.

SOME FINE PRIZES FOR KIWANIS FAIR

Local People Make Donations To Be Given at Show.

There will be some beautiful, useful, and attractive prizes offered during the week of the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition. Something will be given every night of the show, and special prizes will be given on Saturday, the closing night.

Some of the prizes are as follows:

Ton of coal, donated by H. B. Taylor and Son.

Side of bacon, donated by Canadian Packing Co.

Special lamp, donated by A. Comstock and Sons.

Automobile rug, donated by B. F. Ackerman, Son and Co.

Big Ben clock, donated by Westclox Co.

Donations have also been received from the following:

G. N. Gordon, $10.00.
John I. Allen, $5.00.
C. D. Cook, $5.00.
Gilgour & Sons, a birthday cake.

WRECK EATING HOUSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. — "I's on the fire," the old gag used to soothe the impatient diner didn't get over with James O'Hara and Patrick Harley. The third time the waiter told them their order was "on the fire" one seized a nearby plate of ham and eggs and flung it at the waiter. A few chairs and other things followed, wrecking the restaurant and plate glass window.

RUSSO-BRITISH TRADE TREATY IS DENOUNCED

Conservative Conference Urges Termination Because of "Breaches"

SOVIET AN ENEMY.

Increased Production and Higher Wages Needed, Says Premier.

SCARBOROUGH, England, Oct. 8 (United Press).—The Conservative party conference ended to-day after all phases of Radicalism had been denounced in resolutions or from the platform.

To-day the delegations adopted a resolution urging the termination of the Russo-British trade and diplomatic agreement and the immediate closure of all Soviet agencies in Great Britain. The foreign personnel should be compelled to return to Russia, the delegates decided.

The solution emphasized the alarming continuance of subversive propaganda in Great Britain and the Soviet agents' "flagrant breaches" of the agreement.

Sir William Bull, M.P., who moved the resolution, said the Soviet Government had openly declared itself the enemy of Great Britain. James Gardner of Stockton-on-Tees said that all Russian Communists were "blood-suckers, who were at the bottom of all British industrial disputes of the last three years."

Another resolution stated the opinion of the delegates that any general strike was unconstitutional and treasonable, and that the participants in such a strike should be prosecuted by criminal indictment or by a bill of impeachment.

Increased production and higher wages comprised the problem now before Great Britain, Premier Baldwin told the meeting.

The Premier did not refer to the miners' resolution to withdraw the safety men at the pits, but he said: "Those who caused the general strike as well as the coal strike learned their theories abroad."

The stoppage had necessitated new laws with respect to trade unions, but the system of collective bargaining, he said, was still necessary to society.

$150 Postage On a Parcel Sets Record For Air Mail

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—What is believed to be a new record for high postage paid on a single parcel was established here last night, when a package was sent from Philadelphia to San Francisco by air mail carrying $150 in stamps.

Postal regulations prohibited local clerks divulging any description of the package, its contents, or recipient but the parcel was nearly covered with canceled $5 stamps. The air mail postage across the continent is $4 a pound.

The package went to New York and thence by plane westward.

Washington Proposed As British National Hero

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—(United Press). — George Washington should be one of Great Britain's national heroes, according to Prof. David Vaughn of the Boston University. Speaking here, Prof. Vaughn declared the rebellion of the American colonies jarred England out of her lethargic conservatism, set her an example of practical democracy and started her on her way to world dominion.

The time would come, he thought, when the United States would come to the side of England, Australia and Canada in an alliance of English-speaking people in defense and support of the principles of liberty and democracy.

RAINBOW RAILWAYS

Asks All European Continental Countries To Call Official Conference.

SEEKS BRITISH AID.

Favors a World Assembly on Commerce and Tariffs.

VIENNA, Oct. 8—The first Pan-European Congress closed yesterday, adopting all the resolutions of its committees and the manifesto appealing to all European Governments to call an official Pan-European conference to consider the problem of continental union and to prepare for its consummation. The manifesto also urged the League of Nations to favor a Pan-Europe as the surest guaranty of peace and appealed especially to the women to help heal the wounds of war and to direct the youth of Europe to struggle for a new era.

Many gestures of and tributes to Franco-German reconciliation, for which the Congress's platform served as a stage, came to a climax this morning, when a French ex-Minister of Education, Delbos, expressed warm agreement with German ex-Chancellor Wirths speech on Sunday, with representatives of the German and French and then of the Polish and German youth movements embracing and pledging Pan-European collaboration.

The French Minister to Austria, M. de Beaumarchais invited the leading members of the Congress to luncheon at the Legation yesterday, including the German Minister, Count Hugo von Lerchenfeld, former ex-Premier of Bavaria.

FORMER KAISER MAY END DAYS IN NATIVE LAND

Agreement For Return of Property Contains Enabling Clause.

CASTLE RESERVED.

He and Wife May Return To Live at Homberg Castle.

BERLIN, October 8. — United Press. — Former Kaiser William II. and his wife may be permitted to spend the rest of their lives in Germany by the agreement recently concluded between the Hohenzollern family and Prussia, political leaders declare.

A compact arranging for compensation to the Hohenzollerns for seized lands and for the return to them of certain estates on which palaces are located has been approved by both the Prussian government and representatives of the ex-Kaiser. It now awaits approval by the Prussian Diet.

A section of the agreement reads as follows:

"The state puts at the disposal of the erstwhile reigning king, William II., if he desires, the castle park at Homberg on Der Hoehe as his and wife's domicile during their lifetime."

Oppose Return.

BERLIN, October 8 (Canadian Press).—Liberal and Radical party leaders of Prussia indicated to-day that they would fight the clause in the new Hohenzollern indemity and settlement bill envisaging the possible return of the former Kaiser to Germany.

The clause reads: "Allowing for his former Majesty's eventual wishes, the State places the Castle of Homburg at the disposal of the ex-Kaiser and his Princess wife, for life."

"That," says the Liberal Morgen Post, "means nothing more or less than that William, if he is inclined, can return to Germany." The clause certainly sounds suspicious in view of William's recent Sub Rosa Monarchistic activities.

"The Crown Prince has violated the conditions of his return to Germany by attempting to get his son into the Reichswehr. What guarantee have we that the Kaiser, if allowed to return, will not attempt to overthrow the Republic?"

FINE DISPLAY AT EXHIBITION

Committee Has Secured Exhibits of Wide Variety of Products.

CANADIAN MADE.

Mr. S. A. Parson, ex-President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, a leading son of Canada, will be surprised beyond expectation when he enters the Armouries after performing the opening ceremony on Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock.

Many tributes will be paid to the excellence of produced-in-Canada commodities, by the thousands of people who visit the Exhibition all next week. The Kiwanis Club has worked hard to furnish variety of manufactured goods and those who visit the exhibits who might well be directed into two classes—those who demand the goods and those who supply them —will find sufficient variety to furnish their minds with thought for days to come. One cannot help feeling a glow of satisfaction and justifiable pride in this great country.

Are we doing our bit towards making Canada a great nation and helping to fill the coffers of the country by boosting "produced-in-Canada" goods?

Help Kiwanis of Peterborough to make their exhibition a record breaker in attendance.

Bamboo As Pulpwood To Make White Paper

BOMBAY, Oct. 8 (Associated Press).—Forest research experts in India have discovered how to use bamboo as pulpwood in the manufacture of white paper. The process, it is announced, has been perfected after 15 years' experimenting by the Forest Research Institute and College, at Dehra Dun.

The authorities say that by the new process India will soon be in a position to supply the paper demands of a large part of the world.

Extensive plans for the erection of pulp mills and paper factories are being fostered by the Governments in India.

MELVILLE WOOD NOT TO BLAME FOR BOY'S DEATH

Coroner's Jury Brings in Verdict of Accidental Death.

WITNESSES HEARD.

Coroner Condemns Practice of Coasting Down Hill.

Accidental death was the verdict of the jury at the inquest into the death of Roy Dawson, who was killed near Bailieboro on Tuesday, September 28, when a car in which he was riding home from school and driven by a chum, Melville Wood, hit some loose sand and rolled into the ditch at the foot of a hill.

Many Relatives Present.

The inquest was held on Tuesday night in the Forester's Hall, Bailieboro, and there was a large attendance of the villagers, including many relatives of both the deceased boy as well as Melville Wood, the driver of the car. Dr. Aldrich, of Port Hope, presided, and the Crown was represented by Archie Cochrane, acting Crown Attorney, while Provincial Constable Fewtrell, of Cobourg, was also present. J. N. Greenaway, of Port Hope, was constable.

The jury empannelled was as follows: Edmund Dawson, foreman; Harold Dawson, Walker Barnard, Wilbur Barnard, Hector Jewison, Harry Barnard, W. Gillott and Thomas Ingram. Most of the jurymen were relatives of both the deceased boy, and also of Melville Wood, the driver of the car, Walker Barnard being the deceased boy's grandfather, while the other Barnards are either uncles or cousins.

Driver's Evidence.

The first witness called was Melville Wood, who stated that he met Roy Dawson in the village and that Dawson asked him to drive him home. He had waited until the boy had come from school and they had set out for home, but when they got about half a mile from their home, Dawson found that he had forgotten his pail and a book and they went back for it.

On the return journey, when they had come to the hill a mile east of Bailieboro, Wood stated, he shut off the gas and coasted down the hill, which was not an extra steep hill and not very long. When they came to the bottom there was a lot of loose sand, and the first thing they knew was that the front wheel struck a stone in a rut. He had attempted to pull the car back and had put on his brakes and tried to get the emergency on as well. He got on his foot brake, but he failed to get the emergency. The next thing he knew was that the car had swung round and then turned over. It took one complete turn over.

He did not know what happened, but when he pulled himself out from the car he found Dawson pinned beneath the fender just where the running board meets. He tried to lift the front wheel, but failed, and shortly after help arrived and they got him out. He held that he had complete control of the car going down the hill and was not travelling fast, not over ten or twelve or fifteen miles at the most.

Wood admitted that he thought it was all right to coast down the hill, although Dr. Aldrich interjected that it was a most dangerous practice. Wood admitted that he had no license to drive the car and never had one. He had driven the car quite a bit and had it out with his father's permission. The car was ten years old and the brakes were in good condition. He knew this because he used the brakes on the way up. He had got lessons in how to drive from his father.

Father in Toronto.

Bryon Wood, father of the first witness, said that he was the owner of the car and that Melville Wood, the previous witness, was his son. He stated that his son had not got his permission to go to Bailieboro, but that he had gone for oil. The father stated that he was in Toronto that day and had not told his son to go to the village. His son had not been in the habit of going to Bailieboro by himself. The brakes of the car were in good condition as they had just been overhauled at a garage in Peterboro about a month ago.

Dr. Russel in his evidence stated that he was called to the scene of the accident, and after examining the boy, he came to the conclusion that the boy was suffering from a blow on the spine and internal injuries. Dawson was not dead when he arrived, but died some fifteen minutes afterwards.

Harry Jackson, a driver for a bread firm in Peterboro, told how he had helped to get the boy from underneath the car and of getting the doctor from Bailieboro. He also gave evidence as to the condition of the road and told of how at the foot of the hill there was much loose sand.

Driving Slow.

Ray Barnard stated that he saw the car going down the hill and that it was going slowly. He saw the car skid and go off the road, but could not tell what caused it to turn over. Harold Barnard, 16 years old, also stated that he saw the car coming down the hill and it was going slowly. Provincial Constable Fewtrell told of having taken measurements after the accident.

Dr. Aldrich in addressing the jury stated there were only two points in the evidence. It was very conclusive that an accident had happened, but the boy had no right to drive a car without a license, and that no good driver would allow his car to coast down a hill. Many people thought this method was saving gas, but is one of the most dangerous things to do.

FIRST PAN-EUROPEAN

Pan-Europe movement would end the nightmare war, said:

"The sun of a new Europe already warms the peoples of France and Germany. Dr. Wirth, in his appropriate speech, expressed the sentiments of his people. In answer I can say that Franch will hear and understand Germany. We have signed treaties but they are not enough. Words are nothing unless expressing a universal conscience. We must make a European conscience.

As a delegate from France let me express the strong will of democratic and peace loving France to cooperate for a Pan-Europe."

The Congress decided to telegraph to the French, German and Belgian Parliaments and Governments the resolution stating now the primary importance for a Pan-Europe of the Franco-German reconciliation has been recognized by several spontaneous manifestations at the Congress and hoping that this betterment of feeling between the two powers will deepen into a full understanding, serving as the base for a new united Europe.

Gesture Toward Britain and Russia

The committee on Political Affairs reported unanimously its resolution defining the attitude of Pan-Europeans toward Great Britain and Russia to be substantially as follows: Any solution of the Pan-European question must consider the close bonds uniting those powers with the rest of Europe and also their interests outside of Europe. A definite solution of the problems devolves on Russia and Great Britain themselves. As long as they remain outside of the European union the object of Pan-Europe would be close co-operation with both through the League of Nations and an Occidental and Oriental Locarno. It concludes by affirming the non-aggressive attitude of Pan-Europe toward other States and groups of States.

The resolution of the Protection of Minorities committee recommends a pan-European movement to establish a permanent commission to examine all such questions and make concrete proposals to guarantee the right of all minorities until the whole problem can be solved by the establishment of a Pan-European Union.

Asks World Economic Conference

The resolutions of the committee on Economic Questions asks the League of Nations to call an international conference on commerce and tariffs, with the European section devoted to the following continental problems:

First, regulation of the commerce of Europe on the basis of the principle of the most favored nation clause and the establishment of maximum customs duties.

Second, the development of this system of commercial treaties into a European economic community with the formation of customs unions between groups of States and of international cartels in certain industries as intermediate steps.

It pointed out the necessity for stabilizing the currencies of all nations and the desirability of equalizing the social and taxlaws of various countries which now cause the production to vary greatly.

It also wants the proposed conference to consider the problem of an European economic and customs union.

A Hungarian delegate, Professor Fodor, offered a suggestion calling attention to the need of supervising the education of each nation so as to diminsh chauvinism and the censoring of school books encouraging hate.

WEDDING BELLS.

JOHNSON—RANNIE.

BURNBRAE, October 8. — A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Rannie, Menie, at noon, on Wednesday, when their daughter Marjorie, became the bride of Mr. Carl Johnson of Burnbrae. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. D. Daniel in the presence of about thirty immediate relatives and friends.

After a sumptuous wedding luncheon the bridal party departed by motor for Barrie and other western points. As usual on such occasions the car was highly decorated by the assembled guests.

On their return the happy young couple will reside in Campbellford.

The kind regards of the whole community goes with them to their new home.

OBITUARY.

MRS. MICHAEL LONERGAN

The death occurred suddenly on Wednesday of Mrs. Michael Lonergan of 222 Perry street while attending the funeral of the late Mrs. Lawrence Lonergan, Asphodel.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, four daughter, Mrs. H. B. Carr of this city, Miss Irene of Hamilton, and Misses Mary and Lucille, Detroit, and one son, Harry of Detroit; also three sisters, Mrs. Earl Day, Gile, N.Y., Mrs. Peter Butler, Montana, and Mrs. Alec Kircaldy of this city and two brothers, Michael of Stratford and Richard of Hastings.

The funeral will take place from her late residence to the Sacred Heart Church and St. Peter's cemetery at 8:45 Saturday morning.

MARTIN BERNARD FLOOD

ENNISMORE, Oct. 8.—On Monday, October 4, Martin Bernard Flood, a very highly respected resident, passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough. The deceased, who was twenty six years of age, had been ill for two weeks. He leaves to mourn his loss, his sorrowing parents, one sister, Mary, and two brothers, Leonard and Willie. The funeral, which was largely attended, left the house Wednesday morning at nine o'clock and proceeded to St. Martin's Roman Catholic Church, where Mass was sung by Rev. Father McAuley.

The interment took place in St. Martin's Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Herb. Killen, Hubert Flood, Oswald Crowley, Norman Gannon, Willie Murphy and Willie Cavanagh.

There are about 170,000 men and States.

LITTLE GIRL KILLED.

CREEMORE, Ont., Oct. 8—Field day sports in connection with the schools here were suddenly brought to a close when Isabel, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Cooksey, fell in front of a large auto owned and driven by J. C. Jackson, ex-Reeve of this village. The front wheel passed over the child's chest, death taking place six hours later.

Mr. Jackson was taking an active part in the capacity of starter at the sports, and was going to the opposite end of the course to start a girls' race. A large crowd was around the car, but gave way when it was started. The Cooksey child, however, was hit by the fender and fell forward unseen by the driver.

THE NIGHT SCHOOLS.

The re-opening of the local night schools is an event that should not pass unnoticed by Peterboro's young people.

Through these classes is furnished an opportunity to ambitious workers to fit themselves for efficient service and promotion in their work or business.

There is much offered by the night schools that would be valuable to many local people who have the leisure hours to devote to the classes, and who should be willing to make the slight sacrifice entailed for the sake of the benefits that would follow.

Those who find themselves suffering from a handicap through insufficient early school or who require more technical training for progress in their trade or occupation, should by all means investigate what the night schools have to offer.

There must be many whose opportunities would be enlarged and improved by one of the courses given, and it is to be hoped that the chance will not be thrown away by those who need it the most.

NOT A ONE-MAN JOB.

It might be just as well if all the people throughout Canada who are expecting Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, to do some drastic taxation slashing when he presents his next Budget would only realize that Mr. Robb is merely a Cabinet Minister—not a magician.

Thus if the revenue is to be decreased by tax slashing there will have to be less spending.

In other words, people who are sincere in wanting taxes reduced will have to co-operate in making it possible for the Government to economize.

That co-operation cannot be expressed in terms of deputations urging Federal expenditure for parochial purposes.

Constituencies which clamor for appropriations for wharves and public buildings—most of them unnecessary—have no right to expect tax reductions.

In short, cutting down the burden of taxation is not a one-man job—it's the nation's business, and everybody who is sincere about it should be anxious to help.

THE RADIO CLUB.

The newly organized Peterboro Radio Club starts out with the nucleus of a most enthusiastic membership, a fine set of officers and every prospect of success.

Radio is the new leveller; it offers advantages that are not despised by the wealthiest citizen and are yet within reach of those not nearly so well endowed with a share of this world's goods.

Through its magic great events are brought within the portals of humble homes.

The listener-in may never see Atlantic City, but he can hear the music on the million dollar pier; he never expects to visit New York, but from its famous hotels are wafted the strains of celebrated orchestras; a championship fight is far from being a possibility so far as his physical presence is concerned, but through his radio set he can follow the battle in detail.

It is because the radio can bring so much that it is essential that it shall be heard at its best.

Hence the Peterboro Radio Club, to which every set-owner in Peterboro should be glad to belong.

If co-operative endeavour at a cost per member that will not be a burden upon any listener-in in the city can improve conditions—and there is every reason to believe that it can—the advantage of a one hundred per cent. membership can be seen by everybody.

BETTER BECAUSE THEY'RE CANADIAN.

The Examiner has no hesitation in commending the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition in the Armouries next week to the patronage of the people of Peterboro.

And this for three reasons:

(1) It will be excellent entertainment and of real educational value.

(2) It should create a new interest in Canadian-made goods and a new demand for Canadian products.

(3) It will supply funds for the carrying on of the splendid activities of the Kiwanis Club.

Any one of these three reasons is enough to justify the Exhibition; and the second one is perhaps as important as any, inasmuch as worth-while results for everyone will be obtained by a more general use of Canadian-made articles.

In this connection the new trade slogan of the General Motors, Oshawa, should meet with popular approval.

"Better because it's Canadian" is a motto that means something.

It represents a new angle to Canadian manufacturing—a confidence in Canadian workmanship that is refreshing.

It is a bold stand that The Examiner would like to see taken by other manufacturers—a stand that tells the world that articles made in Canada are not merely as good as those produced elsewhere. They're better because they are Canadian.

We want more of that spirit in this country.

PEOPLE WHO EXCEL.

An American sports editor advances the opinion that there are ten thousand young Americans who, if they were trained, could whip either Dempsey or Tunney. We doubt it. And the reason is that in boxing, as in all other orbits of achievement, there is always somebody who, through some superior capacity for co-ordinating mind with muscle, or because of some gift, can reach greater heights than all others.

Take golf, as an illustration. There must be, on the American continent, 100,000 people playing golf. Thousands of them are young men, perfect physical specimens, striving for the best. Yet how many of them can match mashies with a Walter Hagen, or a Bobby Jones? Or take tennis. Tens of thousands of young men, and women, play tennis. All of them, presumably, play their best. Some of them devote half their time to it. Yet there is only one Tilden.

There must be thousands of girls playing tennis who are just as perfect physically as Suzanne Lenglen. Yet Suzanne has not lost a tennis set since 1918. She is no stronger than thousands of others, probably no greater mentally, but, for some indefinably reason, she is incomparable with a racquet. And it is thus in tennis, everywhere. A Lacoste and a Borotra in France; a Tilden and a Richards in America; a Patterson and an O'Hara Wood in Australia—always two or three above all others.

So in other spheres of effort. A Sullivan, a Corbett, or a Tunney in boxing; a Hobbs in cricket; a "Red" Grange in football; a Shakespeare or a Milton or a Dante in literature; a Lloyd George on the platform; a Henry Ford in commerce; a Sir John Simon in law—in every age, in all callings, the highest and the lowest, there have always been some few, and always are some few, who have done or who can do some one thing better than all others.

Why this is so, it is not easy to say. Concentration, or indomitable will, co-operation of mind and muscle, brain power, courage, stamina—all these are factors. But the question that remains is, why should a few people be seemingly gifted with these things in excess of all others?—Ottawa Journal.

MICHIGAN UNDER BRITAIN.

To make a historical volume dealing largely with the establishment and operation of law and law courts attractive and interesting to the law mind demands in the writer a special gift. It calls for the possession and exercise in a high degree of the literary faculty, the ability to present a subject simply and illuminatingly and free from the disturbing diction which, while readily enough understood by the student or the professional man, repels the average reader. Mr. Justice Riddell of the Supreme Court of Ontario has admirably accomplished that task in his latest published work, "Michigan Under British Rule."

This volume is a distinct contribution to the historical literature of the Dominion, and covers exhaustively, in its own domain, a most interesting period in Canadian annals, but it enjoys the added merit of appealing to the public by its pleasing style and the lucidity of its arrangement.

In his historical outline of British rule in Michigan Mr. Justice Riddell guides his reader through six distinct periods of legal jurisdiction from 1760 to 1796, at which date the territory was handed over to the United States under the erms of the treaty of 1783. During the first period, from 1760 to 1763, subsequent to the French capitulation and before the Treaty of Paris was signed, the territory naturally came under martial law, and was administered from the posts or forts scattered over the region. When the necessity for military rule had disappeared the Government at London was confronted with the task of providing regulations for the administration of the vast district it had acquired. Two matters of primary importance demanded immediate consideration: security against aggression from without and the preservation of tranquillity against Indian disturbances. It was decided by the British Government that the great territory which then embraced Michigan should remain, for a time at least, undisturbed by settlement and continue as a hunting land for the native peoples. In dealing with this period Mr. Justice Riddell quotes from a statement by the British Secretary of State which shows how even at that time the British Government was solicitous for the rights of the Indians. In referring to the need for the preservation of tranquillity, the Secretary says:

> Tho' in order to succeed effectually in this Point it may become necessary to erect some Forts in the Indian Country with their Consent, yet His Majesty's Justice and Moderation inclines Him to adopt the more eligible Method of conciliating the Minds of the Indians by the Mildness of His Government, by protecting their Persons and Property and securing to them all the Possessions, Rights and Privileges they have hitherto enjoyed, and are entitled to, most cautiously guarding against Any Invasion or Occupation of their Hunting Lands, the Possession of which is to be acquired by Fair Purchase only.

In 1774 the territory was placed under the criminal laws of England, and in civil matters under the old French-Canadian law, and so remained till 1792, when English law, civil and criminal, was established. There is a wealth of information in the volume, apart from that regarding the system of administration and the establishment of the courts, which will be found of great value to the student, and of fascinating interest to the ordinary reader. In fact, it is a book which has every assurance of attaining wide popularity—and which deserves it.—The Globe.

IF YOU USE SLANG

If you use slang, and are called upon to defend yourself, you may find material for defense in the following description of slang, taken from "A Dictionary of Slang and Colloquial English:"

"A slang expression, like anickname, may be used for the purpose of concealing the meaning from uninitiated hearers, or it may be employed sportively or out of aversion to dignity or formality of speech. The essential point is that it does not, like the words of ordinary language, originate in the desire to be understood.

"The slang word is not invented or used because it is in any respect better than the accepted term, but because it is different. No doubt, it may accidentally happen that a word which originates as slang is superior in expressiveness to its regular synonym (much as a nickname may identify a person better than his name does), or that in time it develops a shade of meaning which the ordinary language cannot convey. But when such a word comes to be used mainly on account of its intrinsic worth, and not because it is a wrong word, it is already ceasing to be slang."

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—Prospects of a new stretch of bad weather handicapping the movement of the Canadian crop sent wheat values upward yesterday. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1 to 1 1-2c net higher; corn 1-8c to 1-4c down; oats unchanged to a shade advance, and provisions varying from 45c decline to a rise of 27 cents.

Much of the buying in the wheat market here was ascribed to a Winnipeg exporter, and the effect on trade sentiment was increased by a sharp advance in prices at Winnipeg.

Relative strength of the Liverpool market was also a bullish factor. Meanwhile reports of rain in parts of Canada were supplemented by a forecast of additional moisture and of general unsettled conditions. Word that offerings at Liverpool lacked volume tended also to strengthen prices.

It was commented on as rather illuminating that Russian wheat shipments for the week amounted to only 608,000 bushels, against 2,072,000 bushels a year ago, notwithstanding that Russian predictions of late have pointed to likelihood of a heavy movement. Another circumstance which attracted considerable notice was that the opening price here yesterday for December delivery proved to be virtually identical with opening quotations a year ago, as well as with Wednesday night's final figures, almost a perfect triple parallel.

Corn was weak in spite of wheat strength. Country sales of old corn to arrive here were estimated at more than 170,000 bushels. Besides, weather throughout the corn belt was of a gengrally promising kind.

Provisions displayed irregularity, meats being weak, whereas lard showed strength. Hog cholera reports yesterday covered a widening area and indicated that the outbreak has been the most serious which the corn belt has witnessed in years.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts 15,000; fed steers and yearling trade practically demoralized; range grassers around 25c off; stockers and feeders steady; top yearlings $12; medium weight $11; heavy steers $10.50; she stock steady to 25c lower; bulk to packers $15 down; most stockers and feeders $6.50 to $7.50.

Hog receipts 21,000; mostly 15 to 25c lower than Wednesday's average; packing sows 25 to 50c lower at close; top $14.05; bulk 160 to 200 pounds $13 to $13.75; 210 to 280 pound butchers $13.50 to $13.90; good 400 pound weights down to $12; most strong weight slaughter pigs $11.75 to $12.25; light weights around $11; bulk packing sows $11.25 to $12; shippers took 4,000; estimated holdover 8,000.

Sheep receipts 24,000; fat lambs closing 15 to 25c higher than Wednesday; top rangers $14.60; bulk $14 to $14.25; packer top $14.50; bulk $14 to $14.25; sheep steady to strong; bulk desirable fat ewes $6 to $6.75; top $7; feeding lambs steady at $13 to $13.50 mostly; choice feeders held late around $13.75.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—A feature of the export grain trade here yesterday was the increased demand from Canadian and United States exporters for ocean grain room for November loading and an active business was done. This created a stronger feeling and rates to the Continent for heavy grain were advanced 2 to 3 cents per hundred pounds with Hamburg at 23c, and Antwerp and Rotterdam at 22c, while to some United Kingdom ports they were marked up 3d to 6d per quarter, London being quoted at 4s 6d, and Hull at 6s.

The export business in grain was again inactive, there being little demand from foreign buyers and in consequence trade on spot was slow. The tone of the market for Canadian Western grades of oats was stronger and prices were advanced 1-2c to 1 cent per bushel.

Owing to the renewed strength in the Canadian cash wheat market, a firmer feeling prevailed in the local market for Spring wheat grades of flour, but values showed no change. The export trade was quiet, but the local and country demand was fair.

Prices for all grades of Winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under a small enquiry.

A fair volume of business was transacted in all lines of millfeed and prices ruled steady. Standard grades of rolled oats were firm under a small demand.

The potato trade continued quiet but prices were unchanged. Car lots of New Brunswick Cobblers were quoted at $1.30 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.00 per bag of 90 pounds.

The tone of the market for beans was steady with a small trade passing. Car lots of choice white handpicked sold at $2.40 per bag, and broken lots at $2.50 to $2.60 per bushel.

The egg market was moderately active and prices for storage and fresh grades were firm. The receipts were 1,012 cases.

Owing to the indifferent demand from all sources, a weaker feeling again developed in the butter market and prices were reduced another 1-2c per pound. The receipts were 1,669 packages.

Extreme dullness again marked the cheese trade and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 4,053 boxes.

PROPER WAY TO ESTIMATE VALUE CENTRES BOARD

Railway Commissioners Further Discuss Bell Telephone Company's Rate Application.

SETTING UP EXTRA.

To Figure It Out On Basis of Cost of Reproduction.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—Interest in the proceedings before the Board of Railway Commissioners in the Bell Telephone Company application for increased rates yesterday afternoon centred around the contention of A. I. Peterson, the company's expert appraiser, that the proper way to estimate value of plant was to figure it out on a basis of cost of reproduction—that is, the amount it would cost to construct the entirely new plant from the ground up. To this witness claimed an item of 10 per cent. should be added to cover what he termed cost of "setting up" the business, training the staff securing a clientile, etc. Inasmuch as the total value of plant was appraised at $134,000,000, the 10 per cent. item to be added as cost of setting up business would be thirteen and a half million dollars.

Counsel made strenuous objection to this line of deduction, claiming it was wholly theoretical and that no actual experience could be produced to support the contention. The point aroused considerable discussion in which practically all the commissioners took active part. In the course of the argument witness admitted the calculation was entirely based on his opinion and judgment, and one commissioner added that he was personally "at sea" in reaching a conclusion, and upon the evidence before the court there was little to guide the board to a satisfactory conclusion.

Judge Phippen, counsel for the company, interposed with the remark that this difficulty was not a new one. It had occupied the attention of the court on many occasions, and it would be dealt with later in argument when he believed the difficulties which now confronted the board would be removed.

R. A. Read, counsel for the Ontario Government, proceeded to quote a few cases of those referred to by Judge Phippen, but Assistant Deputy Commissioner Vie pointed out that all that could be dealt with in argument later.

A few days ago counsel opposing the application suggested that due economy had not been exercised in recent years in the matter of salaries paid to the higher officials of the company. By request of the Board Judge Phippen undertook to furnish a statement showing the comparative figures as between 1921 and 1925, and at the afternoon session yesterday that statement was filed.

It showed that at the end of 1921 there were 51 employees on the company's pay roll drawing $5,000 or more with aggregate salaries amounting to $328,680, or 32 cents per station. At the end of last year the number was reduced to 50, but the salaries totalled $392,790. Though the extension of the company's territory reduced the average station cost to 67 cents so that while the percentage increase was 19.5, the decrease per station was 18.3.

Other statistics submitted showed that from January 1, 1922, to December 31, 1925, the number of stations had increased 47.2 per cent., the gross additions to plant increased 187.7 per cent., total telephone expenses showed 29.3 per cent. increase, while salaries in the same period had only increased 22 per cent.

LAWYERS FIGHT OVER HANDLING WOMAN'S DRESS

District Attorney Calls Attention To Treatment Given Garment.

'KIDNAPPING' CASE.

Desert Authority Says Woman Couldn't Have Walked Across Desert.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8—"Would it be possible for a woman thirty-five years old, to undergo the suffering claimed by this defendant, and then walk twenty miles across a burning desert without water, and not show signs of exhaustion?"

"Nobody could do it."

That is the boiled-down testimony of Alonzon B. Murchison, veteran desert tracker and cow-boy, yesterday, star witness in the Aimee Semple McPherson criminal conspiracy hearing.

Murchison, the Douglas, Ariz., sergeant of police, who had charge of attempting to trace the path of Mrs. McPherson through the desert from her alleged "kidnap shack" to the little Mexican town of Agua Prieta. Murchison told of twenty-six years of driving over the desert as cowboy, tracker and peace officer.

Then the prosecutor framed a hypothetical question of 900 words, the condensed version of which has been given here. While defense Attorney Gilbert stormed and attempted in every way to disqualify the witness, Murchison testified that in his opinion it would have been physically impossible for Mrs. McPherson to accomplish the feat.

Near Exchange of Blows

District Attorney Keyes and Defence Attorney Gilbert came near an exchange of blows when the prosecutor introduced the clothing worn by the evangelist when she reappeared at Agua Prieta. Keyes called attention to the clean condition of the apparel and the lack of perspiration stains. At this juncture the defence attorney laid the gingham dress, which formed the evangelist's outer garment, on the counsel table. Water slopped from a pitcher dotted the table.

"I want this sort of thing stopped," he yelled at Gilbert. "This dress has been dropped on the floor several times here in court and now it is laid down in a pool of water. I want to call attention to this."

The attorneys, both red-faced with anger, screamed back and forth at each other across the table, until Judge Blake ruled that the dress should be returned to the court clerk as soon as possible and that care must be taken not to change its condition.

Queen of Rumania Sticks To Originality in Choosing Costumes

HAS OWN IDEAS.

PARIS, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press). — Queen Marie of Rumania has bobbed hair, but she will not wear short skirts. Also she is sticking to her custom of showing originality in choosing her costumes for her trip to Canada and the United States.

The Queen has been adamant to the entreaties of the high priests of fashion that she accept, without alteration, their modes, and they are fearful lest the great publicity given her views as to dress may have an effect upon their styles for the season and upset all their calculations.

Own Ideas.

Marie insists on injecting her own ideas into most of the costumes she is ordering. Princess Ileana accompanies her mother on all her shopping expeditions, which on Wednesday kept them on the go from morning until night.

Prince Nicholas, however, seems to have forgotten all about purchasing neckties, collars and other things needed for the trip across the Atlantic. He is absorbed in his passion for automobiles and spends most of his time in the showrooms of the leading makes of cars.

Charm School Gives Wives "New Ten Commandments"

BOSTON, Oct. 8 (United Press). — Ten commandments for the successful wife were laid down at the first session of a real "charm school" here.

Mrs. Elizabeth MacDonald, home-making authority, is conducting a school at Boston University. Some 70 married women have registered for the course, which is designed to teach them how to become even "better halves."

The instructor's ten antidotes for the perils of propinquity are:

1—Be orderly.
2—Don't be neat.
3—Teach your husband to enjoy his home.
4—Be efficient enough to have plenty of leisure.
5—Learn to relax.
6—Do your work sitting down.
7—Wear an afternoon dress, not an apron, when husband comes home.
8—Don't do unnecessary work in the evening.
9—Keep your house peaceful.
10—Do not scold your husband when he drops ashes on the rug.

MISSION BAND HOLDS MEETING

Decided To Hold Bazaar in December—Church Services.

ROSENEATH NEWS.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 8. — The King's Mission Band held its regular meeting on Saturday afternoon in the old Presbyterian church, and was well attended. The president, Mrs. (Rev.) Lovelace, conducted the meeting. It was moved by Joy Morrison, seconded by Jessie Mouncey, that the Mission Band hold a bazaar in the town hall on December 11th. A missionary story was read by Mrs. R. Crego and was most interesting. Lavine McMillan then sang, "Jesus bids Us Shine" and Beatrice Lovelace recited. "Saving For Jesus." Joy Morrison sang "Into a tent where a Gypsy boy lay." The programme was much enjoyed by those present and closed by singing a hymn, "When He Cometh," followed by Lord's Prayer in Unison.

Rev. Charles Emmory of Toronto conducted the service in St. James' Anglican church on Sunday afternoon. Rev. Emmory expressed appreciation of the opportunity given him to visit this community and to see the surrounding country. He spoke of the work of God and the love we owe to Him for His goodness and mercy. "When we know Christ spiritual life is ours. He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour, that being justified by His grace we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life."

The re-decoration of the United church is completed. This is a well designed church and lends itself to the magnificent interior decoration. The color scheme is unique, inasmuch as the interior is sufficient in strength of character to carry out a bold and sturdy treatment. The scheme of color is composed of cream, buff and brown. The large frieze around the upper walls and around the panels is of brown. The panels between the windows are of buff and look very artistic. The ceiling is much improved also the pulpit. Chairs, seats, etc are greatly improved by a good coat of varnish. Four up-to-date lamps have been installed.

Altogether this church interior is one of the finest in Ontario in its decorative character and is among few that could be so treated. It posesses dignity, restfulness, and a richness in the coloring effect produced. The architecture is good and decorations so assist the architectural designs that the whole is superb.

Mr. Houghtian of Harwood was the decorator, and his work is neat and the general effect is wonderful. The United church of Roseneath is something to be proud of and its remodelling has made a wonderful improvement.

The morning and evening services were largely attended and many visitors were present. Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D., secretary of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, of Toronto, was the speaker and delivered two earnest and comprehensive sermons. He took for his morning lesson Philippians, 2nd chapter, verse 9: "Wherefore God hath highly exalted him and given him a name which is above every name." In the evening Dr. Moore took for his text Proverbs 29th chapter, verse 18: 'Where there is no vision, the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

Special music was rendered by the choir for the occasion, under the supervision of the organist, Mrs. Lily Turner. In the morning the choir sung two anthems, "Great King of Glory" and "Who are these in Bright Array", also a solo, "The Song I Heard in Heaven" by Mr. Wilfrid Davey. The anthems in the evening were, "Thanksgiving and Praise" and after the sermon the choir rendered "O Give Thanks Unto the Lord." Mr. Roger Parks gave a solo, "Eventide." All these pieces blended fittingly for the occasion. A thankoffering was taken at both services which amounted to $486.00.

Miss Nellie Thackeray of Cobourg is visiting relatives in the vicinity. Mrs. King formerly Miss Fox, is guest of Mrs. Archie Campbell.

W.M.S. is to meet at Fenella on Tuesday afternoon October 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen of Warkworth were in the village on Sunday, guests of her sister, Mrs. G. A. Dawe.

Anniversary services will be held in the United church at Fenella on Sunday, October 10, when Rev. McQuade will conduct both morning and evening service.

Miss Bertha Clarke spent the week end at her home in Campbellford.

Mr. Fred Grozelle visited friends in the village on Saturday.

PROPER WAY TO ESTIMATE VALUE CENTRES BOARD

Railway Commissioners Further Discuss Bell Telephone Company's Rate Application.

SETTING UP EXTRA.

To Figure It Out On Basis of Cost of Reproduction.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—Interest in the proceedings before the Board of Railway Commissioners in the Bell Telephone Company application for increased rates yesterday afternoon centred around the contention of A. The re-decoration of the United church is completed. This is a well designed church and lends itself to the magnificent interior decoration. The color scheme is unique, inasmuch as the interior is sufficient in strength of character to carry out a bold and sturdy treatment. The scheme of color is composed of cream, buff and brown. The large frieze around the upper walls and around the panels is of brown. The panels between the windows are of buff and look very artistic. The ceiling is much improved also the pulpit. Chairs, seats, etc are greatly improved by a good coat of varnish. Four up-to-date lamps have been installed.

Altogether this church interior is one of the finest in Ontario in its decorative character and is among few that could be so treated. It posesses dignity, restfulness, and a richness in the coloring effect produced. The architecture is good and decorations so assist the architectural designs that the whole is superb.

Mr. Houghtian of Harwood was the decorator, and his work is neat and the general effect is wonderful. The United church of Roseneath is something to be proud of and its remodelling has made a wonderful improvement.

The morning and evening services were largely attended and many visitors were present. Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D., secretary of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, of Toronto, was the speaker and delivered two earnest and comprehensive sermons. He took for his morning lesson Philippians, 2nd chapter, verse 9: "Wherefore God hath highly exalted him and given him a name which is above every name." In the evening Dr. Moore took for his text Proverbs 29th chapter, verse 18: 'Where there is no vision, the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

Special music was rendered by the choir for the occasion, under the supervision of the organist, Mrs. Lily Turner. In the morning the choir sung two anthems, "Great King of Glory" and "Who are these in Bright Array", also a solo, "The Song I Heard in Heaven" by Mr. Wilfrid Davey. The anthems in the evening were, "Thanksgiving and Praise" and after the sermon the choir rendered "O Give Thanks Unto the Lord." Mr. Roger Parks gave a solo, "Eventide." All these pieces blended fittingly for the occasion. A thankoffering was taken at both services which amounted to $486.00.

Miss Nellie Thackeray of Cobourg is visiting relatives in the vicinity. Mrs. King formerly Miss Fox, is guest of Mrs. Archie Campbell.

W.M.S. is to meet at Fenella on Tuesday afternoon October 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen of Warkworth were in the village on Sunday, guests of her sister, Mrs. G. A. Dawe.

Anniversary services will be held in the United church at Fenella on Sunday, October 10, when Rev. McQuade will conduct both morning and evening service.

Miss Bertha Clarke spent the week end at her home in Campbellford.

Mr. Fred Grozelle visited friends in the village on Saturday.

The Rotary Annes held a very enjoyable card party yesterday afternoon and evening in the Paragon Tea Rooms. Thirty-five tables of bridge were played, the afternoon prizes going to Mrs. J. Lee, Mrs. J. F. Strickland and Mrs. W. Sangster (consolation), and in the evening to Mrs. J. E. L. Goodwill and Dr. A. McPherson, with consolation awards to Mrs. J. A. Morgan and Mr. F. L. Roy. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. Claude Rogers, Mrs. J. H. Seels and Mrs. C. G. Graham. The table, arranged with a filet lace cloth, yellow candles in silver holders and a silver basket of pink gladioli, was presided over by Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. R. G. Kingan, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Seels, Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Mrs. M. Comstock, Mrs. P. Westbye, Mrs. G. H. Thompson, and Mrs. G. D. McClelland. Mrs. Gerald Wood and Mrs. Graham acted as convenors of the Entertainment Committee, and Mrs. T. Buchanan and Mrs. Thos. Barrie of the Refreshment Committee.

Mrs. G. H. Giroux, Stewart Street, was hostess last evening at a very pleasant bridge party, when the members of the Nonpareil Bridge Club were entertained by her in honor of Mrs. J. P. Finn, who is leaving the city shortly to reside in Ottawa. Mrs. Finn, who has been a popular member of the club, was presented with a pair of handsome silver candlesticks and candles. The prize for bridge was won by Mrs. J. R. Corkery.

REVIVAL MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Rev. D. J. Davies Preaches To Large Gathering at Tabernacle.

"And he brought him to Jesus." This was the text Rev. D. J. Davies, well-known Welsh evangelist, used last night in Bethany Tabernacle to bring the Gospel message to the goodly number gathered.

Mr. Davies said: "That's why I read and study the Bible, to learn how to better bring men to Jesus." The text relates to Andrew, who, after coming to Jesus, went and found his brother, Simon Peter. "And he brought him to Jesus," John i., 42. Finding implies seeking, and these two words are always found together in Scripture.

The speaker compared Andrew and Peter, the first two brothers in the New Testament, to Cain and Abel, the first two of the Old Testament. Cain said in answering the Lord, "Am I my brother's keeper?" God puts the responsibility upon Cain. But seeing Jesus, Andrew feels it and he went and found his brother.

Rev. Davies laid strong emphasis upon the responsibility Christians bear in getting men to Jesus Christ the Saviour.

The speaker pointed out that Jesus knew Peter and knew all about him too. "Oh what a comfort to have it revealed to us in the Word of God that Jesus knows us, and knew us before He undertook to take us through to eternal life and is able in every event."

Rev. Mr. Davies thrilled his hearers with an account of God's intervention in a meeting in Wales when he was called to fill an evangelistic appointment of a great English preacher who had taken suddenly sick in Cardiff, Wales. Mr. Davies took this to illustrate that God knows every situation and loves to step in and help when men believe Him.

In the preaching, singing and in the prayers there is certain evidence of the presence of the Lord in these meetings. In prayer and in faith, God's people are expecting a downpour of spiritual blessing and the salvation of many through Christ.

Rev. Davies began this afternoon a series of meditations on the subject of "The Power of the Holy Spirit," taken from the life of Elisha, II. Kings ii. These will cover the afternoon meetings all next week.

Service to-night at 8 o'clock. There will be no preaching on Saturday evening, but the Christians will gather at 8 o'clock for prayer.

Mr. Davies will speak on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and at 7 in the evening.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist, in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1926.

(Copyright, 1926, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as an unfortunate day since Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune are all in malefic aspect.

This is a rule under which it is wise to transact as little business as possible, since many mistakes of judgment and policy may be expected.

It is not an auspicious rule for women who will find that they have not yet won equality in a man's world.

This is most unlucky for love affairs, making for quarrels, deceptions and ill-will.

Weddings that take place today are subject to influence that tend to bring many untoward experiences, which can be prevented by extreme care.

There is a sign presaging national indignation regarding the prevalence of crime and the lack of law enforcement. Many newspaper sensations.

Domestic differences may be easily caused today, especially when money matters are discussed. The family budget should be ignored until a more kindly configuration prevails.

One of the reform movements foreshadowed by the stars indicates financial provision for wives in the shape of definite income for their share of work in building up community, property.

Rumors of new and serious international differences of a serious nature regarding money settlements may be expected, the seers announce.

New mineral discoveries that will add to the wealth of Great Britain are foretold.

Unrest in Mexico is attributed by astrologers to the effects of aspects of the final of the total eclipse of the Sun last January.

A European power is to have troubles which concern the ports of China, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful to avoid all forms of speculation in the coming year.

Children born on this day may be too much inclined to put faith in visionary plans. These subjects of Libra should be educated to follow a practical vocation.

ONE THIN WOMAN GAINED 10 POUNDS IN 20 DAYS

Skinny Men Can Do The Same

All weak men and women.
All nervous men and women.
All skinny men and women.

Can grow stronger, healthier and more vigorous and take on solid needed flesh in 30 days just by taking McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets four times a day—sugar coated and easy to take as candy.

And what a hit these flesh producing tablets have made. One druggist tripled his sales in one week.

Everybody knows that from the livers of the humble codfish comes a first class vitamine that is a wonderful vitalizer, flesh producer and health creator.

Millions of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets are sold every week and thousands of frail run-down underweight people are being helped.

A box of 60 tablets for 60 cents and if any skinny man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days — money back. Ask McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch, Boyd's Drug Store, or any druggist.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine and don't forget there is nothing on earth so good to make backward, listless, underweight children grow strong and robust.

HER OWN WAY A GIRL of TODAY

JOHN'S CHANCE

I was having all I could do to keep my feet upon the floor. I was afraid that John Meredith would in some way get his iron shoe entangled in something and we would both go down. But he seemed to have the strength of two men. Slowly but surely he forged ahead, holding me safely in his arms. When he reached a breathing space he turned and called to Jerry, who was a little way behind fighting frightened men like a demon. "Hathaway," he called, "bring my sister over here. My secretary and I will care for her and Judy. You, then, can give all your care to Miss Riley."

I was proud of John. He looked indeed what he had proclaimed himself—a god—he towered above the crouching men, and as they came near me in their frenzied intent to get out, he felled them to the floor as calmly as though they were nine pins and then with one arm about me he would reach down and pull the m up, cowed and ready to do his bidding.

I did not know there were so many people in the restaurant. The room seemed jammed. I learned afterward that all those from the kitchen as well as from the private dining room, had rushed in at the first explosion.

Jerry and John's secretary fought themselves up to where we were standing with the girls safely in their care. John pushed them in front of him. "Make a flying wedge," he said, "and I will tackle anyone who tries to get within your guard."

By a wonderful exhibition of strength John began pushing me ahead of him as rapidly as possible, but I noticed with great pride that he never jeopardized any other man or woman in his anxiety to get me out.

Volumes of smoke from somewhere began clouding the air. It seemed to me that fate was laughing at our flight. John found time to bend down to where my head was lying on his breast and say: "Judy, darling, this is the most triumphant moment of my life. I am carrying, actually carrying to safety, just as any other man would, the woman I love. It makes no difference if I have a crippled arm and foot, if my other arm and foot are strong enough to do the work. And they will be, Judy, don't you be afraid."

"I am not afraid, John. I know if it be humanly possible for anyone to get me out of here you will do it and if—"

"Don't say it, Judy, don't say it. In just a minute more we'll be outside. Jerry and my sister have just passed through the door."

There was another ripping report and one of the gorgeous glass chandeliers, which for years had been one of the advertisements for the Beaux Arts, came crashing down upon us.

It's a queer thing, but afterward, I remembered that at the first ominous cracking. I cast my eyes upward and saw that great mass of glass balls and heavy prisms breaking away from the ceiling.

Involuntarily I screamed. I felt myself borne swiftly to the floor as though someone had struck me down, and knew no more.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

A strange combination is formed by today's talismanic and natal gems. The former is the bloodstone while the latter is the turquoise. Good and evil are cleverly balanced by this combination. Ancient legend reads into it the belief that riches will be acquired by the coming of distressing news. The riches will consist of land, houses and abundant crops, so said the ancients. The turquoise is believed to protect these possessions from loss by fire or flood. It is also a talisman against unwise investments, and is believed to have a restraining influence against those possessed by the gambling madness.

Green is today's lucky color.

The yellow daisy is the lucky flower for today. It protects from evil, the home which it adorns.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and their families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism and gout.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the dangerous poisons are leaving your system through the natural channels Rheuma should please you in a day, and make you hopeful of quick recovery in a week or money refunded.

Rheuma acts on the blood, stomach and liver, and must quickly bring long prayed for comfort to distressed sufferers or money back. McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere sell it with this guarantee.

ESKIMO WOMAN FREED BY JURY

Not Guilty of Murder Is Verdict—Slew Husband To Save Child

MAN WAS INSANE.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—How a little Eskimo woman fought to death with her demented husband on a lonely Labrador island, of which they and their children were the sole inhabitants, and how the wife and mother, when put to the supreme test, her own body broken and bruised in the struggle, did not hesitate to use knife and gun to kill the man she had taken in Christian marriage in order that her children might be saved from his insane rage, was told in the Supreme Court here yesterday when Julienne Tuttu was acquitted by a jury of the murder last June of her husband, Ephraim Tuttu, on the Island of Kijuksoatilik, near Hopedale, Labrador.

The woman wept during the hearing, but answered all questions readily and showed the court how she had wielded the knife with her fast ebbing strength when it seemed her children were to be the next victims of her crazed husband.

She told how her husband had suddenly become demented and said he would wipe out the family. He started by shooting the dogs, and when his hands were raised in a terrible struggle to take the life of their infant child, she grasped a sheath knife and plunged it into his body, then took the rifle and sent the contents into him as he lay on the floor.

Chinese General's Tooth Wins Safety For Doctors

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8 (Canadian Press). — An aching tooth in the head of General Chiang, commanding the Canton forces in China, and the skill of two of the medical staff of Yale in China in extracting it, have done much to assure protection for the property of that institution.

This was made known in a statement by President Edward P. Hume of Yale in China in this week's issue of The Yale Alumni Weekly.

"Dr. Louise Farnan and Dr. Philip Greene of the medical staff," President Hume writes, "made a great hit by extracting an infected wisdom tooth for General Chiang himself, both earning his personal gratitude, and making it that much surer that Yale would receive all needed protection."

GAS CONSUMPTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—While natural gas has been known for over a hundred years to exist in the United States, the first incorporated gas company was not organized until 1865. In 60 years the industry has grown to a four billion dollar business, with more than 66,000 miles of pipe and serving about seventeen million people.

We Present AUTUMN

NEW ARRIVAL OF BEAUTIFUL FANCY LINENS

Just received and now on display, fine Italian, Chinese, Madeira, French and Belgium Hand-Made Lace and Embroidered Linens; also some very fine Irish and Scotch Table Cloths, Napkins and Fancy Damask Linen Towels.

Silk Frocks Make Lavish Use of Pleats

There is no telling just where you will find the pleats for they appear in the most unexpected places. Effective when lending a saucy touch to collars, they are doubly so when achieving the ever so popular irregular hemlines. Tiers, too, are good, being equally fashionable when scalloped, plain or pleated. Like the wraps the majority of smart Silk Frocks are bloused. Frocks of satin, silk crepe, cantons and moire make it hard to say which is the lovliest, for each one is distinctive in its own way.

PRICED

$19.75 to $59

Hat Crowns Rise to Smartness

Fashion is not always as kind to the short as she is to her this season. Benevolently she has decreed that crowns on the new Fall Hats shall be high—and high they are. Amusing for all their smartness are Hats whose high crowns assume cone-like proportions.

The large Hat worn during the summer appears in velvet for fall. For the woman who insists on the small snug Hat, there are pert, beret-like creations and turbans. Rich wine shades, mauve blues and browns from beige to chocolate appear in all types.

Priced $5 to $15

Fall Wraps Are Inclined Towards Blousiness

What a delight it is to find, after several beltless season's, that many of Fall's most charming wraps have their waistlines definitely designated. Below their belts which occasionally go all the way around though many appear only at the sides or in back, these wraps cling snugly to the figure. Suedelike fabrics and rich furs combine to make them enchantingly luxurious.

PRICED

$55 to $175

If you want a coat for service and real warmth you will be charmed with the shadow plaid models for they are lined with kasha and becomingly furred.

PRICED

$25 to $75

English Quotations Advance Price Of Wheat On Market

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—With quotations at Liverpool showing much more advance than had been looked for, Chicago wheat prices averaged higher to-day in early dealings. Yesterday's best buyers here, however, became sellers on the rise and gains failed to hold well.

Starting at 1-8 cent to 5-8 cent up wheat ascended little more and then sagged to below yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn opening unchanged to 1-2 cent higher and subsequently undergoing an all around decline.

Unfavorable weather conditions in Canada acted at times as bullish factor on wheat values to-day, tending to emphasize the effect of unexpected strength of Liverpool market. On the other hand, Argentine crop reports were increasingly auspicious and Australian prospects were described as magnificent.

Brazilian and Smelters Decline On Weak Market

TORONTO, Oct. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—Brazilian T. L. and P. was the feature of trading on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. Heavily dealt in, with over 2,400 shares changing hands, the issue declined abruptly, finally ending the morning session with 4 7-8 loss at 111 1-8. Consolidated Smelters was also lower, with a six point decline being registered. This issue closed at 230 3-4. The market generally was weak, declines being shown in almost all issues. Canada Bread was down one, Arnold Common 1-2 lower, although Pfd. held unchanged; Brompton was 1-2 lower, Industrial Alcohol down 1-8, International Nickle declined 1-4, as did Twin City and Winnipeg Railway. One of the few higher stocks was Brompton, this issue being 1-4 higher at 35.

Many Declines Registered On Light Trading Market

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press-.—Trading was light on the Standard Mining Exchange today, only 235,145 shares changing hands. Prices were weak and many declines were registered. Argonaut Consolidated was down 1-2 at 35, Barry Holly down 3-4 at 65, Cons. West Dome Lake down 1-4 at 22 1-4, and Dome Mines down 1 at 990. Hollinger Consolidated shared the general decline, this issue dropping 30 cents to 18.70. McIntyre was also weak, selling down at 23.70. There was little change in the balance of the list.

Cotton Estimates Increase Rate Of Call Money Raised

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press)—Extremely nervous trading characterized today's stock market, which broke sharply just before mid-day in sympathy with a decline of about $4 a bale in cotton on publication of increased government crop estimate and marking up of call money rates to five per cent coincident with calling of about $20,000,000 in loans. Prices made irregular recovery during afternoon in response to heavy week end short covering. Farm implements, fertilizer and mail order shares were offered freely on theory that they would be the first to suffer from a decrease of purchasing power in the agricultural regions. Atlantic Coast Line fell back four points. Considerable selling pressure also was exerted against some of Motors.

Canadian Dollar Falls Is Now Quoted At Par

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— After enjoying for some months a premium ranging from 1-32 to 3-16 of one per cent., Canadian dollars were back to par value in New York to-day for the first time since May 20 last.

The decline is attributed in financial circles to the delay in Canadian grain coming forward and also to the amortization of Canadian government bonds here recently, when $35,000,000 of Canadian funds had to be provided.

There was a similar depression this time last year, it was pointed out.

The difficulty in obtaining grain boats owing to the heavy movement of coal to Great Britain, where the coal miners are on strike, is understood to be holding up grain at the head of the lakes.

SLADEN RETIRING.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—Arthur F. Sladen, Governor General's secretary since 1899, is about to retire. In that capacity he has been head of the personal staff to five governors.

BOY INJURED BY MOTOR CAR

Grandson of Local Man Hurt in Toronto Street.

SKULL FRACTURED.

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—Five-year-old Ray Lumley, 87 Morse Street, son of P. C. Lumley, of the Toronto Police Department, sustained fractures of the skull and shoulder, and a nasty gash from eye to ear, last night, when he was struck down by a motor car driven by Leo Magnolia, chauffeur, 30 Morse Street, opposite his home. The lad was playing on the street at the time. As there were no eye-witnesses of the mishap, the taxi driver was not held. The boy was removed to the Hospital for Sick Children. His condition is serious.

The injured boy is a grandson of Thomas Foster, Park Street, Peterborough.

EXHIBITION PLANS NEAR COMPLETION

All Decorations For Produced-in-Canada Fair Have Been Placed

Everything is nearing completion for the big "Produced-in-Canada" Exhibition at the Armouries, under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club. The big auditorium is respelendent with all new bunting, pennants and signal flags in a rich variety of colors, as mostly used by ships in the British Navy, and the effect is very pleasing.

The gun room has been dressed up so that it now looks like a real theatre. There is ample stage accommodation at the south end of the building, completely equipped with the regulation stage curtain, etc. On this stage, the big Fashion Show will take place each evening at 8 p.m. and from present indications will outdo any previous display of this kind put on in Peterborough.

The minute one enters the Armories, he will appreiate the tremendous amount of work involved in putting on a "Produced-in-Canada" Exhibition on such a gigantic scale, and this has only been accomplished by the co-operation of the manufacturers and merchants. All that remains to make the "Produced-in-Canada" Exhibition an unqualified success is the support of the public, and when one considers the object of the work, which is to secure funds to assist the Kiwanis Club in their work of taking care of the under-privileged children, it may be expected that the citizens of Peterborough and district will make it a point to attend not only once, but often.

FINAL CABINET MEETING TO-DAY

King Leaves Ottawa To-night on Way To Empire Conference.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—Premier King meets his Cabinet this afternoon for the final council before he leaves for the Imperial Conference. A number of appointments remain to be made, and it is quite likely that Col. J. L. Ralston of Nova Scotia, will be sworn in as Minister of National Defence. Col. Ralston probably will atten the Cabinet today.

Manitoba's new Lieutenant Governor will be chosen, probably today. T. A. Burrows, who represented Dauphin in the Federal House of Commons between 1904 and 1908 spoken of as the likely successor t Sir James Aikins. There is also a similar vacancy in Ontario, and Senator Hardy has been spoken of as the new Governor of that province.

During Mr. King's absence, Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, will be acting Prime Minister. Mr. King and his party leave for Quebec by special train around midnight. Tomorrow, Mr. King and the Hon. Ernest Lapointe will be guests of honor at a luncheon given by Quebec Liberals. They sail for London on the Megantic later in the day.

WOMAN BURNED.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press) — Miss Hattie Henderson of this city was probably fatally burned today when her dress caught fire from a stove in her home. Her body is terribly burned and there is only a very slight chance for her recovery. She is still unconscious.

Her brother, for whom she keeps house, found her lying on the kitchen floor with her clothes ablaze, unconscious. He works at night and was asleep, but was awakened by her moans.

DURANT OPERATING PROFITS

A very interesting fact pertaining to the earnings of Durant Motors Inc., the United States organization, is disclosed in the announcement that the net operating profits of the Star Car Division for the month of August was $ 54,957.56, after depreciation and deduction of Federal Income Taxes.

This makes a total net operating profit of the Star Car Division for the months of June, July and August of $986,498.69.

TWO TRAINMEN ARE DROWNED

North Bay Men Lose Lives While Fishing From Canoe.

NO WITNESSES.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—W. P. Flemming and Emmett Trahan, both conductors on the Canadian Pacific Railway and residing in North Bay, were drowned in a lake near Kipawa while fishing on Wednesday, it became known here last night. Their bodies were recovered yesterday. As there were no witnesses to the drownings it is not known how they occurred.

The men, after completing their run from Mattawa to Kipawa, went to the lake to fish, as they had done many times in the past. When they failed to return a search party went out, but no trace of them was found. In the morning the party started their search again and discovered the men's upturned canoe and a fishing troll. Dragging operations were commenced at once and the bodies recovered a short while later.

Conductor Flemming was one of the older conductors on the C.P.R., having entered the service in July, 1905. Conductor Trahan became connected with the railroad in 1908.

LEGION NOTES

Last night saw the opening of the season's weekly euchre drives of the new Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League. A large number of patrons were present and spent a most enjoyable evening. Good prizes were awarded to the winners, and the committee advises that at next Wednesday's drive special prizes will be the order of the evening for the winners.

A distressing case of a comrade fallen on adversity came to the notice of the Secretary this morning. This comrade landed in Peterboro today from Sherbrooke, P. Q., looking for employment. With him he has his wife, a French lady, whom he married when serving in France, and who hails from "Nancy." She has with her three small children, all of whom are under six years of age, and the mother herself is in very delicate health. This family is destitute, with no visible means of subsistence, nowhere to go, the husband earnestly praying and seeking for some kind of employment. In the meanwhile the Secretary of the Legion has them under his care and is providing them with food, etc., and also endeavoring to get some kind of employment for the unfortunate husband. To all those of our more fortunate brethren who may read these notes and who would like to assist in this most worthy case, please phone to 141. I would especially appeal to any employer of labor who may be in need of more workers to give this comrade an opportunity to re-establish himself in a home of his own with his wife and children once more by giving him some measure of work. Work of any kind will be appreciated.

COSTS TO TEST BEARD.

NEW YORK, October 8.—It is costly to test a man's beard. Robert Flaherty, 18, found that out when he was arrested and held on a charge of assault. It was alleged he doubted the realness of the beard of Louis Goldberg, 65, and gave it a healthy pull to find out.

HALF MILLION PEOPLE STARVE

Penned Up in City of Wuchang By Cantonese Forces

POOR RELEASED.

HANKOW, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press). — Penned up more than a month before by the Red Cantonese armies besieging the city, a half million Chinese people face death by starvation, cold and gunfire in Wuchang. Large numbers of dead lie in the streets. Those remaining have eaten dogs, cats and rats and are dropping in public places or living miserably in shelters into which they have crawled.

The northern troops of Marshal Wu Pei-Fu, garrisoning the city, having been refused terms of surrender, are holding on desperately, hoping for armies of their ally, Sun Chuan Feng, to break through the Cantonese cordon.

Meanwhile, the relentless and well fed Cantonese outside the walls rest patiently on their arms, having blockaded all exits from the city, and await the time when they shall enter. What will happen then is not known.

The Cantonese have notified the defenders that next Sunday they will loose a general bombardment upon the city of misery, firing from Hanyang arsenal across the Yangtse River and pouring shells from Pagoda and elsewhere in the iron ring upon the suffering people.

A gesture of mercy has been shown. Beginning last Sunday, women and children of the impoverished classes have been permitted to pass through the gates to the river, seeking passage across to Hankow. Thirty-eight thousand have been rescued by boats bearing the emblem of the Red Cross and taken to Hankow to be cared for.

Scenes of horror are witnessed each trip of the boats. In the fight for places on the boats, several hundred have been trampled to death as the maddened hordes struggled for rescue. Many, thrown into the river, are drowned. Next Sunday, if they have not escaped, the rain of fire will pour upon them, for the gates will be closed.

Only a few miles away are the troops of Sun Shuan-Fang, ruler of the five provinces of Eastern China, trying to thrust aside the Cantonese who oppose their march to the relief of beleaguered Wu Chang. Seemingly relief must come to the Wu Chang defenders within a few days.

Southern Reds Defeated.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Westminster Gazette has the following despatch from its Shanghai correspondent:

"Messages received from Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang's chief of staff at Kiukiang indicate the general defeat of the Southern Red armies as the result of several days of severe fighting in Kiang Si Province. Tengan has been recaptured by the Northerners in spite of the fact that Chang Kai Shek, the southern generalissimo, was in personal command. He also directed the latest attacks on Nanchung which were finally beaten off by the northerners since when the southern forces have been in retreat.

"How far this victory may prove decisive my Chinese informants are unable to estimate, but it is reasonably certain that the southerners have received such a check that the position of Sun Chuan-Fang who controls the five central and eastern provinces, is reasonably safe."

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail estimates that there have been 20,000 casualties in the Cantonese army and the forces of Sun-Chuan-Fang as a consequence of the "fiercest fighting of the whole war," near Kiukiang and around Fovant Lake.

No decisive result was achieved by this fighting, according to the correspondent, who adds that the British gunboat Gnat has been ordered to Kiukiang, where there is panic due to fear that the Cantonese will break through Sun's line and capture the city. Such a possibility as the Cantonese breaking through, however, he says, appears to be remote.

REGULARS FIGHT WITH FASCISTS

Colonel Besieged in Barracks After Shooting Militia Captain.

USES MACHINE GUN.

CHISSO, Switzerland, Oct. 8.—An incident of unprecedented gravity occurred in Genoa last week, according to an uncensored report from that city.

An officer of the Fascist militia, it is stated, slapped a regular soldier, in a Genoa street, because the soldier had failed to salute him. Whether it was because of an oversight or ill will, is not known. The incident probably would have ended there had not a Colonel of the regular army happened to notice the act of the militia officer and remonstrated.

The Fascist, too excited to stand a rebuke in public, made an insulting answer and struck the Colonel in the face with his fist, saying that Premier Mussolini wanted his officers to answer that way.

"This is the way the King wants his officers to answer arrogants like you," exclaimed the Colonel. Drawing his revolver he shot the militia officer dead.

Two hundred Fascists attacked the Colonel's barracks after he had walked there. He ordered them to disperse, and said if they did not do so within 10 minutes he would open firse with machine guns. They did not disperse. At the end of 10 minutes a volley was fired from the barracks windows. Fourteen Fascists are reported to have been killed.

SECURES MONEY AS WALES' AGENT

French Police Seek Man Who Posed as British Peer.

PERPIGNANON, France, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press). — Governmental police in this district are seaerching for an internationally known confidence man, styling himself Lord Ashton and describing his mission to the Pyrenees as seeking to rent a villa for the Prince of Wales.

The man, who has told acquaintances that he was a British military attache, is believed to be of Belgian birth. He was first sought when he tried to borrow from several well known figures in Perpignanon. Later, police said, he boarded a train and succeeded in borrowing a large sum from a Spaniard. Since then he has disappeared.

Greenland, with an area of 827,300 square miles, is the largest island in the world.

TWO SCHOOL RECORDS BROKEN AT CAMPBELLFORD FIELD DAY

Ibey Clears 16 Feet 9 Inches in Senior Running Broad Jump.

BARNUM'S RECORD.

Record Breakers Win Titles of Their Respective Sections.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 8. — The annual High School Field Day, held at the Agricultural Grounds yesterday, was run off very successfully in spite of the cold weather and threatening rain.

Two school records fell by the wayside; Thornton Ibey setting up a mark of 16 feet 9 inches in the running broad jump, senior, three inches better than the former record, and Roy Barnum giving the intermediates something to shoot at when he cleared 34 feet 3 inches in the hop, step and jump. Competition was close in nearly every event.

Senior girls winners went to Mary Phillips with 19 points. Irene Dunk and J. Clydsdale were tied for second with 10 each.

Hastings girls made a clean up in the junior section; Marion Clapper, with 23 points, carrying off the championship for the second year in succession.

Reta Wilson was second with 9 points and Zetu Wilson third with 6 points.

Thornton Ibey is the senior boys' champion with 29 points. "Ted" Blute was second with 18 points, and P. Bland third 7 points.

The intermediate boy's championship went to Roy Barnum with 28 points. Others were H. Archibald, 18 points, and George Slogget 16 points.

The junior boys' title went to Stuart Anderson, 28 points. Bernard Blute had 19 points and Jack Boyd 5 points.

The Results

Senior boys, Hop, Step and Jump —1, T. Ibey, 35 feet 8 inches; 2, E. Blute; 3, S. Carr.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE YELLOW LILY

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

Hopping to the edge of the pond, where Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wibble-wobble, the duck children, often swam, the bunny gentleman looked across the top of the water. He had come to a quiet little cove, where many green leaves, broad and flat, rested on top of the water.

"This is a peaceful, restful place," said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he twinkled his pink nose. "I will sit me down here and have a little sleep. So far I have found no adventure. If I sleep I may dream of where to find one, as sometimes it is said, fairies dream of pots of gold at the end of the rainbow."

Who can that be?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

Picking out a soft bed on the dried leaves, beneath a shady tree, Uncle Wiggily snuggled down comfortably, and was just going to sleep, when he heard a voice saying:

"Oh, dear! What is the use of living! I never can do anything in this world. I am no good! Nobody wants me!"

"Ha! Who can that be?" asked Uncle Wiggily of himself, and, as he could not answer his own question, he opened his eyes and looked across the little cove, at one end of the duck pond. All the bunny saw was a small, yellow lily, growing in the water amid the broad, flat leaves near shore.

"I beg your pardon," spoke the bunny gentleman politely, "but who is so sad—thinking he is of no use in the world? Who is it?"

"It is I," answered the yellow lily.

"What seems to be the trouble?" went on the rabbit gentleman as if he might be Dr. Possum inquiring of a little animal boy or girl where they had a pain. "What is wrong with you, yellow lily?"

"The trouble is I am not white," was the sad answer. "No one cares for yellow lilies like me. Over in the next cove are beautiful white pond lilies, larger than I, and with a sweet, spicy perfume. Beautiful ladies pay ragged and barefooted boys silver money to wade in and get the white pond lilies, but they never gather me to take away with them to beautiful homes."

"Do you know what happens to those beautiful white lilies?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"They must live happily ever after," sighed the yellow lily. "It is that way in stories. But alas! No one cares for me!"

"Nonsense," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Those white lilies soon droop and die, they dry up and are thrown away after being picked. It is true they live for a little while in a beautiful room, floating in a bowl of water. But you will live here for weeks and weeks without being pulled from your stem."

"Still I would rather be a white pond lily and live for a day in a beautiful bowl, than stay here for a year in this ugly pond!" said the yellow blossom. And nothing Uncle Wiggily could say would make the flower feel happy.

Uncle Wiggily went to sleep, and, awakening, hopped on his way to seek an adventure, but none could he find. The next day he went again to the shore of the lonely little cove where dwelt the yellow lily. It was early morning—so early that the lily was not yet open, having closed its petals for the night. And as the bunny was wondering what he could say to the flower, to make it happy, all of a sudden, out of the bushes popped the Bob Cat.

"This time you shall not get away from me!" howled the bad chap, and he made a jump for the rabbit. But suddenly the yellow lily opened its petals and a big bumble bee, who had been shut up in the flower all night, flew out and stung the Bob Cat so hard on his soft and tender nose that the unpleasant creature howled.

"Ow! Oh, how you hurt!" and away he ran, not stopping to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears.

"Thank you, Bumble Bee!" said the rabbit gentleman.

"Don't thank me! Thank the yellow lily," buzzed the stinging chap as he flew home to his hive. "If the lily had not suddenly closed last night, shutting me inside when I was getting some yellow pollen from which to make wax, I would not have been here this morning to save you from the Bob Cat. Thank the yellow lily."

"I will!" said Uncle Wiggily, and he did, adding: "You see you are of some use, after all, in this world, humble little flower." So the yellow lily no longer murmured. And if the soap dish doesn't blow bubbles in the eyes of the potato pancake, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Bob Cat's banjo.

RUM VESSEL BELIEVED LOST

Owner of Power Boat Floats Ashore Near Port Dover.

MECHANIC MISSING.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 8 (Canadian Press) — The Canadian battle with coast guard rum-chaser 2205 off Port Abino recently is believed to have gone down with the loss of two lives and a large cargo of contraband. The body of Aton Vandevere, of Port Colborne, Ont., has been washed ashore at Port Dover, Ont., floating on a life preserver from the craft that successfully gave battle to coast guards men, whose boat was leaked and weapons stolen. The investigation receiving the official attention of both Washington and Ottawa.

A man named Clarke, a resident of Port Colborne, is also known to have drowned with Vandevere. The pair are said to have been in the boat when it capsized.

Detectives Rush To Suburbs On Receipt of Information.

TRIAL PROCEEDS.

LOS ANGELES, October 8 (Canadian Press) — Detectives headed by Charles Reimer, chief investigator District Attorney Asa Keyes, rushed to an outlying point here this morning following the receipt of information that Kenneth G. Ormiston, the key witness in the Aimee Semple McPherson case and a fugitive from justice, was in hiding there. Reimer said he was convinced he would be able to get in touch with the radio operator at an early hour.

This is the ninth day of the hearings and District Attorney Keyes is reported to have secured more documentary evidence to prove that Ormiston and the evangelist were registered in adjoining rooms at a local hotel the day she disappeared.

Yankees One Game Up On Cardinals In World Series

SHERDEL WEAKENS IN 10TH INNING AND YANKS HAMMER OUT VICTORY GAINS ONE GAME LEAD IN SERIES

Tie in Ninth and Score the Winning Tally in Tenth.

GETS 9 HTS TO 7.

Pinch Hitter Scores Gehrig With Texas Leaguer To Left.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Yanks snatched victory from the Cardinals yesterday just as the Redbirds were about to fly away with it.

Baffled for eight innings by Willie Sherdel and his slow curves, the American League champions rallied to tie the score in the ninth and win in the tenth inning of a game that alternately had another crowd chilled and thrilled.

It was the fifth game of this spectacular world's series battle and the Yank victory, gained by a score of 3 to 2, put the New Yorkers in the lead, 3 to 2, as the contending clans left last night to resume the struggle in the Yankee stadium Saturday.

One more triumph will clinch the world's title for the Yankees, while the Cards face the necessity of capturing two straight if they are to realize their dream of championship glory for the first time.

Herb Pennock, the lanky Yank southpaw, twirled his second victory of the series, repeating his opening game triumph, also gained over Sherdel, but he had more trouble winning yesterday than he did the first time. For eight innings it was a stirring duel, with Sherdel having the better of it, but the Cardinal southpaw, with triumph seemingly in his grasp, weakened, lost control and went down to defeat as the Yankees came with a rush at the close.

Ben Paschal a pinch hitter, brought over the tying run in the ninth with a Texas leaguer to left, while Tony Lazzeri, the Italian second sacker, scored the winning run in the first extra inning with a towering sacrifice fly to Hafey.

It was a decisive finish but it was gained only by capitalizing every advantage, for Sherdel although weakening fought desperately and courageously to hold the 2-1 lead which the Cards had gained by bunching hits off Pennock in the fourth and seventh.

Lou Gehrig started the finishing fireworks with a flukey double in the ninth that Hafey lost in the sun. Lazzeri attempting to sacrifice, beat out his tap to Bell, and Gehrig raced to third, from where he tallied a moment later on the hit by Paschal, who batted for Dugan.

Sherdel tightened here, getting three putouts in a row as Severeid, Pennock and Combs failed to knock the ball out of the field, but it was only a lull in the tide that turned toward the Yanks.

Mark Koenig, whose erratic fielding had previously proved costly, started the tenth with a rousing single to left and went to second on a wild pitch. Sherdel took no chances with Ruth and walked the Babe but Bob Meusel advanced both base runners with a neat sacrifice bunt and Gehrig was purposely passed to fill the bases.

This set the stage for Lazzeri's winnnig punch. It was the second time the young Italian had come to bat with the bases full. The first time, in the sixth, he walloped a fly to right that might have gone for a home run but for a stiff breeze that held it back and enabled Southworth to catch it up against the bleacher wall.

This time Lazerri took another toe hold and shot a long drive to Hafey in deep left. Koenig raced across the plate with the winning run after the catch. Gazella, next man up, was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases again, but Severeid ended the inning by popping to Hornsby.

It was a heartbreaking defeat for the Cardinals who had come back to put up a stirring battle after being put to rout by Ruth's sensational home run hitting Wednesday. It was disheartening too, for a crowd which shattered the record for Sportsman's Park for the third day in a row. The attendance was 39,522 and every nook of the park was jammed to the limit.

The crowd was whipped to a high pitch through the early part of the game as Sherdel effectually checked the Yank heavy artillery, twirling superbly in the pinches and continuing his effective work even after suffering a bruised finger on his pitching hand, while taking a return throw from his catcher in the sixth inning. It was in this frame that Sherdel yielded the first Yank run, manufactured from Pennock's double, and a single by Koenig. Passes to Combs and Gehrig helped fill the bases but Sherdel got Lazzeri on the latter's high fly to right after striking out Ruth with two men on the bags.

Ruth's big bat was completely silenced by Sherdel's baffling curves. The Babe failed to get the ball out of the infield in three attempts and was walked on his other trips to the plate.

Pennock yielded only seven hits, four more than he did in his first game, and two less than Sherdel, but the Cards bunched four of their blows to produce their runs. A double by Bottomley that bounced off Koenig's glove in the fourth followed by Lester Bell's single to center, scored one tally, with a double by Bell and a single by O'Farrell that caromed off Koenig's foot in the seventh accounted for the other.

After the seventh, Pennock settled down and was never in danger. He walked Holm in the eighth, but a double play started by Lazzeri checked the Cards, who went out in order in the ninth and were retired in the tenth after Tasvenow had singled with one out.

While the Yankee southpaw had erratic support at several stages of game, particularly from Koenig, he also was aided by several fine plays. Combs robbed to Hornsby of a triple in the sixth with a fine running catch and Ruth, after previously failing in an attempt to bag Bottomley's two bagger, from his shoestrings, came back to grab Hafey's foul in the fourth with a marvelous one-hand catch up against the wire screen in front of the field boxes.

TOMMY MILLIGAN RETAINS HIS TITLE

Middle Champion of Europe Against Ted Moore, Plymouth Boxer.

LONDON Oct. 8 (Canadian Press)—Tommy Milligan, of Scotland, retained the title of middleweight champion of Europe last night when he beat Ted Moore, Plymouth boxer, at Albert Hall. The referee stopepd the fight in the fourteenth round. Negotiations are pending for the winner to meet "Tiger" Flowers of Georgia for the world's championship.

Moore only recently returned after a long stay in the United States during which he engaged in forty bouts.

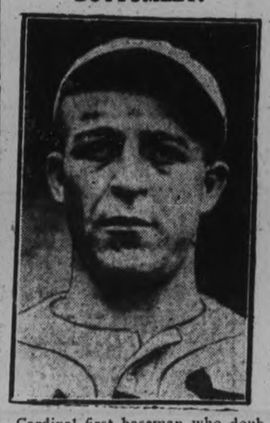
At the outset, the fighting was fast and furious, and the second round was terrific, but Milligan soon showed his superiority.

In the third Moore was forced to drop and was continually jeered by the spectators for holding. By the fifth round Milligan had secured a good lead on points, which he maintained to the end.

KOENIG.

New York short-stop who continued his record of an error a day.

BOTTOMLEY.



Cardinal first baseman who doubled and scored when Bell singled in fourth inning.

VARSITY SHOULD WIN OPENING

Three Games in O. R. F. U. Series To Be Played on Saturday.

TORONTO, Oct. 8. — With the O.R.F.U. teams having swung into action of the regular kind in scheduled competition interest this Saturday in football will be cenetred upon the appearance of the other senior teams, who as yet have only had exhibition tilts to put them into proper playing condition. Montreal's coming to the Maple Leaf Stadium will serve to show in a way just what Argonauts have, now that Batstone has hopped off to Queen's, Argos should win this affair, and if they don't it will mean hard sledding for the balance of the schedule. Varsity go to McGill at Molson Stadium. Varsity should win that.

Team Looks Good.

Hughes, of course, will have to carry the bulk of the burden on the backfield now, and Hughes has the ability. A little more aggressiveness would be a decided asset to his play. Munro will team up with him. Ray Boadway will perform on the backfield and work on the second line of defence. Cook will be at quarter. The wing line will give no worries. Last night "Sport" Hambly joined the squad and he gives the Scullers a good relief kicker. Yesterday workmen were busy laying out the playing field and erecting the bleachers.

Fear and Thomas.

Montreal went down to defeat last Saturday at home with the Tiger Terriers from Hamilton accomplishing the feat. The Winged Wheelers each pre season have hopes of a championship, but when the regular playing season comes around those Montrealers are not always so dangerous. However, they are always capable of giving each and every team in the Big Four a tussle. They may induce "Bud" Thomas and "Cap" Fear to work at the outside wing positions. And again they may not. Thomas is not very keen to play, and Fear, who has been removed to Montreal from the inner precincts of Quebec, was not out to the grounds last night. He doesn't know whether or not he will be permanently quartered in Montreal. At any rate he will not likely be fit to get into the game Saturday against his old club, but may be available for the balance of the season.

Up At Varsity.

The season ticket sale for Varsity Rugby tickets closed. While there has been the usual large sale, there are good locations still available in both the open and the covered stand. These tickets will be on sale until Saturday noon at the Hart House athletic office, and include the five Varsity home games.

The first game on this season ticket will be on Saturday at the Stadium between Hamilton Tigers and Varsity, in the senior O.R.F.U. series.

Following the splendid showing made by the Varsity team at last week's game with Balmy Beach, this first collision with the Hamilton Tigers should provide plenty of entertainment on Saturday.

Varsity at McGill.

McGill and Varsity open up the Intercollegiate season down at Montreal and great interest will be manifest in this contest. Up around Varsity they have hopes that this will be championship year for the Blue and White, and while Batstone's return to Queen's has changed things around some, many are still of the opinion that Varsity may rise to the occasion and stop the championship flight of those Presbyterians. If Trimble and McFayden can get along without fumbling on that backfield then the trick may be turned. It may be that perhaps Ronnie McPherson may use someone else besides McFayden on the rear-guard. He has given several candidates a trial in practice this week.

SOME CHANGES ARE LOOKED FOR IN FIRST DIVISION

English Soccer League Has Already Had Six Take Leadership.

SUNDERLAND LEADS

Leicester Suffer First Defeat of Season By Huddersfield Town.

LONDON, October 8. Canadian Press. — An attractive schedule of fixtures is drawn up for the first division of the English soccer league for Saturday and it is not altogether unlikely that the completion of the division will undergo some alteration when the results are posted. Already the first string has seen six teams take the leadership, the last to be crowned being Sunderland, who administered one of the heaviest defeats of the season to Burnley Wednesday. A score of seven goals to one was registered against the Lancastrians, and would seem to presage a certain slump in Burnley's stock.

The predecessors of Sunderland have been Tottenham, Hotspurs, Sheffield United, Burnley, Leicester City and Birmingham.

One of the most interesting games of the schedule is carded fo. Leicester, where the y receive a visit from the leaders. L. ester ran into their first defeat of the season last Saturday when they succumbed to Huddersfield Town. For some time they had been playing leap-frog in the league with Birmingham, but their bad hand at H.ddersfield had the effect of putting them into a less pretentious place tha they had hitherto occupied. h previous eight games had en equally divided between wins and draws, and although they had had a large number of goals stacked up against them, they were always able to pull out of their games by virtue of their own strong scoring ability. Th e of their former wins were obtained on their own gr ds and Leicester have yet to be beaten at me. On the other hand, Sunderland ha gone down twice on visiting territory, the first time to West Bromich in the opener, and the sec d time to Birmingham. They w t Blackburn ar est Ham and drew at Huddersfiel. This would indicate that visiting grounds hold no draw ck for Sunderland, and that the e equally as capable away from home as they on their own ground.

Another good game will be witnessed at White Hart Lane where the 'Spurs play host to the runners-up, Birmingham. The 'purs are one more team who alth h not conspicuous are yet to eb defeated at White Hart Lane. They have dropped only two games this season, one to Blackburn Rovers and the other to Sunderland. In each case the margin was by one goal. Birmingham's chances however are quite good. The Midlanders were steering a fairly straight course in the league up until last Saturday when they ran into rough water at Bolton where the cup-holders took the points. This was the second snag for Birmingham, their previous difficulties being encountered at Leicester, but the runners-up have shown consistent good form recently and there will be no doubt as to the brand of football they will serve up.

Whether Burnley will take occasion on Saturday to restore their prestige remains to be seen. Arsenal have not displayed anything like the form that made them such strong contenders for the honors last season and they have enjoyed only one victory since Sept. 1. Their first crash came when Sheffield United blanked them by a q uartette of goals and this was followed by three draws in succession, Bolton, Leicester and Manchester United. They pulled themselves up against Liverpool but collapsed again at Leeds, and last Saturday they split the points with Newcastle. They have not yet won on visiting ground.

Huddersfield Town, who gave some indication last week of justifying their honor as league champions will be given an opportunity to forge further ahead when they travel to Everton. The latter's position is perilous. They have won only one game out of eleven played and have dropped seven They started the season by five straight defeats, then came a draw, followed by two more defeats. Their one and only victory was secured from Liverpool and since then they have drawn with Bury and Blackburn. On form they are not conceded much of a change against the title-holders.

Other fixtures are:

Derby at Aston Villa; Manchester United at Bolton; Sheffield at Cardiff; Blackburn at Leeds; Liverpool at Newcastle; West Bromwich at the Wednesday; and Bury at West Ham.

Next Tuesday the return game between Sunderland and Burnley will be staged at Burnley.

Drinks Rubbing Alcohol Instead Of Cough Medicine

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (United Press). — Expecting to take a dose of cough medicine in a darkened bathroom, James Anthony took from a bottle a long swig of rubbing alcohol.

He called the police when he got his breath back, and was taken to the Kings County Hospital, where antidotes were administered, and it was said that he would recover.

TEAMS RETURN EAST TO FINISH WORLD'S SERIES

Sixth Game Will Take Place at Yankee Stadium To-morrow.

FIFTH GAME SHOCK.

Largest Baseball Crowd in History of St. Louis Saw Cards Beaten.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct., 8. Canadian Press. — The chances of the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1926 world's series to-day rested on the broad shoulders of the 39 year old Grover Alexander. Only the veteran pitcher stands between the loser's end and the pot of gold at the winner's end of the world's series rainbow.

When the teams came out of the West to-day the games stood three to two in favor of the New York Yankees, with the American League entry needing but a single game to insure its election as world baseball champion. The Cardinals, as a result of the defeat in the fifth game of the series are in a position where they cannot afford to lose another game. All of to-day was needed for travelling to get the contenders back to the Yankee Stadium for the sixth game on Saturday.

If the Cardinals win to-morrow a seventh game will be necessary in New York on Sunday. Victory for the Yankees ends the annual league test for baseball supremacy.

The outcome of the fifth game was a soock to St. Louis supporters who established a new city record with 39,552 paid admissions. The Yanks had to come from behind to win, 3 to 2, in ten innings.

A battle of left handers, Pennock and Sherdel, was a repetition of the world series history, the same pair of southpaws starting the classic in New York last Saturday, Pennock then won a one-run decision, the score being 2 to 1.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN "THE BLACK PIRATE."

Douglas Fairbanks is at the Capitol Theatre in "The Black Pirate," the feature picture, whose coming has been so widely heralded by the treasure hunt, just ended. Although, unlike his consort, Mr. Fairbanks prefaces his pictures with a lengthy list of "players" and places his own name in an inconspicuous position at the bottom of the line, still he does not take a back seat, by any means, when the picture is unfolding itself. His productions are built around himself as a central figure, and none else has much of a look in. However, he does everything very well, and a movie of this type requires a strong central personality to put it over. The active figure of the "black pirate" dominates the scene at all times, but this actor's habit of ultra swfft action and his constant presentation of a set of flashing white teeth gives a somewhat opera bouffe atmosphere to a picture that opens with scenes brutal enough to elicit exclamations of disgust from the audience. When Mr. Fairbanks arrives, the spirit changes. One knows at all times that he will attend to every little misadventure as it comes along.

"The Black Pirate" is one of those spectacular affairs that must have required much money and months of patient research work to complete in the perfection of every detail that characterizes it. It has many scenes, in fact, the majority of them, colored delicately in a new fashion that makes the actors live on the silver sheet and the artistry of the detail work is magnificent. Outside of the modernity of the central actor, the framework provided this picture is wonderful. The galleons of an age when the skull and crossbones was the sign of a pirate crew, the costumes and manners of the players, the very atmosphere of the scenes, all re-create from the pages of history such episodes as the sacking of merchant men and the sinking of their passengers and crews, the burying of loot on desert islands and the swift glamor and romance of such a life on the ocean wave. As a study of forgotten times, 'The Black Pirate' is memorable.

The heroine is a negligible sort of lady and not particularly beautiful. It is said that Miss Pickford never allows her husband to become too loving with the ladies in his pictures, and that she always takes the final embrace, which, in "The Black Pirate," is a very complete one, with the lady in profile, so that one doesn't know whether it is the heroine or Miss Pickford, if the story be true.

A replica of the old type of manuscript title is evidently intended in the mixed capitals of the sub titles, which fall short of their intended effect, and appear just a little flat. The story deals with the adventures of the Duke of Arnoldo, who, disguised as a pirate, takes part in the work of a buccaneering crew, and finally rescues from the captain bold the lovely lady who is held as hostage. The taking of a merchantman single-handed by the 'Black Pirate' is one of the finest bits in the picture.—Jeanette.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE STUDENT PRINCE"

The thumping of beer mugs; the snap of salutes, the click of heels and the deep gusto of far famed "The Drinking Song" will again resound through the air on Wednesday next when 'The Student Prince' plays The Grand Opera House. "The Student's Serenade" "Just We Two", "Deep in My Heart, Dear", and "Golden Days" will be played to the strain of 'cello and violin with the added notes of cornets to give them fervor and zip.

The mighty male chorus will surge on the stage, representing a life and enthusiasm that will immediately be felt across the footlights; and a selected cast of principals is coming to help the good work along.

"The Student Prince" is reputed to be the outstanding musical show of years. A company of one hundred will sing it here.

AT THE REGENT

BRAVES DEATH TO SAVE CHILD IN "SILENCE"

Courageously brushing aside evidence which would save him from the death penalty, branding as false the confession of his daughter, because that confession would harm her good name, and with head erect, he enters the death chamber to suffer punishment for a crime of which he was innocent.

This is one of the tense dramatic situations of "Silence," a Rupert Julian production—a situation which caps the keynote of father love with which the production rings — the beautiful sacrifice of a father for his little girl.

H. B. Warner is seen as Jim Warren in Beulah Marie Dix's screen version of "Silence," which will be on view at the Regent Theatre next Monday. It is a role which he created on the stage and in which he played to enthusiastic Broadway audiences for almost a year. Petite Vera Reynolds plays the featured feminine role, while the featured supporting cast includes Raymond Hatton, Rockcliffe Fellowes, Jack Mulhall and Virginia Pearson.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE YOUNG

The death occurred at noon today of George Young at his home, 567 Park street. Funeral announcement later.

E. H. DEWART.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8. Canadian Press. — E. H. Dewart, aged 64, assistant deputy minister of Education, died here last night. He was a former grand master of the I.O.O.F., and had held othe high offices in the order of which he had been a mem be for 35 years. Mr. Dewart was a native of Peterboro, Ont., and a graduate of Toronto University. He had been ill for seven months.

ADOLPHE ALFRED DION.

OTTAWA, October 8. Canadian Press. — Adolphe Alfred Dion, general manager of the Ottawa Electric Company, and the Ottawa Gas Company, and one of the business leaders of the city, died early this morning in the Water street general hospital in this city. He was 67 years of age. His death followed a serious operation which he underwent about two weeks ago.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press)—Gerhard Heintzman, head of the well known firm of piano manufacturers, died at his home here today at the age of 81 years. Mr. Heintzman had been suffering for some time from internal trouble.

Mr. Heintzman had been ill for some days but up to his death he maintained an active interest in the business of which he was head.

He was president of Gerhard Heintzman and Co. Ltd., and was born in Germany eighty-one years ago. In 1866 he came to Canada and entered firm of Heintzman and Co. as foreman. Nine years later he established the present business. He was married in 1876 to Katherine Killer of Waterloo. His widow, one son, Armand, and three daughters, Mrs. Emily Pascom, Mrs. Nelda Palm, and Mrs. Cornelia Heintzman, all of Toronto, survive.

The funeral will be held on Monday.

MUSSOLINI PLANS WAR ON TURKEY TO SEIZE ADALIAN COASTAL AREA ASSERTS LONDON DAILY EXPRESS

Turks Have Mustered Four Army Corps in Threatened Area.

SUPPORT PROMISED.

Diplomatic Circles Dismiss Article as "Rot"—Weather Unsuitable.

LONDON, October 9. United Press—The Daily Express without quoting its authority, declares that Mussolini is planning war on Turkey.

His object the newspaper says "is to seize the sphere of interest of the Adalian coast which the secret London pact of 1916 promised to Italy, but which pact subsequently was declared null and void."

The Turks have mobilized four army corps in the threatened area.

The Daily Express declares that Greece has promised actively to cooperate with Italy. Rumania is understood to have promised to remain neutral. Jugo-Slavia has asked to be permitted to remain neutral.

The article says that great international efforts are under way to prevent hostilities, including a suggestion that the United States be invited to use a pacific influence. It adds that France might not be averse to Italys attack but Great Britain is doing her utmost in the interests of peace.

"Great Britain's efforts with possible American aid" the Daily Express says, "may be a factor in restricting Mussolini's plans to an unfulfilled threat."

The entire article is most sensational, declaring that Mussolini "believes his plans are complete beyond the possibility of failure."

Diplomatic circles are astounded at the article and are generally inclined to dismiss with the single word "Rot!" pointing out that even if other factors were ignored climatic conditions soon will be such that it will be virtually impossible to wage active warfare during the entire winter.

MONTREAL, Oct. 8.— Tobacco may be grown in every part of Canada, even north of the 55th degree, a bulletin of the Canadian Pacific Railway announces. The tobacco plants are grown as are cabbage. When the last spring frosts are over the plants are set out. One Alberta farmer, living north of 55, has never failed to produce a crop.

Acquit Captain and Crew Of Trying To Sink Ship

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 9 (Canadian Press) Captain Maxwell Vatcher and three members of the crew of the schooner Green were acquitted in a court at North Sydney yesterday of charges of attempting to ram and sink a United States Customs patrol boat 30 miles off New York on May 26. Captain Edward Hahn of the United States patrol vessel 206 testified as to the alleged attempt to ram his ship, while Captain Vatcher and his men swore that they were not on board the Green at al lat the time.

CURE FOR PARESIS.

Malaria Germs Cause Recovery From Dread Disease.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—A cure of Paresis, (nerve syphilis), hitherto a hopeless disease, has been accomplished at the Ontario Hospital here, by Dr. English, superintendent, this morning. The discovery made recently in Australia that malaria germs tend to bring about the recovery of such patients, has been developed at the local institution, and Dr. English states that the results have been of such character that the treatment may be regarded as most effectual in such cases.

HEYE APPOINTED.

Former Member of Hindenburg's Staff Succeeds Von Seeckt.

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press)—President Von Hindenburg today appointed Lieutenant-General Wilhelm Heye, to succeed General Von Seeckt, who resigned his command of the Reichswehr because of the scandal over the participation of the young Prince Wilhelm in the recent manoeuvres.

Gen. Heye, who has been commander of the Koenigsberg branch of the Reichswehr, served as a general staff officer with Van Hindenburg during the war.

Produced In Canada Exhibition

It is a very interesting time for the young ladies who are working so hard, for the Produced in Canada Exhibition, which is being held in the Armouries from October 11th to 16th by the Kiwanis Club. The committee is glad to submit the following report:

Miss Bregetta Conroy is now leading with 190,000 votes;
Miss Eva Outram is second with 173,000 votes;
Miss Marion McCannon is third with 172,000 votes;
Miss Lareta Sedgwick is fourth with 105,000 votes.

These young ladies are certainly working very hard and deserve congratulations. In fact, the committee are quite pleased and I am sure the public is also satisfied with the whole-hearted interest the young ladies are taking.

The winner for to-day's prize was Miss Bregetta Conroy and she won the Boudoir Clock donated by Mr. Gibson.

The winner for to-day's prize for the girl in the country turning in the most bonds was won by Miss Helen Larmer, Millbrook, and she won the Brass Jardiniere, donated by the Cressman Company. There was no claim for the second prize. We cannot understand the rest of the young ladies in the country not turning in their bonds.

The prizes for Monday will be awarded to the young ladies turning in the most bonds to Mr. Allen, Superintendent, Prudential Insurance Company, by 10 a.m. and are as follows:

1—Lady's Dress Suit Case, donated by Robert Neill Company, Limited.

2—One dozen Private Christmas Cards, donated by Mr. J. Heron, Editor of The Peterborough Examiner.

Mr. Harry Boyle offers $10.00 of Groceries to the first girl to be married.

Mr. James Lewis, Hunter Street, Barber, has very generously offered a Permanent Wave for the young lady who is crowned "Queen of Peterborough."

Now don't forget that all bonds must be turned in to Mr. Allen at the Armouries by 10 p.m., Monday, October 11th, and all the young ladies taking part in the Bond Selling Contest will report to Miss Hazel Jackson, in front of the Neilson Candy Booth, and she will direct them to a private room, where Miss Elsie Taylor will be waiting to receive the bonds and money. They must be in not later than 10 p.m. Monday night.

There will be another report on Monday morning, as to the standing of the girls up to that date.

Do not forget the passes for the girls in the City as well as the girls in the Country.

The Bond Selling Committee, sincerely thank every one who has so generously donated prizes, and for the courteous treatment given the young ladies.

The following is the standing of all girls up to the present time:

1—Miss B. Conroy	190,000
2—Miss E. Outram	173,000
3—Miss M. McCannon	172,000
4—Miss L. Sedgwick	105,000
5—Miss A. Johnson	80,000
6—Miss D. Worboy	50,000
7—Miss M. Laing	47,000
8—Miss B. Huffman	44,000
9—Miss H. Jackson	41,000
9—Miss P. Eakins	41,000
10—Miss K. Cooney	34,000
11—Miss A. Logan	32,000
12—Miss E. Thompson	31,000
13—Miss G. Allen	27,000
14—Miss Q. Miller	25,000
14—Miss S. Jackson	25,000
15—Miss H. Bell	22,000
16—Miss V. Wagar	14,000
17—Miss M. Blodgett	15,000
18—Miss H. Brown	10,000
19—Miss J. Young	10,000

RUSS QUESTION LOOMING LARGE BEFORE LABOR

United States' Recognition of Soviet Is Strongly Opposed.

SWAYED DELEGATES.

Claim "Y" Secretary Violated Privilege in Arguing For Recognition.

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—By far the most dramatic convention of the American Federation of Labor in recent years resumed deliberations yesterday.

Delegates made little secret of the fact that they were "prepared for anything," after an impassioned plea for recognition of Soviet Russia, made Thursday by Sherwood Eddy, international secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association.

In view of the federation's previous conservative position of non-recognition of Russia until workers of that country renounce adherence to the third internationale, leaders of American labor here prepared to tighten their lines lest Eddy's not-wholly unfavorable impression result in a radical change of policy.

Not Yet Reported.

A resolution to endorse recognition of Russia is now before the convention, but has not yet been reported out of committee.

Eddy obtained privileges of the convention rostrum by requesting permission to report on a recent independent personal survey of Russian conditions he had made.

An ackowledged pacifist, Eddy made an analysis of conditions he found in Russia, and ended his address by appealing to the convention to endorse recognition.

President Green, plainly incensed by what convention leaders regarded as Eddy's violation of his privilege in arguing for recognition, at once brought out the first rift in the proceedings by taking sharp issue with several of the speaker's remarks. The convention listened to the president in comparative silence.

Automobile Industry

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 9 — The American Federation of Labor convention Thursday night unanimously carried a report of its committee on organization which included a call to launch a move to unionize all branches of the automobile industry.

The resolution asked that a conference of officers of all national and international organizations be called to wor out details. The plan calls for establishment of a special organization, with headquarters in a city in the automobile manufacturing zone, under the direct control of officers of the international unions whose membership embraces the automobile crafts.

AMERICANS PLANS TO FIGHT BORER

Commission Asks $3,000,000 To Battle Pest of Corn Area.

CHICAGO, October 9 (Canadian Press).—Plans for financing the fight against the European corn-borer and for closer co-operation between State and Federal agents were arranged at a conference of the International Corn-Borer Commission yesterday. The pest is regarded as one of the greatest which ever faced American agriculture.

An appropriation of $2,000,000 is to be asked of the Federal Government, and it is expected $1,000,000 more will be obtained from the individual states. It was stated the worm is advancing at the rate of about twenty-miles a year toward Indiana, Illinois and other big corn-producing states, and has covered parts of Ohio, Michigan, Ontario, New York, Pennsylvania and the New England states.

CHURCH BOX ROBBED OF 30 CENTS GOLDEN CHALICE WAS NOT TAKEN

Catholic Church at Warkworth Entered—Vestry Door Forced Open.

MANY BURNT MATCHES.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARKWORTH, Oct. 9. — The "mite box," containing about thirty cents, in the Catholic church here was broken open and emptied of its small offerings for a special purchase fund, some time after 11 p.m. on Monday, September 27th. A gold chalice was left in the place in the vestry where it was doubtless seen by the nocturnal intruder.

Rev. Father Clearly locked the church about 11 p.m. and on the following morning found the vestry door open and the key gone. The burned stubs of matches were found in the vestry, in the sanctuary choir loft, and throughout the church, many of them having been lit. Father Cleary's club bag in the vestry was opened, but nothing was taken from it. He was inclined to believe that boys looking for money had committed the theft.

Funeral Tuesday

Percy Township Council adjourned early Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral of Archibald Thompson, who died Sunday morning in his 69th year at Oak Heights, about five miles west of here. Mr. Thompson had lived on the old John L. Giroux farm and was one of the most prominent farmers in the township.

Border Runners Wound Two Customs Officers

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 9 (United Press)—Border runners shot their way through the customs lines here early yesterday and escaped.

The victims, Captain E. D. Webb and Murray Tucker, were taken to a hospital, where the former's condition was reported critical.

The shooting occurred after they halted an automobile in Sunderland Hollow, near here. When they approached the machine, occupants opened fire without warning, according to customs men.

Prince Of Wales Being Invited To Come To Canada For Confederation Jubilee and Opening of Niagara Bridge

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Plans are under way to make a notable event of the opening next year of the International Peace Bridge between Fort Erie, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y. The Government has before it a proposal to invite the Prince of Wales and President Coolidge jointly to perform the opening ceremony.

It is understood that the suggestion has been discussed at recent Cabinet Councils in Ottawa. Nothing definite will be done at present, however. It is likely that Premier King will ascertain, while he is in London this month, whether the Prince will be able to attend the diamond jubilee of Confederation in Canada next year. If he sees his way to coming to the Dominion, it is quite likely that he will be asked to join the President of the United States in dedicating the bridge which is being built on the site of two historic forts on the international border to celebrate a century of peace between Canada and the United States. It is expected that the bridge will be sufficiently completed for the opening by next Empire Day, May 24.

CARDINALS AWAY TO GOOD START SCORING THREE IN FIRST INNINGS

Alexander Turns Back New York, Being Good in Pinches.

SHAWKEY TIGHTENS.

Pitchers' Battle Develops After St. Louis' Big First Frame.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—With the realization that the situation has narrowed to a question of now or never, the St. Louis Cardinals declared to-day that they would fight desperately for the sixth game of the world series that a seventh may be necessary. The New York Yankees, with the world's baseball championship theirs if they can win to-day, made no secret of a determined opposition to be offered to the red hose invasion from the west. The Yankees think a game in the glove to-day better than a possible base hit to-morrow.

Managerial forecasts indicated that youth must wait for another series to be served. Rogers Hornsby was gambling his baseball all on Grover Cleveland Alexander, who will be 40 years of age on February 26, and was such a good pitcher as long ago as 1916 that he was able to contribute sixteen shutout victories to the cause of the Philadelphia Nationals. He has spent fifteen summers in the major leagues.

Miller Huggins frankly favored Robert J. Shawkey, three years Alexander's junior, with thirteen major league seasons behind him. Shawkey will celebrate his 36th birthday on December 4. He has been a member of the New York pitching staff for ten years.

Both veterans have been down for the baseball count, but were on their feet again before the fatal "ten" sounded. Alexander this season found his way into a second world series when the Chicago Cubs asked waivers on him and the Cardinals refused to pass. The Philadelphia Athletics sought waivers on Shawkey, once known as "Bob the Gob," in 1916, when the Yankees claimed his services. Shawkey's red undershirt, made famous as part of his baseball equipment, has been carried into five world series.

Stung by an unexpected defeat in the last game at St. Louis, the Cardinals expected to perfect arrangements to catch pop flies before the game time to-day. Pint sized flies falling safe cost the Cards an opportunity to leave home in a blaze of glory instead of being cast to-day in the role of last standers.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 9.—Two veterans, Alexander for the Cardinals and Shawkey for the Yankees, went in to pitch the sixth world's series here to-day. A victory for New York meant the baseball championship of the world, while by winning the Cardinals would prolong the series and force the decisive game to-morrow.

A bright sun shone at game time, but a chilly breeze swept the field and the spectators were wrapped in overcoats and sweaters.

As the game got under way there were a few vacant seats, the cold weather having kept away the capacity crowd expected. Approximately 50,000 saw the contest.

The Line-Up.

St. Louis—Holm, cf; Southworth, rf; Hornsby, 2b; Bottomley, 1b; L. Bell, 3b; Hafey, lf; O'Farrell, c; Thevenow, ss; Alexander, p.

New York—Combs, cf; Koenig, ss; Ruth, rf; Meusel, lf; Gehrig, 1b; Lazzeri, 2b; Dugan, 3b; Severeid, c; Shawkey, p.

First Innings.

Cardinals—Shawkey was working very deliberately. Holm lashed a single into right field. The Cardinals were trying the hit and run play. Southworth forced Holm, Koenig to Lazzeri. Southworth beat the throw to first by a narrow margin. Again the Cardinals tried the hit and run play. Lazzeri went over and talked to Shawkey, who continued to work very slowly. Shawkey tried to pick Southworth off first and nearly got him. Hornsby got a base on balls, the fourth pitch being a little wide. Southworth scored on Bottomley's double to left, Hornsby stopping at third. The Yankee infield came in on the grass. Hornsby and Bottomley scored on Bell's sharp hit to left. Lazzeri went over to talk to Shawkey, whose curve ball seemed to have no terror for the Cards. Umpire O'Day went out to the pitcher's

Swedish Princess To Be Convert To Roman Faith

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 9.—Le Soir yesterday quotes Princess Astrid of Sweden, who was reared as a Protestant, as having decided to become a Roman Catholic, the religious faith of her future husband, Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium, to whom she is to married next month.

The paper says that the Princess already has been initiated into her new faith and that the ceremony of conversion will take place in Belgium before the wedding.

INDUSTRIAL PACT MAY COMPETE WITH AMERICANS

Vast European Merger Is Reported Pending Between Continental Financiers.

WORLD STEEL TRUST.

German Manufacturers Confer With British in Financial Conference.

LONDON, October 9 (Canadian Press).—Not a little mystery is attached to a visit of a dozen German industrial and financial leaders to London yesterday for a conference with a similar number of British industrialists and bankers, under the presidency of Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer. There was much speculation as to the purpose of the unusual gathering, this ranging from the formation of a great European industrial pact or "industrial United States of Europe" and Anglo-German industrial understanding and the formation of a world steel trust, to a desire by the Germans to raise funds in England to carry on their industries.

It was carefully pointed out beforehand that the conference would be entirely unofficial, although it is said to have been approved by Premier Baldwin. While the residence near Romsey of Col. Ashley, Minister of Transport, was announced as the meeting place, it was stated that Col. Ashley would act "not as minister, but in a private capacity."

European Pact.

The invitations are understood to have been sent to the Germans through the British legation in Berlin. Those invited were prominent representatives of the coal, iron, textile, shipping, electric and mining industries of both countries, in addition to bankers.

The Westminster Gazette believes the meeting to be closely connected with a movement much favored by German industrialists toward a great European industrial pact, "the essential principle of which is that goods must be manufactured on an immense scale by mass production in order to compete in prices with those of American origin."

The Daily Express said yesterday that while various industries would be discussed, the dominating topic was to be the future of the steel trade.

RUSSIAN POLICY CAUSES TROUBLE

United States Refuses To Confer on the Seal Treaty.

REQUEST DECLINED.

WASHINGTON, October 9. — A diplomatic dispute has arisen between the United States and Japan over the administration's non-recognition policy toward Russia.

In reply to Japan's request for a conference to modify the four-power fur seal treaty of 1911, to which Great Britain and Russia are also parties, the State Department tentatively refused on the ground it cannot deal with the Soviet Government.

A second diplomatic embarrassment growing out of the Department's Russian policy was revealed yesterday by pressure from agricultural groups on the Department to invite Russia to the international social conference here next June.

Only 2 Killed On Air Mail Flying 2,256,000 Miles Year

NEW YORK, Oct 9.—Only two persons were killed, one for each 1,128,000 miles of flying, on the Government transcontinental air route during the last year, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aeronautics. Twenty-nine States and the District of Columbia are now traversed by air mail planes, and three new routes now under advisement will add two more States to the service.

Private airplane operators made 259,762 flights for a total of 5,396,672 miles last year. The 290 private operators used 676 planes in forty-one States and carried 205,094 passengers and 112 tons of freight and mail.

EGG PRICE UP ON THE MARKET

Wide Range in Price of Butter This Morning.

PRODUCE PLENTIFUL.

There was plenty of patronage for the varied offerings of the farmers' market this morning and plenty of produce of all types. In the basket section eggs were much higher in price with general quotations of 44 and 45c a dozen. Butter ranged from 33 to 43c a pound. Chickens were selling from 30c down to 25c a pound, ducks were 25c and a few geese were 28c a pound. Light amber honey was 65c in 5-pound pails.

Sweet smelling summer sage and savory in large bunches was 10c a bunch.

Goose feathers in huge pillows were 65c a pound. A meditative purchaser was considering the possibility of measuring off a pound of these fly-away things.

In the open section corn was selling at 20 and 25c a dozen; tomatoes at 50c and 35c in the large and small baskets; potatoes at $2 a bag, and cauliflowers of beautiful quality at 10 and 15c apiece. Blue grapes were 45 and 75c, in six and eleven quart baskets; St. Lawrence apples were 40c a peck, and Wealthies 25c, and large yellow tomatoes were 10c a box. Blue plums were 10c a q uart; an elongated good-looking Japanese plum was priced at 65c a large basket and pears were a dollar in the same large sized container. Another vendor had a price of 85c on his large baskets of tomatoes, and pickling beets were 6 quarts for 35c.

GLASS IN MEAT KILLS ANIMALS

Fine Newfoundland Dog the Third Victim in Two Weeks.

DIES IN GREAT PAIN.

By the destruction of the fine male Newfoundland dog, known as 'Tal,' the property of W. J. Hutchinson, Charlotte street, another victim has been added to the toll taken of animals in the city by the unknown miscreant whose identiy is being eagerly sought by exasperated owners.

Mr. Hutchinson's dog, which was about five months old, was rarely allowed out on the street, and never roaming the neighborhood unaccompanied gave no occasion for complaint among the neighbors.

The animal was given a piece of meat containing cut glass, which lacerated the interior organs, causing copious bleeding from the mouth and eventually resulting in complete paralysis of the rear portion of the body. It lived for three days, suffering terrible pain. W. T. Rogers, veterinary surgeon of Hunter street, twice attended the dog and administerd an emetic in hope of causing the expulsion of the glass, but without avail, the animal's organs were completely destroyed.

Last week another dog and a cat were also destroyed by the same method of concealing pieces of glass in meat.

Florence, Italy, is known as the City of Flowers.

Weather Man Squandered His Autumnal Riches Early in Week.

FINE EXHIBITS.

Merry-go-round Never Loafed in Spite of of Chill.

(By Examiner Correspondent.)

WARKWORTH, Oct. 9.—Stroke the Warkworth Fair off the fast diminishing list and credit it with a record crowd and an extensive display of farm stock and other products.

But—no medals for the weather man! So prodigal was he last Monday of his Autumn beauty,—the woods aflame with color under a summer sun, and a soft haze pervading the panorama of the horizon—ideal Fall Fair weather—that yesterday was by contrast a dismal anti-climax to the season's lovely pageant.

Perhaps Norwood next Wednesday or Roseneath on Friday may recapture October's glory for a last parting caress, but Warkworth's big crowd is probably still shivering from the chill that drifted over the Northumberland hills like a churlish herald of a mean, malevolent winter.

A brief splash of sunshine about mid-afternoon rather accentuated the leaden clouds, and a briefer sprinkle of rain towards five o'clock simply broke up the party. At least the crowd definitely started for home leaving the horse race fans to warm themselves with the ardor of the final heats.

And while a merry-go-round and the boys' band of the Peterborough Corps of the Salvation Army stirred up the breeze, pungent with aroma of onions at the hot dog stands, the directors saw the afternoon wane and the cash customers turn gateward, and said it was good. The weather might have been worse, instead of being just chilly, touching noses with a glow that suggested too much John Barleycorn or none. At any rate, the gateman told the story, the 76th chapter, to be exact, for the Warkworth Fair is nearing the century mark of its existence, and the story of the turnstiles clicked pleasantly.

Entries Numerous

The exhibition was keenly and largely contested. For example there were eleven entries for the lady driver, single horse in harness; seven in the harness horses under 15½ hands, tn entries for J. R. Battisby's prize for the best ladies' single turnout, and in another class

Ninety More, Mostly Natives, Still in South African Mine.

GAS EXPLOSION.

CAPETOWN, Oct. 9 (United Press).—Thirty bodies were recovered today from the Durban Navigation Colliery where four white men and 116 natives were entombed by a gas explosion. All of the men are believed to be dead.

As the poisonous gas cleared to permit rescue work, the thirty bodies were recovered and work was started to tear away the wreakage to facilitate the removal of the others. The first bodies brought out were those of natives. The explosion completely destroyed the shaft.

WRECK EATING HOUSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. — "I's on the fire," the old gag used to soothe the impatient diner didn't get over with James O'Hara and Patrick Harley. The third time the waiter told them their order was "on the fire" one seized a nearby plate of ham and eggs and flung it at the waiter. A few chairs and other things followed, wrecking the restaurant and plate glass window.

TEN MEN DROWN WHEN TUG SINKS

Collision With Liner Causes Fatality in Havre Harbor.

HAVRE, France, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—Ten men of the crew of the French tug Ursus were drowned when the boat sank after having been in collision with the French liner Paris, at midnight.

The Ursus was aiding the liner to dock on its arrival from New York. It had guided the steamship into the tidal basin and thrown a mooring line aboard. Men on the Paris missed the line and the tug passed across the bow of the steamer. The Paris was still under way and struck the Ursus and cut the tug boat in two. The Ursus sank immediately.

TIME TO PLAN YOUR HUNTING TRIP

The falling leaves and the tang of frost in the air remind us of the rapidly approaching hunting season, when the call of the woods is insistent, irresistible, and must be answered by a trek northward into Ontario's famous game country. It is well to make plans as early as possible.

Canadian National Railways have already anticipated the needs of their hunting friends and have prepared suitable special train service to and from that unexcelled hunting territory served by their lines and lying north and south of the French River. Each year sees an increase in the number of hunters attracted to these grounds.

Open season for deer and moose; north of the French River is from October 25th to November 30th, both dates inclusive; south of the French River, November 5th to November 20th, both dates inclusive. Many who can afford the time to make a longer journey visit the territory lying north of the Canadian National Railways Quebec-Cochrane Winnipeg line. This is a veritable unspoiled wilderness and abounds with moose; open season in this area is from September 15th to November 15th, both dates inclusive.

On request, any agent of the Canadian National Railways will gladly furnish you with special Hunters' Time Table and help you plan your trip. 29, 9, 16, 23

FINE PROGRAMME AT COMMENCEMENT

Campbellford Pupils Display Much Talent For Music.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 5.—A large audience attended the commencement exercises of St. Joseph's Convent in the Auditorium of the High school on Tuesday evening. During the evening Rev. Father Phelan presented the medal given by the Toronto Conservatory of Music to the pupil standing highest in elementary piano, to Miss Lucille Welsh, 8 year old daughter of Mrs. W. Welsh; and the prize donated by the Sisters of St. Joseph to the pupil standing highest in intermediate piano, to Miss Isabel Bygott.

Following is the programme which was exceptionaly well rendered:

Opening chorus, "We Welcome Thee."

Instrumental duet, Lucille and Buddie Welsh.

Instrumental duet — Paul and Frank O'Sullivan.

Violin selection, "Echoes from the South", by Masters Blute, Richardson, Linton and Richardson.

Instrumental duet— Mona and Mabel Lawford.

Instrumental solo—Ruby Townsend.

Recitation, "Our Organist"—Eileen Linton.

Instrumental solo—Enid Richardson.

Instrumental duet—Helen, Ruth and Barbara Kerr, with violin by Mary Kerr.

Chorus, "Come to the Fair."

Sonato (Beethoven)—Roxie Wilson.

Valse Mignonne—Bernice Farrell.

Violin — Misses Wetherill and Kerr, and Masters Blute, Linton, R. Richardson and Billy Richardson.

"Two Larks"—Monica Blute.

Vocal solo—"My First Music Lesson"—Helen Ruth Kerr.

"Polonaise" (Chopin) — Isabel Bygott.

Rose Drill—Monica Blute, Enid Richardson, Isabel Bygott, Bernice Farrell, Ruby Towsend, Roxie Wilson, Muriel Linton and Helen Thomas.

Chorus, "Good Night."

Accompanists for the evening were Bernice Farrell, Hilda Jones, Monica Blute, May Fowlds, Frances Jones, Marie Crossen, Lucille Welsh, and Agnes Robertson.

This programme was an excellent showing of the musical talent of younger Campbellford and does credit to the teachers and to their pupils.

FAREWELL PARTY.

Given in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parker of Rawdon Township.

MARMORA, Oct. 4.—Friends and neighbors assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parker in Rawdon township on Monday evening to do honor to them before their departure for Peterborough. During a very pleasant evening enlivened by games and dancing a presentation was made of a very pretty wicker chair towards which residents of Tiffon and Blairton subscribed. The following address was read:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Parker,—We, the few of your friends and neighbors, have gathered together this evening to endeavor to express in a slight degree the esteem in which you are held by us.

We deeply regret that you are about to sever your connection with us, but can assure you that with your departures, you carry along with you the goodwill and fellowship of your neighbors. We have always found you a splendid neighbor, one who was ready to lend a willing hand on any occasion. It must be with a feeling of satisfaction that you can abandon your chosen occupation and devote your future time to your well earned retirement. As a tangible expression of our appreciation, please accept this gift. We all join in wishing you prosperity, sucess and many happy days in your future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker both made suitably replies.

ONE BRIEF SPLASH

eleven pumpkins looked their biggest for the eye of the judge.

The spacious cattle barn was filled with stock, the swine and sheep pens seemed as largely tenanted as usual, and the grain and vegetable displays were very creditable.

In the ladies' department there were entries that have made a profitable round of fairs in the district.

The school fair championships of the county did not sustain the success expected of it due to the fact that the teachers' convention announced for Warkworth was transferred to Ottawa. As result many of the teachers were away and the exhibits were not brought out as abundantly as was planned.

Yesterday afternoon a parade of school children from the local and neighboring schools, headed by the Salvation Army Boys' Band, wender along the main street to the fair grounds, where the schools' competition in marching exercises and other accomplishments resulted as follows: 1st, Union S.S. 3 and 29 Brighton and Percy, Miss Jennie Dilsworth, teacher; 2nd, S.S. 22, Cramahe, Castleton, George Clarke, teacher; 3rd, S.S. 9 Hamilton township; 4th, S.S. 12 Murray (Bethel); 5th, S.S. 1 Seymour, Earl Fairman, teacher.

Music Competition.

An interesting innovation in the main building was a competition by girl students of the piano. Mr. Albert Hazel, organist of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, was the arbiter and announced the winwinners as follows: 1st, Frances Jones, 2nd, Ina Bowen, 3rd Beatrice Jones. The Misses Jones are daughters of Rev. Mr. Jones of Warkworth and were taught by their mother, who is a talented pianiste. Miss Bowen is a pupil of Miss Hardy. The noise about the building was not helpful to either the contestants or the judge, but as a diverting feature it offered possibilities even in spite of the lack of the advantageous accommodation on the large scale which the Toronto exhibition boasts.

And the Horse Races.

The races held the attention of hundreds of spectators. Trenton and Port Hope entries took a large cut of the money, but Elmhirst's "Dick Winger," after losing the first heat in the 2.50 class, stepped home three times in a row to win handily from the Trenton threat.

The Reports of the Spies

Text: Numbers 13:23-33.

And they came unto the brook of Eshcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a staff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.

The place was called the brook Eshcol, because of the cluster of grapes which the children of Israel cut down from thence.

And they returned from searching of the land after forty days.

And they went and came to Moses, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the wilderness of Paran, to Kadesh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and shewed them the fruit of the land.

And they told him, and said, We came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and surely it floweth with milk and honey; and this is the fruit of it.

Nevertheless the people be strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled, and very great: and moreover we saw the children of Anak there.

The Amalekites dwell in the land of the south; and the Hittites, and the Jebusites, and the Amorites, dwell in the mountains; and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan.

And Caleb stilled the people before Moses, and said, Let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.

But the men that went up with him said, We be not able to go up against the people; for they are stronger than we.

And they brought up an evil report of the land which they had searched unto the children of Israel, saying, The land, through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and all the people that we saw in it are men of a great stature.

And there we saw the giants, the sons of Anak, which come of the giants; and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 10. The Reports of the Spies. Numbers 13:23-33.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.,
Editor of The Congregationalist

With what eyes do we see? Simply with the eyes of material vision or with the eyes of the soul?

The question is enforced for us by many incidents and teachings of Scripture among which is this very notable story of the Twelve Spies sent from Israel to bring back reports concerning the Promised Land.

In material vision, the spies were agreed. There was unanimity as to the goodliness of the land. Its natural resources were wonderful. It was a land flowing with milk and honey. Lest their reports should seem full of exaggeration, the spies brought with them as they returned, great bunches of grapes in proof of their description.

But here the unanimity of the spies ended, for ten viewed the land only with material vision, while two viewed it with eyes of the soul. To the ten, it was simply the land of Canaan, desirable, but beset with difficulties—a land inhabited with giants, full of terror for those who would attempt to possess it.

Fear Quest Is Hopeless.

There was no doubt whatever in their minds that it was a hopeless quest for so weak a company as the children of Israel. The ten probably considered themselves very sane, practical men, competent to see things just as they were. They no doubt prided themselves upon their common sense. They were hard-headed men without vain imaginings.

The two, on the other hand, saw this desirable country as a Promised Land. It meant for them the goal of a spiritual quest and they were not going to be lightly turned aside from a glorious purpose by difficulties.

They did not estimate the power and strength of things by mere size. They knew that men of faith and courage and determination might easily put to flight giants lacking in these qualities. They said concerning this land "we be well able to possess it." They were men of the stamp of Elisha, who later on in the conflicts of Israel, as he saw the city encompassed about with horses and chariots, was unmoved by the danger that beset his servant.

"Fear not," said Elisha, "for they that be with us are more than they that be with them," and as Elisha prayed that the eyes of his servant might be opened, "the Lord opened the young man's eyes and he saw: and behold the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha." That is the power of spiritual vision—to see the mountains full of horses and chariots of fire round about one in times of need; to know that God's power is unquenchable, no matter how many and mighty seem the fiery darts of the wicked.

Spiritual Vision.

It is worth while to turn from this lesson to a survey of history both sacred and secular, in so far as this distinction may be observed, to discover how essentially this conception of spiritual vision is vindicated in life. We find expressed the truth in great maxims that have become proverbial in their power: "The blood of martyrs is the seed of the church," "Truth crushed to earth shall rise again," and "No cross, no crown."

The cynical boast of Napoleon that God is on the side of the great battalions found its signal, tragic and complete answer in the issue of his own career. History vindicates the vision and courage of the men of faith. It is for the most part the story of the conquest of spiritual over material forces. It is full of the records of the triumph of seemingly small forces which had the power to overcome.

Merely as a story from the ancient past, this lesson is, in a sense, unimportant, but as a symbol of what is constantly true of life, it has the utmost importance. It comes home directly to men like ourselves in our own age and environment.

Facing Our Future.

How do we face our promised lands, of individual betterment, of social hope and improvement? Do we fall back before the seeming power of the dragons and giants in the way? Or do we put on the whole armor of God and venture forth determined to conquer? God is on the side of the men of faith and courage.

This is supremely the lesson of history as it is supremely the spiritual message of the Bible. The applications of such a lesson as this to the issues of current life must surely be clear.

We think of innumerable promised lands, of social betterment, the attaining of better industrial conditions, of deeper honesty and efficiency in government; of health and happiness in the life of the community.

We think of larger issues of international comity and world peace. No promised land that is worth possessing presents itself without difficulties and the need of conquest.

The way of progress is a way of effort, of sacrifice, of determination, but the world still finds its progress and its hope in the courage and faith of the two rather than in the fear and discouragement of the ten.

MEETING HELD IN CAMPBELLFORD

Various Societies Hold Regular and Social Gatherings.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 9.—The Mission Circle of St. John's church held its autumn rally meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. L. Malcolm. Miss Cherrie Turner and Miss Irene Stephens sang a duet, Mrs. R. W. Scott sang a solo and Mr. G. A. Kingston gave a reading.

The business of the Circle was transacted, after which games and contests were played. Mrs. Malcolm served refreshments and was given a hearty vote of thanks for her hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Cassan entertained the members and their friends of the Order Chapter No. 63 at their home on Palliser Street on Wednesday evening. There were about seventy guests and an enjoyable social evening was spent. Progressive euchre was played and the following were winners:

Ladies first for games, Miss Morrison; Miss M. Williams, lone hands; Mrs. Butters, consolation. Gent's prizes: Mr. Rigby, games; Mr. Butters, lone hands; Mr. Lee, consolation.

The hostess served a dainty lunch, after which many danced to the tune of the piano and violin.

Mrs. Huffman and Mrs. Butters on behalf of the visitors extended a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Cassan for their hospitality.

Captain Hyland of the Regent Theatre is offering a handsome medal to a pupil of the Public or Separate schools who writes the best essay on the part Canadians played in the Great War.

The ladies of St. Andrew's Church held their regular W.M.S. meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hume presided and was assisted by Mrs. Rorke of Norwood.

After the business and devotional exercises an excellent program was given. Miss Kathleen Connor sang a solo, after which Rev. Mr. Grier gave a short address on "Missions", fields at home and abroad. Miss Connor again sang, after which lunch was served by Mrs. Battisby, Mrs. Meiklejohn and Mrs. Garnet Curle, convenors of the refreshment committee. There was a good attendance and a pleasant social afternoon was spent.

WEDDING BELLS.

JOHNSTON—RANNIE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 9.—A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, October 6th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Rannie, Burnbrae, when their younger daughter, Marjorie was united in marriage to Mr. Carl Johnston, son of Mrs. T. Weatheril and the late Alex Johnston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. D. Daniel in the presence of immediate relatives and friends.

After the wedding lunch, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left for a motor trip to Guelph and Barrie.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside in town, where the groom has a position on the Hydro staff.

WOODS—TANNER.

APSLEY, October 9. — A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Stephens Church, Chandos, on Wednesday afternoon, October 6th, when Minnetta Tanner, second daughter of Mr and Mrs. Robert Tanner, became the wife of Donald Thomas Woods, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Woods, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. C. Spence.

The bride was given away by her brother Wilbert, and was attended by her sister Josephine, who was dressed in powder blue silk and hat to match, the bride being gowned in white silk and bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of pink roses. The bridegroom was attended by George Tanner. The young couple will reside in Chandos.

The harvest thanksgiving services at St. George's and St. Stephen's Church on Sunday last were all well attended, there being standing room only at the latter church. Both churches were as usual very beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers and farm produce.

The rector preached appropriate sermons at all services and Gounod's anthem, "Praise ye the Father" was ably sung by the choir.

Born on Wednesday, October 6, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott (reeve of Chandos), a son.

NO PROGRESSIVE SUPPORT.

Mr. Arthur Roebuck, a Toronto lawyer who has always associated himself with the Progressive movement, is evidently trying to help Mr. Ferguson make up his mind as to the Government's attitude toward the liquor question.

To a reporter who interviewed him Mr. Roebuck remarked emphatically that the Government could count on no support from the Progressives, even if it declared for a dry policy.

As this is precisely what the wet wing in Mr. Ferguson's party has been trying to tell the Premier, the Progressive spokesman may have been endeavouring to precipitate a wet declaration on the part of the Government.

The Premier has so far refused to be coaxed, frightened or shamed into an announcement, however, and it is not likely that Mr. Roebuck's statement of Progressive intentions will have any effect.

NEXT WEEK'S BIG EVENT.

The Kiwanis Club's Produced-in-Canada Exhibition opens on Monday, and there will be a solid week of entertainment and education for the people of Peterboro.

All that remains to ensure the complete success of the event upon which local Kiwanians have been so faithfully working is for the citizens to liberally patronize the Exhibition, and judging from the advance sale of tickets, there need be no tremors on that score.

There will be something for everybody and new features daily.

In addition to the exhibits, which are extensive and varied, enough to provide a splendid attraction in themselves, there is a nightly programme well worthy of liberal patronage.

While the educational value of the affair has not been neglected, the Kiwanis Club has at the same time seen to it that the amusement side of the Exhibition has been carefully prepared, with the result that the event is well balanced.

The financial results should be in keeping with the enterprise and vision with which the Exhibition has been planned, in which case the splendid activities of the Kiwanis Club will not suffer from lack of funds.

A RAILWAY HERO.

Out of the horror of the recent grade crossing accident at Belleville comes one bright gleam, the story of the heroism of Engineer Billy Burnett, of Smith's Falls.

The history of railroading is replete with instances of great bravery, yet the chronicles contain nothing more stirring than the recital of the way in which this gallant engineer stuck at his post.

It will be remembered that when Burnett's locomotive, travelling at a high rate of speed, struck the ill-fated truck the gasoline carried by the latter immediately ignited, and the train was in a fraction of a section enveloped in a sheet of fire.

The fireman jumped, but Burnett, with flames beating at his face and setting fire to his garments, the cab of his locomotive a furnace, kept his hand on the throttle, and brought the train to a stop before he sought to escape from the menacing flames.

Had he thought only of his own safety and deserted his post, the accident might have had even more terrible results.

The best traditions of his profession were upheld by this heroic engineer, whose heroism will undoubtedly be fittingly recognized.

A GREAT CANADIAN INSTITUTION.

In the series of advertisements that have been published by General Motors of Canada there is a keynote of genuine Canadianism that doubtless has been appreciated by the citizens of this country.

The company set out to tell the story of a great Canadian institution which is helping materially to build up industry in this country and to develop Canada's export trade, and it has succeeded admirably.

It does well to remind Canadians that the immense concern now known as General Motors of Canada is not a new organization, but is the result of sixty years of service to Canada and Canadians.

People forget that from the brains of Robert McLaughlin, a farm lad, whittling axe helves for his neighbors, sprang Canada's greatest automotive industry.

They need to be reminded that General Motors of Canada is a Canadian institution, staffed by Canadians, employing Canadian workmen, using Canadian dealers and distributing Canadian-built cars wherever the flag of Britain flies.

In this connection The Examiner would emphasize the slogan of General Motors of Canada, "It's Better Because It's Canadian," as something to remember when next week's Produced-in-Canada Exhibition is being held, and to quote the following article from The Toronto Saturday night as particularly fitting in the same regard:

"This journal desires to congratulate General Motors of Canada, Limited, which, as everyone knows, is one of Canada's greatest producers of motor cars, on its choice of a true slogan. 'It's Better Because It's Canadian' says General Motors, thereby stating a fact that is steadily becoming better known abroad, but is insufficiently recognized in Canada itself.

"Generally speaking, Canadian-made goods are the best that are produced anywhere because they combine the honest workmanship and quality characteristic of Great Britain with the progressiveness of America.

"Nowhere else can such an ideal combination be found.

"While the very striking growth of Canada's export trade shows that more and more consumers abroad are appreciating the high quality of our products, the volume and variety of our imports indicate inferiority complex.

"It is high time that we realized the truth. Canadian-made goods are usually better than others for the simple reason that they have been made in Canada by Canadian workmen."

EMPIRE POLICIES.

Dispatches from many sources indicate that foreign policy will be the chief topic of discussion at the forthcoming Imperial Conference. Mr. George Hambleton's interesting review from Ottawa, appearing in The Border Cities Star on Saturday, threw a good deal of light on the situation.

Is it feasible, Mr. Hambleton asks, to conduct a common foreign policy for the British Empire; that is, a policy in the formulation of which the Dominions continuously participate and the responsibility for which they must share? If it is feasible, how best can continuous participation be established? On the first question, Mr. Hambleton points out, Premier Hertzog, of South Africa, and Premier Stanley Bruce, of Australia, stand at opposing poles. The former advocates return to the "international status," which, he says, was accorded the Dominions under the Treaty of Versailles, while the Australian leader believes the adoption of such a policy would mean disruption of the Empire.

What is Canada's view, or, at least, what is the view of Canada's Premier? Mr. King, it is said, believes that the only workable course is by frank recognition of the following basic principles:

1. That neither Great Britain nor the Dominions should seek to control those foreign affairs which are the primary concern of one Dominion.

2. That the Dominions should not seek to control foreign affairs which are the primary concern of Great Britain.

3. That, on the other hand, all Governments of the Empire must confer on issues fundamentally affecting all parts of the Empire.

A first essential, of course, is to distinguish between matters which are of primary interest to one part of the Empire and should be settled by it, and those which are of interest to all and requiring common consultation. This sounds simple enough, but it is not as simple as it appears. In trade matters, of course, it is easy to see how each part of the Empire can stand on its own bottom, but in questions of defense the problem is far more complicated. What will be the position, Mr. Hambleton's dispatch asks, if the Dominions do not choose to accept Empire obligations, the Locarno treaties, for instance; especially if Great Britain at some time or another has to use force under the provision of these treaties? Will the Dominions be passive belligerents, technically at war, but taking no active part? Or will they—as has been contended—be virtually independent neutrals? The Locarno treaties themselves, it is noted, specifically provide that no obligation is imposed on a Dominion unless such obligation is freely assumed by such Dominion.

The whole subject is fraught with many perplexities and the discussions of the Imperial Conference will therefore be watched with the keenest interest. There is certainly excellent ground for Premier King's reported contention that neither Great Britain nor any Dominion should seek to control those foreign affairs which are the primary concern of one Dominion. Indeed it is on this assumption that a Canadian Ambassador to Washington is to be appointed, both major political parties of Canada being committed to this move. It is generally recognized that there are many matters to be discussed from time to time between Canada and the United States, matters that are not of primary Empire interest. The halibut fisheries treaty, referred to in these columns the other day, afforded a case in point. It set something of a precedent. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, with plenipotentiary powers from His Majesty, acted for Canada in this matter. The British Ambassador at Washington did not figure in the proceedings. His name was not signed to the treaty as in previous documents of the kind.

The halibut fisheries treaty was only one matter. There have been and will be many others. This is inevitable between countries whose trade and social relations are as close as those obtaining between Canada and the United States.

In all the discussions now in progress, in the press and everywhere else, it is well to keep one point in mind, and that is that a decided change in Empire relationships has taken place. For the most part it is not in writing; but it exists. Great Britain, Canada, Australia, South Africa and the others are equal partners in a great league of British nations. In this partnership, a comparatively young one, there are many points to be worked out, many different viewpoints to be reconciled. There should be nothing disturbing, however, in this situation. It is progress and its eventual result will be to make Great Britain, Canada and the other members of this British League of Nations stronger and more influential than ever before. The transition period presents difficulties, but the peoples of the British Empire have shown themselves adept in solving difficulties. They can solve them now as they have always done.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition a real success by ensuring a large attendance each night.

Some of the World's Series experts are making as unfortunate a showing as a lot of the political prophets did last month.

Col. Ralston will be a source of strength to the new Cabinet. His knowledge of the problems of the war veterans will enable him to be of real service to the men who fought.

Mr. Roebuck declares that the Ontario Government will not get any support from the Progressive party, even if it declares for a dry policy. But surely the Progressive spokesman doesn't think Mr. Ferguson ever expected any help from that quarter.

Hon. E. C. Drury is to be in the thick of the Provincial fight. The Crown Hill statesman will soon have as many unsuccessful attempts to his credit as Jimmy Simpson, the Labour standard-bearer.

Some folks still have the idea that "lying in state" has something or other to do with the politicians.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

DR. NEAL PRESIDES.

PORT HOPE, Oct 9.—Dr. F. C. Neal of Peterborough presided when about 75 doctors of the Ontario Medical Association from Victoria, Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Hastings and Haliburton Counties, held a convention here at the United Church Thursday.

The first address following the welcome to the visiting physicians was by Dr. H. M. Yelland, Peterborough. Other speakers were Dr. R. I. Harris, Toronto; Dr. F. R. Clarkson, Toronto; Dr. G. S. Cameron, Peterborough, and Dr. I. Herb. At six o'clock the physicians were tendered supper by the Gleaners' Society of the United Church, following which Dr. T. C. Routley, Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Medical Association, and Dr. Edgar Brandon, North Bay, president of the Association, addressed the gathering. The address entitled "Two Sciences," by Chancellor Bowles, of Victoria College, Toronto, was the final one on the programme.

The District Nurses' Association was also in convention in Port Hope Thursday, the meeting place being at Port Hope Hospital.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"TO PEEVE"

By C. N. LURIE

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

If you want to poke fun at the highly dignified art or science of grammar, you may say that the word "peeve" peeves the grammarian and writer on good English. He doesn't like it. Therefore, don't peeve him by using it.

"Peeve" is slang. There's no doubt about that. Only the very latest dictionaries contains the word, and they call it slang. Webster's New International Dictionary defines it thus, "To make or become peevish or ill-tempered," and says it is probably derived from "peevish", which is a word in perfectly good standing.

In using seven or eight words to define the slang word "peeve", the dictionary foreshadows the probable acceptance of the word. If there is no single word that is synonym for "peeve"—"vex" or "irritate" does not seem to convey exactly the same meaning—the English language will almost certainly, in time, adopt it. But in the meantime it is not accepted by good authorities, and if one desires to be very choice in his use of words, he will not use "peeve."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—All grain and provisions went downward in price yesterday owing largely to cotton market weakness. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1 to 1 1-4c net lower; corn 1-8 to 1 1-2c off; oats at 1-8 to 1-2c decline, and provisions showing a setback of 25 to 95c.

For a brief time after the opening, wheat values here displayed an upward trend, helped by more decided strength of the Liverpool market, than had been looked for. Besides, weather conditions in Canada were rather adverse. Optimistic reports, though, about Argentine and Australian crop prospects together with dearth of fresh export demand for North American wheat led soon to a reaction that more than wiped out early gains. Indications of but little hope of prompt settlement of the British coal strike acted also as a weight on the wheat market, as pointing to continued call for ocean vessels to carry coal instead of grain.

It was at this juncture that the influence of the break in the cotton market took effect on grain sentiment. The stock market, too, appeared ragged enough at times to increase pessimism regarding stability of wheat prices then current. Under such circumstances, the wheat market dropped to about 2 1-2c from the day's top figures.

Subsequent rallies were due to mainly speculators collecting profits.

Selling out on the part of the holders of future delivery contracts in the corn market brought about a sharp decline in prices, with May corn touching the lowest level yet this season. Increasing reports of hof cholera were given a good deal of attention. Oats reflected the course of wheat and corn.

Provisions were pulled lower by the general break in commodities.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—The only export business reported on the Montreal grain market yesterday was the sale of a few loads of Manitoba Spring wheat in nearby positions to English importers. The trade in oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The feature of the local flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the Winter wheat situation and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel.

The foreign and local demand for Spring wheat flour was good and a fair amount of business was transacted at steady prices.

The volume of business done in millfeed was moderate and prices were unchanged. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats continued unabated and prices were firm.

Owing to the more liberal supplies of fresh eggs coming forward an easier feeling has developed in the local market and although no general decline has been announced some cutting of one to two cents per dozen has been going on. There was no change in storage eggs. The receipts were 1,130 cases.

The feature of the potato trade was the stronger feeling that developed and prices scored an advance of 5 to 15 cents per bag. This was attributed to the small deliveries that are being made for farmers on account of the bad condition of the roads in the country. The demand was steady and sales of car lots of New Brunswick Cobblers were made at $1.35 to $1.40 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.10 to $1.15 per bag of 90 pounds.

The trade in beans was quiet, but the tone of the market was firm with car lots of choice white hand-picked quoted at $2.40 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $2.50 to $2.60 per bushel.

A moderate amount of business was worked in butter and values were well maintained. The receipts were 1,665 packages.

The cheese trade continued extremely dull and prices were again easier. The receipts were 8,468 boxes.

81 COCKTAILS!

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Having received complaints from American visitors that their list of cocktails was not comprehensive enough, the committee of a West End Club has prepared a menu containing no fewer than 81 appetizers. Among them are the "Old Etonian," "Depth Bomb," "Whiz Bang," "Diki Diki," "Monkey Bland," "Princess Mary," "Gloom Raiser" and "Third Degree." Included among the dry cocktails are highballs, "smashes," and "pussyfoots."

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

A FOODLESS WORLD

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Every once in a while some scientific prophet announces that the food in this world is about to run out.

Malthus maintained that while the population grew in geometrical proportion, the food supply grew in arithmetical proportion, and consequently there would soon not be food enough to supply all the people.

And now comes Sir Daniel Hall, who tells the British Scientific Association that we are verging toward a wheatless world. While our population is increasing at the rate of five million yearly, the wheat producing lands have been about exhausted.

In spite of vast irrigation schemes and other attempts to cultivate poor land, the wheat supply is running short. In many countries there has actually been a shrinkage since the war.

The number of white peoples is still growing, but where, he asks, is the land that will support them?

He says also that the world is eventually all going to turn to prohibition in order to save the grain used in the manufacture of alcoholic beverages.

He adds the interesting remark that the race which cuts out meat and alcohol in order to multiply will become a permanent slave type like worker bees.

All this is based upon the fact that mankind's fate is linked up with its wheat production.

The eating of wheat products, however, is largely habit. Other foods just as nourishing can take the place of wheat.

The edge of the tropics, for instance, has only been used for bananas, and the American peanut is very nourishing.

There is no doubt that the ingenuity of man will discover some other form of nutriment if his wheat supply be exhausted.

It is only a comparatively short time ago that the potato and tomato came into use for general consumption, and now potatoes form a considerable proportion of the world's food supply.

Essex was built to meet the demand for a small car of enduring and brilliant performance. It was never intended to dominate a price field.

Consequently its design and construction are different from the usual practice in cars selling at or near its price.

And so, also, is its performance. You see this on every hand, in the nimble, powerful way it speeds over the open road or threads through congested traffic. You see it in the endorsement of owners and the lasting character of its performance.

Essex quality is not confined to those details which please the eye. It extends to parts that can never be realized except through long severe service.

Look well to these important details when you choose a car. Be sure it is built to last, built to give long service at small cost. Ride in an Essex "6". Drive one. Note the ease of its operation and that no car regardless of size or cost rides easier.

Standard Equipment Includes: Combination Stop and Tail Light, Automatic Windshield Cleaner, Transmission Lock (built-in), Rear View Mirror, Radiator Shutters, Moto-Meter.

NOT CONCERNED ABOUT SOCIETY

Reception of His Bride Does Not Matter Says Stillman.

GIRL DIFFERENT.

NEW YORK, October 9 (Canadian Press).—James (Bud) Stillman, heir to millions, is not much concerned about how New York society will receive Lena Wilson, the little backwoods girl from Canada, he expects to make his wife.

He is more interested in plans for their marriage, some time in June, and in the unqualified approval of the match expressed by James A. Stillman, the banker.

"I don't see that it matters," young Stillman said, when asked Thursday at Princeton University about his bride's qualifications for entering metropolitan society. "Personally, I'm not interested in society. After we're married I expect to settle down and have friends, and it won't matter much to me whether they're in society or what they're doing, so long as I like them."

"Different," He Says.

The 23-year-old youth who some day will fall heir to millions talked reluctantly in his modest dormitory room of his prospective bride, who has spent her entire life in the woods surrounding his mother's estate at Grand Anse, Quebec. She was "different from ordinary girls," he said, "old-fashioned in a way," and her first encounter with city life will be when she arrives in New York with his mother about November 15.

Miss Wilson does not smoke nor drink, he said, nor do the Charleston or other modern dances. She dances, though, mostly waltzes and the old-fashioned square dances, the steps of which she taught him last summer. She excels in hunting, canoeing and fishing, and plays—the mouth-organ and accordion.

Bud grinned when asked if Miss Wilson was fascinated with pretty clothes, and replied: "I don't know. She's never had any."

THREE NEGROES SHOT TO DEATH

Mob Slays Two Men and Woman Waiting Trial For Murder.

AT AIKEN, S.C.

AIKEN, South Carolina, Oct. 8 (Canadian Press).—A mob early today stormed Aiken Jail, seized three negroes, one of them a woman, and shot them to death in a pine thicket just outside the city.

The negroes lynched were Clarence and Demon Lowman, and the latter's sister, Bertha Lowman. The two men had been sentenced to death and the woman given a life sentence at a first trial, and were on trial a second time for murder in connection with the death of a sheriff who was killed when, accompanied by several deputies, he went on a liquor raid to the home of Sam. Lowman, father of Demon and Bertha Lowman, and uncle of Clarence Lowman. The new trial was granted by the State Supreme Court and began early in the week.

Estimates of the number of men in the mob varied. The cutting of electric wires left the jail and the whole town in darkness, making it impossible, according to officers, to identify members of the mob.

One of the contentions of the defendants at the first trial was that they were not aware that the raiders were officers. Annie Lowman, mother of Demon and Bertha, was shot and killed by one of the officers. Clarence was alleged to have fired a shot and killed Sheriff Howard. Bertha was shot through the body during the raid.

GEN: VON SEECKT QUITS ARMY POST

Allowed Prince Wilhelm To Join in Recent Army Manoeuvres.

BERLIN, October 9 (Canadian Press).—With characteristics directness, President Von Hindenburg yesterday called in Major-General Von Seeckt personally to accept the General's resignation as Commander-in-Chief of the Reichswehr, spurning the idea of writing him a letter.

General Von Seeckt tendered his resignation as a consequence of the cry that was raised in Republican circles over the action of Von Seeckt in permitting Prince Wilhelm, son of the former Crown Prince, to have a part in the recent manoeuvres of the Reichswehr. The General's supporters say it was his desire to meet with the wishes of Prince Wilhelm's mother, Crown Princess Cecelie, that prompted his action.

Telling General Von Seeckt that he had decided to grant his request for discharge, President Von Hindenburg said: "I thank you for your extraordinary services to the Fatherland in war and peace."

This sentiment is reported by virtually all the newspapers, the observation being made that "the worthiest of all German soldiers in uniform since the war has retired on pension."

ONTARIO SECOND IN HOLSTEIN SHOW

Herd From Province Close To Wisconsin Herd For Grand Prize.

DETROIT, October 8. Canadian Press. — Canada wound up with a grand sweep in its extensive prize-winning in the Holstein classes at the National dairy show when Judge W. S. Hoscrip this morning awarded the second prize to the Ontario Breeders' Association on the herd of eight animals shown in competition for state associations. Wisconsin won the blue ribbon.

Ontario was a close second in the spoken opinion of the judge. Wisconsin, he remarked afterwards, took the award for their octette because of the fact that two of them were yesterday adjudged grand champion cow and grand champion bull in the Holstein division. The Canadian herd was uniformly better.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY SERVICES

Special Services at Wooler Friends' and United Schools

WOOLER, Oct. 8.—The Friends' Sunday school held its annual Rally Day on October 3. The day being fine there was a good attendance from the community and near by Sunday schools.

The theme of the exercises of the day was "Jesus the light of the world". This was shown by an exercise in which between thirty and forty children took part. A large candle represented Jesus as bringing light to the dark world. Twelve little boys and girls representing the Apostles, lighted their candles from the large central light and placed them in a circle about it. These were followed by twenty other young people lighting their candles representing the light bearers in the world; as St. Paul, St. Augustine, Robert Moffatt, Livingstone, John Williams, etc. This was very impressive and was well given by the children.

A baby's basket containing a dainty toddler was decorated with flowers by four little girls who sang a welcome to the Sunday school for the wee one.

Recitations and songs by the young people made up a varied programme which held the interest to the end.

There was a treat which will not be forgotten in the address by C. F. Wessels, superintendent of the United church Sunday school, who told the boys and girls that evil could not exist in a community where all went to Sunday school and tried to do their best, and that honest effort would be rewarded.

This service was brought to a close by singing,

March onward, march onward,
Our banner of light
Is waving before us majestic and bright.
March onward through trial, temptation and strife,
No rest from the conflict, the battle of life.

After which Rev. W. A. Rogers ofered prayer.

The Rally Sunday service in connection with the Gospel Senders Mission Band was held at the Stone School house on Sunday afternoon, October 3rd. The school room was beautifully decorated with autumn and harvest decorations. The president of the "Band", Julia Spencer, was in the chair.

Several vocal numbers were given, the first chorus given by the girls of the Mission Band.

A vocal duet, Mabel Forbes; a paper, Mrs. S. L. Terrill; a vocal solo, Laura Vosburg; a reading, Mrs. Percy Gooding; a vocal solo, Julia Spencer; an address by the district president of the W.M.S., Mrs. Swetman, Brighton; a vocal solo, Mrs. Gillings; a closing address, Rev. H. B. Neal; a few remarks by Mrs. Hedley Ireland Carmen, and Robert Spencer.

After the offering, the meeting was closed.

The Nervous Strain of Modern Life

Brings Sleeplessness, Headache, Indigestion, Brain Fag, and Tired, Languid Feelings.

THERE is only so much nervous energy available in the human system at a given time and this is stored in the brain cells. This stored up energy is used to operate the machinery of the body. Not only the movement of the body but also the activities of the digestive organs, the breathing of the lungs, the action of the heart—all are dependent on the nervous energy supplied from the brain.

Under ordinary circumstances the supply is sufficient and all goes well. But excessive worry or mental exertion, fear or too strenuous habits of living bring about an emergency and nervous energy is consumed at an enormous rate.

The result is bankruptcy of the nervous system and a nervous breakdown.

Such a condition is very difficult to get away from. Habits of fear and worrying are formed and the patient seems incapable of regaining control of himself.

Outside help is absolutely necessary and is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This well-known restorative treatment feeds the nerves back to health and vigor.

Slowly at first but just as certainly new nerve force is built up until you feel your old vitality returning. With it comes confidence and health and happiness. 60 cts. a box, all dealers.

Will You Make This Test? At Our Expense

WE know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses exceptional restorative properties. We have seen it tested in many thousands of cases. But how are we going to prove this to you unless you try it.

You are the one to be benefitted. So it remains for you to make the test. We are going to supply you with the first box free of charge, so that you may get started with this great restorative treatment.

Do not expect one box to re-vitalize your run down nervous system or you will be disappointed. It takes a little patience to overcome a condition that has been months or even years in developing.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is not a mere relief and for this reason you must persevere in its use until the lost vigor is restored to the nerves. The fact that the results are thorough and lasting will encourage you to use the Nerve Food until you feel strong and well.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchical asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

YOUNG PEOPLE GIVEN PRESENT

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Simpson Honored By Gilmour Union.

RECENTLY MARRIED.

A large company, representative of the Young People's Union of the Gilmour Memorial Church met at the some of G. H. Simpson, Smith Township, last night, when presentation of a salad bowl was made to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Simpson, whose marriage was recently celebrated.

The evening began in the usual fashion, by selections and choruses, accompanied by piano and violin. After a piano solo from Beatrice McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson were called to the front by Gordon McGregor, who read the following address:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Simpson:

We, the members of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church B.Y.P.U., have great pleasure in presenting you with this salad bowl as a small token of our esteem for you both, and we wish you much joy and true happiness in your married life. May you both long be spared to enjoy each other's fellowship, trust and love, and may the blessing of God which maketh rich and addeth no sorrow be your portion now and ever.

With hand in hand
And hearts entwined
Upon life's fitful sea we start.
With prospects bright and love enshrined
Until death us do part.
Though trials may before us wait
We'll not give way to grim Despair,
Whatever yet may be our fate
Each joy and sorrow share.
United thus with cords of love
Our way through life we gladly take,
And firm resolve born from above.
Shall straight our pathway make.

(Signed) W. S. Edgar, Jean Scott, Clarence Mann, Beatrice McGregor.

The gathering then joined in the singing of "For They're Jolly Good Fellows." Short speeches expressing the good wishes of the community were made by Joseph Mann, Harold Lewis, W. Edgar, and Stanley Grant.

Games were played until close on midnight. Refreshments were served at the end of the programme.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

STUDY SKI SAFETY.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 9.—To cut down the number of accidents in the Alps and to acquaint guides with the new methods of winter climbing, a school for ski guides is planned here. Many guides are excellent skiers but lack the knowledge of weather conditions.

PROOF OF SHACK TO BE DEFENCE OF M'PHERSON

Evangelist's Counsel Will Try To Show That Shack Exists.

ATTACKS POLICE.

Says Officials Tried To Prove Story Untrue Instead of Seeking Kidnappers.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—Aimee Semple McPherson's defence became apparent yesterday for the first time since the beginning of the evangelist's preliminary hearing on charges of criminal conspiracy.

The defence will attempt to show that a "kidnap shack" does exist in Mexico; that persons answering the description of "Steve" and "Rosie" have been seen in the border country, and that the authorities' diligence has been centred on proving Mrs. McPherson's story of kidnapping untrue, instead of a search for the kidnappers.

Cross-examining Detective-Sergt. Alonzo B. Murchison, who testified that from an experience of twenty-six years as a desert tracker and peace officer he believed Mrs. McPherson's story to be a physical impossibility, Defence Attorney Gilbert sought to show that Murchison and his men had been neglectful in their investigation of the evangelist's charges.

A report filed by Sergt. Murchison at the time of his official investigation was read into the record. This report showed that various persons in Douglas had identified pictures of H. D. Hallenbeck, builder of the Angelus Temple Bible School, as those of a man who had been known in the border country as Fred Harvey. It also stated that this man was known to his friends as 'Steve' and that he was a close friend of one Rose McBride, a nurse.

The defence attorney brought from Murchison the admission that he had been given information pertaining to this couple by a Mrs. Kelly of Douglas, but that he made no attempt to check on the information. The report further disclosed that this couple had been in Douglast on June 19, 20 and 21, driving a small car which was left each night at a garage, "bearing evidence of having been driven hard over rough roads."

The prosecution scored on redirect examination when Murchison testified that to reach a shack at San Juan Ranch, which the witness told the defence he had not visited recently, although it answered the description of the kidnap shack, one would have to cross roads and fences.

Mrs. McPherson has told investigators that she crossed no roads or fences in walking to the border from her place of captivity.

Commissioned to Write Book.

Oliver Allstorm, a writer, was then called, and testified concerning a book he had been commissioned to write in the name of the evangelist on the subject of the kidnapping.

He testified that Mrs. McPherson had discussed with him the drowning of one of the men of the party searching for her supposedly drowned body. Mrs. McPherson is supposed to have denied all knowledge of this death when she testified before the grand jury.

Allstorm denied he had made demands for money upon Roland Rich Wooley, the evangelist's personal counsel, or upon Mrs. McPherson herself.

Gilbert asked Allstorm if he had not gone to Wooley's office and was told that he was a blackmailer and to get out.

Allstorm thundered a negative, and added: "He's an infamous liar."

Gilbert appealed to the court and Allstorm repeated his remarks, whereupon the Court threatened him with contempt if he injected any more improper language with his answers.

It developed during the cross-examination that Allstorm had given Wooley an opportunity to buy the ten-chapter story he had written about the kidnapping after the evangelist refused it. When Wooley declined to buy it, Allstorm said he sold it. Judge Blake had to threaten the witness to make him tell to whom he sold it.

He named several persons and firms, including the Rev. Bob Shuler of Los Angeles, and a magazine at Girard, Kansas.

Allstorm said one purpose of the book was to attack bootleggers, white slavers, motion pictures and later newspapers.

"But," said Allstorm, "Wooley advised against attacking the newspapers and we dropped that."

Evangelist's Birthday.

Putting aside all disconcerting thoughts of her court ordeal, Aimee Semple McPherson to-day relaxed in jubilant celebration of her 36th birthday anniversary. The Angelus Temple pastor faced the day with a declaration that never before has she been so "absolutely assured of complete vindication."

The strain of two weeks spent in almost daily court attendance was forgotten as the preliminary hearing for the evangelist, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wise Sielaff on charges of criminal conspiracy stood adjourned until Monday.

Brazilian Traction Drops Decline General On Market

TORONTO, Oct. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— Brazilian Traction again furnished the features on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, with over 28,000 shares changing hands. This issue opened at 115 7-8 and was heavily dealt in, finally closing for the week at 109 3-4. The decline of the milreis is believed to be responsible for the dropping off in price of the stock. Declines were general, however, many issues showing slight losses. Arnold was down 1-4 at 19 1-2 with 275 shares being dealt in. British Columbia Fish shared the decline, closing at 70 1-4, down 1-4. Kelvinator was down one and International Nickle also registered a decline of 1-8 at 35 3-4. McKinnon Voting Trust was unchanged.

Firmness Of Foreign Market Forces Price Of Wheat Down

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—Despite an upturn in Liverpool quotations, Chicago wheat market to-day showed an early downward trend. Firmness abroad was assigned to scarcity of available vessels for grain carrying, but the same circumstance was construed as bearish on this side of the Atlantic.

Starting unchanged to 5-8 cents off, Chicago wheat prices underwent a sag all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn opening unchanged to 1-8 cent lower and substantially suffering general setback.

CONVENTION OF CONSERVATIVES LIKELY IN JUNE

Party Executives of Eight Provinces Reply Favorably.

REVISE POLICIES.

New Permanent Leader Will Be Chosen at the Gathering.

TORONTO, October 9. Canadian Press. — The Conservatives plan to choose a new permanent party leader and formulate a policy for the party at a Dominion-wide convention to be held in June, 1927.

The party executives of eight provices have replied to a circular from the Dominion president, John R. McNicol, asking if it is the wish of the rank and file of the party to hold a Dominion convention and adopt a new policy, and in every case the reply is favorable to the holding of such a gathering.

Replies are all favorable to June of next year as being the b time, and either Winnipeg, Toronto or Montreal as the place of the meeting.

The British Columbia executive has not yet replied but it is expected to be strongly for the convention.

STEAMER SINKS.

OSWEGO, N.Y., Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—The small lake steamer Jeska, owned by Captain John Irwood of Kingston, Ontario, sank in Lake Ontario, ten miles north of the Fair Haven Harbor lighthouse early today. The steamer was laden with 225 tons of coal. No lives were lost.

The steam pipe on the steering wheel had given way a few moments earlier and the craft slipped into the trough of the seas and was filled with water.

Captain James Kirkwood and his crew of six men escaped in the Jeska's yawl and rowed to Fairhaven, thirteen miles west of her.

RIGHT WING LEADS PARTY CONVENTION

Reception Given Anti-Soviet Resolution an Indication.

WOULD END TREATY.

LONDON, Oct. 9 (New York Herald-Tribune special cable).—That the right wing of the Conservative party was in control of the party convention which closed last night was demonstrated by the reception given the resolution proposed by Sir William Bull, which called for termination of the trade agreement with Russia, the closing of all Soviet agencies in England, and the expulsion of all Soviet representatives.

The unanimous acceptance of this sweeping resolution is indicative of the drift of opinion within the party. Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, plans to receive Leonid Krassin, Soviet envoy, next week.

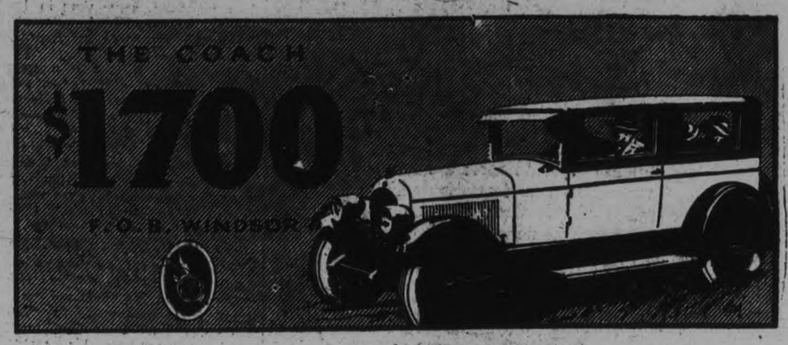
TRYING to compare the Chrysler "60" with an ordinary type of Six is like trying to compare two totally different things.

There can be no comparative measure of value, for instance, between the Chrysler "60", with its sixty-mile-and-more-per-hour capacity, and another car offering much less.

Just as sharply defined is the difference in the comfort of these sixty Chrysler-miles and the lesser speed and the less easeful speed of the other.

The vital factor which makes greater value in Chrysler "60" has its source in the-one-thing-which-cannot-be-copied—Chrysler creative engineering and precision manufacturing as expressed in the plan of Standardized Quality.

In the Chrysler "60" it expresses itself especially in qualities which stand out so sharply that you cannot mistake them—the most beautiful riding and handling qualities you have ever experienced, a most amazing agility, and a gushing wealth of power that never halts or hesitates for a single second.



Chrysler performance, long life and quality. Roomy, luxurious bodies with beautiful mohair upholstery in enclosed models. Attractive new color harmonies. Sixty miles, and more, per hour. Lightning acceleration. Amazing economy of 26 miles to the gallon. Characteristic Chrysler smartness and beauty. Phenomenal riding ease. Chrysler four-wheel hydraulic brakes. Oil-filter and air-cleaner. Full pressure lubrication. Seven-bearing crankshaft. Impulse neutralizer. Manifold heat control. Road levelizers, front and rear. The new lighter Six Chrysler "60" is the lowest-priced Six ever built which combines all these fine car features.

KAISER'S RETURN WILL BE OPPOSED

Prussian Liberal Parties Will Fight Clause of Property Bill

BERLIN, Oct. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—The Prussian State Council yesterday adopted the Government's compromise indemnity and settlement bill dealing with the property of the Hohenzollerns, the former ruling family in Germany. The Socialists and Communists voted against the measure, one clause of which is looked upon in some quarters as making it possible for the former Emperor to return to the country.

The Prussian State Council is a sort of advisory body which considers measures before they are actually placed before the Diet.

There have been indications by leaders of the liberal and radical parties of Prussia that they would oppose the clause of the new indemnity measure reading:

"Allowing for his former majesty's eventual wishes, the State places the castle of Homburg at the disposal of the ex-Kaiser and his Princess Wife, for life."

CO-OPERATION MEANS CONSERVATION

Visit Your Old Home Town this Autumn - note its Improvement

PLAN a trip this Autumn back to the old home town. Look up your boyhood friends. Renew and strengthen the ties formed years ago.

Take a trip. Note the fine homes, the beautiful lawns, the well-kept flower gardens. What an improvement in a few short years!

If you haven't travelled over Ontario's highways lately, you will be surprised in a change so noticeable.

The power of example is exemplified in the wonderful property improvement manifest today in Ontario's towns and Ontario's country-side, this because of Ontario's improved highways.

Ten years have not yet passed since the completion of the Toronto-Hamilton Highway—Ontario's first so-called permanent road.

You'll appreciate what Ontario is doing to improve its roads. You'll discover that what a few short years ago was a tiresome journey is now a trip of pleasure.

Enjoy the scenic beauty of the trip—Drive sanely—Excessive speed is dangerous and expensive.

The traffic patrol is endeavoring to save the roads to make them safer for everyone, rigorously punishing law-breakers. In your own best interest co-operate whole-heartedly.

PETROLEUM IN FISH

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—According to Professor J. N. Macfarlane, of the University of Pennsylvania, the true source of the world's petroleum lies in the numberless schools of fish that swim the ocean. The mossbunker, a small fish which exists in enormous schools, is one of the principal sources of supply, he says.

CARDINALS AWAY TO GOOD START

box to talk to Shawkey. He was evidently cautioning him for stalling around between pitches. Hafey fanned, swinging on a curve ball for a third strike. For the third time the Cardinals were trying the hit and run play. O'Farrell fanned, swung for a third strike. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Yankees—Combs went out on a grounder, Thevenow to Bottomley. Alexander was using a fast ball on the inside. Koenig struck out, swinging on a fast curve inside for his third strike. Ruth went out to Bottomley unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

When Ruth went out at first he was the 24th Yankee who faced Alexander went out in order.

Second Innings.

Cardinals—Thevenow sent out a high fly to Combs. Alexander flied out to Meusel. Holm threw his bat away swinging at Shawkey's curve. Holm sent up a high foul to Severeid. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Meusel got a two-base hit back of third, Thevenow being unable to gauge the ball in the sun. Thevenow threw out Gehrig at first, Meusel holding second. Thevenow robbed Lazzeri of a hit and threw him out at first, Meusel going to third. This saved a run. Dugan went out, Bell to Bottomley. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

Cardinals — Southworth sent a sharp liner to Combs, who had to come in fast to make the catch. Hornsby went out by the Koenig-Gehrig route. Bottomley up. Gehrig stood in his tracks and took Bottomley's fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Severeid spun a single over second base. Thevenow let Shawkey's grounder go through him, Severeid halting at second. A double play was in sight, but the Cardinal shortstop gummed it up. Combs forced Severeid, Alexander to Bell. Shawkey went to second on the play. Koenig sent a high fly out to Southworth, Shawkey holding second. Ruth went out to Bottomley, unassisted, for the second time. No runs, one hit, one error.

Fourth Innings.

Cardinals — Bell got a base on balls. Hafey sacrificed, Shawkey to Gehrig. Bell went out stealing, Severeid to Dugan. This was a fast ball on the inside corner. Meusel raced to the foul line and took O'Farrell's fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Meusel sent a hot hit to left for three bases. It was the first triple of the series; it was also Meusel's second hit of the game. Meusel scored when Hornsby took Gehrig's burning grounder and threw him out at first. Thevenow tossed out Lazzeri at first. Dugan singled past Alexander. Severeid struck out, swinging on a drop ball. One run, two hits, no errors.

Fifth Innings.

Cardinals—Thevenow pumped a hit into left. Alexander sacrificed, Gehrig taking his bunt and touching the Cardinal pitcher. Thevenow scored on Holm's single past Lazzeri. Dugan took Southworth's short roller and threw him out. Holm going to second. Lazzeri took Hornsby's seeming hit and got him at first. One run, two hits, no errors.

Yankees—Shawkey went after a fast curve. Shawkey whiffed, swinging for a third strike. Hafey gathered in Combs' fly. Koenig lifted to Holm. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Cardinals—Bottomley got a two-base hit into right. Bell hit a long fly into the left field stands, and it was foul only by inches. Bell struck out, going after a wide curve. Hafey fanned, swinging on a fast ball. O'Farrel fouled out to Dugan. No runs, one hit, no errors.

New York — The crowd was now cheering for a rally as Ruth came to the plate. Ruth walked, the fourth pitch being wide. Meusel sent up a high fly to Holm. Gehrig struck out and Ruth stole second. Gehrig swung for the third strike. Lazzeri flied out to Holm. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Innings.

Cardinals—Thevenow singled into left for his second hit of the game. Alexander sacrificed, but Lazzeri dropped Severeid's perfect throw at first, Thevenow going to second. Holm forced Thevenow, Severeid to Dugan. Alexander went to second. Alexander scored on Southworth's two-base hit into left, which Meusel lost in the sun. Holm went to third. Shawkey was taken from the box at this stage, being replaced by Shocker. Shocker warmed up a bit. The Yankee infield came in on the grass. Holm and Southworth scored on Hornsby's single through the box. Bottomley forced Hornsby when Koenig took Bottomley's grounder and touched second. This was a slow ball, that came up to the plate like a balloon. Bell got a home run into the left field stand, scoring Bottomley ahead of him. It was a hard smash, and he got a big cheer as he crossed the plate. Hafey lashed a long hit into left for two bases. The Cardinals' hitting was terrific. O'Farrell struck out, swinging for a third strike. Five runs, five hits, one error.

Yankees—Dugan went after a ball that was wide at the plate. Dugan's hot shot spurted off Bell's glove for a hit. It was Dugan's second hit. Bell took Severeid's hot grounder and overthrew first, Dugan going to third, Severeid stopping at first. The ball hit Bell on the arm and he rubbed it vigorously. Paschal batted for Shocker. Spencer Adams ran for Severeid. Paschal struck out, on three pitched balls. Dugan scored on Combs' hot line drive that slid off Thevenow's glove. Koenig went out, Bottomley, unassisted, Adams going to third and Combs to second. Thevenow threw out Ruth at first. One run, two hits, one error.

Eighth Innings.

Cardinals—Collins went in to catch for New York and Thomas went in to pitch in place of Shocker. Thevenow was hit by a pitched ball, which struck him between the shoulder blades. Alexander forced Thevenow, Thomas to Koenig. Holm hit into a double play, Gehrig taking his grounder, touching first, then throwing to Koenig, who touched Alexander. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees — Meusel walked, the fourth ball being wide. Gehrig got a single over Bottomley's head, which Hornsby knocked down. Lazzeri flied out to Hafey. Southworth made a shoe-string catch of Dugan's liner and then doubled Meusel at second, Thevenow taking Southworth's throw. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Cardinals—Southworth got a long hit over second for three bases. Southworth scored when Hornsby's hot shot bounded from Thomas to Dugan, who threw out Hornsby at first. Bottomley went out, unassisted to Gehrig. Bell shot a single into right and was out stretching it, Ruth to Lazzeri. One run, two hits, no errors.

Yankees — Collins struck out, swinging on a wide curve. Ruether batted for Thomas. Reuther went out, Hornsby to Bottomley. Combs got a hit into right for two bases. Koenig flied out to Holm. No runs, one hit, no errors.

POLICE ALLEGED TO BE ALLIED WITH CRIMINALS

Federal Officers Will Expose Conditions in Chicago.

RECORDS SEIZED.

City and District Attorneys on Payrolls of Various Gangs.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9. — The corrupt alliance alleged by one of the grand juries that investigated the murder of W. H. McSwiggin, assistant state's attorney, to exist among politicians, public officials and criminals is due for exposure by the Federal authorities.

The first attack was directed yesterday at the police, and has the endorsement of Mayor Dever and Chief of police Collins. Under a subpoena, police records in Maxwell station district were seized. It was in this district that the Genna brothers operated before three of them were killed in gang and police warfare.

In the trial of Callice and Ansellmi for killing a policeman, the defense produced a book showing that 250 policemen were on the payroll of the Genna brothers. The Government is digging into this feature of the alliance. The charges are that the policemen drew from $15 to $125 a month for protection; that a squad from State's Attorney Crowe's office was on the Genna payroll; that three squads from the detective bureau were receiving $400 to $800 a month each, and that the payroll for May, 1925, totalled $6296.

Mayor Dever said: "I am for any investigation of the police department the government cares to make. If there's anything wrong I want to know it."

"Crime Trust."

United States Attorney Olson, though reluctant to discuss the character of the evidence against Chicago's "crime trust" already gathered by the government, made it plain that witnesses would be protected at any cost. The Federal prosecutor did not deny that the Government already was in poossession of confessions from a dozen different sources, some of which resulted last week in the indictment of the 79 individuals, including the Mayor and Chief of Police of Cicero. Some of the confessions have not as yet been disclosed even to the grand jury.

Before the present Federal Grand Jury is discharged, it was freely predicted at the Federal building yesterday, indictments will be returned involving some of hte best known Chicago police officers, most of the members of the "Hymie" Weiss and Schemer Drucci gang, formerly led by Dion O'Banion, and several politicians and public officials.

Bootleggers, it is charged, are being continually picked up by detective squads and forced to buy immunity and then released without prosecution.

DANISH REDS INSULT VISITOR

Call President of Finland "Bloodhound" and Scatter Handbills.

SIX ARRESTED.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—An untoward incident occurred last night to disturb the visit to the Danish court of the President of Finland, Dr. Lauri Relander. A brilliant audience of diplomats, officials and prominent society personages had gathered at the Royal Opera House for a gala performance in honor of Dr. Relander, who was sitting next to the King and Queen in the royal box, when suddenly there were shouts from the gallery: "Down with the bloodhound from Helsingfors!" (the Finnish capital). The disturbers were six young Communists, who showered scarlet handbills all over the stalls from the balcony. One bundle fell in the lap of Queen Alexandrine, who appeared frightened. King Christian and Dr. Relander smiled, and the disturbance was drowned by the strains of the Finnish National Anthem. The Communists were roughly handled by others in the gallery and speedily arrested, whereupon the performance proceeded.

Jackie Coogan's Hair Cut Considered Worth Filming

HOLLYWOOD, Calif, Oct. 9 (United News).—Jackie Coogan has had a $250,000 hair cut. Jackie's long tresses were clipped off in San Francisco with cameras recording the action in 500 feet of film. It will be the last screen appearance of young Coogan as a "baby star."

The film which showed the shearing of the young star was insured for $250,000 and was the final sequence of his latest picture. Hereafter the boy star will play strictly juvenile roles, it was announced with his straight locks parted and patted close to his head. Jackie will be 12 years old this month.

At one time kings and nobles were the only ones permitted to wear beards.

SCOTT WRITES LIFE HISTORY

Hopes To Get Money For Further Legal Action From Sale.

TO HANG ON FRIDAY.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—Under sentence to be hanged less than a week hence, Russell T. Scott has written his history as an actor, a Canadian financier, and finally a man condemned to die for the murder of a Chicago drug clerk.

Scott hopes to realize from the sales of "In Shadow of the Rope" funds for a last legal effort to stay the death he has twice escaped by eleventh hour reprieves.

The third date of execution for Scott, whose brother is under life sentence as an accomplice, is October 15.

THEATRE AT THE GRAND

"THE STUDENT PRINCE"

The Messrs. Shubert's "The Student Prince" which will be seen here at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday next, matinee and evening, is the climax of these producers' achievements of nearly a quarter of a century of catering to theatregoers' tastes.

It represents three years of effort in assembling historical data; gathering costume material, listing of exceptional voices and the phrasing and re-phrasing of the expression and mood of the music, until everything was finally perfect to be shown a first audience.

That it is the outstanding musical play of our time is readily believed when it is stated that nine companies presented the operetta on tour last season.

It is one of those few theatrical entertainments that is "in the air" and everyone seems to want to see it and hear its wonderful melodies.

The company that will play here numbers close to one hundred persons, with a student male chorus of fifty, and an orchestra of twenty concert artists.

Seats will be placed on sale on Monday morning.

AT THE CAPITOL

NOTABLE CAST SUPPORTS VALENTINO IN HIS LAST PICTURE

When Rudolph Valentino comes to the Capitol on Monday next in his last picture, "The Son of the Sheik," he will bring along one of the greatest casts of any recent picture. His return to the Sheik role in which his public so esteemed him, was made in the very best moving picture company.

Vilma Banky, beautiful and exotic Hungarian actress who came to America a few years ago and has since appeared to advantage with Ronald Colman in "The Dark Angel" as well as with Valentino in "The Eagle," again appears opposite Valentino as the tortured dancing girl of the desert whose heart calls to the stern Son of the Sheik.

Montague Love, himself a star in pictures, plays the chief villain's role, and he is said to be so bearded and begrimed that admirers will hardly recognize him. In his robber band there is one chesty soul to whom a turban is a new thing. This famed beauty is none other than Bull Montana.

Agnes Ayres, who was finally the wife of the Sheik when Valentino played that dashing lover several years ago, returned to the screen as a courtesy to her friend and out of gratitude to a picture which meant so much to her success. In "The Son of the Sheik," Miss Ayres is the wife of the Sheik who thinks of the early days, as the Son Ahmed, lives the passions of the desert.

George Fawcett, veteran of a hundred "father" roles in noted films, is the renegade Frenchman whose indomitable will causes so many pangs to his beautiful daughter, Yasmin. Karl Dane, the famous "Slim" of "The Big Parade," has one of the leading supporting roles, as Ramadan, the giant friend of Ahmed and protector of Yasmin.

Scene from Rudolph Valentino's last picture, "The Son Of the Sheik", which will be shown at the Capitol on Monday.

AT THE REGENT

DEEP MURDER MYSTERY GIVES THRILL IN "SILENCE."

Convicted Man Shields Slayer at Risk of Own Life in Picture.

A luxuriously appointed drawing-room, three men engaged in heated argument, a beautiful girl of 17, a stream of vehement language in abuse of the girl's dead mother, a revolver shot, one of the men drops dead.

This is one of the tensely dramatic situations of Beulah Marie Dix's screen version of "Silence," a picturization of the celebrated stage success of the same name which will be shown at the Regent Theatre for three days, beginning Monday next.

Who fired the shot? Not Jim Warren, and yet Warren is convicted of the crime on evidence he has doctored in order to shift the blame upon himself. He is sentenced to hang and with the ordeal but a half hour away he maintains a rigid silence—he refuses to divulge the true story of the murder. Whom is Jim shielding—and why?

H. B. Warner, who plays the featured role, that of the condemned man, also played the lead in the sensational Broadway stage production of "Silence." Opposite Warner is Vera Reynolds, while the role of his crooked pal, Harry Silvers, who is mysteriously killed, is played by Raymond Hatton, Rockcliffe Fellowes, Jack Mulhall and Virginia Pearson are featured members of the cast, one of the strongest ever assembled for any picture.

EXPLORER TELLS OF DISCOVERIES IN BAFFIN LAND

J. Dewey Soper Returns From Two Year Sojourn in North.

COVERS 4,000 MILES.

Eskimos' Only Companion For Most of Time—

3,500 SPECIMENS.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—Some of the results of a "one-man" expedition into the interior of Baffin Island—a previously unexplored part of Canada — were known with the return to Ottawa yesterday of J. Dewey Soper, who has been two years in the north.

Mr. Soper covered more than 4,000 miles, and has returned with some 3,500 scientific specimens. The Department of Mines, which sent Mr. Soper into the Arctic, has expressed itself as "very well satisfied with the results attained," and adds that "many larger expeditions have much less scientific information and material."

While the complete results of the expedition will not be known until Mr. Soper makes his official report, in an interview he told of the exploration of Nettilling Lake, the interior of Baffin Island, with four Esquimaux. The lake has always been unmarked on maps of Canada. The work involved more than a thousand miles of travelling by dog sledge, a boat and canoe, and it has been shown that the lake was much smaller than originally supposed.

The 66 cases of specimens collected between July, 1924, and July, 1926, include birds, plants, skulls, insects, fish, geological, ethnological exhibits and photographs and sketches.

Mr. Soper, who has been studying at the University of Alberta, went north on the Arctic in 1923, and did some intensive work while the ship was on its customary cruise. He returned to Ottawa and went north again the following season, and remained there until this fall. Mr. Soper was enthusiastic over the benefits of radio to the policemen and scientific men in the north. From November until February all the detachments in the north received the personal messages sent to them, as well as excellent concerts from various parts of the continent. Oddly enough, it was found that a broadcasting station at Hastings, Nebraska, was best suited for messages going to the Arctic.

SCOUT NEWS

The opening meeting of the 4th Peterboro Troop was held last night in the Westclox building on George Street.

After the breaking of the Union Jack, inspection was held on general appearance, and a special inspection on handkerchiefs. A game was played that was enjoyed by all, then the patrols went to their different corners for a twenty-minute study session on badge work.

A number of exciting and enjoyable games were played, followed by the council fire, in which a number of songs were followed by a short talk on loyalty by the Scoutmaster, Mr. Corbett. Two Scouts, Chester Jones and Leslie Welch were presented with one year service stars.

The lowering of the flag, the singing of God Save the King, and the Scouts' silence ended the program of the evening.

Malcolm Morrison, Rubidge Street, Made Four Months' Voyage To Canada.

IS 94 YEARS OLD.

Relates Story of Days When Deer Were Shot From Doorstep.

"Few countries in the world have made such strides forward during modern times, as has Canada." This is the opinion of a near centenaria, Malcolm Morrison of Eldon Township, Victoria, one of that ever diminishing band of surviving pioneers, whose arduous and heroic labors, laid the foundation for the development of the Province and Dominion.

Mr. Morrison who is 94 years of age is at present residing at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGillvray, Rubidge street. He is a native of Islay, Scotland, and came, with ihs parents, to Canada at the age of 5 years, travelling on the old sailing ship, "American", on its last voyage as a passenger vessel. The voyage lasted four months. On the journey towards the interior, Mr. Morrison had his first view of oxen used as beasts of burden, part of the distance being covered in canal boats, drawn by these animals, and steered by men on the banks, who used long poles, to push the prow of the boat in the desired direction. Settlement was made at Eldon Township in what is now Victoria County, Peterborough being the metropolis of the entire district. Lindsay at that time was composed of one tavern, and even Toronto was a small community which boasted only two taverns.

Gaelic Speaking Community.

In Eldon a purely Gaelic speaking community was formed in the midst of the virgin forest. Giant pines, some of them 80 feet high and lesser timber surrounded every homestead. Bears and wolves in great numbers roamed freely over the lands that for centuries had known no human interloper save the Indian hunter. So plentiful was the game that the settler could bring down a deer with a well directed shot without stirring from his own doorstep. Nobody ventured any distance into the bush at night, without carrying a lighted brand of cedar bark, to frighten off the wolves. Wildcats were not uncommon; Mr. Morrison in his youth killing one by blows from a lumberman's handspike which was the only weapon available.

Money Scarce.

Money, says Mr. Morrison was a scarce commodity, but the settlers' wants were few as compared with those of the generation of the present day. As a natural corollary, prices were low, and labor was cheap. Boys sometimes worked for ten cents a day, and twenty-five cents a day seemed to them a princely wage. As a young man, Mr. Morrison cut cordwood at the rate of 45 cents a cord. Later, in the same woods, he received a dollar and a half a cord for his labors. Cows that now would sell for $75 brought $12; eggs were 9 cents a dozen; a lamb cost a dollar; calves were sold for a dollar each, and sometimes could not realize that price. Oxen were the draught horses of the pioneer farmer; the style jumper was the type of vehicle in use; corduroy bridges were used in the paths through the swamp, and streams were bridged by fallen trees stretching from bank to bank. Mr. Morrison distinctly remembers the interest aroused by the advent of the first cook stove and the first wagon in Eldon. The clothes worn by the settlers were the home spun materials, resulting from the labors of the women-folk. Grain was sometimes drawn by oxen through bush and over rural road to Whitby.

Mr. Morrison received his education at the primitive school house of the settlement, travelling from his home by a path through the woods which stood on the territory now occupied by well tilled farms. The seats in the school house were simply blocks of wood placed on end. The young Highlander whose mother tongue was Gaelic had considerable difficulty in following the lessons, in English and in reading from English text books. Like all the old time pioneers, he strongly emphasizes the spirit of comradeship which animated the early settlers in their dealings with each other.

Forest Wealth.

A good idea of the wonderful forest wealth of the country nearly a century ago is afforded in Mr. Morrison's statement that in his opinion, the value of the standing trees at the time of settlement was greater than the present value of the township, in spite of all the improvement and development that has been since effected. He speaks of field fences being erected in his younger days made of walnut and butternut. Frequently, he took part in the river drive of square timber through Peterboro down the Otonabee. During the past month, his son-in-law, Mr. Gillvray, took the veteran down the river to revisit scenes of his labors of many years ago, but Mr. Morrison could not recognize any of the once familiar places, so great have been the changes following the passing of years; even the river being much lower than it was half a century ago.

Mr. Morrison enjoys a unique distinction, in that he is probably the only individual still living who has personal recollection of Adam Scott, the first settler in what is now the city of Peterborough. While still very young, he saw the brawny Scotsman whose gigantic stature, herculean strength and obstinate refusal to bow to defeat and despair have become part of the life story of the city of Peterborough. Scott, who was a native of Edinburgh, stood 6 feet four inches in his stockings and weighed 260 pounds. He operated a mill in this district which was for many years, known as "Scott's Plains."

Mr. Morrison, who it is easy to discern, has been in his youth a favorable specimen of that type of manhood possessing both physical and mental vigour, so common among the early settlers, comes from a long lived stock. An elder brother died some weeks ago at the age of 96. During the present season he worked in the harvest field stooking sheaves. Although his hearing and seeing faculties are somewhat impaired, he can still tell his reminiscences in interesting fashion, and still cherishes his youthful love of the Gaelic tongue, and Highland lore and legend.

CLAIMS INVENTION STOPS ACCIDENTS

Vancouver Man Says It Will Stop Trains Before Breaks in Track.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9. Canadian Press. — Joseph W. Saunders, aged 40, of Vancouver, inventor, announces that he has perfected a device through which he believed it would be possible to eliminate 99 per cent. of all the railway accidents.

Saunders explained the device as consisting of a low voltage electrical wire running along the railway tracks which when affected by open switches, broken rails, washouts, slides or burned bridges, will automatically bring approaching trains to a halt in time to avert accidents.

Two railway accidents such as he hopes his invention will eliminate have played important parts in Saunders' life. Both of his parents were killed in a wreck near Hamilton, Ont. 38 years ago, while his own career as a locomotive fireman was cut short by injuries he received when he was 28 years of age, between Port Arthur, Ont., and Duluth, Minn.

"It was an open switch that caused the accident," said Saunders. "I saved my train by reversing the engine and applying the air brakes, but with the loss of eyesight in one eye, and several broken ribs. My railroad days were over, I became a mechanic."

BOY DRIVES PLANE.

GLASGOW, Oct. 9.—House parties in Scotland last month were mostly busy at the shooting boxes, but some hostesses provided other forms of entertainment. At Fintray House Lady Sempill offered airplane joy rides, with no less an aviator than her son, the Master of Sempill, who took the guests up for short flights daily.

GROUP OF THE GIRLS IN "THE STUDENT PRINCE," AT GRAND, MATINEE AND NIGHT, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 13.

A Canadian doctor, whose medical practice extended over a period of 20 years, noticed that one particular prescription was more useful for killing pain than all others combined. In the capacity of medical officer with a Canadian Battalion he proved the worth of his prescription in killing colds, coughs, la grippe, flu, rheumatism and other sickness caused by colds and exposure.

This prescription has since been made up in tablet form and is called KILLAKES. It is doing exactly the same good work here as it did for the boys when they were in the trenches.

FAIR AT ORONO GREAT SUCCESS; GOOD EXHIBITS IN EVERY CLASS

Competition For Prizes Keen, Especially in Horse Ring.

NEW BUILDING.

Drills and Exhibits of School Children Important Feature.

HILLBROOK, October 9. — The Clarke Township Agricultural Fair held at Orono on Wednesday, Oct. 6th, favored with fine weather in the afternoon though the morning was wet and unpromising, passed off successfully, with an attendance of about three thousand people.

Exhibits in practically every class were at least equal to and in many cases above the average, and especially outstanding was the competition in the horse ring where the judging was not concluded until nearly six p.m.

The new main building which replaces the one destroyed by fire two years ago, was a decided asset for this year's show and is a credit to the Agricultural Society and to the community at large. It is a fire-proof building of corrugated iron, 176 feet long by 70 broad, and erected at a cost of $5000, about half of which was collected by popular subscription this amount being supplemented by a grant of $1000 from the municipality, and the insurance from the old building. It is possible that the building may be further utilized as a skating rink this winter, and as it is the regulation O.H.A. size some good hockey is a feature upon which the local athletic association is counting.

School Children's Events.

The Durham Regimental Band, which furnished excellent music throughout the afternoon, headed the public school parade from the town hall to the grounds at 1 p.m., Colonel J. W. Odell acting as judge for the drills marching, appearance, yells, singing etc., which were all considered in the awarding of the prize money. Leskard school won first place, Orono came second, and Kendal third. The Leskard pupils with white middies, blue skirts, and red sashes and head bands, and with the Union Jack much in evidence, made quite a hit with their Maypole drill; Orono scholars gave a folk dance which appealed to the crowd, and Kendal, with the boys in overalls and carrying garden tools while the girls had work aprons, gave a garden drill; the gaily decorated wheelbarrow attracting much attention. Clarke Union pupils, though not prize winners, were favorites with the spectators in the kilties' costumes and the clever folk dance which they executed. The prize money was $12, $8 and $4 respectively.

The quality of the heavy draught horses was rather above the average, George Cochrane of Brooklyn, carrying off the Andrew Elder silver cup for the best horse exhibited; others showing in this class were Howard Glenny of Orono; A. J. Henderson and Son of Cavan; R. J. McKnight, Millbrook; N. Allin, of Newcastle; G. Skelding of Leskard; while in the light horses exhibitors were R. Fitchette of Orono; G. Lewis of Welcome; O. Cowan of Clarke; T. Cowan of Orono; G. E. Ball of Leskard, and C. Evans of Yelverton. A feature of the showing in heavy draught horses was the driving of the four-in-hand by Leonard Henderson, using his own and G. Skelding's horses and finishing in front of the grand stand after making the round of the track, the pleasure of the onlookers being expressed by hearty applause.

Cattle Exhibit Good.

The lack of proper shed accommodation is a drawback, but cattle, sheep and hogs were well represented, entries being especially large in the dairy cattle class, while beef cattle exhibits were a trifle below the average this year. In Shorthorns, Frank Rickard of Newcastle, W. S. Bragg and Sons of Bowmanville, S. Souch and H. Scott of Orono, received most of the awards. Holsteins were particularly good, exhibitors including Prof. C. B. Sissons, Orono, R. H. Brown of Orono; Boys' Training School, Bowmanville; J. Bransberry, Charles Wood, L. Buckley, and T. W. Tamblyn, all of Orono. Jerseys were owned by Prof. Sissons, R. H. Brown, Albert Chapman, all of whom were local exhibitors.

In swine, George Ball and Son of Leskard, showed most of the Yorkshires; L. Snowden, Bowmanville, had the Berkshires, and D. J. Gibson of Orono, the Tamworths. Leicesters in the sheep class, were exhibited by N. Allin of Newcastle, Russell Robins of Oshawa; J. W. Baldron of Hampton, A. Ayer of Hampton, and J. H. Marks and Son of Little Britain.

Mark and Sons also had Dorset Horns and Shropshires; others in the latter class being S. Rattle of Milligan; L. Skinner of Tyrone; while in the Cotswolds and Lincolns J. Glasspell and J. W. Baldwin, of Hampton, and G. E. Mark and Sons of Little Britain had the largest number of entries.

Kendal School won the Adolph Henry Silver Cup for the best collection of vegetables and flowers; Kirby School also exhibiting in this competition which was open to any public or union school in Clarke Township and Newcastle which had not previously been awarded the Secretary's Cup.

The exhibit of automobiles was housed in the main building, Dodge cars being shown by W. J. Challice of Bowmanville, while the Ontario Motor Sales Ltd. of Oshawa, with W. F. Davey of Orono in charge, had Chevrolet and Oakland cars in their section.

The Ontario Forestry Branch had a large exhibit taking up one entire section in the main building, the tiers built up of rows of small boxes of named trees, miniature in size, while constantly changing pictures gave views of practical demonstrations of the advantages of reforestration for various purposes and on varying kinds of land, the Saint Williams Station in Norfolk County being illustrated among others.

Good Vegetable Showing

Vegetables made a good showing, some extra large mangels, giant stalks of ensilage corn, big pumpkins and potatoes being prominent; grain and seed were shown in bags to one side of the garden products.

Fruit had an especially large number of entries, rosy-cheeked apples of many varieties filling an entire section along one side of the building, with plums, pears, and grapes also in evidence. The showing of canned fruits was also large, pickles, maple syrup, and jellies adding to the attractive array.

A sign, "Preference given to new work," was displayed at intervals in the fancy work section where embroideries and finely-worked linens, among other items of ladies' work, drew a continuous crowd of interested spectators. There was a wonderful showing of quilts, one in a floral pattern of stiff, conventional design, bearing the red ticket; and among the beautiful bedspreads the one winning first prize was centred with a big basket of flowers, the colors being well chosen and finely worked.

Luncheon sets, with delft blue predominating in the embroidery, vanity dresser sets, and card table covers, one of the latter having black spades on its deep orange corners, were outstanding pieces; so also were the heavily trimmed bath towels, the table runners and centres fascinating as to color and design, the towels with fine filet insertion, and the gay sofa cushions, both round and oblong. The "boar hunt" done entirely in file crochet, was a notable piece of work, and the oak rimmed trays where the first prize went to one which had small parrots seated on branches bearing gay flowers, and worked on canvas, called forth favorable comment.

There was quite a display of hand-painted china, and a fine showing of paintings in oils and water colors, with crayon drawings, and amateur photography adding to the art section. Basketry and pyrography were well represented, the miniature grandfather's clock, about one and one-half feet high, in the latter section, being especially noticed. Miss A. M. Irwin of Port Hope and Miss E. Waddell of Orono had the largest number of entries in the art exhibits.

Shelves, with closed glass fronts, provided an excellent way of showing the baking of which there was a good assortment including bread and buns, cakes, pies, shortbread, scones, butter, etc.

Five long tables were laden with flowers, a big side dish of pansies, tall spikes of gladiolas, and rows of nasturtiums, supplying vivid coloring to the splendid showing.

Women's Institute

The Orono Branch of the Women's Institute had a section with baking, fruit, flowers and fancy work, making a fine exhibit. The special Children's Work display interested the spectators,—a bed on wheels, painted white, and completely furnished with silk comforter, hemstitched and daintily initialed sheet and pillow slip, being an entry of particular merit.

The poultry were housed in the main building, the entries, which included turkeys, geese, ducks, bantams and many other varieties of fowl, being fully double those of previous years. Lindsay, of Newcastle, and Messrs. Chapman and Fred Tamblyn, of Orono, were the largest exhibitors.

Macdonald and Rolph, of Orono, had a display of general hardware, Brantford roofing, Martin and Senour's paints, and McClary stoves and furnaces in their exhibit; W. J. Watson of Orono had the Renfrew cream separators, ploughs from the Cockshutt Company, the "Magic" furnace made by the Gibson Company, and the Renfrew ranges in their section, both of these being in the building.

The British and Foreign Bible Society had an exhibit, the colporteurs in charge being Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, whose district extends from Toronto to Kingston, and from Kingston to North Bay.

Outside R. A. Lister of Hamilton was showing Malotte cream separators and Lister engines.

The Baby Show.

The baby show was an especially attractive feature, Dr. Storey of Bowmanville, assisted by Mrs. Dunstan of Oakland, California, graduate nurse, having the difficult task of deciding upon the number of points which would denote the winners. The "best baby boy" under one year of age, was: 1, David Neale, whose parents live at Moffat; 2, Fred Quinney, Bowmanville. The "best baby girl" under one year had as winners: 1, Dorothy Snowden, Bowmanville; 2, Junie Allen of Orono; 3, Margaret Johnston, of Orono.

Plenty of refreshment booths and amusement stands were on the grounds, kewpie dolls, cigars, boxes of chocolates, sofa cushions, blankets of gay colors and balloons being among the prizes offered to lure dimes and quarters from the pockets of the onlookers who could be persuaded to "take a risk."

At 5.30 there was a parade of the winners in horses and cattle before the grand stand, and later Mr. John Kent, manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, and Mr. Atkinson, president of the Toronto Star, whose boyhood home was at Newcastle, briefly addressed the large gathering.

Horse Racing.

Judges for the races were I. M. Nattrass, Millbrook, starter; G. H. Linton, Toronto; Cecil Powers, Orono, clerk. Winners in the free-for-all were: 1, Peter Direct (owner, G. Colwell); 2, Iron Bar (owner, J. Snowden); 3, Eva Patch (owner, S. J. McMillan); 4 Sadie K (owner, F. Hicks). Prizes: $125, $60, $40, and $25.

Running race: 1, Hogg (owner, J. Hogg); 2, Flora (owner, W. Watson); 3, Keswick (owner's name not given). Prizes: Robert Simpson Company, $7.50; Fitchette Meat Market, $5; W. G. Cowan, $2.50.

In the 2.50 class, where the prizes were $75, $35, $25 and $15 respectively, the winners were: 1, Thor Patch (owned, S. J. McMillan; 2, Lady of Manor (owner, M. McDowell); 3, Nancy Sable (owner, J. Porter).

The day ended with a concert in the Town Hall, "Ye Olde Tyme Village Quartette" giving the programme.

Judges for the different sections were: Heavy horses — F. Batty, Brooklyn; light horses — W. J. Maher of Cobourg; beef cattle — Stanley Gardhouse of Weston; dairy cattle—W. Fred Fallis, Millbrook; sheep — William Knox, Peterboro; swine—Frank Simmons of Birchcliffe; poultry—Charles Massey of Port Hope; ladies' work—Miss M. Magson of Toronto; art—Miss A. Carson, Orono; domestic science — Mrs. Todd, Bowmanville; fruit—R. C. Cale, Bowmanville; vegetables—S. Small of the Steele, Briggs Company, Toronto; flowers—S. Jackman, Bowmanville; grain and seeds —C. R. Carveth, Newcastle.

Officials of the Clarke Agricultural Society are: President, A. J. Tamblyn, Orono; 1st Vice-President George Cain, Orono; 2nd Vice-President, F. Blackburn, Bowmanville; Secretary-Treasurer, Adolph Henry, Orono.

Directors: H. J. Souch, W. F. Rickard, W. S. Moffatt, M. H. Staples, P. Walker, H. Gibson, N. Hogg, O. Cowan, W. J. Stutt, C. A. Chapman, John Bigelow, James Brown, Thomas Paterson, F. M. Brimacomb, T. W. Jackson, M. Sherwin.

Lady Directors: Mrs. C. A. Chapman, Mrs. W. F. Rickard, Mrs. S. Cuttell, Mrs. A. Henry, Mrs. A. A. Rolph, Mrs. R. H. Brown, Mrs. O. W. Rolph, Mrs. J. R. Cooper, Mrs. Carl Billings, Mrs. C. L. Powers, Mrs. M. J. Tamblyn, Mrs. M. H. Staples.

BURNBRAE NEWS

BURNBRAE, Oct. 9.— On Wednesday morning Mrs. Robt. Millar placed a small delivery wagon at her mail box to hold some parcels which the mail carrier was bringing from town. When the carrier arrived the wagon was not there, and investigation proved that some of the neighbors had seen a young fellow drawing a wagon on the 7th concession of Rawdon. Marshal Millar left on horse back and succeeded in catching the culprit after two miles' journey. The recovery of the booty was a comparatively easy matter, although the amateur thief vigorously denied any wrong-doing.

Silo filling is the order of the day in the Burnbrae and Menie districts now. The corn is, generally, a good crop and although the wet weather and tangled condition of the corn somewhat delayed cutting, yet the work is progressing fairly rapidly and will be finished about the usual time. Farmers are agreed that the corn crop this year was in much better shape for cutting than the hopeless mess of 1925.

The full moon nearest to September 21 is popularly known as the "harvest moon", because it rises for several consecutive evenings at nearly the same time, giving an unusual

A Young Man's Safe and Profitable Investment

AT the age of twenty a certain young man started to work.

His father wanted him to adopt a compulsory savings habit, and advised the young man to take out a Mutual Life Insurance Policy.

The father agreed to pay half the premiums on the $10,000 policy for the first five years to give the boy a good start, as the annual premium of $476.50 was a big part of the young man's salary at that time.

The young man took out the policy. That was 20 years ago. Today he is a man of 40. And he has just received in cash from the Mutual Life $3,345.10 MORE than he paid in premiums.

If you are a young man in the twenties, ask the Mutual Life agent about the policies similar to the one mentioned.

Bob's bought a car a new Star

Read his letter — it's good!

The Red Seal Continental Motor, the Morse Silent Chain, and Force Feed Lubrication are but three of the mechanical features that instantly stamp the Star as a "Quality Motor Car."

Watch for Jim's reply

Dear Jim

Well, we've bought a car, as Mary says, "at last."

I got it Friday night, and it's a dandy. We gave Mother and Dad the big surprise by arriving in state for the week-end.

Jimmie, me lad, if you ever follow up your idea of trading in that passenger schooner of yours, take my tip and get a Star. Of course, I admire that big car of yours, but if you want big car stuff with little car cost, you try out this New Star car. As a beginner, I can't pretend to tell you much—but this car of mine has got everything—all the ease, comfort and smoothness you boast about—and a sense of power.

On our way out to Mother's, we came to that long hill past the school-house. I was nervous about changing gears on the hill, so I went pretty boldly at the grade. There was a big ——— car ahead which I overtook about two-thirds of the way up, and I had to pass it. I didn't have to change gears, Jim, and when the big fellow passed me when we got up on the level again, he was pretty sore.

A great thrill for a new owner, hey?

It strikes me there will be lots of sore-heads wherever there are hills to climb and Star cars to climb 'em.

When can you come over and get a ride in my big, little-cost Star?

Yours Bob

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The turquoise, today's talismanic stone was believed by he ancients to bring great fortune on this date to all who were in love. It was also believed to bring happiness to all young people who wore it.

Jet, emblem of sorrow, is the natal stone of those whose birth anniversary this is. It must be worn against the flesh in order to secure its full benefits. When this rule is observed, the gem will guard its wearer from sorrow.

White is the color advocated for wear today. To wear it means the acquisition of new friends.

The tea rose is the fortunate flower on this day. It indicates a happy home life and perfect trust.

GIRLS AND WOMEN NEED RICH BLOOD

This Lady Found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a Friend Indeed.

Just because she is a woman there are times when every woman needs help and strength in the form of a blood-building tonic.

To thousands of girls and women Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved a blessing because they enrich the blood, give strength and restore tone to the aching nerves. The anaemic girl who is languid and pale; the wife whose back feels like breaking; the matron whose health fails as she reaches middle age—for all such sufferers Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invaluable because ill-health in girls and women is usually caused by poor blood or insufficient blood. These pills have proved a blessing to thousands of others, why not you? At various stages of life Mrs. G. R. Lake, Walton, N.S., has proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: —"I first used these pills when a young girl, for it is during the teen age when nature calls upon every bit of the reserve strength we have, that we need their rejuvenating help. It was then I found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a friend indeed. And again, now that the girlhood stage is past and I am a mother of four children, subject to all the cares and worries of the home, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only tonic I take to keep up my health and strength, and they have never failed me. Should any ailing girl or weary mother, due to my advice try these pills I know they will find them as equally good as I have done."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IN THE BALANCE

Before I opened my eyes again hours afterward, I caught the smell of disinfectants and anaesthetics and I wondered if it were possible that I had been taken to a hospital. I still had a feeling of something pressing down upon my chest which I had had before I lost consciousness.

Cautiously I tried to move my hands and found that one of them was immovable. The other I managed with great effort to bring toward my head.

Then I got the courage to open my eyes and saw that instead of the rooms of the Beaux Arts, which in some way I subconsciously expected to find, I was looking into the kind eyes of a white clad nurse and about me were the four bare grey walls of a hospital room.

It was then that I realized the heavy thing lying across my chest was my left arm, which had been splintered and was evidently in a cast.

"Is it broken?" I whispered.

"Yes, my dear, it is broken in two placed. The doctors say, however, that it will be all right. How do you feel this morning?"

"Well, I'm not prepared to say that I'm ready to do a Charleston," I answered with a faint grin.

The word "Charleston" focused my mind on my legs. I tried to move them and could not suppress a cry of pain.

"Careful, careful, dear," admonished the nurse, "your left leg is also fractured, but it is a comparatively simple one and the doctors are not going to put it in a cast."

At last I began to remember—what had happened to the others? Were any of them hurt? John! He must have gotten more of that chandelier upon him than I. The last thing I was conscious of was that he was bending over me, protecting me with his body.

"Did any of the others get hurt?" I asked.

Before the nurse answered I saw her face grow grave.

"Mr. Meredith is very badly hurt, Miss Dean. The doctors hold out very little hope of his recovery."

I did not know that I had drawn myself up very quickly to a sitting posture until the agony of my leg turned me faint. "I must go to him," I said.

"There, there, my dear, lie down. You shall go to him in a short time. Just as soon as Dr. Phillips comes you can go to Mr. Meredith. They are depending upon the sight of your to give him courage to live."

"Let me go now. I must not wait a minute. Don't you know that he saved my life perhaps at the cost of his own?"

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR SUNDAY OCTOBER 10 1926.

Venus in benefic aspect dominates this day according to astrology, which finds Saturn adverse.

This should be a most auspicious day for young lovers, who may expect loyalty and constancy following engagements made under this direction of the stars.

It is a lucky wedding day for person who have not reached the meridian of life, but for those who are no longer young malefic aspects hold sway.

One of the signs of changing times is held to be the stressing of sentimental aspirations in persons of all ages and it is not always constructive in its trend, the seers declare.

This is not an auspicious sway for the aged who may feel depressed by the contemplation of the customs and ideals of the new era.

It is wise, the seers warn, for the clergy as well as the laity to adjust themselves to the new order of things which now prevails in the world.

Again astrologers prophesy that many teachers will come to the United States in the next few months to present philosophies, old and new, cults, ancient and modern, and religions of many types.

Men and women will seek spiritual knowledge along divergent paths, it is foretold, and many reforms will be initiated for the welfare of humanity.

Together with the many indications of spiritual awakening are foreshadowings of bigotry and bitter prejudice. The seers recommend the study of the golden rule.

Immigration is to be brought much before the public through the press, which will publish sensational news, it is prognosticated.

American capital will become interested in India to an amazing extent, if the stars are read aright.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of many delightful experiences. Change and many readjustments are to be forecast.

Children born on this day may be unusually intelligent. Many profound scholars are born under this sign Chemists who belong to Libra are numerous.

FOR MONDAY OCTOBER 11 1926

Once more the week begins with many benefic aspects, according to astrology, which finds the Sun, the Moon, Jupiter and Saturn all helpful.

This is a day when the best luck attends all who seek employment or promotion. Men in places of the Sun are likely to be most considerate.

Good fortune should attend the President of the United States and his Cabinet, who will add to the good will of the people by their policies in international affairs.

Distinguished visitors from Europe will be welcomed to Washington in unprecedented numbers in the next few months, it is prognosticated.

Brilliant social events of much significance abroad are to mark the coming season in New York as well as the national capital.

New leaders in the social world are to entertain lavishly and there is to be a new extravagance in dress as well as hospitality, the stars indicate.

Today merchants and manufacturers should profit. The planetary government is most fortunate for large enterprises and there will be much buying.

Socialists will be heard from often in this period of prosperity when they will agitate many questions of public interest, the seers foretell.

The aged will benefit today from stimulating influences which will restore vigor and energy, it is prognosticated.

Honors are indicated for men long in public life, but they will receive little recognition in the way of public office.

All the signs presage a monopoly of high positions in business and politics by younger men who belong to the new era in ideas and ambitions.

While old things are passing away, it is prophesied that graft and corruption in the administration of public affairs will be largely eliminated.

Women are to come more and more into government responsibility, it is prophesied, and they are to initiate many reforms which they have been slow to recognize as their responsibility, the stars presage.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the hope of great good fortune in the coming year. Employees will be promoted.

Children born on this day have the best promises for life. They will mingle with the great and prosperous and benefit thereby.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Our mothers when they were young went to great pains to keep their skins free from sunburn and tan. Veils, wide-brimmed hats and parasols were worn for this purpose. If by chance they became tanned in spite of these precautions they used creams, lotions and powders to bleach out or hide the healthy shade.

The girl of today goes to the same trouble to gain the effect of sunburn. If possible she acquires this in the regular, natural way. But if she cannot get as much of a sunburn as she wants, then she tries to get the effect anyway. There are creams and powders now that give a very good imitation tan—without the expense of weeks at the seashore or mountains.

GRAPES AND THEIR USES

Grape Jelly.

To preserve the color and flavor of the grapes boil well before adding the sugar; in this way the water contained in the juice is evaporated and the color is concentrated. Heat the sugar before adding it. In making grape jelly, pick the grapes from their stems, wash them, and put them over the fire in a vessel containing a little water, to keep them from burning. Stew a few moments; mash gently with a silver spoon, strain, and to every pint of juice allow one pound of sugar. After this syrup comes to the boiling point, boil twenty minutes.

Grape Conserve.

For grape conserve, remove the skins from ten pounds of grapes and heat the pulp over hot water. Rub through a collander to remove seeds, and then add the skins to the pulp with the rind (grated) and pulp of five oranges, and six pounds of sugar. Cook for half an hour and pack into glasses.

—the Greatest Electric Range Improvement in Fifteen Years

INDISPUTABLY the most efficient element ever invented—McClary's Speediron offers advantages of speed, economy and year-in, year-out durability possessed by no other electric element in the world.

McClary's Speediron Element is protected in every sense of the word. Protected against accidents. Protected against the roughest usage. Protected against hard knocks—liquids boiling over. Nothing can harm the Speediron because the coils are surrounded by a cast-iron wall and cooking surface.

McClary's Speediron lasts as long as the range itself. If the coils should burn out from long service you simply lift the element out and have the coils replaced easily, quickly—at the cost of a few cents. No inconvenience. No waiting for costly repairs.

McClary's Speediron is now on all McClary's electric ranges. You won't know what real cooking satisfaction is until you've used it. Ask your electric range dealer or write us.

The Letter of the Contract - By Basil King

CHAPTER XXXVI.

"No, no; not yet." He caught her hand in both of his, holding it as he leaned across the table.

"Yes, Chip, now. What do we gain by my staying? We see the thing e've got to do—and we must do it. We must begin on the instant. If I were to stay a minute longer now, it would be—it would be for things we've recognized as no longer permissible. I'm going. I'm going now!"

There was something in her face that induced him to relax his hold. She withdrew her hand slowly, her eyes on his.

"Aren't you going to say good-bye?"

She shook her head, from the little doorway of the rotunda. "No. What's the use? What good-bye is possible between you and me? I'm—I'm just going."

And she was gone.

With a quick movement he sprang to the opening between two of the small pillars. "Edith!" She turned. "Edith! Come here. Come here, for God's sake! Only one word more."

She came back slowly, not to the door, but to the opening through which he leaned, his knee on the seat inside. "What is it?"

He got possession of her hand. "Tell me again that quotation gave us."

She repeated it: "'The letter killeth, but the Spirit giveth life'."

"Good, isn't it? I suppose it is from Shakespeare?"

"I don't know. I'll ask him—I'll look it up. If ever I see you again I'll tell you."

"I wish you would, because—because, if it gives us life, perhaps t'll carry us along."

With a quick movement he drew her to him and kissed her passionately on the lips.

A minute later he had sunk back on the seat out of which he had sprung. He knew she was disappearing through the crowd that, satiated with gazing, was sauntering away from the parapet. But he made no attempt to follow her with so much as a glance, slowly, vaguely, mistily, like a man tired of the earthly vision, he was letting his eyes roam along the line of shining spiritual presences.

THE END.

- North Ontario -

(An address to Kiwanians by Hon. James Lyons, Former Minister of Lands and Forests for the Province of Ontario.)

When you cross the St. Mary's River and step on Canadian soil, you are in the District of Algoma, the very heart of Northern Ontario, a part of the Province rich in natural resources, in mineral, timber, waterpower, agricultural land, fish, game and other resources.

Northern Ontario consists of about three hundred and thirty thousand square miles, or an area four times as large as Old Ontario. Of this vast area a sparsely settled country, rich in natural resources, comparatively little is known, and in the development of which the future prosperity of this province, and to a great extent the Dominion depends. It is a part of the province whose greatest material resources of wealth are its minerals and timber, and while not more than 15 per cent of its surface is suitable for profitable cultivation, the remaining 85 per cent contains natural resources of inconceivable value.

We have located at Sudbury the nickel mines, where 90 per cent of the nickel of the world is produced, and where a supply of ore, sufficient to maintain a full capacity operation for the next one hundred years has been blocked out. These plants have produced to date over four hundred million dollars worth of nickel, with an annual payroll of approximately three million dollars.

The gold mines of Northern Ontario, although operating for but a few years, have reached a production of approximately thirty million dollars a year, and vast areas that are continually being brought under operation giving assurance of increased activity, and production in the future. The Hollinger Mines of Northern Ontario, located at Timmins stands out today, with its daily production of approximately eight thousand tons of ore, as one of the greatest gold mines in the known world. There are many other permanent and high productive mines established, and the gold mining industry has been placed in the permanent class, with a future development in that great area of precambrian rock formation that surrounds Hudson Bay like a great horseshoe, that no one can forecast.

The development of our silver mines has not been as spectacular as our gold mines, but we are producing in Northern Ontario about ten million dollars worth of silver yearly, and we have produced since 1903, when the first silver mines were discovered at Cobalt, over two hundred million dollars worth of silver, and notwithstanding the fact that we have been producing about twenty years, Northern Ontario is now fourth in class of the world's production in total of quantities.

At the present time there is no iron mines for commercial use in Northern Ontario, but never the less there are vast deposits of siderite and magnetite and other iron ores located in Northern Ontario, and some of the large deposits are quite close to Sault Ste. Marie. These oreI are considered low grade, but the advancement that has been made in benefication process, will enable us to utilize for commercial purposes these great bodies of low grade ores, in the very near future to the advantage and general prosperity of the country.

Northern Ontario possesses a valuable heritage in its many water powers, as there are scattered throughout Northern Ontario, water powers, many of them located in strategic positions that, when developed, will provide in the aggregate from six to ten million horsepower, giving assurance of the commercial operation of industries that must be established in the future to produce from our natural resources the finished products necessary to supply the markets of the world.

While Northern Ontario has been looked upon by many as a vast area suitable only for lumbering and mining, it is a fact nevertheless that Northern Ontario has over ninety million acres of as fine an agricultural belt as can be found anywhere in the province, most of its rich, fertile and comperatively level land, generally speaking, heavily timbered at the present time, and under the present policy whereby the settler can secure from eighty to one hundred and sixty acres at fifty cents an acre, including the timber that grows on it, there are many advantages to the settler of modern means that he cannot secure in the Canadian West or elsewhere. A great deal of the timber land contains pulpwood running from ten to forty cords to the acre, which, under the present keen demand for pulpwood, practically provides a Bank account for the settler while he is clearing his land. Practically any farm produce can be grown in Northern Ontario. The seasons in some Districts are short, but the growth is rapid and the yield is bountiful.

One of the chief assets of Northern Ontario is its timber wealth, Northern Ontario contains two hundred and sixty-five thousand square miles of timber lands owned by the Government, and from this vast area from time to time the Government disposes of, under licenses or permits to cut a price per cord or per thousand feet the timber necessary to maintain in operation the many saw mills, lath mills, tie mills, pulp and paper mills, etc., located within its borders. The saw-milling industry of Northern Ontario represents capital investment of about seventy-five million dollars, giving employment to about twenty-five thousand people, with an annual payroll of about twenty-three million dollars, and cutting out about six hundred million feet of timber per year. A great many of the saw-mills operate almost entirely on Northern Ontario White Pine which is regarded everywhere as one of the finest timbers produced anywhere.

The pulp and paper industry is one of the most important industries of Northern Ontario—in fact it is the leading industry of the Dominion today, because we in Canada are now the leading producers of newsprint of any of the countries of the world, producing approximately five thousand tons per day. Of this enormous production, the Province of Ontario, which means largely Northern Ontario is producing approximately twenty-six hundred tons of newsprint per day, with a capital investment of about two hundred and forty million dollars, giving employment in the mill and woods operations to about thirty thousand people, with an annual payroll of about thirty million dollars, and in addition to this large production of newsprint, we are producing largely for export an additional eight hundred thousand tons of ground wood and mechanical pulp.

Notwithstanding the enormous production of the present day the market demands are increasing, and in order to meet future demands for news-print, the Government of the Province of Ontario has recently given approval to an extension of the industry to the extent that by the year 1930 the present production of about twenty-six hundred tons a day will be increased by an additional two thousand tons per day, giving Northern Ontario a leading position in the newsprint production of the world. This additional extension of the industry will provide employment for another fourteen thousand men, and will mean an investment in extension of mills, development of water power, etc., of about eighty million dollars. The Crown Lands of Northern Ontario are estimated to contain about two hundred and ten million cords of pulpwood, and with this large cordage after our timber is properly conserved and protected, there is the assurance of raw material practically in perpetuity. While Northern Ontario has been producing newsprint largely, there is at present under way two new mills that will utilize almost entirely wood for the production of soda pulp and note paper, etc. This is the first venture in Canada for mills of this kind, which when completed will be able to supply our own markets, and find a ready market for the balance in Europe.

Northern Ontario, in addition to the resources mentioned has a wonderful heritage in its fish and wild animal life, and scenic beauty, and in order to preserve for future generations and for the people of today some of the natural wealth and beauty of the forest, the Government has set aside several large areas under the name of Forest Reserves or Provincial Parks. These areas consisting of Algonquin Park, Temagami Reserve, Nipigon Reserve and Quetico Park comprise about eighteen thousand square miles of virgin forest land to which tourists are made welcome. These large reserves are kept in a natural state, and timber and the wild animal life is protected in most cases by permanent officials. These great play grounds are Nature's sanctuaries. They not only supply human needs, but they protect and perpetuate animal life. They are precious possessions of the people of today, and valuable heritage for future generations. All who enjoy Nature's beauty are welcome to these favoured spots.

Northern Ontario has a real interest in the tourist traffic. It is estimated that motoring parties alone bring ninety million dollars a year into the Province. We welcome these visitors, not alone because they contribute to the prosperity of the Province, but because they increase our knowledge of each other and make us better neighbors, and we hope, better friends.

To the Investor, to the leaders of commerce and industry, we extend to you a welcome; we hope that you will become interested in the great natural resources and opportunities in Northern Ontario; and to those who come for pleasure and recreations we also extend the hand of welcome and offer you every facility for making your stay pleasant and profitable in order that you will go away feeling the better of having visited us, and with fond recollections of the days you spent in our midst.

Assisting the Produced-in-Canada Campaign

At present Canada is again in the midst of the season of exhibitions. Already on the Prairies the series of first-class exhibitions which are held annually in the principal cities of the three provinces are over. In the East the first of the larger exhibitions have been held in other cities and towns from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. All these events are becoming increasingly the show places of Produced-in-Canada goods and each year sees more and more prominence given to the Produced-in-Canada idea among the exhibitors with a corresponding reaction on the minds of the thousands of visitors.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has taken advantage of the opportunity afforded by the exhibitions and fall fairs to do some very effective advertising not only of Produced-in-Canada goods but of the desirability of buying the products of Canadian industry. This advertising has been carried on for several years now, with the necessary co-operation of the fall fair associations and the individual exhibitors. It is being renewed this year and will thus give a new impetus to this important movement.

But it is also gratifying to note that individual manufacturers are from time to time adopting means of advancing the cause, and it always affords us pleasure to refer to such efforts and to commend those who have undertaken them. A recent instance that merits approval is that of the Interlake Tissue Mills Co., Limited, Toronto, who have gone to the trouble of preparing and circulating a chart which illustrates graphically just why it pays, from the standpoint of individual and national prosperity, to buy Produced-in-Canada goods. The appeal, in this particular instance, is directed principally to retailers, but it has a lesson for all. In order to afford readers of Industrial Canada an opportunity to examine the chart, we have reproduced it on the inside back cover of this issue, and we would invite those who have not already noticed it to look it up and study its features. In printing and circulating it, the Interlake Tissue Mills Co., Limited, are rendering a service to all Canadian manufacturers and this service should be much appreciated. They make the following comments:—

"Whether you are a retailer, wholesaler, manufacturer, producer of raw materials, or a consumer, the above diagram shows how your own prosperity and success is bound up in the prosperity and success of each other factor in the field of commerce.

"For instance, if you are a retailer it is most plainly demonstrated that by buying and selling only goods manufactured and produced in Canada you maintain and enlarge the purchasing power of your own customers. Your orders to a wholesaler set in motion a series of orders to Canadian manufacturers and producers of raw materials. The organizations pay wages to employees and cash for materials. They give employment to hundreds of skilled and unskilled workmen, clerks, salesmen and executives, all of whom are represented in your own customers.

"Without your orders to a Canadian firm, all these Canadian workmen, your customers, are without work, wages, and money to buy your goods. With your orders for Canadian goods they are given work wages and money to enable them to buy more goods from your store.

"The chain is endless. By keeping it unbroken your own prosperity and the prosperity of Canada is assured."

PRODUCED-IN-CANADA EXHIBITION

The Produced in Canada Exhibition being held in the Armouries next week is unique in Peterborough. It is the result of an idea brought to the Kiwanis Club last spring by W. Harry Dicken who managed a very successful similar show in Guelph. The motive behind the Exhibition is to encourage the purchase and use of Canadian-made goods, it being believed that only in this way can prosperity come to Canadian industry and therefore to Canadian citizens. The Exhibition has the endorsation of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association as is evidenced by the participation of the C.M.A. in many exhibitions of the same kind throughout Canada.

Among those who have been most active in forming the plans for this Exhibition in Peterborough are: President John J. Craig, Vice-President Isaac P. McNabb, John J. Turner and W. Harry Dicken who, with the Secretary, formed a special executive committee in charge of arrangements. These men have worked indefatigably during the past six weeks in securing exhibitors and planning many details that go to make up the successful affair of this kind. As a result of their efforts there is to be presented to the people of Peterborough on Monday the greatest exhibition of its kind ever seen here. There are sixty exhibitors including the Government exhibit, the Bell Telephone exhibit, and others of a similar public service nature. Only the limitation in size of the Armouries prevents the inclusion of thirty to fifty more booths. Many firms applied too late for space and probably had the capacity of the building allowed, the Exhibition could have been doubled in size.

While a leading part has been taken by the Executive, the work of individual members of the Club has been outstanding. There are sixty-two members of the Kiwanis Club in Peterborough and everyone has considered himself to take a share in putting over the Produced in Canada Exhibition. Some sold advertising for the special Kiwanis number of The Examiner, others planned the lay-out of the Armouries, and still others are in charge of amusements, concerts, and other features.

DR. J. J. CRAIG

Splendid programmes have been prepared for every evening of the week starting Monday with a musical programme by youthful singers from the Separate schools and their Orchestra, two numbers by the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium classes, moving pictures and other attractions. This programme will be given in the back part of the Armouries where a beautifully decorated stage has been built. On Tuesday evening there will be a Fashion Show by Barries' Limited, numbers by the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium classes, the appearance of the "Queen of Peterborough" and the presentation of the Kiwanis Club stunt which won so great commendation when presented in Toronto at the District Convention. On Wednesday evening two of the public schools will present musical numbers followed by the Y.W.C.A. and a varied programme by boys from the Bowmanville Boys' Farm. Tuesday evening is to be marked by Fashion Show from the Hall Store, musical numbers by two more Public Schools and Gymnasium numbers by the Y.M.C.A. On Friday there will be a Fashion Show put on by the J. A. McNabb Company, music put on by pupils of two schools and the Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium party. Saturday night will wind up with a big programme of which the Kiwanis stunt will be the centre of attraction.

Opening Ceremony.

The opening ceremony on Monday afternoon will be carried out with considerable pomp. The Armouries will be officially opened by S.A. Parsons of Toronto who will give an address from the platform which has been erected in front of the building. Mayor Holloway, E. A. Peck, M.P., W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. and several Kiwanians will take part. The pupils of the Collegiate Institute are to be present in full force and Boy Scouts in uniform will play an important part in the ceremony. Everything will be in full swing on Monday afternoon after the opening ceremony.

Queen for a Day.

On Tuesday, the winner of the Bond Selling Campaign will be crowned "Queen of Peterborough" for a day. This will be a picturesque ceremony taking place outside the Armouries in the afternoon. Several prominent citizens will take part and it is expected that the event will be filmed for the Fox News Reel. The winner will be entertained lavishly all day, having a suite of rooms in the Empress Hotel, two automobiles, any many other entertainments. A special gown is being obtained for the coronation ceremony.

Many Games.

At the luncheon yesterday, Carl Browne was given charge of the Bingo Game—a game which proved most interesting at the Peterborough Exhibition. He will be assisted by Harold Perry, Harry Huffman and others. Carl McLean assumed charge of the Dart Game, always a favorite at Kiwanis fairs, and Walter Oke, an old hand at the game, is in charge of the Wheel of Fortune, which is being run by Mr. Turcotte. Splendid prizes have been arranged for these games and in the Bingo game there is the opportunity to win several good prizes through saving up the coupons and trying on different nights. There must be a winner every time and the winner will be given a coupon which he may exchange immediately for a prize or he may keep it until the end of the week and turn it in with whatever other coupons he has won, for a prize valued ot two, three or more coupons.

Art Exhibit.

There are one hundred and thirty exhibits in the Art Gallery which is up stairs on the left. These are outstanding in character, the titles ranging from the serious in "As a Man Soweth" and "At Eventide it Shall Be Light" to the humorous "Don't Look!" after the famous painting by Estelle M. Kerr. The Art Exhibit is in a class by itself, nothing just like it ever having been procured for a Fair in Peterboro.

Adjoining this and really forming part of it, is the best exhibit of War Trophies ever seen in this City. The collection consists of authentic trophies, brought home by Peterborough boys many of them bearing the scars of battle and all reminiscent of the great conflict in which Peterborough took so noble a part. The trophies are all clearly marked by cards describing every trophy and telling the name of the soldier by whom it was brought home. There is a catalogue for the Art Exhibition which is given at the entrance. Tickets for both Art Exhibit and War Trophies cost 10c and this is a feature that is not to be missed by anyone.

School Exhibit.

Alexander Mowatt, Public School Inspector, is arranging a exhibit of school work in a room adjoining the War Trophy room where he will display manual training work and the art work in Peterborough schools. This will be of interest especially to the parents and pupils and is free to all.

Near these exhibits is a room in which the Kiwaniqueens are conducting Fortune Telling under the direction of Mrs. J. A. McNabb.

In a large room upstairs on the left will be the Government Mine Exhibit, the Bell Telephone Exhibit, and the Farm Booths.

Dancing.

There will be dancing from 9 o'clock on with a splendid orchestra, Sedgewick's under the management of Harry Boyle who has made splendid arrangements. The band room, up stairs on the right, has been prettily decorated and the floor has been put in first-class condition.

The first dance every evening will be free and there will be several feature dances during the week. Among these will be a Paul Jones to enable visitors to Kiwanis Fair to get acquainted.

Among the long list of attractions are the Tea Room conducted by the Kiwaniqueens, Candy Booth, and Hot Dog Stand, Coffee Stand, and raffle booth. Many splendid prizes have been lined up for each evening, one of the most acceptable in October weather being a ton of coal. Every evening music will be given in the main building by the Band of the Peterborough Rangers and special musical treats are being arranged for at other times.

Biggest Ever.

This rough outline ofthe Exhibitionn indicates clearly that it is the biggest affair of its kind ever attempted in Peterborough. All the Kiwanians are working enthusiastically for it and it is expected to raise a considerable amount of money for Kiwanis under-privileged and other public service work. There is no doubt in the minds of the people of the good work done by Kiwanis Club and this is an excellent opportunity to demonstrate the faith of the people in what is being accomplished. This Club took second place for efficient work in a competition between the Clubs of the Ontario, Quebec and Maritime District, first place being taken by a Nova Scotia club because of its isolation and the few opportunities presented for service. Support of the Exhibition will indicate that the people of Peterborough are behind the relief work being done by Kiwanis Club.

PRODUCED-IN-CANADA EXHIBITIONS

Hamilton - Montreal - Edmonton - Brandon

Following the practice of the past few years and with the co-operation of the managements of the Fair Boards, a supply of "Buy Goods Made in Canada," "Give More People Work, Bring Better Times" and "Produced in Canada" cards were distributed to exhibitors at the Brandon, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, and Saskatoon Fairs, and the Winnipeg Summer Show. It was found that exhibitors displayed a keen interest in the work and were glad to co-operate to the fullest extent of their ability, with the result that the industrial section of these exhibitions took on a distinctive "Produced-in-Canada" air. In this manner a large part of the population of Western Canada was effectively reached.

The thanks of the Canadian Manufacturers Association are due to the Chairmen and Honorary Secretaries of the Western Branches who willingly undertook and ably carried out the arrangements for the distribution and use of the "Buy Good s Made in Canada" and the "Produced in Canada" cards at the above mentioned exhibitions. This shows the advantage of the Association's plan of organization embodying local branches with executive officers in the principal manufacturing centres.

Calgary and Edmonton Exhibitions.

The Exhibitions at Calgary and Edmonton held July 5th to 10th and July 10th to 17th respectively, were great successes this year. The total attendance at the Calgary Exhibition was 197,471, while the total attendance at the Edmonton Exhibition was well over the 100,000 mark, both Exhibitions having a much higher attendance this year than in previous years.

There was an increase of about 15,000 people in attendance at the Edmonton Exhibition over the attendance recorded last year; while at the Calgary Exhibition there was an increase of over 18,000.

Modern improvements in every line were shown by the exhibits in the Manufacturers' Buildings both at Calgary and at Edmonton. As in past years the Association's "Buy Goods Made in Canada" and "Produced-in-Canada" Cards were much in evidence, all manufacturers co-operating in our "Made-in-Canada" campaign. The exhibitors who made displays in the manufacturers' sections of the Calgary and Edmonton Exhibitions this year are to be complimented. The products thus exhibited, manufactured in Canada, were of the highest standard of excellency and many of the displays were truly magnificent.

Hamilton Stages Produced-in-Canada Exhibition.

In January last a Hamilton District Branch of the Produced-in-Canada Committee was formed, comprising representatives from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, The Hamilton Chamber of Commerce, the retail merchants, educational interests, women's organizations, financial institutions and County and Government representatives of agriculture. After proceeding along various lines toward the education of the public to the support of home industry and agriculture by purchasing only Produced-in-Canada goods, it was finally decided to organize an exhibition of Produced-in-Canada goods, as the best means of bringing to the minds of the public that all their requirements can be supplied at home without seeking the products of foreign markets, and in most instances that the quality is much better than can be had elsewhere. The two local armouries were secured and the entire space was quickly allotted to exhibitors, largely from Ontario and including exhibits from the Province of Quebec. The Exhibition was opened on Monday, May 31st, by His Honour, Lt.-Col. Harry Cockshutt, Lt.-Governor of Ontario, and continuing throughout the week closed on Saturday, June 5th. The Exhibition proved a great success, the attendance for the week being over 55,000. Hamilton's first Produced-in-Canada Exhibition, therefore, was a decided success, accomplishing its end and more than justifying the expectations of its sponsors.

At Montreal.

The Produced-in-Canada Committee, Province of Quebec, has met with a real success in promoting the sale of Canadian made goods throughout the province. For the past twelve months this Committee has been very active, and it now feels that it should enlarge its field of action. After having studied the best ways and means to conduct its propaganda, it has come to the conclusion that nothing could help it in a more effective way than the holding of an exhibition of "Produced-in-Canada" goods. The Morgan Building in Montreal has been selected as the most suitable location for such an undertaking. The members of the Committee are also of the opinion that the date—October 9 to 16—is the most appropriate for the Exposition, for at that time the citizens are back from their summer places, schools have resumed their normal course and the expositions, national, provincial, regional and local are all over.

Feeling that such an exposition requires considerable work and thorough experience, the members of the Produced-in-Canada Committee have requested their Secretary to get in touch with some experienced man, who has already managed several expositions. After carefully studying the situation they have appointed Adelstan Levesque manager of their Exposition. Mr. Levesque has successfully conducted several expositions in Montreal, namely, many motor shows and a Pure Food and Household Appliance Exposition.

Two sub-committees—the Exhibition Trade Attendance Committee and the Exhibition Reception Committee—have been appointed representing not less than 75 prominent business firms of the city of Montreal and the Province of Quebec. The members of these sub-committees have promised the management to lend their best efforts in helping carry on the Exposition and making it a real success. In order to make a bigger success of this Exposition, the Produced-in-Canada Committee called a special meeting of the Quebec Division and the Montreal Branch of the C.M.A. to have them endorse the Exposition. The meeting was fairly well attended by the members who unanimously approved of the idea and promised their fullest co-operation. At another meeting of the Montreal Grocers' Guild, the promoters of the Exposition received the same support.

It is perfectly understood however that the Produced-in-Canada Committee or the Canadian Manufacturers' Association are not in any way whatsoever financially responsible for the undertaking the exposition being financed by the Morgan Firm.

As explained by F. W. Stewart Chairman of the Produced-in-Canada Committee they expect to realise enough funds out of the Exposition to carry on the work for the coming year for they are entitled to share in a large degree in the net proceeds. So if the success of the Exposition is as great as expected they will not have to make any further appeal for funds to the members of the Quebec Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

The Produced-in-Canada Committee of the Province of Quebec expects the fullest co-operation of all the members of the C.M.A. in order to help it make a success of the Exposition. They should receive from their participation a greater benefit than the amounts they invest in it. Previous expositions that have been held on a smaller scale in the Morgan Building Montreal have proved to be very successful and the management have testimonials proving that the average exhibitor has received a greater return than the amount invested.

The space reservation opened about the middle of July and by the end of the month it was proceeding so satisfactorily that the success of the undertaking was sure to be bigger than anticipated.

Buy In Canada

Why should we send to other lands
For things we eat and use,
When we can buy the very best
In Canada if we choose.

"And my thought is we gotta wake up to conditions as they exist in this country today. And then we gotta act. What I mean is this country's going to the dogs—the alien dogs. There's no two ways about it. Just to show you something, I'll give you some figures and let you figure it out for yourself. Listen—out of 7,000-000 dogs in this country, 33 1-3 per cent., or 2,333,333 and a fraction are nothing but German dachshunds, Japanese spaniels, Pekinese Pomeranians, Great Danes and Mexican hairless dogs. All these have swarmed onto our shores and they don't wanna be assimilated. No, sir, they won't respect our institutions. They come over here and show their teeth if you tell them to get back where they came from. They're a real menace, I'm telling you. And another thing; remember, these aliens breed fast. In a few years, if we aren't careful they'll outnumber us. And where will we stand then: Yes, sir, it's high time we one-hundred-per-cent. Canadian mongrels showed these foreigners where to get off at."

The IDEALS AND OBJECTS OF KIWANIS

An Address Delivered at the Recent International Council.)

BY GEORGE H. ROSS,
Past President, Kiwanis International

It frequently happens that a speaker is assigned a topic the title of which rather intrigues the imagination because it gives little or not hint of the exact line or trend of thought that is to be followed. Such a situation is helpful rather than otherwise to the speaker as an opportunity is thus given to feel around as it were and any difficulty in getting started is not observed because the audience is more or less anxiously awaiting developments and is curious to see just what the speaker is going to do with his somewhat obscure title.

Such happy circumstance does not obtain today for not only is the subject one that has already been considered from every possible angle, and discussed by many gifted speakers in our organization but it must be approached on this occasion immediately following an excellent address idealistic to a degree delivered by our honored International President.

It would be a very doubtful compliment to this splendid audience composed of the leaders in Kiwanis drawn from every corner of this North American continent to attempt to speak extemporaneously or even to address you without the aid of manuscript. The subject demands one's best and neither it time nor this intelligent audience would it is believed permit of anything else.

Two things are promised by the speaker. One is total absence of the use of the perpendicular pronoun and the other only a partial use of the time allotted.

As there are present here today those leaders in the Kiwanis movement who were directly responsible for formulating and launching the undertaking that has for years ranked as our major activity it is but fitting that mention of this activity should be made at this time.

Kiwanis during its existence has undertaken and carried through to successful conclusions many worthwhile activities but without making any invidious distinctions it can fairly be claimed that of them all that of service to the under privileged child stands out as foremost. It is not the intention to develop this thought further but simple to say that if this particular avenue of service needs justifying at hands other than ours we leave that to Dickens who makes his famous little character Oliver Twist say to Nancy: "If there were more like you there would be less like me." Could any wealth of words contain a finer tribute than that contained in the remark of little Oliver?

The dual title—"Ideals and Objects of Kiwanis"—immediately suggests that in a successful service club the real must rest upon the ideal. If in Kiwani, International the primary objects are altruistic and the ideals high then it follows that the activities of the member clubs should measure up to the accepted and professed standards of the organization. The world is entitled to estimate our valuation of Kiwanis by the programmes and activities we endorse and to consider our actions a test of our convictions.

If ever our mandate in matters of service is called in question if ever the blight of carping criticism withers our zeal and blurs our ideals let us turn for inspiration to that great moral leader Tolstoi who with authoritativeness unquestioned said: "The vocation of every man and woman is to serve other people."

It was Macaulay who wrote: "He alone reads history aright who observing how powerfully circumstances influence the feelings and opinions of men how often vices pass into virtues and paradoxes into axioms learns to distinguish what is accidental and transitory in human nature from what is essential and immutable."

That is a very significant statement and worthy of thoughtful consideration. It suggests with becoming directness that if Kiwanis is to develop policies the carrying out of which will be of aid and benefit to present and future generations, then those policies will have to be based upon fundamentals that cannot change or shift. The leaders of Kiwanis will first have to learn to distinguish between what are essentials and what are non-essentials. Having done this they can with assurance proceed to develop plans in keeping with the policies established. This is a duty—an inescapable one—that rests fairly and squarely upon all of the leaders past present and future. By common consent they should be united in securing to the organization unbroken continuity of policies. This is essential to the continuance of Kiwanis upon the proper high plane. It is much too important a matter to leave to the random succession of officers.

Day in and day out year in and year out Kiwanis is making history and everything that is done by any one of us in the name of Kiwanis will be duly chronicled in the Book of Achievement and hereafter open to the scrutiny of the years. It is imperative that what we in this generation record on the at present white unlettered pages of the Book of Achievement is such that in the ages to come those who follow us will find inspiration in the record. Let the policies and activities of our day be so high and ennobling in character that no one hereafter will desire to erase them from the pages of the Book of Achievement.

What is the aim and purpose of our great International organization? What is the ultimate object we all pursue? Are our policies just a jumbled collection of contradictions possessing no value and destitute of virtues? Are they causeless and hopeless? Are we following a lot of worn out creeds and obeying dull and passionless laws? Are our members languid indecisive cursed with a caution almost pusillanimous? Are they men of simulated virtues who are notoriously backward in testifying their opinions? Are they noted for obliquity of moral principles? Are they men of pasteboard passions and desires mere puppets jerked by unseen strings? Do our members present a grotesque assemblage of incongruous qualities? Are they so bankrupt of honesty and sincerity as to attempt to gild their business activities with the cant of service?

No! The answer to every one of the queries is No! Let us say it in a tone of decisive refutation. Let us say it with fitting emphasis. Let the one sweeping "No!" suffice.

It was the extravagance of abuses that, only a decade or more ago, drove men to ideals in the fervent hope that the real could be made to rest upon the ideal. It was this very condition of affairs that brought about the formation of service clubs. Kiwanis owes much to those fearless leaders who in the early days had the courage of their convictions. They were men of vision; they saw the need and with strength of character befitting the times rose up and, like the patriarchs of old, stood before the sepulchre of dead hopes and sounded the call to life. Upon the ashes of burnt out souls was lavished earth's best oil. On manhood's solid earth they sought light from sources older than the day, and on the morn of noblest day hoped to certify to earth a new imperial race. In the minds and on the lips of those modern crusaders was the hope that the days of exquisite trifles, lifeless creeds and short lived service had passed and that the true spirit of service—the soul's inheritance—of divine investiture and longer tenure, would set aflame the hearts of men.

Kiwanis seeks to plumb the depths depths of human experience and out of these experiences to develop and define the objects and ideals of the organization. It says quite pointedly that a life without motive is a life without meaning. Kiwanis recognizes that every soul inherits certain high gifts, and it therefore seeks to provide suitable and becoming outlets for employing such gifts. It further recognizes that while all Kiwanians are, theoretically, peers, it is an established fact that all men do not use their talents to like advantage. Differences of opportunity, environment, character and temperament necessitate a variety of activities, and satisfactory and satisfying avenues of service must be found for all. The day that the objectives of Kiwanis fall below a certain set ideal, the day the vagrant things of life intrude, that very day will Kiwanis be consigned to the limbo of forgotten things.

Kiwanis has no apology for quoting Scripture and saying "Faith without works is dead," for it realizes that the mere repeating of our motto, the continued mumbling of the phrase, "We Build," will not bring about any real results, regardless of the sincerity with which we proclaim our intentions. The need of the day, the urge of the instant, is performance, not promise.

By the work one knows the workman. We have already said too much about service—overworked the term, as it were. Let no one think that increasing the number of clubs, expanding the membership, or chronicling exquisitely detailed activities constitutes success as applied to Kiwanis. Such matters may to some extent be considered as an index of our possibilities, but that is all; actual accomplishments alone count. Let it be remembered that rapid increase in membership does not, as a rule, indicate a strong and healthy growth. It is much better to grow to greatness gradually, for remember, untimely decrepitude is often the penalty of forced maturity.

It may seem like an abrupt transition, to drop from objects and ideals to common sense, but it is not. The finest activities undertaken, and the highest ideals expressed by our great International organization, have been firmly founded upon common sense. Listen to what Amiel, the great French philosopher, said:

"Common sense is the measure of the possible; it is composed of experience and prevision; it is calculation applied to life." Then he goes on to say:

"To do easily what is difficult for others is a mark of talent. To do what is impossible for talent is the mark of genius."

Let us acknowledge his definition of common sense. Then let us accept his challenge to prove ourselves by our works, not our words. Let us see to it that the quality of the activities of all member clubs is such as to raise, not lower, the tone of our whole organization. Let our objectives be worth while at all costs.

It is not possible for any man to say, in so many words, just what activities should be undertaken in each and every one of the thousand-odd clubs. It is equally impossible to cast in the set mosaic of half a dozen men's minds a programme complete and satisfactory to every individual club. It would be foolish to try.

But this much can be said, and stated with emphatic warrant; that if Kiwanis is to justify its existence, forge ahead and make imperishable gains, it will not be through hoarding both good and bad objects—obstinate oils and water—but by the inauguration of activities that nourish the soul and make possible drinking from a diviner stream.

Let us leave the valleys, the mists and fogs of yesterday behind and below us, and, like the psalmist of old, turn to the hills for inspiration. Let us scale the heights of human endeavor and from that coign of vantage view with undimmed eyes Kiwanis stretching on into the ages that are to come.

In considering the future of Kiwanis let us ever be seized of this fact: that the measure of the fidelity with which we in this generation serve mankind will, in turn, be the exact measure of the effectiveness of Kiwanis as an onward moving force in the years that lie ahead.

Without ideals Kiwanis is as a man without emotion. A man without emotion is a mere latent force and possibility, like flint, which requires the friction of the steel before it can give forth its spark.

The high ideals of Kiwanis that draw and hold us together are light as air but strong as steel. Who can define them. Who can fashion into speech an adequate or appropriate [illegible] of them? This, however, we do know: that it is these inspiring ideals that light the candle of understanding in our hearts, that wake the chords of the soul to the music of the stars and tune the ear to catch the "Great Accent;" that remind us "Too low they build, who build beneath the stars."

Is that all? Is Kiwanis just a vehicle for expressing a lot of gilded platitudes? Does Kiwanis maroon its votaries on some lonely mountain peak of mind? Does it leave them bereft of direction or guidance? Is there no one single and complete injunction that it gives? Yes! Kiwanis, with characteristic simplification, makes just one—and all inclusive—appeal. With directness, frankness and innocent of cant, it expresses the earnest hope that we, one and all, may through the fidelity with which we serve mankind give to the world abundant proof that we are worthy to be called Kiwanians, and that our actions may justify our claim that Kiwanis is an organization where character is bred in the bone and where material things do not dim real devotion or dull mind and soul to a true sense of the ultimate reality.

"Thine be the prophet's vision, thine
The exaltation, the divine
Insanity of noble minds,
That never falters or abates
But labors and endures and waits
Till all that it foresees it finds
Or what it cannot find, creates."
(Longfellow.)

The Produced-In-Canada Show

It seems especially fitting that as a closing work of a very active year of community service the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough decided to stage a Produced-in-Canada Show and, moreover, it is also fitting that such an event should take place in Peterborough, which depends primarily upon its manufacturing industries for its existence. Peterborough goods are known the world over—not in Canada alone. International distributors such as many of our local firms not only make Canada known to the buyer, but even more so do they bring our City to the attention of world-wide business and one of the objects of the Produced-in-Canada Show here is to stimulate in our home people the local patriotism and education to appreciate what our Canada producers are doing. Seeing is believing and the Kiwanis Club is doing a worthy work in presenting to Peterborough citizens in a visual way the accomplishments of Canadian industry.

We know it was a Made-in-Germany campaign that developed the commercial force of that empire. We see Made-in-U.S.A. on many of the things we buy here that we could just as cheaply buy with the Made-in-Canada sign. We as citizens are a profit sharer in every dollar spent at home to aid our own manufacturers or producers. If we spend our money abroad, we are not. Self-interest, even more than patriotism, and demands that we should ask for and buy Made-in-Canada goods. Let every citizen therefore get behind the Kiwanis Club during its Made-in-Canada show, commencing the week of October 11th. From what we hear of the Kiwanis Club plans many novel and entertaining atrractions will also be features of the show.

CAREFUL.

A motorist, meeting a negro trudging along the dusty road, generously offered him a lift.

"No thank you, sah," said the old man. "Ah reckon mah old laigs will take me 'long fast enough."

"Aren't afraid, are you, uncle? Have you ever been in an automobile?"

"Nevah but once, sah, and den ah didn't let all mah weight down."—Everybody's Magazine.

'TWAS ROUGH.

A little girl was crossing the Atlantic with her mother. It was her first ocean trip. For the first three days the sea was as smooth as a mill pond: then the ship began rolling and pitching heavily.

The child could not understand. "Mamma," she asked, "what's the matter? Are we on a detour?"—American Boy.

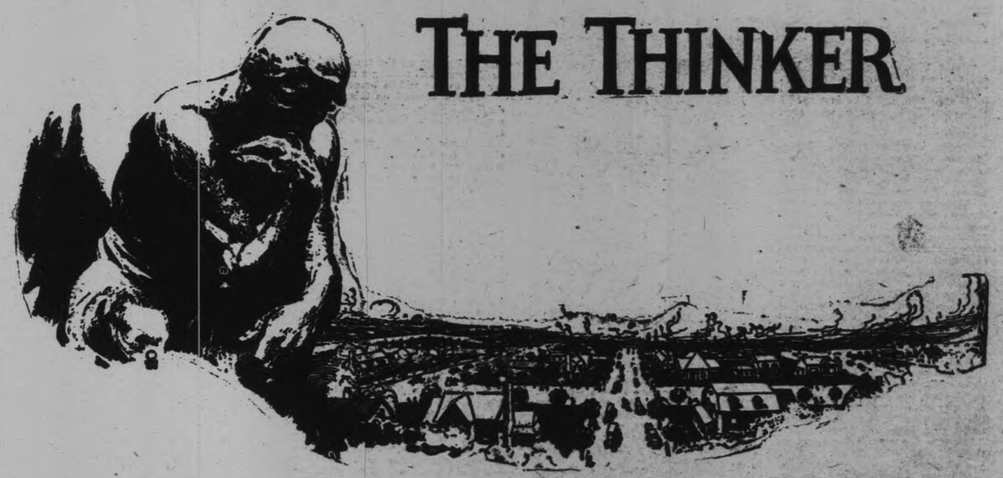
THE THINKER



There have been great thinkers in every age. It is the thinkers who make any country, because they map out the way in which the workers are to travel, and there can be no great project carried through without planning; no great achievement has ever been wrought by haphazard.

Canada is the most youthful of countries and it has, therefore, the greatest opportunities before it. These opportunities cannot be developed without careful consideration of their worth and a realization of the possibilities that rest here in the forests, in the mines, and in the work-shops, that are to be.

One of the first points that must confront the thinker in his consideration of Canada's prospects is the fact that without a market for the goods produced here, Canada cannot advance along the highway of commerce. Unless the people buy the goods that their own factories produce the factories cannot pay the people wages. There is here a circle of benefit; the factory receives orders from the wholesaler who in turn sells to the retailer who sells to the consumer. The consumer works in the factory and wholesale establishment, drawing the wages with which to buy the goods that the retailer has to sell. If a workman purchases his necessities in another country he is failing to support the original source of his income, and is jeopardizing his position and endangering the loss of that employment which enables him to live.

This proposition seems so self-evident as to be almost axiomatic and yet every day the law is transgressed in Canada. Without breaking down that good spirit which has existed between United States and Canada for so many years, Canadians must realize that their first duty is to their own country, in the interests of their own prosperity. There is here no talk of commercial war or industrial rivalry but merely a realization that the interests of all the people of Canada are bound up in the quick and intensive development of Canada's resources through her own factories and workmen.

The thinkers realize this, and as they look on the beautiful garden cities of Canada they wonder whither the present lack of foresight will lead what may by destiny be one of the leading countries in the world. Can these beautiful cities continue to exist if their back-bone of industry, is broken; can the people who now live happily continue to enjoy the benefits of this Canada if they fail to support the businesses that give them their daily bread?

It is with the idea of bringing out the points of the thinker that the Produced-In-Canada Exhibitions are being held throughout the Dominion. The Kiwanis Club has taken up the project in Peterborough and is whole-heartedly endeavouring to put it across next week. At this Exhibition will be shown the products of Canadian firms equal in all respects and sometimes superior to the goods imported from other countries. Patriotism no less than personal interest demands that the Canadian people awake to the realization of the absolute necessity of supporting Canadian industry. This is the message that the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition brings to Peterborough and those who attend it will see it is a message backed in every particular by facts of Canadian industry.

Every Canadian should be a thinker—must be a thinker in a country so young as this, and if every Canadian will sit down and ponder the industrial situation in Canada, he must realize, as the sponsors of the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition have realized, the need for education along these lines.

Canada Boasts Big Forest Reserves

Chemistry is the foundation of the modern industrial structure and the chemist is the key stone, but there is no doubt that in the past this branch of science has not met with recognition as it should, and perhaps the chemist cannot be altogether absolved from blame, as he has evidently, hidden his plight under a bush of instead of endeavoring to convey to the lay world the tremendous significance and great value of his work, and the debt the industrial world owes to the basic principle of chemistry and science. There is little doubt that the achievements of the enemy were in many cases much overrated, but one thing he did which must be recognized as a lesson to us, and that was to supply the missing link between the academic chemist and the industrial investor.

This generation has been a minor of natural resources; the plethora of wealth of this continent has been such that economy in the utilization of its resources has been conspicuous by its absence, but the day is coming, nay, it is here, when many of these resources show depletion and the necessity of conserving them becomes evident; the value of by-products wasted in the past, is now being realized, and that is where the service of the chemical engineer comes into its own.

During the war the chemical industries of Canada made phenomenal strides, and it can be said without exaggeration that development followed development in a most sensational manner; unhappily on account of the very nature of much of this work very little could be said about it at the time, more particularly about those industries engaged in connection with our war efforts. During the period of the war it is worthy of note that the exports of chemical from Canada increased about 800 per cent. and the number of firms engaged in the chemical industry has risen to the respectable figure of over 500 at the present time.

Increased Production.

Some of the units of the National Railway System have been the means of opening vast areas of rich agricultural country in the northern parts of the prairie provinces and filling them with people, which has created a most important market for the manufacturer of the eastern provinces and has contributed more to Canada's progress than perhaps any other factor. Only one-tenth of the surveyed area suitable for agriculture is settled at the present time, and in the not far distant future, it will be producing over 1,000,000 bushels of wheat. In 1896, Canada exported less than 10,000,000 bushels of wheat; last year her agricultural exports exceeded $600,000,000. Of which grain was the chief element. Today, the United States is mainly depending upon Canada for its supply of paper and paper-making material, and the demand is a heavy one as the U.S. uses one-half of the world's annual reduction of white paper. Canada is supplying 55 per cent. of this demand, which amounts to a pile which would stretch 9,000 miles, or more than twice across the continent. Today there are $250,000,000 and our exports $100,000,000, of which you receive 80 per cent. In addition to this, over 1,000,000 cords of wood to supply your mills. It is estimated that in Ontario and Quebec alone we have some 400,000,000 cords, not counting the wooded areas in the vicinity of Hudson Bay. This is sufficient to supply pulp wood to last the present output of Canada for 65 years.

Largest Forest Area.

Reforestation is being carried on to a greater extent every year, more particularly by private interests in the province of Quebec, but the Government is fully alive to the necessities of the case and a progressive policy will no doubt be adopted in the immediate future. Putting the length of time it takes to grow a spruce tree to commercial size at 100 years, if a sane policy of cutting and forest preservation is allowed, Canada would carry on in perpetuity in spite of what the pessimist may say to the contrary. Mark well, however, the proviso, for the forest has many enemies, fire, fungus, the bud worm and wind all take a heavy toll, and it is very doubtful if we can count at all upon the annual growth in our estimate of life of our lumber supply.

Canada has the largest forest area within the British Empire, and British Columbia contains the most valuable standing timber in the country, amounting in all to some 336,000,000,000 feet of raw material. Canadian forests are of little commercial interest to the United States, for while they will last Canada at the present rate of consumption for almost an indefinite period, provided they are properly looked after. If they were devoted solely to the supply of your needs they would not last the United States 20 years. I might mention that while industrial Europe consumes about 150 feet, B.M. per capita, the United States uses 350 feet, and for all purposes, including lumber, firewood, ties, etc., the United States consumes over 100,000,000,000 feet a year.

In order to visualize these stupendous figures the best illustration I can give is that it would make a pile of solid sawn wood five feet high by four feet wide, stretching 98,000 miles, or four times around the world or translated in terms of cordwood, it would measure ten times around the world. There is no doubt that unless the recommendations of your resources will be exhausted in 50 years; in effect you are facing a famine now.

Water powers are so closely related to the manufacture of forest products that I might mention that Canada has developed nearly 2,500,000 H.P., or equivalent of 275 H.P. per 1,000 population, which means about three H.P. for every person engaged in manual labor, not including agricultural pursuits. With the possible exception of Norway this is the greatest per capital development in the world.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS.

Can Be Quickly Banished With Baby's Own Tablets.

The ailments of childhood are many but nine-tenths of them are due to one cause and one cause only —a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. To quickly banish any of the minor ailments of babyhood and childhood the bowels must be made to work regular and the stomach must be sweetened.

No other medicine for little ones has had such success as has Baby's Own Tablets. They banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; correct diarrhoea and colic and promote healthful sleep by regulating the functions of the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. L. M. Brown, Walton, N.S., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets as I have found them excellent for childhood ailments."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams

FINE SETTING.

Bedtime Story, Uncle Wiggley's Vine Ladder

"Uncle Wiggily Daddicums! You ought to go see!" cried Baby Bunty. "Jingle and Jangle are up in a tree!"

"If I go now, will I be in time? I think you have made a very good rhyme," laughed the bunny rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, no, Daddicums Uncle Wiggily! I'm not playing at making rhymes, really I'm not!" exclaimed Baby Bunty, who was an orphan rabbit, living for a time with Mr. Longears. He was so kind and good to her, almost like her own father would have been, that Bunty often called Uncle Wiggily her Daddicums, and sometimes she used other names, when she was very much in earnest, as she was now.

"Jingle and Jangle are up in a tree!" went on Bunty. "I think you had better come and look at them."

So Uncle Wiggily, wondering what it was all about, and thinking, after all, that perhaps Baby Bunty was playing a trick on him, for she was a mischievious little tyke, Uncle Wiggily hopped along after the orphan bunny.

She led him through the woods to a place where some trees grew in a tangle of vines, and there, surely enough, half way up a tree, and sitting on a broad branch of it, were the wo little rabbit girls, Jingle and Jangle.

"How in the world did you get up there?" cried their father. "Can't you get down?"

"Oh, yes, Daddicums, we can get down," answered Jingle.

"But we don't want to," added Jangle. "Come on up."

"And you, too, Baby Bunty," invited Jingle.

"But how did you get up?" asked jo-2.

Uncle Wiggily again. "Baby Bunty came to me, all excited, and said you were up a tree, and there I find you. But how did you get up? I know Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, can climb trees, and so can Joie, Tommie and Kittie Kat, the pussy children. But for a rabbit to climb a tree—impossible!"

"Come around the other side and you'll see how we got up," said Jingle. "It's easy."

"And you and Baby Bunty can come up, too," said Jangle. And when Mr. Longears hopped around to the other side of the tree he saw where an ivy vine had grown up the trunk, twining itself around and making a regular ladder up to the middle branches.

"We just climbed up this vine ladder," said Jingle. "It's strong and like a pair of stairs. Come on up, Daddicums!"

So Uncle Wiggily, step by step, climbed the vine ladder, as did Baby Bunty, and they found it quite easy. Jingle and Jangle told how, by chance, hopping through the woods, they had seen the tree with the vine ladder making a way up, and, after some trials they had climbed up to the broad branch where they sat and played with their dolls. After that, when there was no school, many of the bunny and other animal children played on the vine ladder, climbing up and down.

And one day, when Uncle Wiggily had been to the store for his wife to get a pound of sugar to make a carrot shortcake, the bunny heard a rustling in the bushes, and, all of a sudden, out popped the Fuzzy Fox, who began to chase the rabbit.

"Oh, yes, I think I can!" said Uncle Wiggily and he hopped very fast until he reached the tree with the vine ladder up in it. Up the ladder of vines climbed Uncle Wiggily, and then, when he was at the top, he gnawed the clinging vines loose with his teeth and cast them down. Then there was no use for a ladder up in the tree and the Fox could not climb up to get the bunny.

"Well, anyhow, I'll wait for you to come down!" snarled the Fox. But just then along came running the Police Dog who drove the bad chap away. Then the Police Dog tossed up to the bunny in the tree the end of the vine ladder from the ground. Uncle Wiggily made it fast to a branch and down he climbed safe with his sugar.

"It's a good thing for my ears, that jingle and jangle discovered the vine ladder," said the rabbit, after thanking the Police Dog. I think so too, and I hope you do, likewise. And if the door knob doesn't spin around so fast that the keyhole can't get on to have a ride. I'll tell you again about Uncle Wiggily.

Short Story - - - THE WRONG LADY

The smooth road stretched out like a black ribbon. There was scarcely any traffic—little by little the pointer crept around on the speedometer. Margaret felt as if she were flying. Suddenly two blinding lights came toward her and she turned out a little—a crash that sounded like the end of the world—the instinctive jamming on of brakes—a reeling ride in the field—and then the smart coupe turned over with a crash of glass.

Blankness for a minute or two and then the door was wrenched open—anxious faces peered in and friendly hands helped her to climb out.

"Are you hurt?" asked a white-faced young man.

"I don't think so," she said shakily. "what hit me?"

"You hit me," he replied grimly, "or at least my roadster, and if I hadn't jumped you would have killed me. As it is I bet you've done five hundred dollars worth of damage on the car."

"Oh really? Well, look at mine!" she retorted hotly. "You didn't have any lights or I wouldn't have run into you."

"I did have a light and you were going entirely too fast. A car of that make never should be driven as you were driving—it isn't built for it."

That was too much. To smash her car and then defame it—her lovely new pale grey coupe that had been driven but once. Margaret's voice rose. "You had no lights and I am going to have you arrested. Where's a policeman?"

An obliging boy who loved a rumpus went off to find one and Margaret put in the interval investigating the wounds of the coupe. Finally a wrecker came up and hoisted the battered car out of the mud and departed with it forlornly trailing behind.

The bored Justice of the Peace holding traffic court brisked up when he saw Margaret, pretty, well-dressed and impressive. "What's the charge?" he asked solicitously.

"Parked without lights," said the policeman wearily.

The Justice looked shocked. "What have you to say?" he demanded sternly of the young man.

"I had lights," he replied indignantly, "until she banged into me and put 'em out."

The Justice, a young and personable man, looked at Margaret, prettier than ever in a rage. "It is not true," she said. She said more—considerably more—but presently she became aware that the justice seemed to be looking rather than listening. He roused himself from pleasant thought and turned to the young man. "Fined ten dollars for being parked without lights," he said.

The young man paid under bitter protest but the victory was all Margaret's. John Anderson left court with vengeance in his heart. Tomorrow he would start suit against that hateful girl and punish her insurance company if he could not punish her. Women ought not to punish her.

From the address she had given in court he knew that he passed her house on his way to business and his wrath blazed up afresh as he went by next morning. After he had passed he recalled that there had been a car outside the house, and with a little jar it came to him that it was the familiar car of a doctor.

At night when he went home the same car was there, and somehow his anger seemed to be evaporating. When he got home he telephoned his lawyer to do nothing about the suit until he heard from him.

The next morning the doctor was coming out of the house and John Anderson hurried up to catch him. The doctor was in a hurry and when he saw the young man's inquiring expression he replied to it. "Pretty bad today. A shock is a serious matter with a heart like Miss Willis's." And he plunged into his car, leaving a young man whose own heart suddenly felt as if it had something wrong with it.

"A shock," he reflected, "a bad heart—my gosh, the girl may die, and I'll feel like a murderer!" He sent flowers on his way home and the next day got his secretary to telephone an inquiry. The report was dubious and he rushed off to order flowers again. That was a bad week for John Anderson.

Margaret Willis had a trying week, too, and at the end of it when the doctor said everything was safe and the patient well in the road to recovery, she decided to take a walk. "Auntie, dear, I won't be gone long, but promise me that you won't fall down stairs again while I'm out." With a gentle kiss she ran downstairs and out into the street which seemed beautiful after her confinement in her aunt's sickroom.

The trees had leafed out, tulips were in bloom, it was a gay, fresh May morning. A young man came toward Margaret with his eyes bulging out of his head. His face was one great smile as he grasped her reluctant hand.

"Why, you're well again," he said, "and you look as strong as ever—I never was so happy in my life—if you had died I would have smashed the damned car with me—the lights were really very dim because the battery was low."

Comprehension dawned on Margaret and she pulled away her hand. "There weren't any lights at all or I shouldn't have bumped into you," she said.

Well, they were both persons who made up their minds quickly, so six months later they were fighting over where they would go on their honeymoon.

Sloping Lines of the English Cottage Home

Here is a plan for a present-day home that has all the charm and atmosphere of the English cottage, a style of architecture growing rapidly in popularity.

The long, sloping roof lines of this house tie it to the ground most effectively and make it a natural part of its surroundings.

The charm of the exterior is due in no small measure to the placing of the windows. The walls will look equally well in smooth or rough textured brick, and any one of a variety of colors.

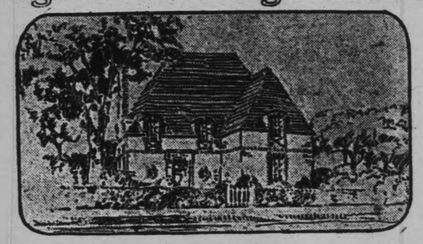
Features of the interior arrangement are many. The octagonal shape of the living room is unusual, while the open porch and the sun-parlor at the sides add to its spaciousness.

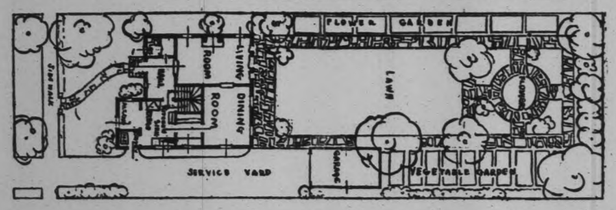
Adjacent to the vestibule are a coat closet and lavatory. From the hall a good view is had of the living room and sun parlor, but not of the dining room.

The kitchen is well lighted by a triple window over the sink, and has cabinets at one side and over the ice box. An entry with a broom closet and pantry are provided. Note the desirable location of the breakfast nook, close to the rear door and the front hall.

The windows in the nook give cross ventilation to the kitchen and a view of the street. Note the direct connection between the front hall and the semi-attached garage.

On the second floor are three bedrooms, the two front ones interconnecting, a feature that appeals to the mother when left alone at night with her children. The attic is accessible and the basement roomy.





HOW MANY?

DISTINGUISHED PHYSICIAN (handing prescription to patient): If this doesnt put you right, come to me again."

PATIENT: How many guesses do you want?"—Punch, London.

Merry Road To Ruin - By Sir Philip Gibbs

The sun is shining—as I write—and it is Merrie England. We all seem very well pleased with ourselves. The London season has been quite gay for society folk and shop-keepers. The lure of the holiday spirit has put its spell upon us all. There is no lack of money, it seems, no shadow on the soul of the nation. It is Merrie England with a good-tempered people and lots of fun.

Is there anyone who feels the touch of a cold finger in this sunshine? Is there any croaking voice crying "Woe!" above the laughter of the holiday-makers? Is there any melancholy Jacques standing on the sidewalk watching this summer pageant of life and shaking his head at the spectacle of a great nation going on its laughing way along this merry road to ruin? No!

We are all very pleased with ourselves. We allow nothing to disturb our splendid self-complacency.

It is true that the figures of unemployment creep up week by week, so that now there are over one million six hundred thousand men and women out of work apart from the million miners. But why worry? These people, except those involved in the coal dispute, are drawing the dole at the expense of the taxpayers.

It is true that in all our industrial cities factories are closing down, and nothing much is being produced to pay for the food we have to import from foreign nations, and that our trade is being lost in many markets of the world. But why worry? The London season is very gay. The tide of motor traffic is not slowed down, except by its own congestion.

The nation's trade is withering, the national Budget is going to look very silly next year, large numbers of men now unemployed will never find work again in this country, but we are still the most good-natured people in the world, optimists all.

The people aren't worrying. In West Ham and Poplar, and other districts of London where unemployment is worst, benevolent guardians give a scale of poor relief so generous that it is more profitable not to work than to work. So why worry? Why even work?

Some people, like myself, think in a melancholy way that this system of relief will demoralise the spirit of the people—has, indeed, demoralised large numbers of men and women, especially the younger ones, so that they are not only unemployed but unemployable.

Some few of us give to moments of morbid thought, like myself, think that the pace down the merry road to ruin is increasing very perilously, and that unless a halt is called this nation of ours will soon find itself on the edge of a precipice from which they may not escape.

But no one of importance, and certainly not the mass of folk, has any patience with this kind of moodiness.

It seems so silly to talk or write like that when Tom, Dick and Harry—with Phyllis on the pillion—are rushing in pursuit of pleasure, and catching it up in flower-spangled fields and wayside inns and a stretch of gleaming sands. A fellow ought to see a doctor who breaks this spell of self-cheat, with any dark prophecies of national disaster.

The Government isn't worrying. They know that there are many councils of perfection which ought to be done if this country of ours is to retain its place in the world and its future safety. They know, for instance, that we ought to grow much more of our own food by getting men back to the land in some system of peasants' proprietorship without which no nation is safe or strong; but they are not hurrying or worrying.

They know that the habitual unemployed should not be given the dole as a subsidy for idleness, but only in return for productive work such as agriculture, tree-planting, slum clearing, and the building of garden cities for city workers; but they are marking time.

They know that if we continue to spend eight hundred millions a year by taxing the community the time is coming very near when we shall be a bankrupt state.

Government, political parties, and the people know all these things in their hearts, and some even in their brains, but they're not worrying.

The merry road to ruin is really rather a pleasant place, just now. There are lots of amusing sideshows. There is no starvation, even among miners' children. I see no rags among the crowds in old slums of London. Since the war the standard of life has certainly been raised, even for those who have never done a decent day's work since Armistice night.

How it is done I don't know. How long it is going to last I cannot guess. But this is certain, in spite of our self-complacency—that if things continue as they are going on now, if idleness is State supported, if taxation is increased because of vast armies of unemployed, if industry does not revive by some new spirit of goodwill, energy and adventure creating a partnership between employers and employed for the success of united effort, then we shall get a blow between the eyes from unpleasant fate which will send us reeling back.

We are not worrying. We are all optimists. We go smiling down the merry road to ruin. We don't give a damn, as they say in my sphere of society. Well, there is something rather jolly about that. Perhaps it is a quality of strength which will enable us once again to muddle through.

But what if it is a sign of weakness? What if we remain jolly rather too long until we find ourselves in a horrible mess from which there is no quick escape, but a long period of wretchedness for our children and children's children?

I cannot help feeling that what we need now is not self complacency but a sharp realization of danger ahead, not amiable patience with adverse conditions, but a touch of impatience, even an explosion of passion—a spiritual passion of united effort for the common weal, a new leadership of youth in a spirit of adventure.

We must turn aside from that broad and merry road to ruin with its jesters and dancing girls and beggars for the dole.

How Gold Ores Are Mined - By Wm. Edgar

Much of the phenomenal development of Ontario especially North Ontario during the past 20 years is to be attributed to the enormous stores of mineral wealth that have been uncovered in various parts of the province. Particularly is this true of the gold mining areas where busy prosperous communities throbbing with industry have arisen in districts hitherto peopled by a few prospectors or venturesome pioneer farmers.

While gold is found in varying quantities in every quarter of the globe it occurs in but two systems—alluvial deposits and rock formation. There are very few examples of the former in Ontario. Practically all Ontario's gold is mined from the auriferous quartz and pyrites ores of the pre-Cambrian layers the most ancient of the rocks near the surface of the earth.

The methods of getting the precious ores vary only in degree. In a small mine which produces on an average 100 tons of ore per day one shaft and a comparatively small mill can cope with all demands whereas large mines like the Hollinger with its daily output of five thousand tons of ore requires half a dozen shafts and a vast milling capacity. From the shafts at intervals of approximately one hundred feet levels are cut out which with numerous cross cut follow the direction of the vein of gold bearing rock and all its off-shoots. Into the vein the "machine-man" operating a compressed air machine drills holes about five feet six inches in depth and from nine to sixteen in number. These holes are loaded with dynamite and the fuses are lit just before the miners return to the surface. Each blast if properly timed breaks down from twenty to twenty-five tons of rock which is then shovelled into cars by the "mucker."

Contrary to the generally accepted belief the finding of gold nuggets is a comparatively rare event in a gold mine. Most mining companies are better pleased with the uncovering of a strike of high grade ore than with the more spectacular discovery of nuggets or "free gold."

As the miners cut away the vein working upwards to the level above they soon excavate a number of large underground chambers. These chambers are called "stopes." In each of the stopes the mine timbermen build several chutes which extend to the level below. As the rock is broken off the vein by the blasting it falls into these chutes and runs down into cars placed under the lower end. This arrangement facilitates the transport of the ore to the surface by eliminating a great deal of pick and shovel work. The men who fill the cars from the chutes are known as "trammers."

From the platform on the shaft head the ore is emptied into the "crusher" where it is broken into small pieces. It then travels on a belt into the mill and passes into huge drums in the interior of which are many "stamps" large steel rods having attached to their ends heavy iron shoes which falling on the ore as the drum revolves grind it into a powder. The drums have feed openings at the front for the admission of the ore and at the back they have sieve-plates with holes ranging from one twenty-fifth to one-fortieth of an inch in diameter allowing the ground ore to be washed into great tanks containing a strong solution of potassium cyanide.

During the twelve to sixteen hours required for dissolving the gold the solution is kept in constant agitation. This is necessary to prevent the entire contents of the tank from settling into a solid mass. The next process is that of precipitating the gold by means of zinc particles. This accomplished the tank is emptied the solution passes through a press where the gold and zinc adhere to the canvas while the cyanide is run off.

From the press the gold and zinc are taken to the "refinery" where subjected to a great heat the zinc is burned off leaving the gold in the furnace. In order to get rid of impurities the gold is melted in crucibles and refined by nitre and borax added in small quantities at frequent intervals and the slag and base matter are gradually fluxed off or skimmed off. One of the impurities in all gold is silver from which the more valuable metal is purified by chlorine gas which leaves the gold free, the silver being afterwards recovered by crystallising the sulphate and reducing it by carbon.

The purified liquid gold is poured into moulds and as it hardens forms a small brick of solid gold with the name of the mine or corporation at the top.

The Shanty

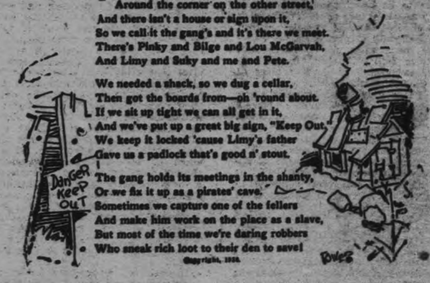
By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THERE comes a period in a child's life when he must have a place of retreat of his own construction. Some place to meet his gang, to hide his treasures, to be entire master of. It must be a place where he can conjure up all the thrills of story life and get away from the sordid business of being a respectable social being with cut and dried reactions. When he goes off and starts to build this shack then you know he's in the "Shanty Age." When it seizes him don't combat it, don't be too inquisitive. Treat it as a distinct stage of development, a glorious stage, for he'll never, never get the thrill out of building a grown-up house that he experiences in his shanty.

THERE'S an empty lot across the alley
Around the corner on the other street,
And there isn't a house or sign upon it,
So we call it the gang's and it's there we meet.
There's Pinky and Bilge and Lou McGarvah,
And Limy and Sulky and me and Pete.

We needed a shack, so we dug a cellar,
Then got the boards from—ah 'round about.
If we sit up tight we can all get in it,
And we've put up a great big sign, "Keep Out."
We keep it locked 'cause Limy's father
Gave us a padlock that's good n' stout.

The gang holds its meetings in the shanty,
Or we fix it up as a pirates' cave.
Sometimes we capture one of the fellers
And make him work on the place as a slave,
But most of the time we're daring robbers
Who sneak rich loot to their den to save!



Yanks Favorites For Winning World Series Honors

FANDOM WELCOMES YANKEES ON THEIR RETURN TO NEW YORK

EVENLY MATCHED.

Grover Alexander To Help Check the Yanks in Game To-day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—The record-breaking battle of east and west for the 1926 world's baseball championship has shifted from the shores of the Mississippi to the banks of the Harlem, with the Yankees holding the whip hand over the Cardinals.

The strategic retreat of the contending clans from St. Louis, where the invaders staged a flourishing finish to take two out of three games from the home forces, found the Yankees holding a commanding 3-2 lead and primed to clinch the series, with its major share of gold and glory, in the sixth game to-day. It also found the Cardinals fighting-mad, a group determined to make it a battle to the finish with no quarter asked or given.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the 39-year-old veteran who checked the Yankees last Sunday, will take the firing line for the National League champions to-day at the Yankee stadium, rested and determined to make his come-back complete with another victory over the New Yorkers. He will carry the Cardinal hopes in a battle that will have more than a full share of drama, if, as seems likely, he is opposed by Bob Shawkey, seasoned right-hander of the Yankee brigade.

Alexander and Shawkey both formerly wore Philadelphia uniforms and both came to the clubs they now represent by the waiver route, generally regarded as a step on the downward path. "Alec" came to the Cardinals later in the season as a Cub discard, while "Bob the Gob" became Yankee property a decade or so ago for a small price. Yet to-day these two old-timers as baseball men go, will carry the main burden with a world's championship and some $50,000 at stake, the difference between the winner's and loser's end of the player pool. It may be that Shawkey will yield the preference to Urban Shocker of spitball fame, but the latter already has been beaten and "Bob the Gob" is understood to have first call.

The Yankees staged a triumphant return yesterday from the scene of their western conquest. It was mild by comparison with the frenzied outburst that greeted the Cardinals in St. Louis, but it was nevertheless enthusiastic for a city that has a habit of taking its champions calmly. There was a wildly cheering jam of 5,000 fans in and around Grand Central terminal when the Yankee special rolled it at 6.10 p.m. after completing its run over the New York Central in 23 hours 35 minutes.

The Cardinals, travelling over the Pennsylvania on a special train, beat the Yankees home by nearly three hours, arriving at 3.20 p.m., and completing their trip in the record-breaking time of 21 hours 19 minutes.

All along their separate routes, crowds gathered at the stations to cheer the players. They yelled for Babe Ruth wherever the Yankees' special stopped, but except at Mattoon, Ill., where he stepped out on a platform to greet the crowd, the fans yelled in vain. The Yankee home run hitter slept late and failed to heed the calls of the thousands that gathered on the station platforms in Buffalo, Syracuse and Albany.

At Grand Central, however, the Bambino towered above the group that was bundled from the train and New York acclaimed as her own once more the slugger who shattered all world's series records with his three homers in Wednesday's game, blows that turned the tide of Yankee defeat into victory.

If the Yankees win the series, either to-day or on Sunday, if it is necessary to play a seventh game then, they can trace their triumph directly to the inspiration of Ruth's amazing batting outburst in the fourth game. Those soulful swats of the Babe were the rejuvenating tonic that the Yankees needed. They not only dealt a severe blow to the Cardinal defence, but they were the stimulus that brought the Yankees out of their earlier lethargy. They restored the fighting spirit that carried the team to uphill victory in the fifth game Thursday, deciding Herb Pennock's second victory over his southpaw rival, Willie Sherdel.

If the Yankees can keep their winning poise and capitalize opportunities as they have in the past two games it will be difficult to keep them from final triumph. But the Cardinals have not yielded by any margin sufficient to say that they have been put to rout. They were submerged by Ruth's hitting one day but came back the next, within an ace of taking the fifth game themselves.

Seldom have two outfits been any more evenly matched in nearly all departments with only a "break" here or there to sway the results. The Cardinals, although trailing in games won and lost, have outhit and outscored the Yankees, as a matter of fact, while Haines and Alexander have turned in pitching victories that rival the twin triumphs of the New York ace, Pennock.

Defensively, the Yankees have been more alert, especially in the pinches. They have made fewer errors of omission than their rivals. Mark Koenig, whose three miscues at short represent the error total of the Yankees, has more than atoned for these by sparkling work in tight places, coupled with batting that played a major role in Thursday's victory.

All three members of the Yankee "kid infield"—Koenig, Tony Lazzeri and Lou Gehrig — have come through the testing fire of their first world's series conflict with honors. At bat and afield they have more than held their own with more experienced rivals.

Lazzeri, in fact, has outshone his famous rival, Rogers Hornsby, in batting and held his own in defensive play. Koenig's figures, neither at bat nor afield, match those of Tommy Thevenow, young Cardinal shortstop star, but Gehrig has bested his first base rival, "Sunny Jim" Bottomley.

Billy Southworth and Bob O'Farrell, outside of the pitchers, have carried the main brunt of the Cardinal battle on their experienced shoulders. Southworth, traded by the Giants about the middle of the season, has batted sensationally and roamed over the outfield for all sorts of catches. O'Farrell has been equally as bright a star. His batting average of .437 tops the regulars of both teams, while he has been a tower of strength behind the bat, fully justifying the pre-series judgment of his manager that he is the club's most valuable performer.

The Cardinals will take the field for the sixth game handicapped by the loss of their fleet centre fielder, Taylor Douthit, who was unable to play Thursday, and who is out of the series altogether with strained shoulder muscles caused by his collision with Hafey in Wednesday's game.

The Cardinal outfield reserves are at low ebb, as a result, for Ray Blades also is on the casualty lists with injuries sustained late in the pennant season. Douthit and Blades both were lead-off men when forced out.

Roscoe "Laddie" Holm, who has replaced Douthit, was converted into an outfielder after being tried out as a shortstop and catcher.

OPTIMIST WINS CLOSING EVENT

Close-up of Lexington's 54th Annual Grand Circuit Meeting.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 9 (Canadian Press)—Lexington's 4th annual Grand Circuit meeting came to a close yesterday afternoon with the winning of the Optimist stake for 3-year-old trotters by Bob O'Boy, and the Phoenix Hotel for 2:05 pacers by Attco as joint features.

A. T. Morrison, of Sandusky Ohio, as on the preceding day, carried off the driving honors by winning the Phoenix with Attco and the 2:13 pace with Princess Iroquois. Both were bred in Canada and it was the second winning race for Princess Iroquois in as many days. Morrison, making his first visit to Lexington in several years, had a good season, winning two races on Thursday also.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A WiseCracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

As I scribble these lines on Thurs. the world's serious is all tied up with 2 wins apiece, so they both got an even break to cop the honours. It ain't been no wonderful baseball the Yanks and Cards has played up to now, and just between ourselves the Toronto Leaves and the Louisville Colonels turned in a smarter article of ball in their clash than the big leaguers has done so far.

The bright spots has been the great pitching of the two old-timers, Mister Pennock and Mister G. C. Alexander, and the home-run spree which Mister Bambino Ruth went on in St. Louis Wed. In the words of the poet:

"The saddest words of all is these in truth,
The poor boobs grooved three for Ruth."

The babe just about hadda to break loose some time. Up to Wed. he hadn't done nothing with the flail, and his attempt to catch Mister Thevenow's drive, which dodged him for a home run, had made the bambino, as I call him, look mighty bad. But they is 1 thing about Mister Ruth. When he hits 'em they stay hit, and as they ain't equipping outfielders with aeroplanes yet, they ain't nothing you can do about it when the big fellow gets ahold of 1.

I don't know who is going to win the serious, but it shouldn't oughta to be a tough winter for either the Yanks or the Cards since the winners cop over 6,000 smackers and the losers' end is over 4 grand each. That ain't bad jack either way, and when you figger they is birds on both teams which oughta to be paying their way into the park, the wise parent'll be saying, "I'm going to raise my boy to be a ball player." They ain't no college professor on the continent can make money as easy as them guys, but, of course, on the other hand, they ain't no college professor who can hit three balls outa the St. Louis grounds in 1 afternoon neither.

While I got my self-filler in my salary hook I wanta say a word or 2 congratulating Mister Bob Elliott and his Deloro team on winning the Ontario intermediate title. Them Smelters has played good ball all summer, and everybody east of Toronto is happier than a new Cabinet Minister to see them grab off the title. The team has been without Mister Hec. Boudreau the last part of the play-offs, and that's about the same thing as asking the Yanks to bench Mister Geo. Ruth, but Mister Elliott's lads has just gone ahead and copped the honours. Mister Elliott deserves a lotta credit. A square-shooter and plugger, he has kept Deloro in the hunt, till they at last have come through for him, and every 1 is glad. If he jumps his team up into the Central loop next season we'll all be right glad to welcome them, and they'll be nobody the Petes'd beat with less relish than the gang from the mines.

Mister Harry Batstone is occupying a big share of the sport page these days owing to his sudden desire to become a doctor. Up in Toronto, where they used to look on Mister Batstone as choice fruit right of the top layer, their beginning to change their mind. A red head on the back division of the Argos is 1 thing and the same red head back at Queen's for 6 years is another. 1 paper points out Mister Batstone'll be 33 when he gets legal right to hang up his shingle as a doctor. What of that? He'll have plenty of time after 33 to do a lot of execution, and they ain't no age limit when it comes to extracting tonsils or separating a guy from a appendix he don't need ½ as much as the doc does a new set of balloon tires and a radio. And Mister Batstone's 4 years' business training at Queen's will be useful when it comes to making out the "Please remit" letters to his patients.

He's back at Queen's anyway, which means, too, he'll be back at 3rd for the Ponies next summer, and Mister Joe Daley won't care what kinda doctor he makes so long as he can hit the odd fast 1 on the breezer when Kingston needs a run.

Well, Mac, I've took enough of your space for this week, so I'll just sign myself as always, Sportfully yrs.,

A WISE. CRACKER.

PENNOCK RANKS LEAGUE LEADER

With O'Farrell Recognized as Valuable Player For Year 1926.

THROUGHOUT SEASON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press).—The brilliant world's series performances of Herb Pennock, Yankee southpaw, and Bob O'Farrell, Cardinal backstop, have emphasized the likelihood of their being officially recognized as the "most valuable players" of their respective leagues for 1926.

Pennock has capped his consistent work throughout the pennant season by registering two fine victories over the Cardinals, giving him a record of four triumphs altogether in world's series play without a defeat marked against him.

Pennock won 23 games and lost 11, leading the Yankee curving corps and ranking second on the American League pitching list to George Uhle, Cleveland star, who won 27 and lost 11. Experts figure Uhle and George Burns, Indian first baseman, as Pennock's only outstanding rivals for the American League play award.

O'Farrell, a tower of strength all season to the Cardinals, has been the sensation in the series so far. His defensive play and handling of pitchers has stood out, while he leads both clubs at bat with a mark of .437 for five games. O'Farrell caught all but nine of the Cardinals' games in the pennant campaign, and was declared by Hornsby to be the club's most valuable performer.

C.N.E. VICE-PRESIDENT TO OPEN "PRODUCED-IN-CANADA" FAIR

Sam Harris, of Toronto, Will Act at Opening Ceremony.

PEARSON ILL.

Mr. Harris Will Also Speak at Kiwanis Club Luncheon.

Owing to the illness of D. R. Parsons, president of the British American Oil Co. Ltd., who had consented to open the "Produced in Canada Fair" Monday arrangements have been made to have his place taken by Sam Harris, Vice-President of the Canadian National Exhibition who for many years has devoted a great deal of his time and attention to the promotion of the industrial side of the Exhibition, realizing as he does the educational value attached to frequent and prominent displays of our own goods in the development of our national welfare.

Mr. Harris is also President of the Navy League and has travelled extensively throughout Canada with the object of awakening a public consciousness of the necessity of sea power, having regard to the policing of channels of communication between the various parts of the Empire.

As a business executive, he has built up a large lithographing industry known as the Harris Lithographing Company, Limited, Toronto, of which he is president.

Mr. Harris is well known as a public speaker and will give an address at the noon day luncheon in the officers' mess at the Armories immediately preceding the opening of the fair. He will be accompanied to Peterborough by J. MacIntosh, secretary of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association, which is taking a great interest in the Peterborough event.

TO OPEN FAIR.

Vice-president of the Canadian National Exhibition, who will open the Produced-in-Canada Fair on Monday.

RHODES ENTERS PROTEST UPON HOLDING REPORT

Asks That Duncan Findings in Maritimes Be Made Public.

WIRES KING.

Nova Scotia Premier Says Publication Can't Change Terms.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 9.—On his return to his office, following an absence of several weeks, Premier E. N. Rhodes, of Nova Scotia, gave out the text of a telegram he addressed yesterday to the Prime Minister of the Dominion, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, protesting against further delay in the publication of the report of the Duncan Commission on Maritime Rights. The telegram was as follows:

"I observe with apprehension a press despatch indicating that the report of the Duncan Commission is to be withheld from publication until Parliament assembles. One highly important consideration in Maritime situation and one fully recognized by the Commission itself is the unsettled state of public opinion within these provinces concerning their well-being. Having this in mind, no circumstances could be more disturbing here than what I believe to be the unjustifiable and unnecessary withholding of the report. The release of the report cannot alter its terms or its provisions, neither should it effect the attitude ultimately to be assumed by the Government and Parliament of Canada.

The Government of Nova Scotia as did the Governments of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island assumed frankly the responsibility cost upon it by your order-in-Council, constituting the Duncan Commission, and presented its case before the Commission in good faith and in the hope that the Government and the Parliament of Canada would deal with the situation in a broad spirit and with expedition. It would be most unfortunate should the public of the Maritime Provinces and indeed of all Canada, receive the impression that there is any tendency to temporize with the most important matter.

Furthermore, as the parties most vitally interested, the people of the Maritime Provinces have the right to peruse and study the report with a view to its receiving their mature judgment. Respectfully but strongly urge upon you the importance of giving the findings of the Commission immediate publicity."

ELOCUTIONIST GIVES GOOD PROGRAMME

Rev. H. W. Piercy Holds Attention of Big Audience For Two Hours

An attraction quite out of the ordinary was offered at Murray Street Baptist Church last night, when Rev. H. W. Piercy of Collingwood gave his interpretation of one of Irving Bacheller's tales, "Keeping up with Lizzie."

Mr. Piercy is not a new-comer to the city. This is his third appearance at Murray Street Church. But he is an elocutionist whose charm appears to increase with hearing, and last night he held the attention of his audience of nearly three hundred people for a programme of nearly two hours in length, offered solely by himself, and without the aid of makeup or out-of-the-ordinary costume.

The attraction of Mr. Piercy's work lies in its sincerity, its demonstration of marvellous powers of memory and the clarity and fineness of the word picture evoked by the speaker. His hearers were just as anxious to know what finally happened to the residents of Pleasant View Village when the speaker was half way through his presentation of "Keeping up with Lizzie" as they were when he started. Rev. Mr. Piercy has the happy faculty of enchaining his hearers' interest and holding it until the final moment. His is indeed an art unique and fascinating.

"Keeping up with Lizzie" is the simple story of a village beauty whose head is turned by fond parnets and universal community adulation. She goes abroad and returns with an inflated opinion of her own importance, but good sense triumphs in the end and she turns to her village lover as the curtain falls on the scene conjured up by the descriptive word painting of the elocutionist. Mingled with the story of Lizzie are thumbnail sketches of various village characters, including the rich Warburtons, who find the road to happiness by adopting five orphan children, Sam Henshaw, Lizzie's father, Dan Pettigrew, her sweetheart, and Socrates Potter, the village lawyer and ranconteur of the piece, who is the moving genius in three generation of the village, which has tried so hard to keep up with Lizzie and fallen into bankrupt ways in consequence. Touches of humor enliven the plot in the imitations of the vocal efforts of Maggie McNutt, the recital of the visit of the skunk during the card party and the dissertation on feminine fashions.

Three brief bits concluded the programme by Mr. Piercy; a very amusing pantomimic representation of a bachelor sewing on a button, a dramatic imitation of the reactions of an amateur musician at a Rubenstein recital, and the breezy little "Hello" recitation. Much applause followed the efforts of the visiting elocutionist.

Rev. Dr. Rose acted as chairman for the evening, introducing the speaker and the soloists of the musical programme, which included a very fine organ rendition by Mr. Francis Sutton of "The Voice of the Chimes," and pleasing vocal solos by Miss Trucie Pearson, who sang "In the Garden of Tomorrow," and Dr. J. Graham, who gave one of the lovely "Melisande" songs. Both were accompanied by Mr. Sutton.
